

FEDERAL JURISDICTION

You/Nehemiah

Rebuilding/Defending of Wall
(Nehemiah 3-4)

Wall of Separation between Church/State and Constitution
(Nehemiah 2:11-20)

"In questions of power...let no more be heard of confidence in man, but bind him down from mischief by the chains of the Constitution [and the wall of separation between church, which is you, and state, who are pagans]."
[Thomas Jefferson: Kentucky Resolutions, 1798]

"Whenever the General Government assumes undelegated powers, its acts are unauthoritative, void, and of no force."
[Thomas Jefferson: Kentucky Resolutions, 1798]

"It [is] inconsistent with the principles of civil liberty, and contrary to the natural rights of the other members of the society, that any body of men therein [INCLUDING judges] should have authority to enlarge their own powers... without restraint."
[Thomas Jefferson: Virginia Allowance Bill, 1778]

DEDICATION

"I [God] brought you up from Egypt [slavery] and brought you to the land of which I swore to your fathers; and I said, 'I will never break My covenant with you. And you shall make no covenant [contract or franchise or agreement of ANY kind] with the inhabitants of this [corrupt pagan] land; you shall tear down their [man/government worshipping socialist] altars.' But you have not obeyed Me. Why have you done this?"

"Therefore I also said, 'I will not drive them out before you; but they will become as thorns [terrorists and persecutors] in your side and their gods will be a snare [slavery!] to you.'"

So it was, when the Angel of the LORD spoke these words to all the children of Israel, that the people lifted up their voices and wept.
[Judges 2:1-4, Bible, NKJV]

"You shall make no covenant [contract or franchise] with them [foreigners, pagans], nor with their [pagan government] gods [laws or judges]. They shall not dwell in your land [and you shall not dwell in theirs by becoming a "resident" or domiciliary in the process of contracting with them], lest they make you sin against Me [God]. For if you serve their [government] gods [under contract or agreement or franchise], it will surely be a snare to you."
[Exodus 23:32-33, Bible, NKJV]

"Then those of Israelite lineage separated themselves from all foreigners [Washington, D.C. and governments generally are legislatively but not constitutionally "foreigners" in relation to Christians with no civil domicile on federal territory]; and they stood and confessed their sins and the iniquities of their fathers. And they stood up in their place and read from the Book of the Law of the LORD their God for one-fourth of the day; and for another fourth they confessed and worshiped the LORD their God."
[Nehemiah 9:2-3, Bible, NKJV]

Curses of Disobedience [to God's Laws]

"The alien [Washington, D.C. is legislatively "alien" in relation to states of the Union] who is among you shall rise higher and higher above you, and you shall come down lower and lower [malicious destruction of EQUAL PROTECTION and EQUAL TREATMENT by abusing FRANCHISES]. He shall lend to you [Federal Reserve counterfeiting franchise], but you shall not lend to him; he shall be the head, and you shall be the tail.

"Moreover all these curses shall come upon you and pursue and overtake you, until you are destroyed, because you did not obey the voice of the LORD your God, to keep His commandments and His statutes which He commanded you. And they shall be upon you for a sign and a wonder, and on your descendants forever.

"Because you did not serve [ONLY] the LORD your God with joy and gladness of heart, for the abundance of everything, therefore you shall serve your [covetous thieving lawyer] enemies, whom the LORD will send against you, in hunger, in thirst, in nakedness, and in need of everything; and He will put a yoke of iron [franchise codes] on your neck until He has destroyed you. The LORD will bring a nation against you from afar [the District of CRIMINALS], from the end of the earth, as swift as the eagle flies [the American Eagle], a nation whose language [LEGALESE] you will not understand, a nation of fierce [coercive and fascist] countenance, which does not respect the elderly [assassinates them by denying them healthcare through bureaucratic delays on an Obamacare waiting list] nor show favor to the young [destroying their ability to learn in the public FOOL system]. And they shall eat the increase of your livestock and the produce of your land [with "trade or business" franchise taxes], until you [and all your property] are destroyed [or STOLEN/CONFISCATED]; they shall not leave you grain or new wine or oil, or the increase of your cattle or the offspring of your flocks, until they have destroyed you.

1 Introduction

There is much controversy in the courts and in state and federal agencies over the jurisdiction of the federal government to enforce franchises upon those domiciled within states of the Union, which are foreign but not alien in respect to federal jurisdiction. This includes enforcement authority for all the following franchises:

1. Income taxes.
2. State motor vehicle code.
3. Professional licenses.
4. Marriage licenses.
5. Social Security.
6. Medicare.
7. Unemployment insurance.

Most of this controversy appears daily in the correspondence sent out by state and federal agencies. Much of this correspondence results from false presumptions about the subject matter. It is the goal of this memorandum of law to rebut these false presumptions by providing authorities documenting the origins of federal jurisdiction.

2 Basic principles of jurisdiction

The basic concepts underlying jurisdiction depend on the following simple rules:

1. All courts exercise three types of jurisdiction:
 - 1.1. Territorial: Jurisdiction over an event that happened on the territory protected by the sovereign. For the federal government, this would be federal territory subject to the exclusive jurisdiction of Congress and which is no part of any state of the Union.
 - 1.2. Subject matter: Jurisdiction over the activity but not the territory the activity occurred on. Franchises fall in this category because they are a matter of contract or agreement and all contracts are chattel property of the grantor of the franchise.
 - 1.3. In personam: Jurisdiction over the “person”. This jurisdiction is conferred either by:
 - 1.3.1. Service of process upon the “person” AND.
 - 1.3.2. An “appearance” in an action following the service of process or a domicile or residence in the forum at the time of the event contested.
2. Civil and criminal jurisdiction attaches to the territory under the exclusive jurisdiction of the sovereign to whom it belongs. This includes:
 - 2.1. Acts committed on the territory.
 - 2.2. Real and chattel property situated within the territory.
 - 2.3. Human beings and “persons” domiciled on the territory.
3. A sovereign may not reach outside its physical territory to enforce its civil or criminal laws without comity, which is a fancy word for the consent of those it is enforcing against. This is called “extraterritorial jurisdiction” by the courts. Extraterritorial jurisdiction is also called “subject matter jurisdiction”.

“Every State or nation possesses an exclusive sovereignty and jurisdiction within her own territory, and her laws affect and bind all property and persons residing within it. It may regulate the manner and circumstances under which property is held, and the condition, capacity, and state of all persons therein, and also the remedy and modes of administering justice. And it is equally true that no State or nation can affect or bind property out of its territory, or persons not residing [domiciled] within it. No State therefore can enact laws to operate beyond its own dominions, and if it attempts to do so, it may be lawfully refused obedience. Such laws can have no inherent authority extraterritorially. This is the necessary result of the independence of distinct and separate sovereignties.”

“Now it follows from these principles that whatever force or effect the laws of one State or nation may have in the territories of another must depend solely upon the laws and municipal regulations of the latter, upon its own jurisprudence and polity, and upon its own express or tacit consent.”
[Dred Scott v. John F.A. Sanford, 60 U.S. 393 (1856)]

1 "Judge Story, in his treatise on the Conflicts of Laws, lays down, as the basis upon which all reasonings on the
2 law of comity must necessarily rest, the following maxims: First 'that every nation possesses an exclusive
3 sovereignty and jurisdiction within its own territory'; secondly, 'that no state or nation can by its laws directly
4 affect or bind property out of its own territory, or bind persons not resident therein, whether they are natural
5 born subjects or others.' The learned judge then adds: 'From these two maxims or propositions there follows a
6 third, and that is that whatever force and obligation the laws of one country have in another depend solely upon

- 10 4. It is a maxim of law that debt and contract are not dependent upon place. The ordinary way of procuring debt is to 11 contract for it, in which case the only way that any government can reach outside its own physical territory is to 12 contract with those it seeks to enforce against:

13 Debitum et contractus non sunt nullius loci.

15
16 Locus contractus regit actum.
17 The place of the contract [franchise agreement, in this case] governs the act.

- 21 5. Civil in personam jurisdiction originates from the following three sources:
22 5.1. Choosing domicile within a specific jurisdiction.
23 5.2. Representing an entity that has a domicile within a specific jurisdiction even though not domiciled oneself in said
24 jurisdiction. For instance, representing a federal corporation as a public officer of said corporation, even though
25 domiciled outside the federal zone. The authority for this type of jurisdiction is, for instance, Federal Rule of 26 Civil Procedure 17(b).
27 5.3. Engaging in commerce within the civil legislative jurisdiction of a specific government and thereby waiving 28 sovereign immunity under:
29 5.3.1. The Foreign Sovereign Immunities Act, 28 U.S.C. §1605.
30 5.3.2. The Minimum Contacts Doctrine, which implements the Fourteenth Amendment. See International Shoe

38 6. The most prevalent means to exercise extraterritorial jurisdiction by most governments is through government
39 franchises such as Social Security, marriage licenses, and driver's licenses. The application to participate in the 40 program constitutes contractual consent to abide by the terms of the franchise agreement.
41 7. All franchises are contracts, and therefore must satisfy all the elements of a contract to be valid or enforceable. This 42 means there must be MUTUAL consideration and MUTUAL obligation on both sides of the transaction.

43 Contract. An agreement between two or more [sovereign] persons which creates an obligation to do or not to*

As a rule, franchises spring from contracts between the sovereign power and private citizens, made upon valuable considerations, for purposes of individual advantage as well as public benefit,¹ and thus a franchise partakes of a double nature and character. So far as it affects or concerns the public, it is publici juris and is subject to governmental control. The legislature may prescribe the manner of granting it, to whom it may be granted, the conditions and terms upon which it may be held, and the duty of the grantee to the public in exercising it, and may also provide for its forfeiture upon the failure of the grantee to perform that duty. But when granted, it becomes the property of the grantee, and is a private right, subject only to the governmental control growing out of its other nature as publici juris.²

8. It is up to each party to define whether something provided by the contract or franchise constitutes a “benefit” or “consideration” in a legal sense. The opposite party cannot determine what constitutes consideration for YOU without instituting duress upon YOU. What the government calls “benefits” do not, in fact, constitute “consideration” from a legal perspective because they obligate the government to do NOTHING. Therefore, the franchise is not a contract and therefore is not enforceable as a right in equity in a true constitutional court.

“... railroad benefits, like social security benefits, are not contractual and may be altered or even eliminated at any time.”
[United States Railroad Retirement Board v. Fritz, 449 U.S. 166 (1980)]

“We must conclude that a person covered by the Act has not such a right in benefit payments... This is not to say, however, that Congress may exercise its power to modify the statutory scheme free of all constitutional restraint.”
[Flemming v. Nestor, 363 U.S. 603 (1960)]

9. The federal government may NOT lawfully establish a franchise within a state of the Union or license any activity within the exclusive jurisdiction of a state of the Union.
- 9.1. All franchises presuppose that those who participate occupy a public office, as you will see later. That presumption is FALSE in the case of those not lawfully occupying such office BEFORE they sign up.
- 9.2. An example of a de facto license is a Social Security Number, which acts effectively as a de facto license to act as a “public officer” within the government. Note the phrase “trade or business” in the U.S. Supreme Court holding below, which is defined as “the functions of a public office” in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(26) :

“Thus, Congress having power to regulate commerce with foreign nations, and among the several States, and with the Indian tribes, may, without doubt, provide for granting coasting licenses, licenses to pilots, licenses to trade with the Indians, and any other licenses necessary or proper for the exercise of that great and extensive power; and the same observation is applicable to every other power of Congress, to the exercise of which the granting of licenses may be incident. All such licenses confer authority, and give rights to the licensee.

But very different considerations apply to the internal commerce or domestic trade of the States. Over this commerce and trade Congress has no power of regulation nor any direct control. This power belongs exclusively to the States. No interference by Congress with the business of citizens transacted within a State is warranted by the Constitution, except such as is strictly incidental to the exercise of powers clearly granted to the legislature. The power to authorize a business within a State is plainly repugnant to the exclusive power of the State over the same subject. It is true that the power of Congress to tax is a very extensive power. It is given in the Constitution, with only one exception and only two qualifications. Congress cannot tax exports, and it must impose direct taxes by the rule of apportionment, and indirect taxes by the rule of uniformity. Thus limited, and thus only, it reaches every subject, and may be exercised at discretion. But, it reaches only existing subjects. Congress cannot authorize [e.g. “license”] a trade or business within a State in order to tax it.”

- 1 9.3. All franchises are contracts and constitute property of the U.S. government. Another way of saying the above is
2 that Congress cannot establish public offices within a state and cannot have franchises as property within any
3 United States Judicial District that encompasses an area under the exclusive jurisdiction of a state of the Union.
4 9.4. Any deviation from the above constraints is a violation of the separation of powers doctrine which is the 5 foundation of the United States Constitution and the main protection for our constitutional rights. Any attempt to 6 break down this separation is a direct conspiracy to deprive you of Constitutionally protected rights.

7 "We start with first principles. The Constitution creates a Federal Government of enumerated powers. See U.S.

16 risk of tyranny and abuse from either front." Ibid. "
17 *[U.S. v. Lopez, 514 U.S. 549 (1995)]

18 10. Governments operate in two capacities:

- 19 10.1. As a de jure government. When acting in this capacity, all franchises are implemented using civil law and require 20 all those who participate to have a domicile within their jurisdiction to enforce against them. This means that 21 only "citizens", "residents", and "inhabitants", all of whom have a domicile on the territory of the sovereign, may 22 lawfully participate in the franchise.
23 10.2. As a private business or de facto government. When acting in this capacity, domicile or residence or physical 24 presence are NOT a prerequisite or are acquired by contract. Therefore, the government acts as a private 25 corporation in equity and waives sovereign immunity for all actions undertaken in this capacity.

26 "When a State engages in ordinary commercial ventures, it acts like a private person, outside the area of its 27 "core" responsibilities, and in a way unlikely to prove essential to the fulfillment of a basic governmental 28 obligation."

31 Moreover, if the dissent were correct that the sovereign acts doctrine permits the Government to abrogate its

1 11. The Declaration of Independence says that our Constitutional rights are “unalienable” in relation to the government,
2 which means that they cannot lawfully be sold, bargained away through any process, including a franchise. The goal
3 of franchises is to give away rights in exchange for privileges.

4 “We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator
5 with certain unalienable Rights, that among these are Life, Liberty and the pursuit of Happiness.--That to
6 secure these rights, Governments are instituted among Men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the 7 governed, -“
8 [Declaration of Independence]

9 The word “unalienable” is defined as follows:

10 “Unalienable. Inalienable; incapable of being aliened, that is, sold and transferred.”
11 [Black’s Law Dictionary, Fourth Edition, p. 1693]

12 Consequently, franchises may not lawfully be offered to those domiciled on land protected by the Constitution. The 13 only place not protected by the Constitution is federal territory. Therefore, franchises may not lawfully be offered to 14 those domiciled within states of the Union, which are land protected by the Constitution, and may only be offered to 15 those domiciled where rights do not exist, which is federal territory.

16 “Congress did not hesitate, in the original organization of the territories of Louisiana, Florida, the 17 Northwest Territory, and its subdivisions of Ohio, Indiana, Michigan, Illinois, and Wisconsin and still more
18 recently in the case of Alaska, to establish a form of government bearing a much greater analogy to a British 19 Crown colony than a republican state of America, and to vest the legislative power either in a governor and 20 council, or a governor and judges, to be appointed by the President. It was not until they had attained a certain
21 population that power was given them to organize a legislature by vote of the people. In all these cases, as well
22 as in territories subsequently organized west of the Mississippi, Congress thought it necessary either to extend
23 to Constitution and laws of the United States over them, or to declare that the inhabitants should be entitled to 24 enjoy the right of trial by jury, of bail, and of the privilege of the writ of habeas corpus, as well as other 25 privileges of the bill of rights.”
26 [Downes v. Bidwell, 182 U.S. 244 (1901)]

27 12. Anyone who claims to represent the government and yet tries to entice those protected by the Constitution and 28 domiciled in a state of the Union to contract away their rights therefore is:

29 12.1. Violating the legislative intent of the Declaration of Independence by engaging in a conspiracy to take away your 30 rights.

31 12.2. A usurper and not a de jure government indent of making a business called a “franchise” out of destroying,
32 regulating, and STEALING your rights.

33 12.3. Operating as a de facto government that is actually a private, for profit corporation.

34 de facto: In fact, in deed, actually. This phrase is used to characterize an officer, a government, a past action
35 or a state of affairs which must be accepted for all practical purposes, but is illegal or illegitimate. Thus, an
36 office, a position or status existing under a claim or color of right such as a de facto corporation. In this 37 sense it is the contrary of de jure, which means rightful, legitimate, just, or constitutional. Thus, an officer,
38 king, or government de facto is one who is in actual possession of the office or supreme power, but by 39 usurpation, or without lawful title; while an officer, king, or governor de jure is one who has just claim and 40 rightful title to the office or power, but has never had plenary possession of it, or is not in actual possession.
41 MacLeod v. United States, 229 U.S. 416, 33 S.Ct. 955, 57 L.Ed. 1260. A wife de facto is one whose marriage is 42 voidable by decree, as distinguished from a wife de jure, or lawful wife. But the term is also frequently used 43 independently of any distinction from de jure; thus a blockade de facto is a blockade which is actually 44 maintained, as distinguished from a mere paper blockade. Compare De jure.
45 [Black’s Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, p. 416]

46 12.4. Operating in equity as against you and cannot lawfully assert sovereign immunity to protect its activities. Only 47 DE JURE governments and not private corporations can assert sovereign immunity.

48 13. The way to determine whether the government is acting in a private capacity in equity where it has waived sovereign
49 immunity is to answer the following questions:

50 13.1. May the dispute be resolved in a true, Article III Constitutional court in the Judicial Branch rather than ONLY a
51 legislative franchise court in the Executive Branch? If the answer is no or if there are no NON-franchise courts,
52 then the government is operating in a private capacity as a de facto private corporation and not a government. For
53 instance, U.S. Tax Court, Traffic Court, Family Court, U.S. District Court, and U.S. Circuit Court are ALL
54 legislative franchise courts that may not hear constitutional issues. Franchise courts are not courts of equity, but courts of privilege available only to franchisees called “taxpayers”, “motorists”, “spouses”, statutory “U.S. citizens”, government “employees”, etc. See the following for proof:

What Happened to Justice?, Form #06.012
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

- 13.2. Do you have to be a statutory rather than constitutional “citizen” or a “resident” to participate in the program? If the answer is yes, then it is a de facto government function.
- 13.3. Are forms and procedures available that recognize the right to terminate participation in the franchise and do banks and financial institutions recognize the right not to participate for all? If the answer is no to either, then it is a de facto government function designed to destroy rather than protect private rights and unlawfully and unconstitutionally convert ALL rights to “public rights”.
- 13.4. Do those administering the franchise waive or ignore the statutory requirements for citizenship and residency and accept those who are not statutory “citizens” or “residents”? If they do, then they are operating a private business and not a de jure government function. In effect, signing up for the program makes you into a de facto “citizen” or “resident”. An example is Social Security. 20 C.F.R. §422.104 says that only “citizens” and “permanent residents” can participate, meaning those with a domicile on federal territory that is no part of any state of the Union. However, in practice, this is requirement is waived or ignored and they let anyone sign up, including those who are domiciled in a state of the Union, none of whom are “citizens” or “residents” under federal statutory law. Then after you join, they use this as an excuse to PRESUME you are a statutory “U.S. citizen” or “U.S. resident”. That presumption is even found in the regulations. If you use THEIR number (20 C.F.R. §422.103(d) says it is THEIRS not yours), then you are presumed to be that which you aren’t if you are domiciled in a state of the Union.

(g) Special rules for taxpayer identifying numbers issued to foreign persons—

(1) General rule—

(i) Social security number.

A social security number is generally identified in the records and database of the Internal Revenue Service as a number belonging to a U.S. citizen or resident alien individual. A person may establish a different status for the number by providing proof of foreign status with the Internal Revenue Service under such procedures as the Internal Revenue Service shall prescribe, including the use of a form as the Internal Revenue Service may specify. Upon accepting an individual as a nonresident alien individual, the Internal Revenue Service will assign this status to the individual's social security number.

Consequently, Social Security is private business activity that cannot be protected by sovereign immunity and must be litigated in equity because the status of statutory “U.S. citizen” and “permanent resident status” is effectively acquired by exercising your right to contract and without ever having physically been present on federal territory. A de jure government, on the other hand, would insist on a physical presence on its territory and evidence of said presence before they could lawfully grant participation and would have to revoke it if you changed your domicile to be outside their jurisdiction.

11 2.2 Main purpose of law is to LIMIT government power to ensure freedom and sovereignty of 12 the people⁴

13 The main purpose of law is to limit government power in order to protect and preserve, freedom, choice, and the 14 sovereignty of the people.

15 “When we consider the nature and theory of our institutions of government, the principles upon 16 which they are supposed to rest, and review the history of their development, we are constrained to 17 conclude that they do not mean to leave room for the play and action of purely personal and 18 arbitrary power. Sovereignty itself is, of course, not subject to law, for it is the author and source
19 of law; but in our system, while sovereign powers are delegated to the agencies of government,
20 sovereignty itself remains with the people, by whom and for whom all government exists and acts.
21 And the law is the definition and limitation of power.
22 [Downes v. Bidwell, 182 U.S. 244 (1901)]

23 An important implication of the use of law to limit government power is the following inferences unavoidably arising from 24 it:

- 25 1. The purpose of law is to define and thereby limit government power.
- 26 2. All law acts as a delegation of authority order upon those serving in the government.
- 27 3. You cannot limit government power without definitions that are limiting.
- 28 4. A definition that does not limit the thing or class of thing defined is no definition at all from a legal perspective and 29 causes anything that depends on that definition to be political rather than legal in nature. By political, we mean a
30 function exercised ONLY by the LEGISLATIVE or EXECUTIVE branch.
- 31 5. Where the definitions in the law are clear, judges have no discretion to expand the meaning of words. Therefore the 32 main method of expanding government power and creating what the supreme court calls “arbitrary power” is to use
33 terms in the law that are vague, undefined, “general expressions”, or which don’t define the context implied.
- 34 6. We define “general expressions” as those which:
 - 35 6.1. The speaker is either not accountable or REFUSES to be accountable for the accuracy or truthfulness or definition 36 of the word or expression.
 - 37 6.2. Fail to recognize that there are multiple contexts in which the word could be used.
 - 38 6.2.1. CONSTITUTIONAL (States of the Union).
 - 39 6.2.2. STATUTORY (federal territory).
 - 40 6.3. Are susceptible to two or more CONTEXTS or interpretations, one of which the government representative
41 interpreting the context stands to benefit from handsomely. Thus, “equivocation” is undertaken, in which they 42 TELL you they mean the CONSTITUTIONAL interpretation but after receiving your form or pleading, interpret
43 it to mean the STATUTORY context.

Equivocation ("to call by the same name") is an informal logical fallacy. It is the misleading use of a term with more than one meaning or sense (by glossing over which meaning is intended at a particular time). It generally occurs with polysemic words (words with multiple meanings).

Albeit in common parlance it is used in a variety of contexts, when discussed as a fallacy, equivocation only occurs when the arguer makes a word or phrase employed in two (or more) different senses in an argument appear to have the same meaning throughout.

It is therefore distinct from (semantic) ambiguity, which means that the context doesn't make the meaning of the word or phrase clear, and amphiboly (or syntactical ambiguity), which refers to ambiguous sentence structure due to punctuation or syntax.

- 6.4. PRESUME that all contexts are equivalent, meaning that CONSTITUTIONAL and STATUTORY are equivalent.
- 6.5. Fail to identify the specific context implied.
- 6.6. Fail to provide an actionable definition for the term that is useful as evidence in court.
- 6.7. Government representatives actively interfere with or even penalize efforts by the applicant to define the context of the terms so that they can protect their right to make injurious presumptions about their meaning.
7. Any attempt to assert any authority by anyone in government to add anything they want to the definition of a thing in the law unavoidably creates a government of UNLIMITED power.
8. Anyone who can add anything to the definition of a word in the law that does not expressly appear SOMEWHERE in the law is exercising a LEGISLATIVE and POLITICAL function of the LEGISLATIVE branch and is NOT acting as a judge or a jurist.
9. The only people in government who can act in a LEGISLATIVE capacity are the LEGISLATIVE branch under our system of three branches of government: LEGISLATIVE, EXECUTIVE, and JUDICIAL.
10. Any attempt to combine or consolidate any of the powers of each of the three branches into the other branch results in tyranny.

"When the legislative and executive powers are united in the same person, or in the same body of magistrates, there can be no liberty; because apprehensions may arise, lest the same monarch or senate should enact tyrannical laws, to execute them in a tyrannical manner."

Again, there is no liberty, if the judiciary power be not separated from the legislative and executive. Were it joined with the legislative, the life and liberty of the subject would be exposed to arbitrary control; for the judge would be then the legislator. Were it joined to the executive power, the judge might behave with violence and oppression [sound familiar?].

There would be an end of everything, were the same man or the same body, whether of the nobles or of the people, to exercise those three powers, that of enacting laws, that of executing the public resolutions, and of trying the causes of individuals."

In what a situation must the poor subject be in those republics! The same body of magistrates are possessed, as executors of the laws, of the whole power they have given themselves in quality of legislators. They may plunder the state by their general determinations; and as they have likewise the judiciary power in their hands, every private citizen may be ruined by their particular decisions."

2.3 Overview of how our system of government became corrupted: Downes v. Bidwell⁵

The dissenting opinion of Justice Harlan in the monumentally important U.S. Supreme Court case of Downes v. Bidwell described how the word game mechanisms at the end of the previous section would be abused to corrupt our system of government with a stern warning to future generations:

⁵ Source: Legal Deception, Propaganda, and Fraud, Form #05.014, Section 5; <http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>.

1 In view of the adjudications of this court, I cannot assent to the proposition, whether it be announced in express
2 words or by implication, that the National Government is a government of or by the States in union, and that the
3 prohibitions and limitations of the Constitution are addressed only to the States. That is but another form of 4 saying that like the government created by the Articles of Confederation, the present government is a mere
5 league of States, held together by compact between themselves; whereas, as this court has often declared, it is a
6 government created by the People of the United States, with enumerated powers, and supreme over States and
7 individuals, with respect to certain objects, throughout the entire territory over which its jurisdiction extends. If
8 the National Government is, in any sense, a compact, it is a compact between the People of the United States
9 among themselves as constituting in the aggregate the political community by whom the National Government
10 was established. The Constitution speaks not simply to the States in their organized capacities, but to all
11 peoples, whether of States or territories, who are subject to the authority of the United States. Martin v.
12 Hunter, 1 Wheat. 304, 327.

13 In the opinion to which I am referring it is also said that the "practical interpretation put by Congress upon 14 the Constitution has been long continued and uniform to the effect that the Constitution is applicable to 15 territories acquired by purchase or conquest only when and so far as Congress shall so direct;" that while all 16 power of government may be abused, the same may be said of the power of the Government "under the 17 Constitution as well as outside of it;" that "if it once be conceded that we are at liberty to acquire foreign
18 territory, a presumption arises that 379*379 our power with respect to such territories is the same power
19 which other nations have been accustomed to exercise with respect to territories acquired by them;" that "the 20 liberality of Congress in legislating the Constitution into all our contiguous territories has undoubtedly 21 fostered the impression that it went there by its own force, but there is nothing in the Constitution itself, and 22 little in the interpretation put upon it, to confirm that impression;" that as the States could only delegate to
23 Congress such powers as they themselves possessed, and as they had no power to acquire new territory, and 24 therefore none to delegate in that connection, the logical inference is that "if Congress had power to acquire 25 new territory, which is conceded, that power was not hampered by the constitutional provisions;" that if "we 26 assume that the territorial clause of the Constitution was not intended to be restricted to such territory as the 27 United States then possessed, there is nothing in the Constitution to indicate that the power of Congress in 28 dealing with them was intended to be restricted by any of the other provisions;" and that "the executive and 29 legislative departments of the Government have for more than a century interpreted this silence as 30 precluding the idea that the Constitution attached to these territories as soon as acquired."

31 These are words of weighty import. They involve consequences of the most momentous character. I take
32 leave to say that if the principles thus announced should ever receive the sanction of a majority of this court,
33 a radical and mischievous change in our system of government will be the result. We will, in that event, pass
34 from the era of constitutional liberty guarded and protected by a written constitution into an era of legislative
35 absolutism.

36 Although from the foundation of the Government this court has held steadily to the view that the Government of
37 the United States was one of enumerated powers, and that no one of its branches, nor all of its branches
38 combined, could constitutionally exercise powers not granted, or which were not necessarily implied from those
39 expressly granted, Martin v. Hunter, 1 Wheat. 304, 326, 331, we are now informed that Congress possesses
40 powers outside of the Constitution, and may deal with new territory, 380*380 acquired by treaty or conquest,
41 in the same manner as other nations have been accustomed to act with respect to territories acquired by
42 them. In my opinion, Congress has no existence and can exercise no authority outside of the Constitution.
43 Still less is it true that Congress can deal with new territories just as other nations have done or may do with
44 their new territories. This nation is under the control of a written constitution, the supreme law of the land
45 and the only source of the powers which our Government, or any branch or officer of it, may exert at any
46 time or at any place. Monarchical and despotic governments, unrestrained by written constitutions, may do
47 with newly acquired territories what this Government may not do consistently with our fundamental law. To
48 say otherwise is to concede that Congress may, by action taken outside of the Constitution, engraft upon our
49 republican institutions a colonial system such as exists under monarchical governments. Surely such a result
50 was never contemplated by the fathers of the Constitution. If that instrument had contained a word
51 suggesting the possibility of a result of that character it would never have been adopted by the People of the 52 United States. The idea that this country may acquire territories anywhere upon the earth, by conquest or
53 treaty, and hold them as mere colonies or provinces — the people inhabiting them to enjoy only such rights
54 as Congress chooses to accord to them — is wholly inconsistent with the spirit and genius as well as with the
55 words of the Constitution.

56 The idea prevails with some — indeed, it found expression in arguments at the bar — that we have in this 57 country substantially or practically two national governments; one, to be maintained under the Constitution,
58 with all its restrictions; the other to be maintained by Congress outside and independently of that instrument,
59 by exercising such powers as other nations of the earth are accustomed to exercise. It is one thing to give such
60 a latitudinarian construction to the Constitution as will bring the exercise of power by Congress, upon a
61 particular occasion or upon a particular subject, within its provisions. It is quite a different thing to say that
62 Congress may, if it so elects, proceed outside of the Constitution. The glory of our American system 381*381
63 of government is that it was created by a written constitution which protects the people against the exercise of 64 arbitrary, unlimited power, and the limits of which instrument may not be passed by the government it
65 created, or by any branch of it, or even by the people who ordained it, except by amendment or change of its
66 provisions. "To what purpose," Chief Justice Marshall said in Marbury v. Madison, 1 Cranch, 137,
67 176, "are powers limited, and to what purpose is that limitation committed to writing, if these limits may, at

1 any time, be passed by those intended to be restrained? The distinction between a government with limited
2 and unlimited powers is abolished if those limits do not confine the persons on whom they are imposed, and
3 if acts prohibited and acts allowed are of equal obligation.'

4 The wise men who framed the Constitution, and the patriotic people who adopted it, were unwilling to depend
5 for their safety upon what, in the opinion referred to, is described as "certain principles of natural justice
6 inherent in Anglo-Saxon character which need no expression in constitutions or statutes to give them effect or 7 to secure dependencies against legislation manifestly hostile to their real interests." They proceeded upon the 8 theory — the wisdom of which experience has vindicated — that the only safe guaranty against governmental
9 oppression was to withhold or restrict the power to oppress. They well remembered that Anglo-Saxons across 10 the ocean had attempted, in defiance of law and justice, to trample upon the rights of Anglo-Saxons on this
11 continent and had sought, by military force, to establish a government that could at will destroy the privileges
12 that inhere in liberty. They believed that the establishment here of a government that could administer public
13 affairs according to its will unrestrained by any fundamental law and without regard to the inherent rights of 14 freemen, would be ruinous to the liberties of the people by exposing them to the oppressions of arbitrary
15 power. Hence, the Constitution enumerates the powers which Congress and the other Departments may 16 exercise — leaving unimpaired, to the States or the People, the powers not delegated to the National 17 Government nor prohibited to the States. That instrument so expressly declares in 382*382 the Tenth Article
18 of Amendment. It will be an evil day for American liberty if the theory of a government outside of the 19 supreme law of the land finds lodgment in our constitutional jurisprudence. No higher duty rests upon this 20 court than to exert its full authority to prevent all violation of the principles of the Constitution.

21 Again, it is said that Congress has assumed, in its past history, that the Constitution goes into territories
22 acquired by purchase or conquest only when and as it shall so direct, and we are informed of the liberality of 23 Congress in legislating the Constitution into all our contiguous territories. This is a view of the Constitution
24 that may well cause surprise, if not alarm. Congress, as I have observed, has no existence except by virtue of 25 the Constitution. It is the creature of the Constitution. It has no powers which that instrument has not 26 granted, expressly or by necessary implication. I confess that I cannot grasp the thought that Congress which 27 lives and moves and has its being in the Constitution and is consequently the mere creature of that 28 instrument, can, at its pleasure, legislate or exclude its creator from territories which were acquired only by 29 authority of the Constitution.

30 By the express words of the Constitution, every Senator and Representative is bound, by oath or affirmation, to 31 regard it as the supreme law of the land. When the Constitutional Convention was in session there was much
32 discussion as to the phraseology of the clause defining the supremacy of the Constitution, laws and treaties of 33 the United States. At one stage of the proceedings the Convention adopted the following clause: "This 34 Constitution, and the laws of the United States made in pursuance thereof, and all the treaties made under the 35 authority of the United States, shall be the supreme law of the several States and of their citizens and 36 inhabitants, and the judges of the several States shall be bound thereby in their decisions, anything in the 37 constitutions or laws of the several States to the contrary notwithstanding." This clause was amended, on 38 motion of Mr. Madison, by inserting after the words "all treaties made" the words "or which shall be made." If 39 the clause, so amended, had been inserted in the Constitution as finally adopted, perhaps 383*383 there would
40 have been some justification for saying that the Constitution, laws and treaties of the United States constituted
41 the supreme law only in the States, and that outside of the States the will of Congress was supreme. But the 42 framers of the Constitution saw the danger of such a provision, and put into that instrument in place of the 43 above clause the following: "This Constitution, and the laws of the United States which shall be made in 44 pursuance thereof, and all treaties made, or which shall be made, under the authority of the United States,
45 shall be the supreme law of the land; and the judges in every State shall be bound thereby, anything in the 46 constitution or laws of any State to the contrary notwithstanding." Meigs's Growth of the Constitution, 284, 47 287. That the Convention struck out the words "the supreme law of the several States" and inserted "the 48 supreme law of the land," is a fact of no little significance. The "land" referred to manifestly embraced all
49 the peoples and all the territory, whether within or without the States, over which the United States could 50 exercise jurisdiction or authority.

51 Further, it is admitted that some of the provisions of the Constitution do apply to Porto Rico and may be
52 invoked as limiting or restricting the authority of Congress, or for the protection of the people of that island.
53 And it is said that there is a clear distinction between such prohibitions "as go to the very root of the power of 54 Congress to act at all, irrespective of time or place, and such as are operative only throughout the United 55 States' or among the several States." In the enforcement of this suggestion it is said in one of the opinions just 56 delivered: "Thus, when the Constitution declares that 'no bill of attainder or ex post facto law shall be passed,'
57 and that 'no title of nobility shall be granted by the United States,' it goes to the competency of Congress to pass
58 a bill of that description." I cannot accept this reasoning as consistent with the Constitution or with sound rules
59 of interpretation. The express prohibition upon the passage by Congress of bills of attainder, or of ex post facto
60 laws, or the granting of titles of nobility, goes no more directly to the root of the power of Congress than does
61 the express prohibition against the imposition by Congress of any 384*384 duty, impost or excise that is not 62 uniform throughout the United States. The opposite theory, I take leave to say, is quite as extraordinary as that
63 which assumes that Congress may exercise powers outside of the Constitution, and may, in its discretion,
64 legislate that instrument into or out of a domestic territory of the United States.

1 In the opinion to which I have referred it is suggested that conditions may arise when the annexation of distant
2 possessions may be desirable. "If," says that opinion, "those possessions are inhabited by alien races, differing
3 from us in religion, customs, laws, methods of taxation and modes of thought, the administration of government
4 and justice, according to Anglo-Saxon principles, may for a time be impossible; and the question at once arises
5 whether large concessions ought not to be made for a time, that ultimately our own theories may be carried out,
6 and the blessings of a free government under the Constitution extended to them. We decline to hold that there is
7 anything in the Constitution to forbid such action." In my judgment, the Constitution does not sustain any such
8 theory of our governmental system. Whether a particular race will or will not assimilate with our people, and
9 whether they can or cannot with safety to our institutions be brought within the operation of the Constitution, is 10 a matter to be thought of when it is proposed to acquire their territory by treaty. A mistake in the acquisition of 11 territory, although such acquisition seemed at the time to be necessary, cannot be made the ground for violating 12 the Constitution or refusing to give full effect to its provisions. The Constitution is not to be obeyed or 13 disobeyed as the circumstances of a particular crisis in our history may suggest the one or the other course to 14 be pursued. The People have decreed that it shall be the supreme law of the land at all times. When the 15 acquisition of territory becomes complete, by cession, the Constitution necessarily becomes the supreme law
16 of such new territory, and no power exists in any Department of the Government to make "concessions" that 17 are inconsistent with its provisions. The authority to make such concessions implies the existence in 18 Congress of power to declare that constitutional provisions may be ignored under special or 385*385
19 embarrassing circumstances. No such dispensing power exists in any branch of our Government. The 20 Constitution is supreme over every foot of territory, wherever situated, under the jurisdiction of the United
21 States, and its full operation cannot be stayed by any branch of the Government in order to meet what some
22 may suppose to be extraordinary emergencies. If the Constitution is in force in any territory, it is in force there
23 for every purpose embraced by the objects for which the Government was ordained. Its authority cannot be
24 displaced by concessions, even if it be true, as asserted in argument in some of these cases, that if the tariff act
25 took effect in the Philippines of its own force, the inhabitants of Mandanao, who live on imported rice, would 26 starve, because the import duty is many fold more than the ordinary cost of the grain to them. The meaning of 27 the Constitution cannot depend upon accidental circumstances arising out of the products of other countries
28 or of this country. We cannot violate the Constitution in order to serve particular interests in our own or in 29 foreign lands. Even this court, with its tremendous power, must heed the mandate of the Constitution. No one
30 in official station, to whatever department of the Government he belongs, can disobey its commands without
31 violating the obligation of the oath he has taken. By whomsoever and wherever power is exercised in the name
32 and under the authority of the United States, or of any branch of its Government, the validity or invalidity of 33 that which is done must be determined by the Constitution.

34 In DeLima v. Bidwell, just decided, we have held that upon the ratification of the treaty with Spain, Porto Rico
35 ceased to be a foreign country and became a domestic territory of the United States. We have said in that case 36 that from 1803 to the present time there was not a shred of authority, except a dictum in one case, "for holding 37 that a district ceded to and in possession of the United States remains for any purpose a foreign territory;" that 38 territory so acquired cannot be "domestic for one purpose and foreign for another;" and that any judgment to 39 the contrary would be "pure judicial legislation," for which there was no warrant in the Constitution or in the 40 powers conferred upon this court. Although, as we have just decided, 386*386 Porto Rico ceased, after the 41 ratification of the treaty with Spain, to be a foreign country within the meaning of the tariff act, and became a
42 domestic country — "a territory of the United States" — it is said that if Congress so wills it may be controlled
43 and governed outside of the Constitution and by the exertion of the powers which other nations have been 44 accustomed to exercise with respect to territories acquired by them; in other words, we may solve the question
45 of the power of Congress under the Constitution, by referring to the powers that may be exercised by other
46 nations. I cannot assent to this view. I reject altogether the theory that Congress, in its discretion, can exclude 47 the Constitution from a domestic territory of the United States, acquired, and which could only have been 48 acquired, in virtue of the Constitution. I cannot agree that it is a domestic territory of the United States for the 49 purpose of preventing the application of the tariff act imposing duties upon imports from foreign countries, but
50 not a part of the United States for the purpose of enforcing the constitutional requirement that all duties,
51 imposts and excises imposed by Congress "shall be uniform throughout the United States." How Porto Rico can 52 be a domestic territory of the United States, as distinctly held in DeLima v. Bidwell, and yet, as is now held,
53 not embraced by the words "throughout the United States," is more than I can understand.

54 We heard much in argument about the "expanding future of our country." It was said that the United States is to 55 become what is called a "world power;" and that if this Government intends to keep abreast of the times and be
56 equal to the great destiny that awaits the American people, it must be allowed to exert all the power that other
57 nations are accustomed to exercise. My answer is, that the fathers never intended that the authority and 58 influence of this nation should be exerted otherwise than in accordance with the Constitution. If our 59 Government needs more power than is conferred upon it by the Constitution, that instrument provides the 60 mode in which it may be amended and additional power thereby obtained. The People of the United States
61 who ordained the Constitution never supposed that a change could be made in our system of government
62 387*387 by mere judicial interpretation. They never contemplated any such juggling with the words of the 63 Constitution as would authorize the courts to hold that the words "throughout the United States," in the 64 taxing clause of the Constitution, do not embrace a domestic "territory of the United States" having a civil 65 government established by the authority of the United States. This is a distinction which I am unable to 66 make, and which I do not think ought to be made when we are endeavoring to ascertain the meaning of a 67 great instrument of government.

68 [Downes v. Bidwell, 182 U.S. 244 (1901), Justice Harlan, Dissenting]

1 Could it possibly be doubted that if Congress has been handed by the U.S. Supreme Court ANY CIRCUMSTANCE in
2 which it can exercise its discretion in a way that COMPLETELY disregards the entire constitution, that they would not
3 succumb to the temptation to enact it, expand it, and make it apply through trickery to everyone, as they have done with the 4 income tax and federal franchises in general? NOT!

44 [Downes v. Bidwell, 182 U.S. 244 (1901), Justice Harlan, Dissenting]

45 Justice Harlan is saying that we now have a Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde government. They did in fact do what he predicted:
46 Graft a monarchical colonial system for federal territory onto an egalitarian free republican system. Starting with the 47 Downes case, the U.S. Supreme Court declared and recognized essentially that:

- 48 1. NO PART of the Constitution limits what the national government can do in a territory, including the prohibition 49 against Titles of Nobility and even ex post facto laws.
- 50 2. As long as Congress is legislating for territories, it can do whatever it wants, including an income tax, just like every 51 other nation of the earth. In fact, this is the source of all the authority for enacting the income tax to begin with.
- 52 3. If Congress wants to invade the states commercially and tax them, all it has to do is:

3.1. Write such legislation ONLY for the territories and implement it as a franchise. Since all franchises are based on contract, then they can be enforced extraterritorially, including in a state. This is the basis for the Social Security Act of 1935, in fact.

Debt and contract [franchise agreement, in this case] are of no particular place.

Locus contractus regit actum.

The place of the contract [franchise agreement, in this case] governs the act.

[Bouvier's Maxims of Law, 1856;

SOURCE: <http://fanguardian.org/Publications/BouvierMaximsOfLaw/BouviarsMaxims.htm>]

"It is generally conceded that a franchise is the subject of a contract between the grantor and the grantee, and that it does in fact constitute a contract when the requisite element of a consideration is present.⁶ Conversely, a franchise granted without consideration is not a contract binding upon the state, franchisee, or pseudo-franchisee.⁷ "

3.2. Entice people in states of the Union with a bribe to sign up for the territorial franchise, and make it IMPOSSIBLE to quit the system. This uses capitalism to implement socialism.

3.3. Through legal deception and fraud, make the franchise legislation LOOK like:

3.3.1. It applies to CONSTITUTIONAL states rather than only STATUTORY "States" and territories.

3.3.2. It ISN'T a franchise or excise.

These things are done through "equivocation", in which TERRITORIAL STATUTORY "States" under 4 U.S.C. §110(d) and CONSTITUTIONAL States of the Union are made to appear and act the same. This was also done in the Sixteenth Amendment, which granted no new powers to Congress, as held by the U.S. Supreme Court in Stanton v. Baltic Mining Co., 240 U.S. 103 (1916). See:

Why You Aren't Eligible for Social Security, Form #06.001

<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

3.4. Establish an EXTRACONSTITUTIONAL revenue collection apparatus that is NOT part of the constitutional government. Namely the I.R.S. is not now and never has been part of the U.S. Government. Instead, it is a straw man for the Federal Reserve. The Federal Reserve, in fact, is not more governmental than Federal Express. See:

Origins and Authority of the Internal Revenue Service, Form #05.005

<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

3.5. Use propaganda and abusive regulation of the banking system and employers to turn banks and private companies in states of the Union into federal employment recruiters, in which you can't open an account or pursue "employment" without becoming a privileged and enfranchised public officer representing an PUBLIC/GOVERNMENT office domiciled on federal territory and subject to the territorial law. 3.6. Bribe CONSTITUTIONAL states with "commercial incentives" or subsidies if they in essence agree by compact or agreement to act as federal territories and allow the income tax to be enforced within their borders. This is done through DEBT and the Federal Reserve as well as the Agreements on Coordination of Tax Administration (ACTA) between the national government and the states. Now obviously, they can only do that within

1 ENCLAVES within their external borders using the Public Salary Tax Act of 1939, but they will PRETEND for 2 the sake of filthy lucre that it applies EVERYWHERE in the state by:

3 3.6.1. Not defining the term “State” within their revenue codes.

4 3.6.2. Calling those who insist on these limits “frivolous” in court.

5 3.7. Engage in an ongoing propaganda campaign to discredit and persecute all those who expose and try to remedy the 6 above. This is done by making the government UNACCOUNTABLE for the truth or accuracy of ANYTHING it
7 says or does administratively. We have been a target of that campaign. See:

Reasonable Belief About Income Tax Liability, Form #05.007

<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

8 3.8. Legislatively create a conflict of interest in the judges administering the territorial so that they will be forced to 9 apply it to the states of the Union.

10 3.9. Get the U.S. Supreme Court, through pressure on individual justices, to allow the financial and criminal conflict
11 of interest with judges to stand and expand.

12 3.10. Use the U.S. Supreme Court as a method to embargo challenges to the above illegalities by denying appeals. This 13 was done using the Certiorari Act of 1925 proposed by former President and Chief Justice William Howard Taft.
14 This was the same President who proposed the Sixteenth Amendment and FRAUDULENTLY got it passed by
15 lame duck Secretary of State Philander Knox.⁸

16 That last step: creating a conflict of interest in judges was accomplished starting in 1918, right after Downes v. Bidwell
17 and just after the Sixteenth Amendment and Federal Reserve Act were passed in 1913. In particular, here is how it was 18 accomplished:

19 1. Making judges into “taxpayers” started in 1918. This allowed them to become the target of political persecution by the 20 Bureau of Internal Revenue if they properly enforce and protect the civil status of parties.

21 1.1. This began first with the Revenue Act of 1918, 40 Stat. 1065, Section 213(a) and was declared unconstitutional.

22 1.2. The second attempt to make judges taxpayers occurred the Revenue Act of 1932, 47 Stat. 169 and this time it
23 stuck.

24 1.3. This conflict of interest is also documented in Evans v. Gore, 253 U.S. 245 (1920) , Miles v. Graham, 268 U.S.
25 501 (1925), O’Malley v. Woodrough, 309 U.S. 277 (1939), and U.S. v. Hatter, 532 U.S. 557, 121 S.Ct. 1782, 26 (2001).

27 2. Judges have been allowed, illegally, to serve as BOTH franchise judges under Article IV of the Constitution and
28 CONSTITUTIONAL judges under Article III. When given a choice of the two, they will always pick the Article IV
29 franchise judge status, because it financially rewards them and unduly elevates their own importance and jurisdiction.

30 3. The IRS is allowed to financially reward judges and prosecutors for convicting those who do not consent to the identity
31 theft. See 26 U.S.C. §7623, Internal Revenue Manual (I.R.M.), Section 25.2.2.

32 The above process is EXACTLY what they have done. From the 10,000 foot or MACRO view, it essentially amounts to 33 identity theft. That identity theft is exhaustively described in the following:

Government Identity Theft, Form #05.046

<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

34 Our document Legal Deception, Propaganda, and Fraud, Form #05.014 describes how that identity theft is accomplished
35 by the abuse of conflict of interest, the rules of statutory interpretation, and equivocation from a general perspective. That 36 language abuse is also particularized in the above document to specific other legal contexts, such as:

37 1. Domicile identity theft.

38 2. Citizenship identity theft.

39 3. Franchise identity theft.

40 Ultimately, however, all of the identity theft they employ is accomplished by misrepresenting their authority and enforcing 41 laws outside their territory. It really boils down to:

⁸ See: The Law that Never Was, William Benson. It documents the fraudulent ratification of the Sixteenth Amendment. See also Great IRS Hoax, Form #11.302, Section 6.7.1; <http://famguardian.org/Publications/GreatIRSHoax/GreatIRSHoax.htm>.

- 1 1. Replacing PRIVATE rights with PUBLIC privileges.
- 2 2. Turning “citizens” and “residents” into the equivalent of government public officers or employees.
- 3 3. Turning all civil law essentially into the employment agreement of virtually everyone who claims to be a
- 4 STATUTORY “citizen” or “resident”.
- 5 4. A commercial invasion of the states of the Union in violation of Article 4, Section 4.
- 6 5. The abuse of franchises and privileges within the states of the Union to create a caste system that emulates the British
- 7 Monarchy we tried to escape by fighting a revolution.
- 8 6. Using the civil statutory law as a mechanism to limit and control PEOPLE rather than the GOVERNMENT.
- 9 7. Creating a government of UNLIMITED powers. There are no limits on what an EMPLOYER can order his
- 10 EMPLOYEES or OFFICERS to do, and THAT is what you are if you claim to be a STATUTORY “citizen” under any
- 11 act of Congress.
- 12 8. Using “selective enforcement” to discredit and destroy all those who attempt to QUIT their job as a government officer
- 13 or employee called a STATUTORY “citizen” or “resident”. THIS is how the fraudulent identity theft scheme and
- 14 government mafia protects and expands itself.

15 2.4 Thomas Jefferson’s Warnings and Predictions Concerning the Corruption of the

16 Government

17 Thomas Jefferson, one of our most beloved founding fathers and author of our Declaration of Independence, wrote
18 extensively about defects in the design of our system of government and his predictions for how it would eventually be 19 corrupted. In this document, corruption is a synonym for “de facto”. All of his predictions have come true. You can read 20 his writings on this subject at:

Thomas Jefferson on Politics and Government
<http://famguardian.org/Subjects/Politics/ThomasJefferson/jeffcont.htm>

21 Jefferson’s writings on the subject of separation of powers within the above work may be found at:

Separation of Powers
<http://famguardian.org/Subjects/Politics/ThomasJefferson/jeff1070.htm>

22 A system of government in which all power is concentrated in a single man, group of men or branch within the government
23 is the epitome of de facto government, because its activities are completely unrestrained and have no limits. The founding
24 fathers believed that absolute, uncontrolled, unchecked, consolidated power corrupted absolutely. The opposite of the 25 centralization of power is what the founders called the “separation of powers”, which was a refinement in the 26 implementation of governments engineered by Baron de Montesquieu in his book Spirit of Laws, upon which the founders
27 based their writing of the United States Constitution:

28 “When the legislative and executive powers are united in the same person, or in the same body of magistrates,
29 there can be no liberty.”

30 [The Spirit of Laws, Baron de Montesquieu, <http://famguardian.org/Publications/SpiritOfLaws/sol-02.htm>]

31 Below is Thomas Jefferson’s description of the separation of powers:

32 “To make us one nation as to foreign concerns, and keep us distinct in domestic ones, gives the outline of the 33 proper division of powers between the general and particular governments. But, to enable the federal head to 34 exercise the powers given it to best advantage, it should be organized as the particular ones are, into 35 legislative, executive, and judiciary.”

36 [Thomas Jefferson to James Madison, 1786. ME 6:9]

37 “The first principle of a good government is certainly a distribution of its powers into executive, judiciary, and 38 legislative, and a subdivision of the latter into two or three branches.”

39 [Thomas Jefferson to John Adams, 1787. ME 6:321]

40 “The constitution has divided the powers of government into three branches, Legislative, Executive and 41 Judiciary, lodging each with a distinct magistracy. The Legislative it has given completely to the Senate and 42 House of Representatives. It has declared that the Executive powers shall be vested in the President, submitting
43 special articles of it to a negative by the Senate, and it has vested the Judiciary power in the courts of justice,
44 with certain exceptions also in favor of the Senate.”

45 [Thomas Jefferson: Opinion on Executive Appointments, 1790. ME 3:15]

1 "My idea is that... the Federal government should be organized into Legislative, Executive and Judiciary, as are 2 the State governments, and some peaceable means of enforcement devised for the Federal head over the
3 States."

4 [Thomas Jefferson to John Blair, 1787. ME 6:273, Papers 12:28]

5 Each Branch is Independent

6 "The leading principle of our Constitution is the independence of the Legislature, Executive and Judiciary of 7 each other."

8 [Thomas Jefferson to George Hay, 1807. FE 9:59]

9 "There are many [in Congress] who think that not to support the Executive is to abandon Government."

10 [Thomas Jefferson to Colonel Bell, 1797. ME 9:386]

11 "[The] principle [of the Constitution] is that of a separation of Legislative, Executive and Judiciary functions
12 except in cases specified. If this principle be not expressed in direct terms, it is clearly the spirit of the 13 Constitution, and it ought to be so commented and acted on by every friend of free government."

14 [Thomas Jefferson to James Madison, 1797. ME 9:368]

15 "Our Constitution has wisely distributed the administration of the government into three distinct and 16 independent departments. To each of these it belongs to administer law within its separate jurisdiction. The 17 Judiciary in cases of meum and tuum, and of public crimes; the Executive, as to laws executive in their nature;
18 the Legislature in various cases which belong to itself, and in the important function of amending and adding to 19 the system."

20 [Thomas Jefferson: Batture at New Orleans, 1812. ME 18:129]

21 "The three great departments having distinct functions to perform, must have distinct rules adapted to them.
22 Each must act under its own rules, those of no one having any obligation on either of the others."

23 [Thomas Jefferson to James Barbour, 1812. ME 13:129]

24 "The Constitution intended that the three great branches of the government should be co-ordinate and
25 independent of each other. As to acts, therefore, which are to be done by either, it has given no control to 26 another branch... Where different branches have to act in their respective lines, finally and without appeal,
27 under any law, they may give to it different and opposite constructions... From these different constructions of 28 the same act by different branches, less mischief arises than from giving to any one of them a control over the 29 others."

30 [Thomas Jefferson to George Hay, 1807. ME 11:213]

31 "If the Legislature fails to pass laws for a census, for paying the Judges and other officers of government, for 32 establishing a militia, for naturalization as prescribed by the Constitution, or if they fail to meet in Congress,
33 the Judges cannot issue their mandamus to them; if the President fails to supply the place of a judge, to appoint
34 other civil or military officers, to issue requisite commissions, the Judges cannot force him. They can issue their 35 mandamus or distring as [i.e., property seizures] to no executive or legislative officer to enforce the fulfillment
36 of their official duties any more than the President or Legislature may issue orders to the Judges or their 37 officers. Betrayed by the English example, and unaware, as it should seem, of the control of our Constitution in 38 this particular, they have at times overstepped their limit by undertaking to command executive officers in the 39 discharge of their executive duties; but the Constitution, in keeping the three departments distinct and 40 independent, restrains the authority of the Judges to judiciary organs as it does the Executive and Legislative to 41 executive and legislative organs."

42 [Thomas Jefferson to William C. Jarvis, 1820. ME 15:277]

43 "It may be objected that the Senate may by continual negatives on the person, do what amounts to a negative on 44 the grade [of an appointee], and so, indirectly, defeat [the] right of the President [to determine the grade]. But 45 this would be a breach of trust; an abuse of power confided to the Senate, of which that body cannot be 46 supposed capable. So the President has a power to convoke the Legislature, and the Senate might defeat that 47 power by refusing to come. This equally amounts to a negative on the power of convoking. Yet nobody will say
48 they possess such a negative, or would be capable of usurping it by such oblique means. If the Constitution had 49 meant to give the Senate a negative on the grade or destination, as well as the person, it would have said so in
50 direct terms, and not left it to be effected by a sidewind. It could never mean to give them the use of one power
51 through the abuse of another."

52 [Thomas Jefferson: Opinion on Executive Appointments, 1790. ME 3:17]

53 "Legislative, Executive and Judiciary offices shall be kept forever separate, and no person exercising the one 54 shall be capable of appointment to the others, or to either of them."

55 [Thomas Jefferson: Draft Virginia Constitution, 1776. Papers 1:347]

1 "Citizens, whether individually or in bodies corporate or associated, have a right to apply directly to any
2 department of their government, whether Legislative, Executive or Judiciary, the exercise of whose powers they
3 have a right to claim, and neither of these can regularly offer its intervention in a case belonging to the other."
4 [Thomas Jefferson to James Sullivan, 1807. ME 11:382]

5 "Where... petitioners have a right to petition their immediate representatives in Congress directly, I have 6 deemed it neither necessary nor proper for them to pass their petition through the intermediate channel of the 7 Executive. But as the petitioners may be ignorant of this, and, confiding in it, may omit the proper measure, I
8 have usually put such petitions into the hands of the Representatives of the State, informally to be used or not as 9 they see best, and considering me as entirely disclaiming any agency in the case."
10 [Thomas Jefferson to Joseph B. Varnum, 1808. ME 12:196]

11 "It seems proper that every person should address himself directly to the department to which the Constitution
12 has allotted his case; and that the proper answer to such from any other department is, 'that it is not to us that 13 the Constitution has assigned the transaction of this business.'"
14 [Thomas Jefferson to James Madison, 1791. ME 8:250]

15 "The courts of justice exercise the sovereignty of this country in judiciary matters, are supreme in these, and 16 liable neither to control nor opposition from any other branch of the government."
17 [Thomas Jefferson to Edmond C. Genet, 1793. ME 9:234]

18 "The interference of the Executive can rarely be proper where that of the Judiciary is so."
19 [Thomas Jefferson to George Hammond, 1793. FE 6:298]

20 "For the Judiciary to interpose in the Legislative department between the constituent and his representative, to 21 control them in the exercise of their functions or duties towards each other, to overawe the free correspondence
22 which exists and ought to exist between them, to dictate what may pass between them and to punish all others,
23 to put the representative into jeopardy of criminal prosecution, of vexation, expense and punishment before the
24 Judiciary if his communications, public or private, do not exactly square with their ideas of fact or right or with 25 their designs of wrong, is to put the Legislative department under the feet of the Judiciary, is to leave us, indeed,
26 the shadow but to take away the substance of representation, which requires essentially that the representative
27 be as free as his constituents would be, that the same interchange of sentiment be lawful between him and them
28 as would be lawful among themselves were they in the personal transaction of their own business; is to do away
29 the influence of the people over the proceedings of their representatives by excluding from their knowledge by 30 the terror of punishment, all but such information or misinformation as may suit their own views."
31 [Thomas Jefferson: Virginia Petition, 1797. ME 17:359]

32 "If the three powers maintain their mutual independence on each other our Government may last long, but not 33 so if either can assume the authorities of the other."
34 [Thomas Jefferson to William Charles Jarvis, 1820. ME 15:278]

35 All Powers in One Branch Produces Despotism

36 "[A very capital defect in a constitution is when] all the powers of government, legislative, executive and 37 judiciary result to the legislative body. The concentrating these in the same hands is precisely the definition of 38 despotic government. It will be no alleviation that these powers will be exercised by a plurality of hands, and 39 not by a single one. One hundred and seventy-three despots would surely be as oppressive as one."
40 [Thomas Jefferson: Notes on Virginia Q.XIII, 1782. ME 2:162]

41 "[Where] there [is] no barrier between the legislative, executive, and judiciary departments, the legislature may
42 seize the whole... Having seized it and possessing a right to fix their own quorum, they may reduce that quorum
43 to one, whom they may call a chairman, speaker, dictator, or by any other name they please."
44 [Thomas Jefferson: Notes on Virginia Q.XIII, 1782. (*) ME 2:178]

45 "I said to [President Washington] that if the equilibrium of the three great bodies, Legislative, Executive and 46 Judiciary, could be preserved, if the Legislature could be kept independent, I should never fear the result of 47 such a government; but that I could not but be uneasy when I saw that the Executive had swallowed up the 48 Legislative branch."
49 [Thomas Jefferson: The Anas, 1792. ME 1:318]

50 Unlimited Powers are Always Dangerous

51 "Nor should [a legislative body] be deluded by the integrity of their own purposes and conclude that...
52 unlimited powers will never be abused because themselves are not disposed to abuse them. They should look
53 forward to a time, and that not a distant one, when corruption in this as in the country from which we derive
54 our origin, will have seized the heads of government and be spread by them through the body of the people,
55 when they will purchase the voices of the people and make them pay the price. Human nature is the same on 56 every side of the Atlantic, and will be alike influenced by the same causes."

1 [Thomas Jefferson: Notes on Virginia Q.XIII, 1782. ME 2:164]

2 "Mankind soon learn to make interested uses of every right and power which they possess or may assume. The
3 public money and public liberty, intended to have been deposited with three branches of magistracy but found
4 inadvertently to be in the hands of one only, will soon be discovered to be sources of wealth and dominion to 5 those who hold them; distinguished, too, by this tempting circumstance: that they are the instrument as well as 6 the object of acquisition. With money we will get men, said Caesar, and with men we will get money."
7 [Thomas Jefferson: Notes on Virginia Q.XIII, 1782. ME 2:164]

8 "It is the old practice of despots to use a part of the people to keep the rest in order; and those who have once
9 got an ascendancy and possessed themselves of all the resources of the nation, their revenues and offices, have 10 immense means for retaining their advantages."
11 [Thomas Jefferson to John Taylor, 1798. ME 10:44]

12 Below are some of Jefferson's predictions on how the separation of powers would be systematically destroyed by public
13 servants, most of whom he predicted would be in the federal judiciary:

14 "The original error [was in] establishing a judiciary independent of the nation, and which, from the citadel of 15 the law, can turn its guns on those they were meant to defend, and control and fashion their proceedings to its 16 own will."
17 [Thomas Jefferson to John Wayles Eppes, 1807. FE 9:68]

18 "It is a misnomer to call a government republican in which a branch of the supreme power is independent of the 19 nation."
20 [Thomas Jefferson to James Pleasants, 1821. FE 10:198]

21 "In England, where judges were named and removable at the will of an hereditary executive, from which 22 branch most misrule was feared and has flowed, it was a great point gained by fixing them for life, to make 23 them independent of that executive. But in a government founded on the public will, this principle operates in an 24 opposite direction and against that will. There, too, they were still removable on a concurrence of the executive
25 and legislative branches. But we have made them independent of the nation itself. They are irremovable but by 26 their own body for any depravities of conduct, and even by their own body for the imbecilities of dotage."
27 [Thomas Jefferson to Samuel Kercheval, 1816. ME 15:34]

28 "Let the future appointments of judges be for four or six years and renewable by the President and Senate. This
29 will bring their conduct at regular periods under revision and probation, and may keep them in equipoise
30 between the general and special governments. We have erred in this point by copying England, where certainly 31 it is a good thing to have the judges independent of the King. But we have omitted to copy their caution also,
32 which makes a judge removable on the address of both legislative houses."
33 [Thomas Jefferson to William T. Barry, 1822. ME 15:389]

34 "The great object of my fear is the Federal Judiciary. That body, like gravity, ever acting with noiseless foot and 35 unalarming advance, gaining ground step by step and holding what it gains, is engulfing insidiously the special
36 governments into the jaws of that which feeds them."
37 [Thomas Jefferson to Spencer Roane, 1821. ME 15:326]

38 "The judiciary of the United States is the subtle corps of sappers and miners constantly working under ground
39 to undermine the foundations of our confederated fabric. They are construing our Constitution from a co-
40 ordination of a general and special government to a general and supreme one alone. This will lay all things at 41 their feet, and they are too well versed in English law to forget the maxim, 'boni judicis est ampliari
42 jurisdictionem.'"
43 [Thomas Jefferson to Thomas Ritchie, 1820. ME 15:297]

44 "It has long been my opinion, and I have never shrunk from its expression,... that the germ of dissolution of our 45 Federal Government is in the constitution of the Federal Judiciary--an irresponsible body (for impeachment is 46 scarcely a scare-crow), working like gravity by night and by day, gaining a little today and a little tomorrow,
47 and advancing its noiseless step like a thief over the field of jurisdiction until all shall be usurped from the 48 States and the government be consolidated into one. To this I am opposed."
49 [Thomas Jefferson to Charles Hammond, 1821. ME 15:331]

50 Irregular and Censurable Decisions

51 "Contrary to all correct example, [the Federal judiciary] are in the habit of going out of the question before
52 them, to throw an anchor ahead and grapple further hold for future advances of power. They are then in fact
53 the corps of sappers and miners, steadily working to undermine the independent rights of the States and to 54 consolidate all power in the hands of that government in which they have so important a freehold estate."
55 [Thomas Jefferson: Autobiography, 1821. ME 1:121]

1 "The judges... are practicing on the Constitution by inferences, analogies, and sophisms, as they would on an
2 ordinary law. They do not seem aware that it is not even a Constitution formed by a single authority and subject
3 to a single superintendence and control, but that it is a compact of many independent powers, every single one
4 of which claims an equal right to understand it and to require its observance."
5 [Thomas Jefferson to Edward Livingston, 1825. ME 16:113]

6 "[The] practice of Judge Marshall of traveling out of his case to prescribe what the law would be in a moot
7 case not before the court, is very irregular and very censurable."

26 Undermining Republican Government

27 "At the establishment of our Constitutions, the judiciary bodies were supposed to be the most helpless and 28 harmless members of the government. Experience, however, soon showed in what way they were to become the 29 most dangerous; that the insufficiency of the means provided for their removal gave them a freehold and
30 irresponsibility in office; that their decisions, seeming to concern individual suitors only, pass silent and
31 unheeded by the public at large; that these decisions nevertheless become law by precedent, sapping by little
32 and little the foundations of the Constitution and working its change by construction before any one has 33 perceived that that invisible and helpless worm has been busily employed in consuming its substance. In truth,
34 man is not made to be trusted for life if secured against all liability to account."
35 [Thomas Jefferson to A. Coray, 1823. ME 15:486]

36 "This member of the government... has proved that the power of declaring what the law is, ad libitum, by
37 sapping and mining, slyly, and without alarm, the foundations of the Constitution, can do what open force 38 would not dare to attempt."
39 [Thomas Jefferson to Edward Livingston, 1825. ME 16:114]

40 "I do not charge the judges with wilful and ill-intentioned error; but honest error must be arrested where its 41 toleration leads to public ruin. As for the safety of society, we commit honest maniacs to Bedlam; so judges
42 should be withdrawn from their bench whose erroneous biases are leading us to dissolution. It may, indeed,
43 injure them in fame or in fortune; but it saves the republic, which is the first and supreme law."
44 [Thomas Jefferson: Autobiography, 1821. ME 1:122]

45 "If, indeed, a judge goes against the law so grossly, so palpably, as no imputable degree of folly can account
46 for, and nothing but corruption, malice or wilful wrong can explain, and especially if circumstances prove such 47 motives, he may be punished for the corruption, the malice, the wilful wrong; but not for the error: nor is he
48 liable to action by the party grieved. And our form of government constituting its respective functionaries
49 judges of the law which is to guide their decisions, places all within the same reason, under the safeguard of the 50 same rule."
51 [Thomas Jefferson: Batture at New Orleans, 1812. ME 18:130]

52 "One single object... [will merit] the endless gratitude of society: that of restraining the judges from usurping
53 legislation. And with no body of men is this restraint more wanting than with the judges of what is commonly 54 called our General Government, but what I call our foreign department."
55 [Thomas Jefferson to Edward Livingston, 1825. ME 16:113]

1 "When all government, domestic and foreign, in little as in great things, shall be drawn to Washington as the
2 center of all power, it will render powerless the checks provided of one government on another and will
3 become as venal and oppressive as the government from which we separated."
4 [Thomas Jefferson to Charles Hammond, 1821. ME 15:332]

5 "What an augmentation of the field for jobbing, speculating, plundering, office-building and office-hunting
6 would be produced by an assumption of all the State powers into the hands of the General Government!"
7 [Thomas Jefferson to Gideon Granger, 1800. ME 10:168]

8 Thomas Jefferson also predicted that the most severe threat of destruction of the separation of powers would come from the 9 federal judiciary:

10 "Our government is now taking so steady a course as to show by what road it will pass to destruction; to wit: by
11 consolidation first and then corruption, its necessary consequence. The engine of consolidation will be the
12 Federal judiciary; the two other branches the corrupting and corrupted instruments."
13 [Thomas Jefferson to Nathaniel Macon, 1821. ME 15:341]

14 "The [federal] judiciary branch is the instrument which, working like gravity, without intermission, is to 15 press us at last into one consolidated mass."
16 [Thomas Jefferson to Archibald Thweat, 1821. ME 15:307]

17 "There is no danger I apprehend so much as the consolidation of our government by the noiseless and 18 therefore unalarming instrumentality of the Supreme Court."
19 [Thomas Jefferson to William Johnson, 1823. ME 15:421]

20 Jefferson, of course, was absolutely correct in his predictions that the federal judiciary would be the source of corruption
21 that would transform a de jure government into a de facto government. You can read exactly how this happened in a book
22 available on our website below:

23 2.5 How Scoundrels Corrupted Our Republican Form of Government: With franchises⁹

24 "All systems of government suppose they are to be administered by men of common sense and common honesty.
25 In our country, as all ultimately depends on the voice of the people, they have it in their power, and it is to be
26 presumed they generally will choose men of this description: but if they will not, the case, to be sure, is without 27 remedy. If they choose fools, they will have foolish laws. If they choose knaves, they will have knavish ones. But 28 this can never be the case until they are generally fools or knaves themselves, which, thank God, is not likely 29 ever to become the character of the American people." [Justice Iredell] (Fries's Case (CC) F Cas No 5126, 30 supra.)
31 [Ludecke v. Watkins, 335 U.S. 160; 92 L.Ed 1881, 1890; 68 S.Ct. 1429 (1948)]

32 "The chief enemies of republican freedom are mental sloth, conformity, bigotry, superstition, credulity,
33 monopoly in the market of ideas, and utter, benighted ignorance."
34 [Adderley v. State of Florida, 385 U.S. 39, 49 (1967)]

35 2.5.1 Original Design of our Republic

36 The Great IRS Hoax, Form #11.302, Section 4.1 showed you the hierarchy of sovereignty and where you fit personally in 37 that hierarchy. They showed you in Great IRS Hoax, Form #11.302, Section 4.5 that Article 4, Section 4 of the U.S.
38 Constitution guarantees to all Americans a "republican form of government". Then in section 5.1.1 they showed you the 39 order that our state and federal governments were created and the distinct sovereignties that comprise all the elements of 40 our republican political system. Now we are going to tie the whole picture together and show you graphically the tools and 41 techniques that specific covetous government servants have used over the years to corrupt and debase that system for their 42 own personal financial and political benefit.

43 "The king establishes the land by justice; but he who receives bribes overthrows it."

1 [\[Prov. 29:4, Bible, NKJV\]](#)

2 After you have learned these techniques by which corruption is introduced, we will spend the rest of the chapter showing
3 exactly how these techniques have been specifically applied over the years to corrupt and debase and destroy our political
4 system and undermine our personal liberties, rights, and freedoms. This will train your perception to be on the lookout for 5 any future attempts by our covetous politicians to further corrupt our system so that you can act swiftly at a political level to 6 oppose and prevent it.

7 First of all, the foundation of our republican form of government is all the following as a group:

8 1. Sovereign power held by the People through their direct participation in the affairs of government as jurists and voters.

9 "The sovereignty of a state does not reside in the persons who fill the different departments of its government,
10 but in the People, from whom the government emanated; and they may change it at their discretion.
11 Sovereignty, then in this country, abides with the constituency, and not with the agent; and this remark is true,
12 both in reference to the federal and state government."
13 [\[Spooner v. McConnell, 22 F. 939, 943\]](#)

15 "There is no such thing as a power of inherent sovereignty in the government of the United States In this
16 country sovereignty resides in the people, and Congress can exercise no power which they have not, by their 17 Constitution entrusted to it: All else is withheld."
18 [\[Julliard v. Greenman: 110 U.S. 421, \(1884\)\]](#)

19 2. All powers exercised by government are directly delegated to those serving in government by the people, both 20 collectively and individually.

21 "The question is not what power the federal government ought to have, but what powers, in fact, have been
22 given by the people... The federal union is a government of delegated powers. It has only such as are expressly
23 conferred upon it, and such as are reasonably to be implied from those granted. In this respect, we differ
24 radically from nations where all legislative power, without restriction or limitation, is vested in a parliament or
25 other legislative body subject to no restriction except the discretion of its members." (Congress)
26 [\[U.S. v. William M. Butler, 297 U.S. 1 \(1936\)\]](#)

27 "The Government of the United States is one of delegated powers alone. Its authority is defined and limited by
28 the Constitution. All powers not granted to it by that instrument are reserved to the States or the people."
29 [\[United States v. Cruikshank, 92 U.S. 542 \(1875\)\]](#)

30 "It is again to antagonize Chief Justice Marshall, when he said: 'The government of the Union, then (whatever 31 may be the influence of this fact on the case), is emphatically and truly a government of the people. In form and 32 in substance it emanates from them. Its powers are granted by them, and are to be exercised directly on them
33 and for their benefit. This government is acknowledged by all to be one of enumerated powers.' 4 Wheat. 404, 4
34 L.Ed. 601."
35 [\[Downes v. Bidwell, 182 U.S. 244 \(1901\)\]](#)

36 The implication is that the people AS INDIVIDUALS are EQUAL to the government in the eyes of the law because you 37 can't delegate what you don't have:

38 "Derativa potestas non potest esse major primitiva.
39 The power which is derived cannot be greater than that from which it is derived."

40 Nemo dat qui non habet. No one can give who does not possess. Jenk. Cent. 250.

41 Nemo plus juris ad alienum transferre potest, quam ispe habent. One cannot transfer to another a right which he 42 has not. Dig. 50, 17, 54; 10 Pet. 161, 175.

43 Nemo potest facere per alium quod per se non potest. No one can do that by another which he cannot do by 44 himself.

45 Qui per alium facit per seipsum facere videtur. He who does anything through another, is considered as doing it
46 himself. Co. Litt. 258.

1 Quicquid acquiritur servo, acquiritur domino. Whatever is acquired by the servant, is acquired for the master.
2 15 Bin. Ab. 327.

3 Quod per me non possum, nec per alium. What I cannot do in person, I cannot do by proxy. 4 Co. 24.

4 What a man cannot transfer, he cannot bind by articles.

5 [Bouvier's Maxims of Law, 1856;

7 3. Separation of powers between three branches of government. That separation is described in:

Government Conspiracy to Destroy the Separation of Powers, Form #05.023

<https://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

8 4. Distinct separation of property rights between PUBLIC and PRIVATE. By "public" we mean GOVERNMENT
9 property. That separation is described in:

Separation Between Public and Private Course, Form #12.025

<https://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

10 Without ALL of the above, every government becomes corrupt and turns into a de facto government as described in:

De Facto Government Scam, Form #05.043

<https://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

11 The concept separation of powers is called the "Separation of Powers Doctrine":

12 "Separation of powers. The governments of the states and the United States are divided into three departments
13 or branches: the legislative, which is empowered to make laws, the executive which is required to carry out the 14 laws, and the judicial which is charged with interpreting the laws and adjudicating disputes under the laws.
15 Under this constitutional doctrine of "separation of powers," one branch is not permitted to encroach on the 16 domain or exercise the powers of another branch. See U.S. Constitution, Articles I-III. See also Power
17 (Constitutional Powers)."

18 [Black's Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, p. 1365]

19 Here is how no less than the U.S. Supreme Court described the purpose of this separation of powers:

20 "We start with first principles. The Constitution creates a Federal Government of enumerated powers. See U.S.
21 Const., Art. I, 8. As James Madison wrote, "[t]he powers delegated by the proposed Constitution to the federal
22 government are few and defined. Those which are to remain in the State governments are numerous and
23 *indefinite." The Federalist No. 45, pp. 292-293 (C. Rossiter ed. 1961). This constitutionally mandated division
24 of authority "was adopted by the Framers to ensure protection of our fundamental liberties." Gregory v.
25 Ashcroft, 501 U.S. 452, 458 (1991) (internal quotation marks omitted). "Just as the separation and
26 independence of the coordinate branches of the Federal Government serves to prevent the accumulation of
27 excessive power in any one branch, a healthy balance of power between the States and the Federal
28 Government will reduce the risk of tyranny and abuse from either front." *Ibid.

29 [U.S. v. Lopez, 514 U.S. 549 (1995)]

30 The founding fathers believed that men were inherently corrupt. They believed that absolute power corrupts absolutely so 31 they avoided concentrating too much power into any single individual.

32 "When all government, domestic and foreign, in little as in great things, shall be drawn to Washington as the
33 center of all power, it will render powerless the checks provided of one government on another and will become 34 as venal and oppressive as the government from which we separated."

35 [Thomas Jefferson to Charles Hammond, 1821. ME 15:332]

36 "Our government is now taking so steady a course as to show by what road it will pass to destruction; to wit: by
37 consolidation first and then corruption, its necessary consequence. The engine of consolidation will be the
38 Federal judiciary; the two other branches the corrupting and corrupted instruments."

39 [Thomas Jefferson to Nathaniel Macon, 1821. ME 15:341]

40 "The [federal] judiciary branch is the instrument which, working like gravity, without intermission, is to press
41 us at last into one consolidated mass."

42 [Thomas Jefferson to Archibald Thweat, 1821. ME 15:307]

1 "There is no danger I apprehend so much as the consolidation of our government by the noiseless and therefore
2 unalarming instrumentality of the Supreme Court."
3 [Thomas Jefferson to William Johnson, 1823. ME 15:421]

4 "I wish... to see maintained that wholesome distribution of powers established by the Constitution for the
5 limitation of both [the State and General governments], and never to see all offices transferred to Washington
6 where, further withdrawn from the eyes of the people, they may more secretly be bought and sold as at market."
7 [Thomas Jefferson to William Johnson, 1823. ME 15:450]

8 "What an augmentation of the field for jobbing, speculating, plundering, office-building and office-hunting
9 would be produced by an assumption of all the State powers into the hands of the General Government!"
10 [Thomas Jefferson to Gideon Granger, 1800. ME 10:168]

11 "I see,... and with the deepest affliction, the rapid strides with which the federal branch of our government is 12 advancing towards the usurpation of all the rights reserved to the States, and the consolidation in itself of all
13 powers, foreign and domestic; and that, too, by constructions which, if legitimate, leave no limits to their
14 power... It is but too evident that the three ruling branches of [the Federal government] are in combination to 15 strip their colleagues, the State authorities, of the powers reserved by them, and to exercise themselves all 16 functions foreign and domestic."
17 [Thomas Jefferson to William Branch Giles, 1825. ME 16:146]

18 "We already see the [judiciary] power, installed for life, responsible to no authority (for impeachment is not 19 even a scare-crow), advancing with a noiseless and steady pace to the great object of consolidation. The 20 foundations are already deeply laid by their decisions for the annihilation of constitutional State rights and the 21 removal of every check, every counterpoise to the engulfing power of which themselves are to make a sovereign
22 part."
23 [Thomas Jefferson to William T. Barry, 1822. ME 15:388]

Thomas Jefferson on Politics and Government
<http://famguardian.org/Subjects/Politics/ThomasJefferson/jeff1060.htm>

25 They instead wanted an egalitarian and utopian society. They loathed the idea of a king because they had seen how corrupt
26 the monarchies of Europe had become by reading the history books. They loathed it so much that they specifically
27 prohibited titles of nobility in Article 1, Section 9, Clause 8:

28 U.S. Constitution: Article 1, Section 9, Clause 8

29 No Title of Nobility shall be granted by the United States: And no Person holding any Office of Profit or Trust
30 under them, shall, without the Consent of the Congress, accept of any present, Emolument, Office, or Title, of
31 any kind whatever, from any King, Prince or foreign State.

32 So the founders instead distributed and dispersed political power into several independent branches of government that 33 have sovereign power over a finite sphere and prohibited the branches from assuming each others duties. This, they 34 believed, would prevent collusion against their rights and liberties. They therefore divided the government into the 35 Executive, Legislative, and Judicial branches and made them independent of each other, and assigned very specific duties
36 to each. In effect, these three branches became "foreign" to each other and in constant competition with each other for 37 power and control.

38 The founders further dispersed political power by dividing power between the several states and the federal government and 39 gave most of the power to the states. They gave each state their own seats in Congress, in the Senate. They made the states
40 just like "foreign countries" and independent nations so that there would be the greatest separation of powers possible
41 between the federal government and the states:

42 "The States between each other are sovereign and independent. They are distinct and separate sovereignties,*
43 *except so far as they have parted with some of the attributes of sovereignty by the Constitution. They continue
44 to be nations, with all their rights, and under all their national obligations, and with all the rights of nations
45 in every particular; except in the surrender by each to the common purposes and objects of the Union, under*
46 the Constitution. The rights of each State, when not so yielded up, remain absolute."
47 Bank of Augusta v. Earle, [38 U.S. \(13 Pet.\) 519, 10 L.Ed. 274 (1839)]

1 Then the founders created multiple states so that the states would be in competition with each other for citizens and for
2 commerce. When one state got too oppressive or taxed people too much, the people could then move to an economically
3 more attractive state and climate. This kept the states from oppressing their citizens and it gave the people a means to keep
4 their state and their government in check. Then they put the federal government in charge of regulating commerce among
5 and between the states, and the intention of this was to maximize, not obstruct, commerce between the states so that we
6 would act as a unified economic union and like a country. Even so, they didn't want our country to be a "nation" under the
7 law of nations, because they didn't want a national government with unlimited powers. They wanted a "federation", so
8 they called our central government the "federal government" instead of a "national government". To give us a "national
9 government" would be a recipe for tyranny:

10 "By that law the several States and Governments spread over our globe, are considered as forming a society,
11 not a NATION. It has only been by a very few comprehensive minds, such as those of Elizabeth and the Fourth
12 Henry, that this last great idea has been even contemplated. 3rdly, and chiefly, I shall examine the important
13 question before us, by the Constitution of the United States, and the legitimate result of that valuable 14 instrument. "

15 [Chisholm v. Georgia, 2 Dall. (U.S.) 419, 1 L.Ed. 440 (1794)]

16 The ingenious founders also made the people the sovereigns in charge of both the state and federal governments by giving 17 them a Bill of Rights and mandating frequent elections. Frequent elections:

- 18 1. Ensured that rulers would not be in office long enough to learn enough to get sneaky with the people or abuse their 19 power.
- 20 2. Kept the rulers accountable to the people and provided a prompt feedback mechanism to make sure politicians and 21 rulers were incentivized to listen to the people.
- 22 3. Created a stable political system that would automatically converge onto the will of the majority so that the country
23 would be at peace instead of at war within itself.

24 The founders even gave the people their own house in Congress called the House of Representatives, so that the power
25 between the states, in the Senate, and the People, in the House, would be well-balanced. They also made sure that these 26 sovereign electors and citizens were well armed with a good education, so they could keep their government in check and
27 capably defend their freedom, property, and liberty by themselves. When things got rough and governments became 28 corrupt, these rugged and self-sufficient citizens were also guaranteed the right to defend their property using arms that the 29 U.S. Constitution said in the Second Amendment that they had a right to keep and use. This ensured that citizens
30 wouldn't need to depend on the government for a handout or socialist benefits and wouldn't have to worry about having a
31 government that would plunder their property or their liberty.

32 Finally, the founding fathers created the institution of trial by jury, so that if government got totally corrupt and passed
33 unjust laws that violated God's laws, the people could put themselves back in control through jury nullification. This also 34 effectively dealt with the problem of corrupt judges, because both the jury and the grand jury could override the judge as 35 well when they detected a conflict of interest by judging both the facts and the law. Here is how Thomas Jefferson
36 described the duty of the jury in such a circumstance:

37 "It is left... to the juries, if they think the permanent judges are under any bias whatever in any cause, to take on
38 themselves to judge the law as well as the fact. They never exercise this power but when they suspect partiality
39 in the judges; and by the exercise of this power they have been the firmest bulwarks of English liberty."

40 [Thomas Jefferson to Abbe Arnoux, 1789. ME 7:423, Papers 15:283]

41 The design that our founding fathers had for our political system was elegant, unique, unprecedented, ingenious, perfectly
42 balanced, and inherently just. It was founded on the concept of Natural Order and Natural Law, which as we explained in 43 section 4.1 are based on the sequence that things were created. This concept made sense, even to people who didn't believe
44 in God, so it had wide support among a very diverse country of immigrants from all over the world and of many different
45 religious faiths. Natural Law and Natural Order unified our country because it was just and fair and righteous. That is the 46 basis for the phrase on our currency, which says:

47 "E Pluribus Unum"

48 ...which means: "From many, one." Our system of Natural Law and Natural Order also happened to be based on 49 God's sovereign design for self-government, as we explained throughout chapter 4. The founders also recognized
50 that liberty without God and morality are impossible:

1 "We have no government armed with the power capable of contending with human passions unbridled by
2 morality and religion. Avarice [greed], ambition, revenge, or gallantry [debauchery], would break the
3 strongest cords of our Constitution as a whale goes through a net. Our Constitution was made only for a
4 moral and religious people. It is wholly inadequate to the government of any other."
5 [John Adams, 2nd President]

6 So the founders included the requirement for BOTH God and Liberty on all of our currency. They put the phrase "In God
7 We Trust" and the phrase "Liberty" side by side, and they were probably thinking of the following scripture when they did 8 that!:

9 "Now the Lord is the Spirit; and where the Spirit of the Lord is, there is liberty."
10 [2 Cor. 3:17, Bible, NKJV]

11 By creating such distinct separation of powers among all the forces of government, the founders ensured that the only way
12 anything would get done within government was exclusively by informed consent and not by force or terror. The 13 Declaration of Independence identifies the source of ALL "just" government power as "consent". Anything not consensual
14 is therefore unjust and tyrannical. An informed and sovereign People will only do things voluntarily and consensually
15 when it is in their absolute best interests. This would ensure that government would never engage in anything that wasn't in 16 the best interests of everyone as a whole, because people, at least theoretically, would never consent to anything that would 17 either hurt them or injure their Constitutional rights. The Supreme Court described this kind of government by consent as 18 "government by compact":

19 "In Europe, the executive is synonymous with the sovereign power of a state...where it is too commonly
20 *acquired by force or fraud, or both...In America, however the case is widely different. Our government is 21 founded upon compact [consent expressed in a written contract called a Constitution or in positive law].
22 Sovereignty was, and is, in the people.
23 [Glass v. The Sloop Betsy, 3 (U.S.) Dall 6]

24 Here is the legal definition of "compact" to prove our point that the Constitution and all federal law written in 25 furtherance of it are indeed a "compact":

26 "Compact, n. An agreement or contract between persons, nations, or states. Commonly applied to working
27 agreements between and among states concerning matters of mutual concern. A contract between parties,
28 which creates obligations and rights capable of being enforced and contemplated as such between the parties,
29 in their distinct and independent characters. A mutual consent of parties concerned respecting some property
30 or right that is the object of the stipulation, or something that is to be done or forborne. See also Compact
31 clause; Confederacy; Interstate compact; Treaty."
32 [Black's Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, p. 281]

33 Enacting a mutual agreement into positive law then, becomes the vehicle for expressing the fact that the People collectively
34 agreed and consented to the law and to accept any adverse impact that law might have on their liberty. Public servants
35 then, are just the apparatus that the sovereign People use for governing themselves through the operation of positive law.
36 As the definition above shows, the apparatus and machinery of government is simply the "rudder" that steers the ship, but 37 the "Captain" of the ship is the People both individually and collectively. In a true Republican Form of Government, the 38 REAL government is the people individually and collectively, and not their "public servants". That is the true meaning of 39 the phrase "a government of the people, by the people, and for the people" used by Abraham Lincoln in the Gettysburg
40 Address.

41 Our de jure Constitutional Republic started out as a perfectly balanced and just system indeed. But somewhere along the 42 way, it was deliberately corrupted by evil men for personal gain. Just like Cain (in the Bible) destroyed the tranquility and 43 peace of an idyllic world and divided the Family of Adam by first introducing murder into the world, greedy politicians
44 who wanted to line their pockets corrupted our wonderful system and brought evil into the government. How did it
45 happen? They did it with a combination of force, fraud, and the corrupting influence of money. This process can be shown
46 graphically and described in scientific terms over a period of years to show precisely how it was done. We will now
47 attempt to do this so that the process is crystal clear in your mind. What we are trying to show are the following elements
48 in our diagram:

- 49 1. The distinct sovereignties between governments:
50 1.1. States
51 1.2. The federal government
52 2. The sovereignties within governments:

- 1 2.1. Executive branch
- 2 2.2. Legislative branch
- 3 2.3. Judicial branch
- 4 3. The hierarchy of sovereignty between all the sovereignties based on their sequence of creation.
- 5 4. The corrupting influence of force, fraud, and money, including the branch that initiated it, the date it was initiated, and
- 6 the object it was initiated against.

7 To meet the above objectives, we will start off with the diagram found in Great IRS Hoax, Form #11.302, Section 5.1.1 and
8 expand it with some of the added elements found in the Natural Order diagram found earlier in Great IRS Hoax, Form
9 #11.302, Section 4.1. To the bottom of the diagram, we add the Ten Commandments, which establishes the “Separation of 10 Church v. State”. The first four commandments in Exodus 20:2-11 establish the church and the last six commandments
11 found in Exodus 20:12-17 define how we should relate to other people, who Jesus later called our “neighbor” in Matt.
12 22:39. The main and only purpose of government is to love and protect and serve its inhabitants and citizens, who
13 collectively are "neighbors". What results is a schematic diagram of the initial political system that the founders gave us
14 absent all corruption. This is called the “De jure U.S. Government”. It is the only lawful government we have and its 15 organization is defined by our Constitution. It's organization is also defined by the Bible, which we also call "Natural Law"
16 throughout this document.

2 Each box in the above diagram represents a sovereignty or sovereign entity that helps distribute power throughout our
 3 system of government to prevent corruption or tyranny. The arrows with dark ends indicate an act of creation by the sovereign above. That act of creation carries with it an implied delegation of authority to do specific tasks and establishes a fiduciary relationship between the creator, and his subordinate creation. The above system as shown functions properly and fully and provides the best defense for our liberties only when there is complete separation between each sovereignty, which is to say that all actions performed and all choices made by any one sovereign:

1. Are completely free of fraud, force, conflict of interest, or duress.
2. Are accomplished completely voluntarily, which is to say that they are done for the mutual benefit of all parties involved rather than any one single party exercising undue influence.
3. Involve fully informed consent made with a full awareness by all parties to the agreement of all rights which are being surrendered to procure any benefits acquired.
4. Are done mainly or exclusively for the benefit of the sovereign above the agent who is the actor.
5. Are done for righteous reasons and noble intent, meaning that they are accomplished for the benefit of someone else rather than one's own personal or financial benefit. This requirement is the foundation of what a fiduciary relationship means and also the only way that conflicts of interest and the corruption they can cause can be eliminated.

2.5.2 Main Technique of Corruption: Introduce Franchises to replace UNALIENABLE PRIVATE Rights with REVOCABLE PUBLIC Statutory PRIVILEGES

*"The rich ruleth over the poor, and the borrower [is] servant to the lender."
[Prov. 22:7, Bible, NKJV]*

The secret to how scoundrels corrupt our republic based on inalienable rights and replace it with a democracy based on revocable statutory privileges is to offer to loan you government property with conditions or legal strings attached. That process is called a "franchise". The Bible and the U.S. Supreme Court both describe EXACTLY, from a legal perspective, WHEN AND HOW you personally facilitate this inversion of the de jure hierarchy in the previous section to make public servants into masters and make you the sovereign into a government employee or officer. It is done with loans of government property that have legal strings attached. This loan is what we call "government franchises" (Form #05.030) on our website. The word "privilege" in fact is synonymous with loans of absolutely owned GOVERNMENT property and the legal strings attached to the loan.

*"The rich rules over the poor,
And the borrower is servant to the lender."
[Prov. 22:7, Bible, NKJV]*

"The State in such cases exercises no greater right than an individual may exercise over the use of his own property when leased or loaned to others. The conditions upon which the privilege shall be enjoyed being stated or implied in the legislation authorizing its grant, no right is, of course, impaired by their enforcement. The recipient of the privilege, in effect, stipulates to comply with the conditions. It matters not how limited the privilege conferred, its acceptance implies an assent to the regulation of its use and the compensation for it."
[Munn v. Illinois, 94 U.S. 113 (1876)]

Curses of Disobedience [to God's Laws]

"The alien [Washington, D.C. is legislatively "alien" in relation to states of the Union] who is among you shall rise higher and higher above you, and you shall come down lower and lower [malicious destruction of EQUAL PROTECTION and EQUAL TREATMENT by abusing FRANCHISES]. He shall lend to you [Federal Reserve counterfeiting franchise], but you shall not lend to him; he shall be the head, and you shall be the tail.

"Moreover all these curses shall come upon you and pursue and overtake you, until you are destroyed, because you did not obey the voice of the Lord your God, to keep His commandments and His statutes which He commanded you. And they shall be upon you for a sign and a wonder, and on your descendants forever.

"Because you did not serve [ONLY] the Lord your God with joy and gladness of heart, for the abundance of everything, therefore you shall serve your [covetous thieving lawyer] enemies, whom the Lord will send against you, in hunger, in thirst, in nakedness, and in need of everything; and He will put a yoke of iron [franchise codes] on your neck until He has destroyed you. The Lord will bring a nation against you from afar [the District of CRIMINALS], from the end of the earth, as swift as the eagle flies [the American Eagle], a nation whose language [LEGALESE] you will not understand, a nation of fierce [coercive and fascist] countenance,

1 which does not respect the elderly [assassinates them by denying them healthcare through bureaucratic delays
2 on an Obamacare waiting list] nor show favor to the young [destroying their ability to learn in the public
3 FOOL system]. And they shall eat the increase of your livestock and the produce of your land [with "trade or 4 business" franchise taxes], until you [and all your property] are destroyed [or STOLEN/CONFISCATED];
5 they shall not leave you grain or new wine or oil, or the increase of your cattle or the offspring of your flocks,
6 until they have destroyed you.
7 [Deut. 28:43-51, Bible, NKJV]

8 The problem with all such loans is that the covetous de facto \(Form #05.043\) government offering them can theoretically
9 attach ANY condition they want to the loan. If the property is something that is life threatening to do without, then they
10 can destroy ALL of your constitutional rights and leave you with no judicial or legal remedy whatsoever for the loss of 11 your fundamental or natural PRIVATE rights and otherwise PRIVATE property! This, in fact, is EXACTLY what 12 Pharaoh did to the Israelites during the famine in Egypt, described in Genesis 47.

24 Related to Adhesion Contract: unilateral contract, exculpatory clause, personal contract, Unconscionable
25 contract

26 Adhesion Contract

27 A type of contract, a legally binding agreement between two parties to do a certain thing, in which one side has 28 all the bargaining power and uses it to write the contract primarily to his or her advantage.

29 An example of an adhesion contract is a standardized contract form that offers goods or services to consumers
30 on essentially a "take it or leave it" basis without giving consumers realistic opportunities to negotiate terms
31 that would benefit their interests. When this occurs, the consumer cannot obtain the desired product or service 32 unless he or she acquiesces to the form contract.

33 There is nothing unenforceable or even wrong about adhesion contracts. In fact, most businesses would never
34 conclude their volume of transactions if it were necessary to negotiate all the terms of every Consumer Credit
35 contract. Insurance contracts and residential leases are other kinds of adhesion contracts. This does not mean,
36 however, that all adhesion contracts are valid. Many adhesion contracts are Unconscionable; they are so unfair
37 to the weaker party that a court will refuse to enforce them. An example would be severe penalty provisions for 38 failure to pay loan installments promptly that are physically hidden by small print located in the middle of an 39 obscure paragraph of a lengthy loan agreement. In such a case a court can find that there is no meeting of the 40 minds of the parties to the contract and that the weaker party has not accepted the terms of the contract.

42 adhesion contract (contract of adhesion)

43 n. a contract (often a signed form) so imbalanced in favor of one party over the other that there is a strong
44 implication it was not freely bargained. Example: a rich landlord dealing with a poor tenant who has no choice
45 and must accept all terms of a lease, no matter how restrictive or burdensome, since the tenant cannot afford to 46 move. An adhesion contract can give the little guy the opportunity to claim in court that the contract with the 47 big shot is invalid. This doctrine should be used and applied more often, but the same big guy-little guy inequity
48 may apply in the ability to afford a trial or find and pay a resourceful lawyer. (See: contract)

The temptation of the offer of the government franchise as an adhesion contract is exhaustively described, personified, and even dramatized in the following:

James Madison, whose notes were used to draft the Bill of Rights, predicted this perversion of the de jure Constitutional design, when he very insightfully said the following:

"With respect to the words general welfare, I have always regarded them as qualified by the detail of powers connected with them. To take them in a literal and unlimited sense would be a metamorphosis of the Constitution into a character which there is a host of proofs was not contemplated by its creator."

"If Congress can employ money indefinitely to the general welfare, and are the sole and supreme judges of the general welfare, they may take the care of religion into their own hands; they may appoint teachers in every State, county and parish and pay them out of their public treasury; they may take into their own hands the education of children, establishing in like manner schools throughout the Union; they may assume the provision of the poor; they may undertake the regulation of all roads other than post-roads; in short, every thing, from the highest object of state legislation down to the most minute object of police, would be thrown under the power of Congress.... Were the power of Congress to be established in the latitude contended for, it would subvert the very foundations, and transmute the very nature of the limited Government established by the people of America."

"If Congress can do whatever in their discretion can be done by money, and will promote the general welfare, the government is no longer a limited one possessing enumerated powers, but an indefinite one subject to particular exceptions."

[James Madison. House of Representatives, February 7, 1792, On the Cod Fishery Bill, granting Bounties]

The term "general welfare" is synonymous with "benefit" in franchise language. "general welfare" as used above is, in fact, the basis for the entire modern welfare state that will eventually lead to a massive financial collapse and crisis worldwide.¹⁰ Anyone who therefore supports such a system is ultimately an anarchist intent on destroying our present dysfunctional government and thereby committing the crime of Treason!¹¹

Socialism: The New American Civil Religion*, Form #05.016

The Bible also describes how to REVERSE this inversion, how to restore our constitutional rights, and how to put public servants back in their role as servants rather than masters. Note that accepting custody or "benefit" or loans of government

¹¹ In the landmark case of Steward Machine Co. v. Davis, 310 U.S. 548 (1937) legalizing social security, the U.S. Supreme Court had the following to say about the treason of inverting the relationship of the states to the federal government:

"If the time shall ever arrive when, for an object appealing, however strongly, to our sympathies, the dignity of the States shall bow to the dictation of Congress by conforming their legislation thereto, when the power and majesty and honor of those who created shall become subordinate to the thing of their creation, I but feebly utter my apprehensions when I express my firm conviction that we shall see 'the beginning of the end.'"
[Steward Machine Co. v. Davis, 310 U.S. 548, 606 (1937)]

1 property in effect behaves as an act of contracting, because it accomplishes the same effect, which is to create implied
2 “obligations” in a legal sense:

26 Following the above commandments requires not signing up for and quitting any and all government benefits and services
27 you may have consensually signed up for or retained eligibility for. All such applications and/or eligibility is called 28 “special law” in the legal field.

29 "special law. One relating to particular persons or things; one made for individual cases or for particular*
30 places or districts; one operating upon a selected class, rather than upon the public generally. A private law.
31 A law is "special" when it is different from others of the same general kind or designed for a particular purpose,

39 [Black's Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, pp. 1397-1398]

40 We also prove that all such “special law” is not “law” in a classical sense, but rather an act of contracting, because it does 41 not apply equally to all. It is what the U.S. Supreme Court referred to as “class legislation” in Pollock v. Farmers Loan and 42 Trust in which they declared the first income tax unconstitutional:

43 "The income tax law under consideration is marked by discriminating features which affect the whole
44 law. It discriminates between those who receive an income of four thousand dollars and those who do not.
45 It thus vitiates, in my judgment, by this arbitrary discrimination, the whole legislation. Hamilton says in* 46 one of his papers, (the Continentalist,) "the genius of liberty reprobates everything arbitrary or discretionary in 47 taxation. It exacts that every man, by a definite and general rule, should know what proportion of his property
48 the State demands; whatever liberty we may boast of in theory, it cannot exist in fact while [arbitrary]
49 assessments continue." I Hamilton's Works, ed. 1885, 270. The legislation, in the discrimination it makes, is
50 *class legislation. Whenever a distinction is made in the burdens a law imposes or in the benefits it confers
51 on any citizens by reason of their birth, or wealth, or religion, it is class legislation, and leads inevitably to 52 oppression and abuses, and to general unrest and disturbance in society [e.g. wars, political conflict,
53 violence, anarchy]. It was hoped and believed that the great amendments to the Constitution which followed
54 the late civil war had rendered such legislation impossible for all future time. But the objectionable legislation

1 reappears in the act under consideration. It is the same in essential character as that of the English income
2 statute of 1691, which taxed Protestants at a certain rate, Catholics, as a class, at double the rate of 3 Protestants, and Jews at another and separate rate. Under wise and constitutional legislation every citizen
4 should contribute his proportion, however small the sum, to the support of the government, and it is no kindness
5 to urge any of our citizens to escape from that obligation. If he contributes the smallest mite of his earnings to
6 that purpose he will have a greater regard for the government and more self-respect 597*597 for himself
7 feeling that though he is poor in fact, he is not a pauper of his government. And it is to be hoped that, whatever
8 woes and embarrassments may betide our people, they may never lose their manliness and self-respect. Those 9 qualities preserved, they will ultimately triumph over all reverses of fortune."
10 [Pollock v. Farmers' Loan & Trust Co., 157 U.S. 429 (Supreme Court 1895)]

11 To realistically apply the above biblical prohibitions against contracting with any government so as to eliminate the reversal
12 of roles and destroy the dulocracy, see:

Path to Freedom, Form #09.015
<https://sedm.org/Forms/09-Procs/PathToFreedom.pdf>

13 Section 5 of the above document in particular deals with how to eliminate the dulocracy. Section 5.6 also discusses the 14 above mechanisms.

15 The idea of a present day dulocracy is entirely consistent with the theme of our website, which is the abuse of government
16 franchises and privileges to destroy PRIVATE rights, STEAL private property, promote unhappiness, and inject malice and 17 vitriol into the political process, as documented in:

Government Instituted Slavery Using Franchises, Form #05.030
FORMS PAGE: <https://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>
DIRECT LINK: <https://sedm.org/Forms/05-MemLaw/Franchises.pdf>

18 The U.S. Supreme Court and the Bible both predicted these negative and unintended consequences of the abuse of 19 government franchises, when they said:

20 "Here I close my opinion. I could not say less in view of questions of such gravity that they go down to the very
21 foundations of the government. If the provisions of the Constitution can be set aside by an act of Congress, 22 where is the course of usurpation to end?"

23 The present assault upon capital [THEFT! and WEALTH TRANSFER by unconstitutional CONVERSION of 24 PRIVATE property to PUBLIC property] is but the beginning. It will be but the stepping stone to others
25 larger and more sweeping, until our political contest will become war of the poor against the rich; a war of 26 growing intensity and bitterness."
27 [Pollock v. Farmers' Loan & Trust Co., 157 U.S. 429, 158 U.S. 601 (1895), hearing the case against the first
28 income tax passed by Congress that included people in states of the Union. They declared that first income tax
29 UNCONSTITUTIONAL, by the way]

30
31 "Where do wars and fights come from among you? Do they not come from your desires for pleasure [unearned

42 [James 4:4, Bible, NKJV]

43 The "foundations of the government" spoken of above are PRIVATE property, separation between public and private, and 44 equality of treatment and opportunity, which collectively are called "legal justice", as we point out on our opening page:

45 Our ministry accomplishes the above goals by emphasizing:

1 12. The pursuit of legal “justice” (Form #05.050), which means absolutely owned private property (Form
2 #10.002), and equality of TREATMENT and OPPORTUNITY (Form #05.033) under REAL LAW (Form
3 #05.048). The following would be INJUSTICE, not JUSTICE:

4 12.1 Outlawing or refusing to recognize or enforce absolutely owned private property (Form #12.025).

5 12.2 Imposing equality of OUTCOME by law, such as by abusing taxing powers to redistribute wealth. See
6 Form #11.302.

7 12.3 Any attempt by government to use judicial process or administrative enforcement to enforce any civil
8 obligation derived from any source OTHER than express written consent or to an injury against the equal
9 rights of others demonstrated with court admissible evidence. See Form #09.073 and Form #12.040.

10 12.4 Offering, implementing, or enforcing any civil franchise (Form #05.030). This enforces superior powers
11 on the part of the government as a form of inequality and results in religious idolatry. This includes making
12 justice into a civil public privilege (Form #05.050, Section 13) or turning CONSTITUTIONAL PRIVATE
13 citizens into STATUTORY PUBLIC citizens engaged in a public office and a franchise (Form #05.006).

14 Not only would the above be INJUSTICE, it would outlaw HAPPINESS, because the right to absolutely own
15 private property is equated with “the pursuit of happiness” in the Declaration of Independence, according to 16 the U.S. Supreme Court. See Form #05.050 for the definition of “justice”. Click here to view a video on why
17 all franchises produce selfishness, unhappiness, inequality, and ingratitude.

19 Too many public servants have assumed absolute authority over the people they are supposed to serve. This REVERSAL of 20 roles and making the SERVANTS into the MASTERS was never the intent of the Founding Fathers who established the 21 American governments as republics where the rights of the people are to be paramount and the sovereignty of the 22 governments are limited by the rights of the people. Sovereignty in America is not based on the same premise as
23 sovereignty in Europe. Sovereignty in Europe was based on the notion of the Divine Right of Kings where the king's 24 sovereignty was absolute and the people were his subjects. Sovereignty in America is based on the notion that citizens are 25 endowed by the Creator with unalienable rights and then lend their permission to the governments to carry out certain,
26 limited responsibilities on their behalf. In a republican form of government, the government is never allowed to overstep its 27 authority or trample on the rights of the citizen no matter how egalitarian the political arguments may be.

28 Jesus Himself also emphasized that public SERVANTS should never become RULERS or have superior authority to the 29 people they are supposed to SERVE when He said the following.

30 “You know that the rulers of the Gentiles [unbelievers] lord it over them [govern from ABOVE as pagan idols],
31 and those who are great exercise authority over them [supernatural powers that are the object of idol worship].
32 Yet it shall not be so among you; but whoever desires to become great among you, let him be your 33 servant [serve the sovereign people from BELOW rather than rule from above]. And whoever desires to 34 be first among you, let him be your slave—just as the Son of Man did not come to be served, but to serve,
35 and to give His life a ransom for many.”
36 [Matt. 20:25-28, Bible, NKJV]

37 Notice the word “ransom for many” in the above. This is an admission that Jesus acknowledges that cunning public servant
38 lawyers have KIDNAPPED our legal identity from the protection of God’s law and that legal identity has been transported
39 to a legislatively foreign jurisdiction, the District of Criminals. We exhaustively prove this with evidence in the following 40 memorandum of law:

Government Identity Theft, Form #05.046
<https://sedm.org/Forms/05-MemLaw/GovernmentIdentityTheft.pdf>

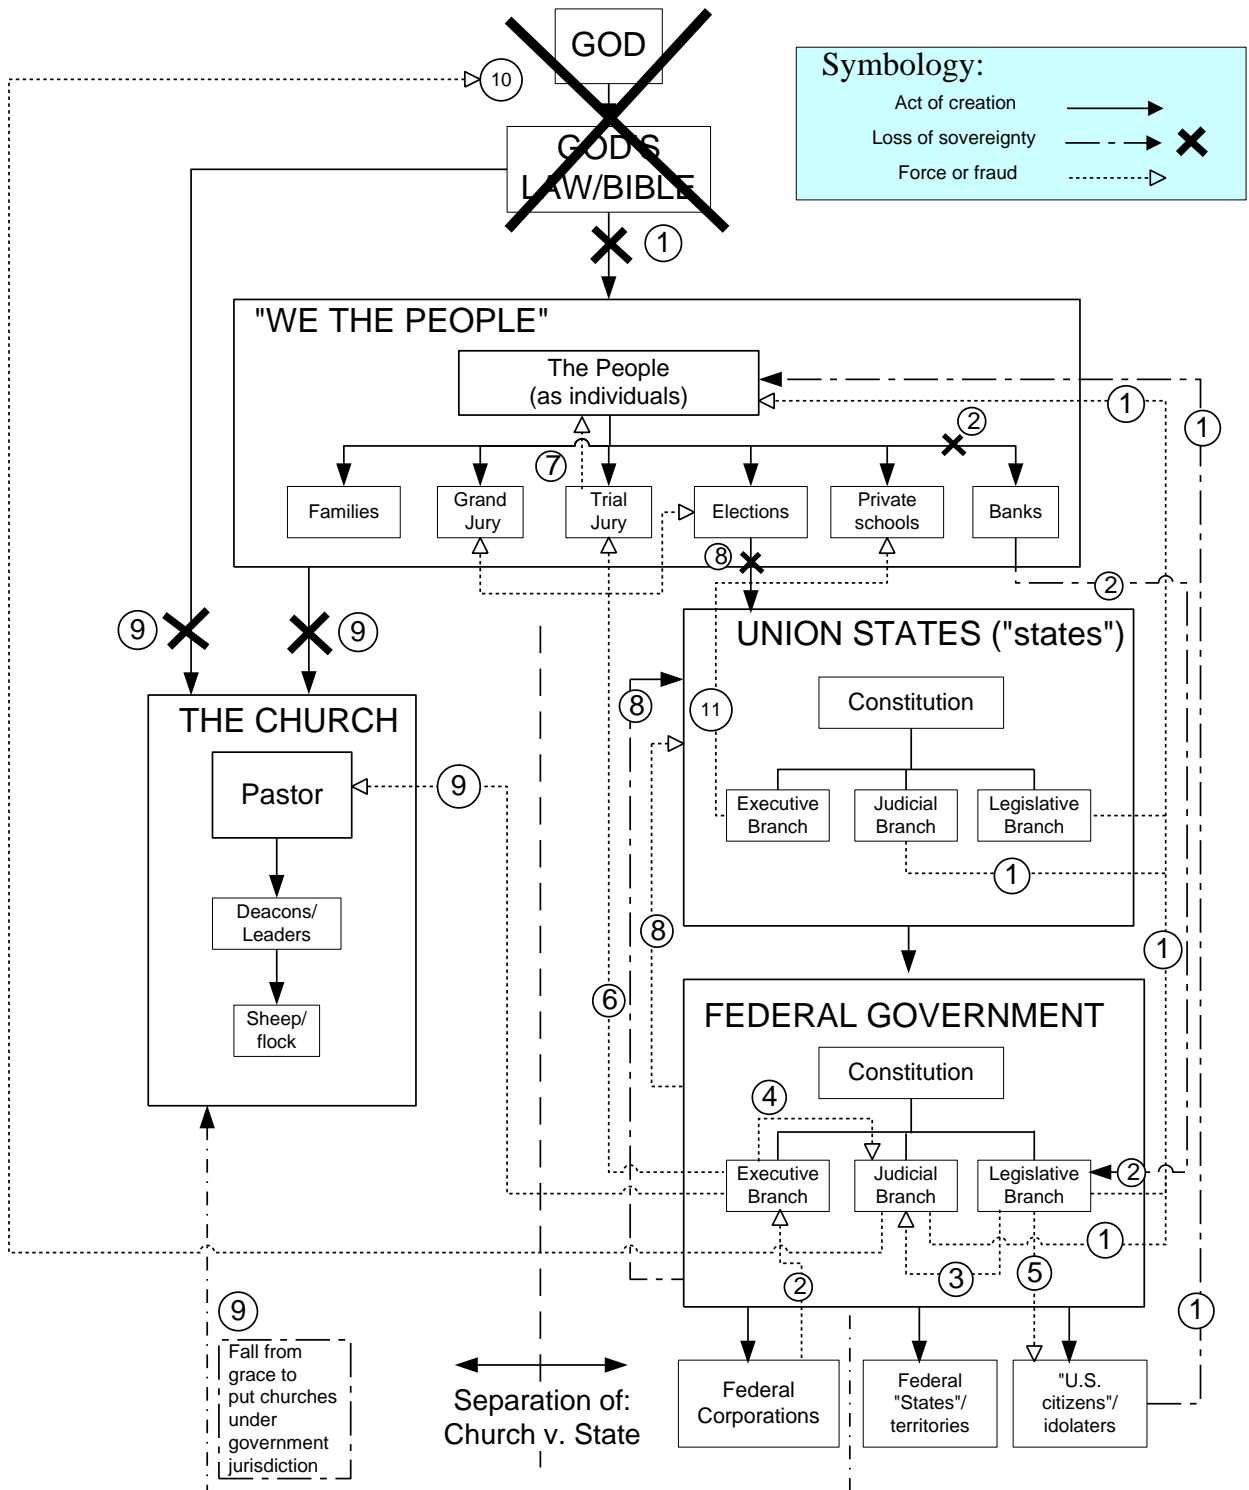

41 Jesus also states in Matt. 20:25-28 that it is the DUTY and obligation of every Christian to fight this corruption of our 42 political system. The Holy Bible is our Delegation of Authority to do precisely this, in fact, and to restore God to His 43 proper role as the ruler of ALL nations and ALL politicians and the only rightful Lawgiver of all human law. That 44 delegation of authority is described in:

Delegation of Authority Order from God to Christians, Form #13.007

1 2.5.3 Graphical Depiction of the Corruption

2 With the above in mind, we will now add all of the corrupting influences accomplished to our system of government over
3 the years. These are shown with dashed lines representing the application of unlawful or immoral force or fraud. The
4 hollow end of each line indicates the sovereign against which the force or fraud is applied. The number above or next to 5 the dotted line indicates the item in the table that follows the diagram which explains each incidence of force or fraud.

(on diagram above)	Year(s)	Acting Sovereignty/ agent	Law(s) violated	Explanation
1	1868	State legislatures State judges Federal legislature Federal judges	18 U.S.C. §241 (conspiracy against rights) Thirteenth Amendment (slavery and peonage) 42 U.S.C. §1994 (peonage) 18 U.S.C. §1581 (peonage/slavery) 18 U.S.C. §2381 (treason)	After the civil war, the 14 th Amendment was passed in 1868. That amendment along with "words of art" were used as a means to deceive constitutional citizens to falsely believe that they were also privileged statutory "U.S. citizens" pursuant to 8 U.S.C. §1401, and thus to unconstitutionally extent federal jurisdiction and enforce federal franchises within states of the Union. The citizenship status described in that amendment was only supposed to apply to emancipated slaves but the federal government in concert with the states confused the law and the interpretation of the law enough that everyone thought they were statutory federal citizens rather than the "non-citizen nationals" immune from federal jurisdiction, which is foreign with respect to states of the Union. This put Americans in the states in a privileged federal status and put them under the jurisdiction of the federal government. At the point that Americans voluntarily and unknowingly accept privileged federal citizenship, they lose their sovereignty and go to the bottom of the sovereignty hierarchy. State courts and state legislatures cooperated in this conspiracy against rights by requiring electors and jurists to be presumed statutory "U.S. citizens" in order to serve. At the same time, they didn't define the term "U.S. citizen" in their election laws or voter registration, creating a "presumption" in favor of people believing that they are statutory "citizens of the United States", even though technically they are not.
2	1913	Corporations/ businesses/and special interests	18 U.S.C. §201 (bribery of public officials) Const. Art. 1, Sect. 2, Clause 3 (direct taxes) Const. Art. 1, Sect. 9, Clause 4 (direct taxes) 18 U.S.C. §219 (government employees acting as agents of foreign principals-Federal Reserve)	Around the turn of the century, the gilded age created a lot of very wealthy people and big corporations. The corrupting influence of the money they had lead them to dominate the U.S. senate and the Republican party., which was the majority party at the time. The people became restless because they were paying most of the taxes indirectly via tariffs on imported goods while the big corporations were paying very little. This lead to a vote by Congress to send the new Sixteenth Amendment to the states for ratification. Corporations heavily influenced this legislation so that it would favor taxing individuals instead of corporations, which lead the Republicans in the Senate to word the Amendment ambiguously so that it could or would be misconstrued to apply to natural persons instead of the corporations it was really intended to apply to by the American people. This created much subsequent litigation and confusion on the part of the Average American about exactly what the taxing powers of Congress are, and gave Congressman a lot of wiggle room to misrepresent the purpose of the Sixteenth Amendment to their constituents. Today, Congressmen use the ambiguity of the Amendment to regularly lie to their Constituents by saying that the "Sixteenth Amendment" authorizes Congress to tax the income of every American. This is an absolute lie and is completely inconsistent with the rulings of the U.S. Supreme Court. Courts below the Supreme Court have also used the same ambiguity mechanism to expand the operation of the income tax beyond its clearly limited application to the federal zone. During the same year as the Sixteenth Amendment was ratified, in 1913, the Congress also passed the Federal Reserve Act immediately after the Sixteenth Amendment. By doing this, they surrendered their control over the money system to a consortium of private banks. The Sixteenth Amendment was passed first in February of 1913 because it was the lender-security for the Non-Federal Reserve that would be needed to create a "credit line" and collateral. The Federal Reserve Act was passed in December of that same year. At that point, the Congress had an unlimited private credit line from commercial banks and a means to print as much money as they wanted in order to fund socialist expansion of the government. But remember that the bible says: "The rich ruleth over the poor, and the borrower [is] servant to the lender." [Prov. 22:7]
3	1911-1939	Federal legislature	28 U.S.C. §144 (conflict of interest of federal judges) 28 U.S.C. §455 (conflict of interest of federal judges)	In 1911, the U.S. Congress passed the Judicial Code of 1911 and thereby made all District and Circuit courts into entirely administrative courts which had jurisdiction over only the federal zone. All the federal courts except the U.S. Supreme Court changed character from being Article III courts to Article IV territorial courts only. All the district courts were renamed from "District Court of the United States" to "United States District Court". The Supreme Court said in Balzac v. Porto Rico , 258 U.S. 298 (1922) that the "United States District Court" is an Article IV territorial court, not an Article III constitutional court. Consequently, all the federal courts excepting the Supreme Court became administrative courts that were part of the Executive rather than the Judicial Branch of the government and all the judges became Executive Branch employees. See our article " Authorities on Jurisdiction of Federal Courts " (http://famguardian.org/Subjects/LawAndGovt/ChallJurisdiction/AuthoritiesArticle/AuthOnJurisdiction.htm) for further

				details. The Revenue Act of 1932 then tried to apply income taxes against federal judges. The purpose was to put them under complete control of the Executive Branch through terrorism and extortion by the IRS. This was litigated by the Supreme Court in 1932 in the case of O'Malley v. Woodrough, 309 U.S. 277 (1939) just before the war started. The court ruled that the Executive Branch couldn't unilaterally modify the terms of their employment contracts, so they rewrote the tax law to go around it subsequent to that by only taxing NEW federal judges and leaving the existing ones alone so as not to violate the Constitutional prohibition against reducing judges salaries. Since that time, federal judges have been beholden to the greed and malice of the Legislative branch because they are under IRS control. This occurred at a time when we had a very popular socialist President who threatened the Supreme Court if they didn't go along with his plan to replace capitalism with socialism, starting with Social Security. President Roosevelt tried to retire all the U.S. Supreme Court justices and then double the size of the court and pack the court with all of his own socialist cronies in a famous coup called "The Roosevelt Supreme Court Packing Plan".
4	1939- Present	Federal executive branch	28 U.S.C. §144 (conflict of interest of federal judges) 28 U.S.C. §455 (conflict of interest of federal judges) Separation of powers Doctrine	Right after the Supreme Court case of O'Malley v. Woodrough in 1939, the U.S. Congress wasted no time in passing a new Revenue Act that skirted the findings of the Supreme Court's that declared income taxes levied against them to be unconstitutional. In effect, they made the payment of income taxes by federal judges an implied part of their employment agreement as "appointed officers" of the United States government in receipt of federal privileges. Once the judges were under control of the IRS, they could be terrorized and plundered if they did not cooperate with the enforcement of federal income taxes. This also endowed all federal judges with an implied conflict of interest in violation of 28 U.S.C. §455 and 28 U.S.C. §144
5	1939- Present	Federal legislative branch	Const. Art. 1, Sect. 2, Clause 3 Const. Art. 1, Sect. 9, Clause 4 18 U.S.C. §1589(3) (forced labor)	The Revenue Act of 1939 passed by the U.S. Congress instituted a very oppressive income tax to fund the upcoming World War II effort. It was called the "Victory Tax" and it was a voluntary withholding effort, but after the war and after people on a large scale got used to sending their money to Washington, D.C. every month through payroll withholding, the politicians cleverly decided not to tell them the truth that it was voluntary. The politicians then began rewriting the tax laws to further confuse and deceive people and hide the truth about the voluntary nature of the income tax. This included the Internal Revenue Codes of 1954 and 1986, which were major updates of the IRC that further hid the truth from the legal profession and added so much complexity to the tax laws that no one even understands them anymore.
6	1950- Present	Federal executive branch	18 U.S.C. §597 (expenditures to influence voting) 18 U.S.C. §872 (extortion) 18 U.S.C. §880 (receiving the proceeds of extortion) 18 U.S.C. §1957 (Engaging in monetary transactions in property derived from specified unlawful activity)	Federal government uses income tax revenues after World War II to begin socialist subsidies, starting with Lyndon Johnson's "Great Society" plan. Instead of paying off the war debt and ending the income tax like we did after the Civil war in 1872, the government adopted socialism and borrowed itself into a deep hole, following the illustrious example of Franklin Roosevelt's "New Deal" program. This socialist expansion was facilitated by the enactment of the Federal Reserve Act of 1913, which gave the government unlimited borrowing power. The income tax, however, had to continue because it was the "lender security" for the PRIVATE Federal Reserve banking trust that was creating all this debt and fake money. The income tax had the effect of making all Americans into surety for government debts they never authorized. The Civil Rights movement of the 1960's accelerated the growth of the socialist cancer to cause voters to abuse their power to elect politicians who would subsidize and expand the welfare-state concept. "Democracy has never been and never can be so desirable as aristocracy or monarchy, but while it lasts, is more bloody than either. Remember, democracy never lasts long. It soon wastes, exhausts, and murders itself. There never was a democracy that never did commit suicide." [John Adams, 1815]

				who does not allow evidence to be admitted that would be prejudicial to government (or his retirement check) and who makes cases unpublished where the government lost on income tax issues. Because these same jurists were also educated in public schools, they are easily lead like sheep to do the government's dirty work of plundering their fellow citizens by upholding a tax that is actually voluntary. The result is slavery of wage earners and the rich to the IRS. The war of the "have-nots" and the "haves" using the taxing authority of the government continues on and expands.
8	1960- Present	Federal government	18 U.S.C. §873 (blackmail)	The federal government begins using income tax revenues and socialist welfare programs to manipulate the states. For instance: 1. They made it mandatory for states to require people getting drivers licenses to provide a Socialist Security Number or their welfare subsidies would be cut off. 2. They encourage states to require voters and jurists to be "U.S. citizens" in order to serve these functions so that they would also be put under federal jurisdiction. 3. They mandate that all persons receiving welfare benefits or unemployment benefits that include federal subsidies to have Socialist Security Numbers.
9	1980's- Present	Federal executive branch	18 U.S.C. §208 (conflict of interest) 18 U.S.C. §872 (extortion) 18 U.S.C. §876 (mailing threatening communications)	IRS abuses its power to manipulate and silence churches that speak out about government abuses or are politically active. This has the effect of making the churches politically irrelevant forces in our society so that the government would have no competition for the affections and the allegiance of the people.
10	1960- Present	Federal judicial branch	God's laws (bible)	Federal judiciary eliminates God and prayer in the schools. This leaves kids in a spiritual vacuum. Drugs, sex, teenage pregnancy run rampant. Families begin breaking apart. God is blasphemed. Single parents raise an increasing number of kids and these children don't have the balance they need in the family to have proper sex roles. Gender identity crisis and psychology problems result, causing homosexuality to run rampant. This further accelerates the breakdown of the family because these dysfunctional kids have dysfunctional families of their own. Because God is not in the schools, eventually the people begin to reject God as well. This expands the power of government because when the people aren't governed by God, they are ruled by tyrants and become peasants and serfs eventually. That is how the Israelites ended up in bondage to the Egyptians: because they would not serve God or trust him for their security. They wanted a big powerful Egyptian government to take care of them and be comfortable and safe, which was idolatry toward government.
11	2000- Present	State executive branch	18 U.S.C. §208 (acts affecting a personal financial interest)	The state executive branches abuse their power to set very high licensing requirements for home schools and private schools, backed by teacher's unions and contributions of these unions to their political campaigns. Licensing requirements become so high that only public schools have the capital to comply, virtually eliminating private and home schooling. Teachers and inferior environment in public schools further contributes to bad education and liberal socialist values, further eroding sovereignty of the people and making them easy prey for sly politicians who want to enslave them with more unjust laws and expand their fiefdom. Government continues to grow in power and rights and liberties simultaneously erode further.

1 After our corrupt politicians are finished socially re-engineering our system of government using the tax code and a
2 corrupted federal judiciary, below is what happens to our original republican government system. This is what we refer to
3 as the “De facto U.S. Government”. It has replaced our “De jure U.S. Government” not through operation of law, but
4 through fraud, force, and corruption. One of our readers calls this new architecture for social organization “The New 5 Civil Religion of Socialism”, where the collective will of the majority or whatever the judge says is sovereign, not God, and
6 is the object of worship and servitude in courtrooms all over the country, who are run by devil-worshipping modern-day
7 monarchs called “judges”. These tyrants wear black-ropes and chant in Latin and perform exorcism on hand-cuffed
8 subjects to remove imaginary “demons” from the people that are defined by majority vote among a population of criminals
9 (by God’s law), homosexuals, drug abusers, adulterers, and atheists. The vilification of these demons are also legislated
10 into existence with “judge-made law”, which is engineered to maximize litigation and profits to the legal industry. The 11 legal industry, in turn, has been made into a part of the government because it is licensed and regulated by government.
12 This profession “worships” the judge as an idol and is comprised of golf and law school buddies and fellow members of the 13 American Bar Association, who hobnob with the judge and do whatever he says or risk having their attorney license pulled.
14 In this totalitarian socialist democracy/oligarchy shown below, the people have no inalienable or God-given individual
15 rights, but only statutory “privileges” and franchises granted by the will of the majority that are excise taxable. After all,
16 when God and Truth are demoted to being a selfish creation of man and a politically correct vain fantasy, then the concept
17 of “divine right” vanishes entirely from our political system.

In the above diagram, all people in receipt of federal funds stolen through illegally collected or involuntarily paid federal income taxes effectively become federal "employees". They identified themselves as such when they filed their W-4 payroll withholding form, which is a contract that says on the top "Employee Withholding Allowance Certificate". The Internal Revenue Code identifies "employee" to mean someone who works for the federal government in 26 U.S.C. §3401(c). These federal "employees" are moral and spiritual "whores" and "harlots". They are just like Judas or Essau...they exchanged the Truth for a lie and liberty for slavery and they did it mainly for money and personal security. They are:

Federal Jurisdiction

1. So concerned about avoiding being terrorized by their government or the IRS for “making waves”.
2. So immobilized by their own fear and ignorance that they don’t dare do anything.
3. So addicted to sin and other unhealthy distractions that they don’t have the time to do justice.
4. So poor that they can’t afford a expensive lawyer to be able to right the many wrongs imposed on them by a corrupted government. Justice is a luxury that only the rich can afford in our society.
5. So legally ignorant, thanks to our public “fool”, I mean “school” system that they aren’t able to right their wrongs on their own in court without a lawyer.
6. So afraid of corrupt judges and lawyers who are bought and paid for with money that they stole from hardworking Americans in illegally enforcing what is actually a voluntary Subtitle A income against those who in fact and indeed can only be described per the law as “nontaxpayers”
7. So unable to take care of their own needs because:
 - 7.1. Most of their money has been plundered by a government unable and unwilling to control its spending.
 - 7.2. They have allowed themselves to depend too much on government and allowed too much of their own hard-earned money to be stolen from them.
 - 7.3. They spent everything they had and went deep in debt to buy things they didn't need.
8. So covetous of that government welfare or socialist security or unemployment check or paycheck that comes in the mail every month.

...that they wouldn’t dare upset the apple cart or try to right the many wrongs that maintain the status quo by doing justice as a voter or jurist. As long as they get their socialist handout and they live comfortably on the “loot” their “Parens Patriae”, or “Big Brother” sends them, they don’t care that massive injustice is occurring in courtrooms and at the IRS every day and that they are sanctioning, aiding, and abetting that injustice as voters and jurists with a financial conflict of interest in criminal violation of 18 U.S.C. §§201 and 208. In effect, they are bribed to look the other way while their own government loots and oppresses their neighbor and then uses that loot to buy votes and influence.

[Exodus 20:15, Bible, NKJV]

“For all the law is fulfilled in one word, even in this: “You shall love your neighbor as yourself.”
[Gal 5:14, Bible, NKJV]

Would you rob your neighbor? No you say? Well then, would you look the other way while someone else robs him in your name? Government is YOUR AGENT. If government robs your neighbor, God will hold you, not the agent who did it for you, personally responsible, because government is your agent. God put you in charge of your government and you are the steward. Frederic Bastiat described the nature of this horrible corruption of the system in the following book on our website:

The Law, by Frederic Bastiat
<http://famguardian.org/Publications/TheLaw/TheLaw.htm>

If you want to know what the above type of government is like spiritually, economically, and politically, read the first-hand accounts in the Book of Judges found in the Bible. Corruption, sin, servitude, violence, and wars characterize this notable and most ignominious period and “social experiment” as documented in the Bible. Now do you understand why God’s law mandates that we serve ONLY Him and not be slaves of man or government? When we don’t, the above totalitarian socialist democracy/tyranny is the result, where politicians and judges in government become the only sovereign and the people are there to bow down to and “worship” and serve an evil and corrupt government as slaves.

2.5.4 God's Remedy for the Corruption

Below is the way God himself describes the corrupted dilemma we find ourselves in because we have abandoned the path laid by our founding fathers, as described in Isaiah 1:1-26:

*Alas, sinful nation,
A people laden with iniquity
A brood of evildoers
Children who are corrupters!
They have forsaken the Lord
They have provoked to anger
The Holy One of Israel,*

1 They have turned away backward.
2 Why should you be stricken again?
3 You will revolt more and more.
4 The whole head is sick [they are out of their minds!: insane or STUPID or both].
5 And the whole heart faints....

6 Wash yourselves, make yourselves clean;
7 Put away the evil of your doings from before My eyes.
8 Cease to do evil.
9 Learn to do good;
10 Seek justice.
11 Rebuke the oppressor [the IRS and the Federal Reserve and a corrupted judicial system];
12 Defend the fatherless.
13 Plead for the widow [and the "nontaxpayer"]....

14 How the faithful city has become a harlot!
15 It [the Constitutional Republic] was full of justice;
16 Righteousness lodged in it.
17 But now murderers [and abortionists, and socialists, and democrats, and liars and corrupted judges].
18 Your silver has become dross,
19 Your wine mixed with water.
20 Your princes [President, Congressmen, Judges] are rebellious.
21 Everyone loves bribes,
22 And follows after rewards.
23 They do not defend the fatherless,
24 nor does the cause of the widow [or the "nontaxpayer"] come before them.

25 Therefore the Lord says,
26 The Lord of hosts, the Mighty One of Israel,
27 "Ah, I will rid Myself of My adversaries,
28 And take vengeance on My enemies.
29 I will turn My hand against you,
30 And thoroughly purge away your dross,
31 And take away your alloy.
32 I will restore your judges [eliminate the BAD judges] as at the first,
33 And your counselors [eliminate the BAD lawyers] as at the beginning.
34 Afterward you shall be called the city of righteousness, the faithful city."
35 [Isaiah 1:1-26, Bible, NKJV]

36 So according to the Bible, the real problem is corrupted lawyers and judges and people who are after money and rewards. .
37 For evidence of exactly what about them he thinks became corrupted, see:

Who Were the Pharisees and Saducees?, Form #05.047
<https://sedm.org/Forms/05-MemLaw/WhoWerePharisees.pdf>

38 God furthermore says in the Isaiah scripture above that the way to fix the corruption and graft is to eliminate the bad
39 judges and lawyers. Whose job is that? It is the even more corrupted Congress! (see 28 U.S.C. §134(a) and 28 U.S.C.
40 §44(b))

41 "O My people! Those who lead you cause you to err,
42 And destroy the way of your paths."
43 [Isaiah 3:12, Bible, NKJV]

44 "The king establishes the land by justice; but he who receives bribes [or government "benefits", if paid to 45 voters, jurists, judges, or prosecutors] overthrows it."
46 [Prov. 29:4, Bible, NKJV]

47 Can thieves and corrupted judges and lawyers and jurors, who are all bribed with unlawfully collected monies they lust
48 after in the pursuit of socialist benefits, reform themselves if left to their own devices?

49 "When you [the jury] saw a thief [the corrupted judges and lawyers paid with extorted and stolen tax money],
50 you consented with him, And have been a partaker with adulterers."
51 [Psalm 50:18, Bible, NKJV]

52 "The people will be oppressed.
53 Every one by another and every one by his [socialist] neighbor [sitting on a jury who

1 was indoctrinated and brainwashed in a government school to trust government;

2 The child will be insolent toward the elder,
3 And the base toward the honorable."

4 [Isaiah 3:5, Bible, NKJV]

5 "It must be conceded that there are rights [and property] in every free government beyond the control of the 6 State [or any judge or jury]. A government which recognized no such rights, which held the lives, liberty and
7 property of its citizens, subject at all times to the disposition and unlimited control of even the most democratic
8 depository of power, is after all a despotism. It is true that it is a despotism of the many--of the majority, if you
9 choose to call it so--but it is not the less a despotism."

10 Loan Ass'n v. Topeka, [87 U.S. \(20 Wall.\) 655, 665 (1874)]

11 The answer is an emphatic no. It is up to We The People as the sovereigns in charge of our lawless government to right
12 this massive injustice because a corrupted legislature and judiciary and the passive socialist voters in charge of the 13 government today simply cannot remedy their own addiction to the money that was stolen from their neighbor by the
14 criminals they elected into office. These elected representatives were supposed to be elected to serve and protect the 15 people, but they have become the worst abusers of the people because they only got into politics and government for selfish
16 reasons. Notice we didn't say they got into "public service", because we would be lying to call it that. It would be more
17 accurate to call what they do "self service" instead of "public service". One of our readers has a name for these kinds of 18 people. He calls them SLAT: Scum, Liars, and Thieves. If you add up all the drug money, all the stolen property, all the 19 white collar crime together, it would all pale in comparison to the "extortion under the color of law" that our own de facto
20 government is instituting against its own people. If we solve no crime problem other than that one problem, then the 21 government will have done the most important thing it can do to solve our crime problem and probably significantly reduce
22 the prison population at the same time. There are lots of people in jail who were put there wrongfully for income tax
23 crimes that aren't technically even crimes. These people were maliciously prosecuted by a corrupted Satan worshipping
24 DOJ with the complicity of a corrupted judiciary and they MUST be freed because they have become slaves and political 25 prisoners of a corrupted state for the sake of statutes that operate as the equivalent of a "civil religion" and which are not
26 and cannot be law in their case. That's right: the corrupted state has erected a counterfeit church and religion that is a cheap
27 imitation of God's design complete with churches, prayers, priests, deacons, tithes, and even its own "Bible" (franchise) and 28 they have done so in violation of the First Amendment. The nature of that civil religion is exhaustively described below:

Socialism: The New American Civil Religion, Form #05.016

FORMS PAGE: <http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm> (OFFSITE)

29 Why does God describe the source of the corruption as bad lawyers and judges instead of the people accepting the 30 franchises as "Buyers", you might ask? The answer is that:

31 1. The Constitution and the Declaration of Independence recognize natural rights as INALIENABLE. See

Unalienable Rights Course, Form #12.038

<https://sedm.org/LibertyU/UnalienableRights.pdf>

- 32 2. An INALIENABLE right is one that YOU AREN'T ALLOWED BY LAW to consent \(Form #05.003\) to give away.
33 3. If you can't even lawfully consent \(Form #05.003\) to give away the right, then you can never lose it or contract it away
34 by participating in a government franchise \(Form #05.030\) or accepting a loan of government property.
35 4. The fact that judges and lawyers ALLOW inalienable rights \(Form #12.038\) to be given away in a place where they 36 aren't allowed to be given away is a sign that they love money and enhancing their own power more than they love
37 freedom or the Constitution.
38 5. Because they love money and power more than they love freedom and obeying the constitution, they are committing 39 treason punishable by death in violation of 18 U.S.C. §2381 and serving Satan himself.

40 Below is how we explain this conundrum in our Disclaimer:

2.5.5 De Jure v. De Facto Government

We will now close this section with a tabular summary that compares our original "de jure" government to the "de facto" government that we presently suffer under. This corrupted "de facto" government only continues to exist because of our passive and tolerant approach towards the illegal activities of the government servants. We can fix this if we really want to, folks. Let's do it!

Table 2: Comparison of our "De jure" v. "De facto" government

#	Type of Separation of Powers	De jure government	De facto government
1	Separation of Church and State	Government has no power to control or regulate the political activities of churches	IRS 501(c) designation allows government to remove tax exemption from churches if they get politically involved
2	Separation of Money and State	Only lawful money is gold and the value of the dollar is tied to gold. Government can't manufacture more gold so they can't abuse their power to coin money to enrich themselves.	Fiat currency is Federal Reserve Notes (FRNs). Government can print any amount of these it wants and thereby enrich itself and steal from the those who hold dollars by lowering the value of the dollars in circulation (inflation)
3	Separation of Marriage and State	People getting married did not have marriage licenses from the state. Instead, the ceremony was exclusively ecclesiastical and it was recorded only in the family Bible and church records.	Pastor acts as an agent of both God and the state. He performs the ceremony and is also licensed by the state to sign the state marriage license. Churches force members getting married to obtain state marriage license by saying they won't marry them without a state-issued marriage license.
4	Separation of School and State	Schools were rural and remote and most were private or religious. There were very few public schools and a large percentage of the population was home-schooled.	Most student go to public schools. They are dumbed-down by the state to be good serfs/sheep by being told they are "taxpayers" and being shown in high school how to fill out a tax return without even being shown how to balance a check book. They are taught that government is the sovereign and not the people, and that people should obey the government.
5	Separation of State and Federal government	States control the Senate and all legislation and taxation internal to a state. Federal government controls only foreign commerce in the form of imposts, excises, and duties under Article 1, Section 8, Clause 3 of the Constitution.	Federal government receives lions share of income taxes over both internal and external trade. It redistributes the proceeds from these taxes to the socialist states, who are coerced to modify their laws in compliance with federal dictates in order to get their fair share of this stolen “loot”.

6	Separation between branches of government: Executive, Legislative, Judicial	Three branches of government are entirely independent and not controlled by other branches.	Judges are “employees” of the executive branch and have a conflict of interest because they are beholden to IRS extortion. Executive controls the illegal tax collection activities of the IRS and dictates to other branches it’s tax policy through illegal IRS extortion. Using the IRS, Executive becomes the “Gestapo” that controls everything and everyone. Congress and the courts refuse to reform this extortion because they benefit most financially by it.
7	Separation of Commerce and State	Federal government regulates only foreign commerce of corporations. States regulate all internal commerce. Private individuals have complete privacy and are not regulated because they don’t have Socialist Security Numbers and are not monitored by the IRS Gestapo. Banks are independent and do not have to participate in a national banking system so they don’t coerce their depositors to bet government-issued numbers nor do they snoop/spy on their depositors as an agent of the IRS Gestapo. Private employers are not regulated or monitored by federal Gestapo and their contracts with their employees are private and sacred.	All credit issued by a central, private Federal Reserve consortium. Federal Reserve rules coerce private banks to illegally enforce federal laws in states of the Union that only apply in the federal zone. Namely, they force depositors to have Socialist Security Numbers and they report all currency transactions over $3,000 to the Dept of the Treasury (CTR’s). “Spying” on financial affairs citizens by government makes citizens afraid of IRS and government and coerces them to illegally pay income taxes by government. Employers are coerced to enslave their employees to IRS through wage reporting and withholding, often against the will of employees.
8	Separation of Media and State	Press was free to report as they saw fit under the First Amendment. Most newspapers were small-town newspapers and were private and independent.	Television, radio, the internet, and corporations have taken over the media and concentrated control of it to the hands of a very few huge and “privileged” corporations that are in bed with the federal and state governments. Media is no longer independent, and broadcasters don’t dare cross the government for fear of either losing their FCC license, being subjected to an IRS audit, or having their government sponsorship revoked.
9	Separation of	Families were completely separate from the state.	Using income taxes, mom was

	Family and State	Private individuals were not subject to direct taxation or regulation by either state or federal government. No Socialist Security Numbers and no government surveillance of private commerce by individuals. Women stayed home and out of the workforce. Men dominated the political and commercial landscape and also defended their family from encroachments by government. Children were home-schooled and worked on the farm. They inherited the republican values of their parents. Morality was taught by the churches and there was an emphasis on personal responsibility, modesty, manners, respect, and humility.	removed from the home to enter the workforce so she could replace the income stolen from dad by the IRS through illegal enforcement of the tax laws. Conflict over money breaks families down and divorce rate reaches epidemic proportions. Children are neglected by their parents because parents both have to work full-time and duke it out with each other in divorce court. Majority of children raised in single parent homes. Television and a liberal media dominates and distorts the thoughts and minds of the children. Public schools filled with homosexuals and liberals, many of whom have no children of their own, teach our children to be selfish, rebellious, sexually promiscuous, homosexual drug-abusers. Pornography invades the home through the internet, cable-TV, and video rentals, creating a negative fixation on sex. Television interferes with family communication so that children are alienated from their parents so that they do not inherit good morals or respect for authority from their parents.. Crime rate and prison population reaches unprecedented levels. Citizens therefore lose their ability to govern themselves and the legal field and government come in and take over their lives.
10	Separation of Charity and State	Churches and families were responsible for charity. When a person was old or became unemployed, members of the church or family would take them. Personal responsibility and morality within churches and families would encourage them to improve their lives.	Monolithic, huge, and terribly inefficient government bureaucracies replace families and churches as major source of charity. These bureaucracies have no idea what personal responsibility is and are not allowed to talk about morality because they are not allowed to talk about God. Generations of people grow up under this welfare umbrella without every having to take responsibility for themselves, and these people abuse their voting power to perpetuate it. Supremacy of families and churches is eliminated and government

			becomes the new “god” for everyone to worship. See Jeremiah 2:26-28.
11	Separation of Public and Private Property	All property is presumed to be absolutely owned, private, and not subject to state or public or government control. This is the foundation of the Fifth Amendment protection for private property. See: Separation Between Public and Private Course, Form #12.025 .	Corrupt and covetous public servants implement socialism, where all property is presumed to be absolutely owned by the government, and everyone is a BORROWER of said property with conditions. Those conditions are called "franchises", and government can regulate and control ANYONE and ANYTHING it wants. See Government Instituted Slavery Using Franchises, form #05.030 .

11 3 Choice of Law Rules

12 The term “choice of law” describes the process that judges and attorneys must use in deciding which laws to apply to a
13 particular case or controversy before them. In our country, there are 52 unique and distinct state and federal sovereignties
14 that are “foreign” with respect to each other, each with their own laws, courts, and penal systems. When legal disputes
15 arise, the task of deciding which laws from which of these sovereignties may be applied to decide a case is the very first 16 step in resolving the crime or controversy. These “choice of law” rules are described in the following additional valuable 17 resource:

Conflicts in a Nutshell, David D. Seigel, West Publishing, 1994, ISBN 0-314-02952-4

18 3.1 Itemized list of choice of law rules

19 The following list summarizes the “choice of law” rules applying to litigation in federal court:

- 20 1. Federal district and circuit courts are administrative franchise courts created under the authority of Article 4, Section 3, 21 Clause 2 of the Constitution and which have jurisdiction only over the following:
 - 22 1.1. Plenary/General jurisdiction over federal territory: Implemented primarily through “public law” and applies 23 generally to all persons and things. This is a requirement of “equal protection” found in 42 U.S.C. §1981.
24 Operates upon:
 - 25 1.1.1. The District of Columbia under Article 1, Section 8, Clause 17 of the U.S. Constitution.
 - 26 1.1.2. Federal territories and possessions under Article 4, Section 3, Clause 3 of the U.S. Constitution.
 - 27 1.1.3. Special maritime jurisdiction (admiralty) in territorial waters under the exclusive jurisdiction of the 28 general/federal government.
 - 29 1.1.4. Federal areas within states of the Union ceded to the federal government. Federal judicial districts consist 30 entirely of the federal territory within the exterior boundaries of the district, and do not encompass land not ceded to the federal government as required by 40 U.S.C. §255 and its successors, 40 U.S.C. §3111 and 3112. See section 6.4 of the Tax Fraud Prevention Manual, Form #06.008 et seq for further details.

1.1.5. Domiciliaries of the federal United States temporarily abroad. See 26 U.S.C. §911 and Cook v. Tait, 265 U.S. 47, 44 S.Ct. 447, 11 Virginia Law Review, 607 (1924).

1.2. Subject matter jurisdiction:

1.2.1. “Public laws” which operate throughout the states of the Union upon the following subjects:

1.2.1.1. Excise taxes upon imports from foreign countries. See Article 1, Section 8, Clause 1 of the U.S. Constitution. Congress may NOT, however, tax any article exported from a state pursuant to Article 1, Section 9, Clause 5 of the Constitution. Other than these subject matters, NO national taxes are authorized:

“The States, after they formed the Union, continued to have the same range of taxing power which they had before, barring only duties affecting exports, imports, and on tonnage. 2 Congress, on the other hand, to lay taxes in order ‘to pay the Debts and provide for the common Defence and general Welfare of the United States’, Art. 1, Sec. 8, U.S.C.A.Const., can reach every person and every dollar in the land with due regard to Constitutional limitations as to the method of laying taxes.”

“The difficulties arising out of our dual form of government and the opportunities for differing opinions concerning the relative rights of state and national governments are many; but for a very long time this court has steadfastly adhered to the doctrine that the taxing power of Congress does not extend to the states or their political subdivisions. The same basic reasoning which leads to that conclusion, we think, requires like limitation upon the power which springs from the bankruptcy clause. United States v. Butler, supra.”
Ashton v. Cameron County Water Improvement District No. 1, [298 U.S. 513; 56 S.Ct. 892 (1936)]

“Thus, Congress having power to regulate commerce with foreign nations, and among the several States, and with the Indian tribes, may, without doubt, provide for granting coasting licenses, licenses to pilots, licenses to trade with the Indians, and any other licenses necessary or proper for the exercise of that great and extensive power; and the same observation is applicable to every other power of Congress, to the exercise of which the granting of licenses may be incident. All such licenses confer authority, and give rights to the licensee.

But very different considerations apply to the internal commerce or domestic trade of the States. Over this commerce and trade Congress has no power of regulation nor any direct control. This power belongs exclusively to the States. No interference by Congress with the business of citizens transacted within a State is warranted by the Constitution, except such as is strictly incidental to the exercise of powers clearly granted to the legislature. The power to authorize a business within a State is plainly repugnant to the exclusive power of the State over the same subject. It is true that the power of Congress to tax is a very extensive power. It is given in the Constitution, with only one exception and only two qualifications. Congress cannot tax exports, and it must impose direct taxes by the rule of apportionment, and indirect taxes by the rule of uniformity. Thus limited, and thus only, it reaches every subject, and may be exercised at discretion. But, it reaches only existing subjects. Congress cannot authorize a trade or business within a State in order to tax it.”
License Tax Cases, [72 U.S. 462, 18 L.Ed. 497, 5 Wall. 462, 2 A.F.T.R. 2224 (1866)]

- 1.2.1.2. Postal fraud. See Article 1, Section 8, Clause 7 of the U.S. Constitution..
- 1.2.1.3. Counterfeiting under Article 1, Section 8, Clause 6 of the U.S. Constitution.
- 1.2.1.4. Treason under Article 4, Section 2, Clause 3 of the U.S. Constitution.
- 1.2.1.5. Interstate commercial crimes under Article 1, Section 8, Clause 3 of the U.S. Constitution.
- 1.2.1.6. Jurisdiction over naturalization and exportation of Constitutional aliens.
- 1.2.1.7. Slavery, involuntary servitude, or peonage under the Thirteenth Amendment, 42 U.S.C. §1994, 18 U.S.C. §1581. and 18 U.S.C. §1589(3).

“Other authorities to the same effect might be cited. It is not open to doubt that Congress may enforce the Thirteenth Amendment by direct legislation, punishing the holding of a person in slavery or in involuntary servitude except as a punishment for a crime. In the exercise of that power Congress has enacted these sections denouncing peonage, and punishing one who holds another in that condition of involuntary servitude. This legislation is not limited to the territories or other parts of the strictly national domain, but is operative in the states and wherever the sovereignty of the United States extends. We entertain no doubt of the validity of this legislation, or of its applicability to the case of any person holding another in

1 a state of peonage, and this whether there be municipal ordinance or state law sanctioning such holding.
2 It operates directly on every citizen of the Republic, wherever his residence may be.
3 [Clyatt v. U.S., 197 U.S. 207 (1905)]

4 1.2.2. "Private law" or "special law" pursuant to Article 4, Section 3, Clause 2 of the U.S. Constitution. Applies
5 only to persons and things who individually consent through private agreement or contract. Note that this
6 jurisdiction also includes contracts with states of the Union and private individuals in those states. Includes,
7 but is not limited exclusively to the following:

8 1.2.2.1. Federal franchises, such as Social Security, Medicare, etc. See:

Government Instituted Slavery Using Franchises, Form #05.030
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

9 1.2.2.2. Federal employees, as described in Title 5 of the U.S. Code.

10 1.2.2.3. Federal contracts and "public offices".

11 1.2.2.4. Federal chattel property.

12 1.2.2.5. Internal Revenue Code, Subtitle A.

13 1.2.2.6. Social Security, found in 42 U.S.C. Chapter 7.

14 2. Internal Revenue Manual, Section 4.10.7.2.9.8 says that the IRS cannot cite rulings below the Supreme Court to apply
15 to more than the specific person who litigated:

16 Internal Revenue Manual
17 4.10.7.2.9.8 \(05-14-1999\)
18 Importance of Court Decisions

19 1. Decisions made at various levels of the court system are considered to be interpretations of tax laws and 20 may be used by either examiners or taxpayers to support a position.

21 2. Certain court cases lend more weight to a position than others. A case decided by the U.S. Supreme Court
22 becomes the law of the land and takes precedence over decisions of lower courts. The Internal Revenue Service
23 must follow Supreme Court decisions. For examiners, Supreme Court decisions have the same weight as the 24 Code.

25 3. Decisions made by lower courts, such as Tax Court, District Courts, or Claims Court, are binding on the 26 Service only for the particular taxpayer and the years litigated. Adverse decisions of lower courts do not
27 require the Service to alter its position for other taxpayers.

28 Federal courts have repeatedly stated that the general government is one of finite, enumerated, delegated powers. The 29 implication of that concept is that whatever the government can do, the people can do also because the authority to do
30 it came from the People. Consequently, if the IRS can refuse to be bound by rulings below the U.S. Supreme Court, 31 the same constraints apply to us as the source of all their power:

32 "Sovereignty itself is, of course, not subject to law, for it is the author and source of law...While sovereign 33 powers are delegated to...the government, sovereignty itself remains with the people."
34 [Yick Wo v. Hopkins, 118 U.S. 356 (1886)]

35 "The Government of the United States is one of delegated powers alone. Its authority is defined and limited by
36 the Constitution. All powers not granted to it by that instrument are reserved to the States or the people."
37 [United States v. Cruikshank, 92 U.S. 542 (1875)]

38 "The question is not what power the federal government ought to have, but what powers, in fact, have been
39 given by the people... The federal union is a government of delegated powers. It has only such as are expressly
40 conferred upon it, and such as are reasonably to be implied from those granted. In this respect, we differ
41 radically from nations where all legislative power, without restriction or limitation, is vested in a parliament or
42 other legislative body subject to no restriction except the discretion of its members." (Congress)
43 [U.S. v. William M. Butler, 297 U.S. 1 (1936)]

44 3. There is no federal common law within states of the Union, according to the Supreme Court in Erie Railroad v.
45 Tompkins, 304 U.S. 64 (1938). Consequently, the rulings of federal district and circuit courts have no relevancy to 46 state citizens domiciled in states of the union who do not declare themselves to be "U.S. citizens" under 8 U.S.C.
47 §1401 and who would litigate under diversity of citizenship, as described in Article III, Section 2 of the U.S.
48 Constitution but NOT 28 U.S.C. §1332.

1 "There is no Federal Common Law, and Congress has no power to declare substantive rules of Common Law
2 applicable in a state. Whether they be local or general in their nature, be they commercial law or a part of the 3 Law of Torts"
4 [Erie Railroad v. Tompkins, 304 U.S. 64 (1938)]
5

6 "Common law. As distinguished from statutory law created by the enactment of legislatures, the common law
7 comprises the body of those principles and rules of action, relating to the government and security of persons
8 and property, which derive their authority solely from usages and customs of immemorial antiquity, or from the 9 judgments and decrees of the courts recognizing, affirming, and enforcing such usages and customs and, in this
10 sense, particularly the ancient unwritten law of England. In general, it is a body of law that develops and 11 derives through judicial decisions, as distinguished from legislative enactments. The "common law" is all the 12 statutory and case law background of England and the American colonies before the American revolution.
13 People v. Rehman, 253 C.A.2d. 119, 61 Cal.Rptr. 65, 85. It consists of those principles, usage and rules of 14 action applicable to government and security of persons and property which do not rest for their authority upon 15 any express and positive declaration of the will of the legislature. Bishop v. U.S., D.C.Tex., 334 F.Supp. 415, 16 418.

17 "Calif. Civil Code, Section 22.2, provides that the "common law of England, so far as it is not repugnant to or 18 inconsistent with the Constitution of the United States, or the Constitution or laws of this State, is the rule of 19 decision in all the courts of this State."

20 "In a broad sense, "common law" may designate all that part of the positive law, juristic theory, and ancient 21 custom of any state or nation which is of general and universal application, thus marking off special or local 22 rules or customs.

23 "For federal common law, see that title.

24 "As a compound adjective "common-law" is understood as contrasted with or opposed to "statutory," and 25 sometimes also to "equitable" or to "criminal."
26 [Black's Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, p. 276]

- 27 4. The Rules of Decision Act, 28 U.S.C. §1652, requires that the laws of the states of the Union are the only rules of 28 decision in federal courts. This means that federal courts MUST cite state law and not federal law in all tax cases and 29 MAY NOT cite federal case law in the case of persons not domiciled on federal territory and who are therefore not 30 statutory "U.S. citizens" or "U.S. residents".

31 TITLE 28 > PART V > CHAPTER 111 > § 1652
32 § 1652. State laws as rules of decision

33 The laws of the several states, except where the Constitution or treaties of the United States or Acts of Congress
34 otherwise require or provide, shall be regarded as rules of decision in civil actions in the courts of the United 35 States, in cases where they apply.

36 The thing they deliberately and self-servingly don't tell you in this act is specifically when federal law applies
37 extraterritorially in a state of the Union, which is ONLY in the case of federal contracts, franchises, and domiciliaries
38 and NO OTHERS. What all these conditions have in common is that they relate to federal territory and property and 39 come under Article 4, Section 3, Clause 2 of the United States Constitution and may only be officiated in an Article 4
40 legislative franchise court, which includes all federal District and Circuit Courts. See the following for proof that all
41 federal District and Circuit courts are Article 4 legislative franchise courts and not Article 3 constitutional courts:

- 46 5. Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 17\(b\) says that the capacity to sue or be sued is determined by the law of the 47 individual's domicile. It quotes two and only two exceptions to this rule, which are:

48 5.1. A person acting in a representative capacity as an officer of a federal entity.

49 5.2. A corporation that was created and is domiciled within federal territory.

50 This means that if a person is domiciled within the exclusive jurisdiction of a state of the Union and not within a
51 federal enclave, then state law are the rules of decision rather than federal law. Since state income tax liability in 52 nearly every state is dependent on a federal liability first, this makes an income tax liability impossible for those 53 domiciled outside the federal zone or inside the exclusive jurisdiction of a state, because such persons cannot be 54 statutory "U.S. citizens" as defined in 8 U.S.C. §1401 nor "residents" as defined in 26 U.S.C. §7701(b)(1)(A).

1 IV. PARTIES > Rule 17.
2 Rule 17. Parties Plaintiff and Defendant; Capacity

3 (b) Capacity to Sue or be Sued.

4 Capacity to sue or be sued is determined as follows:

5 (1) for an individual who is not acting in a representative capacity, by the law of the individual's domicile;

6 (2) for a corporation, by the law under which it was organized; and

7 (3) for all other parties, by the law of the state where the court is located, except that:

8 (A) a partnership or other unincorporated association with no such capacity under that state's law may sue
9 or be sued in its common name to enforce a substantive right existing under the United States Constitution
10 or laws; and

11 (B) 28 U.S.C. §§754 and 959(a) govern the capacity of a receiver appointed by a United States court to sue

14 A person engaged in a "trade or business" occupies a "public office" within the U.S. government, which is a federal
15 corporation (28 U.S.C. §3002(15)(A)) created and domiciled on federal territory. They are also acting in a
16 representative capacity as an officer of said corporation. Therefore, such "persons" are the ONLY real taxpayers
17 against whom federal law may be cited outside of federal territory. Anyone in the government who therefore wishes to 18 enforce federal law against a person domiciled outside of federal territory (the "United States" as defined in 26 U.S.C.
19 §7701(a)(9) and (a)(10)) and who is therefore not a statutory "U.S. citizen" or "resident" (alien) therefore must satisfy
20 the burden of proof with evidence to demonstrate that the defendant lawfully occupied a public office within the U.S.
21 government in the context of all transactions that they claim are subject to tax. See:

The "Trade or Business" Scam, Form #05.001

<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

- 22 6. 28 U.S.C. §2679\(d\)\(3\) indicates that any action against an officer or employee of the United States, if he was not acting
23 within his lawful delegated authority or in accordance with law, may be removed to State court and prosecuted
24 exclusively under state law because not a federal question.
- 25 7. For a person domiciled in a state of the Union, federal law may only be applied against them if they are either suing the 26 United States or are involved in a franchise or "public right". Franchises and public rights deal exclusively with 27 "public rights" created by Congress between private individuals and the government. Litigation involving franchises
28 generally is done only in Article IV legislative courts and not Article III constitutional courts. Northern Pipeline Const.
29 Co. v. Marathon Pipe Line Co., 458 U.S. 50, 102 S.Ct. 2858 (1983).
- 30 8. Any government representative, and especially who is from the U.S. Department of Justice or the IRS, who does any of 31 the following against anyone domiciled outside of federal territory and within a state of the Union is trying to
32 maliciously destroy the separation of powers, destroy or undermine your Constitutional rights, and unconstitutionally
33 and unlawfully enlarge their jurisdiction and importance.
- 34 8.1. Cites a case below the Supreme Court or from a territorial or franchise court such as the District of Circuit Courts
35 or Tax Court. This is an abuse of case law for political rather than lawful purposes and it is intended to deceive
36 and injure the hearer. Federal courts, incidentally, are NOT allowed to involve themselves in such "political 37 questions", and therefore should not allow this type of abuse of case law, but judges who are fond of increasing
38 their retirement benefits often will acquiesce if you don't call them on it as an informed American. This kind of 39 bias on the part of federal judges, incidentally, is highly illegal under 28 U.S.C. §144 and 28 U.S.C. §455.
- 40 8.2. Enforces federal franchises such as the "trade or business" franchise (income tax, Internal Revenue Code, Subtitle 41 A) against persons not domiciled on federal territory. The U.S. Supreme Court said in the License Tax Cases, 72
42 U.S. 462, 18 L.Ed. 497, 5 Wall. 462, 2 A.F.T.R. 2224 (1866) that they could not enforce federal franchises
43 outside of federal territory.
- 44 8.3. Presumes or infers that "United States" as used in the Constitution is the same thing as "United States" as defined 45 in federal statutory law. They are mutually exclusive, in fact.
- 46 9. Every occasion in which courts exceed their jurisdiction that we are aware of originates from the following important
47 and often deliberate and malicious abuses by government employees, judges, and prosecutors. We must prevent and 48 overcome these abuses in order to keep the government within the bounds of the Constitution:
- 49 9.1. Misunderstanding or misapplication of the above choice of law rules.
- 50 9.2. Failure or refusal to adjust the meaning of "words of art" based on their context and the legal definitions that 51 apply in that context. See:

Geographical Definitions and Conventions, Form #11.215

<http://sedm.org/SampleLetters/DefinitionsAndConventions.htm>

- 52 9.3. A violation of or disregard for the rules of statutory construction, usually by abusing the word "includes". See:

Legal Deception, Propaganda, and Fraud, Form #05.014

<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

9.4. Presumptions, usually about the meanings of words. See:

Presumption: Chief Weapon for Unlawfully Enlarging Federal Jurisdiction, Form #05.017

<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

The U.S. Supreme Court identified the enemies of republican freedom originating from the above causes, when it held:

[Adderley v. State of Florida, 385 U.S. 39, 49 (1967)]

The book Conflicts in a Nutshell confirms some of the above conclusions by saying the following:

*“After some 96 years of this, the Supreme Court acknowledged the unfair choice of forum this gave the plaintiff in a case governed by decisional rather than statutory law merely because the plaintiff and defendant happened to come from different states. Reconstructing the Rules of Decision Act, the Supreme Court in Erie overruled Swift and held that state law governs in the common law as well as in the statutory situation. Subsequent cases clarified that this means forum law; the law of the state in which the federal court is sitting.*

*“The result is that the federal court in a diversity case sits in effect as just another state court, seeking out forum state law for all substantive issues. The Rules of Decision Act does not apply to procedural matters, however; for matters of procedure a federal court, sitting in a diversity or any other kind of case, applies its own rules. This has been so since 1938, when, coincidentally (Erie was also decided in 1938), the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure arrived on the scene.”*

3.2 Summary of choice of law rules

The above choice of law rules for federal district and circuit courts can be further summarized below:

1. Civil Jurisdiction originates from one or more of the following. Note that jurisdiction over all the items below originates from Article 4, Section 3, Clause 2 of the United States Constitution and relates to community “property” of the states under the stewardship of the federal government.
 - 1.1. Persons domiciled on federal territory wherever physically located. These persons include:
 - 1.1.1. Statutory “U.S. citizens” pursuant to 8 U.S.C. §1401.
 - 1.1.2. Statutory “residents” (aliens) lawfully admitted pursuant to 8 U.S.C. §1101(a)(3).
 - 1.1.3. “U.S. persons” defined in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(30).
 - 1.2. Engaging in franchises offered by the national government to persons domiciled only on federal territory, wherever physically situated. This includes jurisdiction over:
 - 1.2.1. Public officers, who are called “employees” in 5 U.S.C. §2105.
 - 1.2.2. Federal agencies and instrumentalities.
 - 1.2.3. Federal corporations
 - 1.2.4. Social Security, which is also called Old Age Survivor’s Disability Insurance (OASDI).
 - 1.2.5. Medicare.
 - 1.2.6. Unemployment insurance, which is also called FICA.
 - 1.3. Management of federal territory and contracts.
2. Criminal jurisdiction originates from crimes committed only on federal territory.

3.3 How choice of law rules are illegally circumvented by corrupted government officials to STEAL from You

1 In cases against the government, corrupt judges and prosecutors employ several important tactics that you should be very
2 aware of in order to:

- 3 1. Circumvent choice of law rules documented in the previous sections and thereby to illegally and unconstitutionally
4 enforce federal law outside of federal territory within a foreign state called a state of the Union.
- 5 2. STEAL private property from you and use it for their own benefit, in what amounts to a criminal and financial conflict
6 of interest per 18 U.S.C. §208, 28 U.S.C. §144, and 28 U.S.C. §455.
- 7 3. Unlawfully enlarge their jurisdiction and importance in what amounts to treason in violation of 18 U.S.C. §2381.
- 8 4. Break down the constitutional separation between the states and the federal government that is the foundation of the 9 Constitution and the MAIN protection for your PRIVATE rights. See:

Government Conspiracy to Destroy the Separation of Powers, Form #05.023
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

10 The most frequent methods to circumvent choice of law rules indicated in the previous sections are the following tactics:

- 11 1. Abuse “words of art” to deceive and undermine the sovereignty of the non-governmental opponent. This includes:
 - 12 1.1. Add things or classes of things to the meaning of statutory terms that do not EXPRESSLY appear in their 13 definitions, in violation of the rules of statutory construction. See:
 - 14 1.2. Violate the rules of statutory construction by abusing the word “includes” to add things or classes of things to 15 definitions of terms that do not expressly appear in the statutes and therefore MUST be presumed to be 16 purposefully excluded.
 - 17 1.3. Refuse to allow the jury to read the definitions in the law and then give them a definition that is in conflict with 18 the statutory definition. This substitutes the JUDGES will for what the law expressly says and thereby substitutes
19 PUBLIC POLICY for the written law.
 - 20 1.4. Publish deceptive government publications that are in deliberate conflict with what the statutes define terms to 21 mean and then tell the public that they CANNOT rely on the publication. The IRS does this with ALL of their 22 publications and it is FRAUD. See:

Reasonable Belief About Income Tax Liability, Form #05.007
DIRECT LINK: <http://sedm.org/Forms/05-MemLaw/ReasonableBelief.pdf>
FORMS PAGE: <http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

- 23 1.5. PRESUME that ALL of the four contexts for "United States" are equivalent.
24 For details on this SCAM, see:

Legal Deception, Propaganda, and Fraud, Form #05.014
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

- 25 2. PRESUME that CONSTITUTIONAL citizens and STATUTORY citizens are EQUIVALENT under federal law. They 26 are NOT. A CONSTITUTIONAL citizen is a "non-resident " under federal civil law and NOT a STATUTORY 27 "national and citizen of the United States at birth" per 8 U.S.C. §1401. See the document below:

Why You are a "national", "state national", and Constitutional but not Statutory Citizen, Form #05.006
DIRECT LINK: <http://sedm.org/Forms/05-MemLaw/WhyANational.pdf>
FORMS PAGE: <http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

- 28 3. PRESUME that "nationality" and "domicile" are equivalent. They are NOT. See:

Why Domicile and Becoming a "Taxpayer" Require Your Consent, Form #05.002
DIRECT LINK: <http://sedm.org/Forms/05-MemLaw/Domicile.pdf>
FORMS PAGE: <http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

- 29 4. Use the word "citizenship" in place of "nationality" OR "domicile", and refuse to disclose WHICH of the two they 30 mean in EVERY context.
- 31 5. Confuse the POLITICAL/CONSTITUTIONAL meaning of words with the civil STATUTORY context. For instance,
32 asking on government forms whether you are a POLITICAL/CONSTITUTIONAL citizen and then FALSELY
33 PRESUMING that you are a STATUTORY citizen under 8 U.S.C. §1401.
- 34 6. Confuse the words "domicile" and "residence" or impute either to you without satisfying the burden of proving that 35 you EXPRESSLY CONSENTED to it and thereby illegally kidnap your civil legal identity against your will. One can 36 have only one "domicile" but many "residences" and BOTH require your consent. See:

Why Domicile and Becoming a "Taxpayer" Require Your Consent, Form #05.002
DIRECT LINK: <http://sedm.org/Forms/05-MemLaw/Domicile.pdf>
FORMS PAGE: <http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

- 37 7. Confuse “federal” with “national” or use these words interchangeably. They are NOT equivalent and this lack of 38 equivalence is a product of the separation of powers doctrine that is the foundation of the USA Constitution.

Federal Jurisdiction

1 “It is clear that Congress, as a legislative body, exercise two species of legislative power: the one, limited as to
2 its objects, but extending all over the Union: the other, an absolute, exclusive legislative power over the District
3 of Columbia. The preliminary inquiry in the case now before the Court, is, by virtue of which of these
4 authorities was the law in question passed?”
5 [Cohens v. Virginia, 19 U.S. 264, 6 Wheat. 265, 5 L.Ed. 257 (1821)]

6
7 “NATIONAL GOVERNMENT. The government of a whole nation, as distinguished from that of a local or
8 territorial division of the nation, and also as distinguished from that of a league or confederation.

9 “A national government is a government of the people of a single state or nation, united as a community by
10 what is termed the “social compact,” and possessing complete and perfect supremacy over persons and things,
11 so far as they can be made the lawful objects of civil government. A federal government is distinguished from
12 a national government by its being the government of a community of independent and sovereign states,
13 united by compact.” Piqua Branch Bank v. Knoup, 6 Ohio.St. 393.”
14 [Black’s Law Dictionary, Revised Fourth Edition, 1968, p. 1176]

16 “FEDERAL GOVERNMENT. The system of government administered in a state formed by the union or
17 confederation of several independent or quasi independent states; also the composite state so formed.

18 In strict usage, there is a distinction between a confederation and a federal government. The former term
19 denotes a league or permanent alliance between several states, each of which is fully sovereign and
20 independent, and each of which retains its full dignity, organization, and sovereignty, though yielding to the
21 central authority a controlling power for a few limited purposes, such as external and diplomatic relations.
22 In this case, the component states are the units, with respect to the confederation, and the central
23 government acts upon them, not upon the individual citizens. In a federal government, on the other hand, the
24 allied states form a union,-not, indeed, to such an extent as to destroy their separate organization or deprive
25 them of quasi sovereignty with respect to the administration of their purely local concerns, but so that the
26 central power is erected into a true state or nation, possessing sovereignty both external and internal,-while
27 the administration of national affairs is directed, and its effects felt, not by the separate states deliberating as
28 units, but by the people of all, in their collective capacity, as citizens of the nation. The distinction is
29 expressed, by the German writers, by the use of the two words “Staatenbund” and “Bundesstaat,” the former
30 denoting a league or confederation of states, and the latter a federal government, or state formed by means of a
31 league or confederation.”
32 [Black’s Law Dictionary, Revised Fourth Edition, 1968, p. 740]

33 Here is a table comparing the two:
34

Table 1: "National" v. "Federal"

1	Legislates for	Federal territory and NOT states of the Union	Legislates for states of the Union and NOT federal territory

8. Abuse franchises such as the income tax, Social Security, Medicare, etc. to be used to UNLAWFULLY create new public offices in the U.S. government. This results in a de facto government in which there are no private rights or private property and in which EVERYONE is illegally subject to the whims of the government. See:

9. Connect the opponent to a government franchise or to PRESUME they participate and let the presumption go unchallenged and therefore agreed to. This is done:
- 9.1. PRESUMING that because someone connected ONE activity to a government franchise, that they elected to act in the capacity of a franchisee for ALL activities. This is equivalent to outlawing PRIVATE rights and PRIVATE property.
 - 9.2. Refusing to acknowledge or respect the method by which PRIVATE property is donated to a PUBLIC use, which is by VOLUNTARILY associating formerly PRIVATE property with a de facto license represent a public office in the government called a Social Security Number (SSN) or Taxpayer Identification Number (TIN).
 - 9.3. Calling use of SSNs and TINs VOLUNTARY and yet REFUSING to prosecute those who COMPEL their use. This results in a LIE.
 - 9.4. Compelling the use of Social Security Numbers or Taxpayer Identification Numbers. This is combated using the following:
 - 9.4.1. Why It is Illegal for Me to Request or Use a "Taxpayer Identification Number", Form #04.205

9.5. Using forms signed by the government opponent in which they claimed a status under a government franchise, such as statutory “taxpayer”, “individual”, “U.S. person”, “U.S. citizen”, etc. This is combatted by attaching the following to all tax forms one fills out:

4 Laws of the National Government are limited to federal territory and property and those domiciled on federal territory

“It is clear that Congress, as a legislative body, exercise two species of legislative power: the one, limited as to its objects, but extending all over the Union: the other, an absolute, exclusive legislative power over the District of Columbia. The preliminary inquiry in the case now before the Court, is, by virtue of which of these authorities was the law in question passed?”

The following subsections deal with the jurisdiction of the national government outside of federal territories and possessions. By “national government” we by definition mean the jurisdiction over territories and possessions. In contrast, the “federal government” has limited subject matter jurisdiction within states of the Union identified in Article 1, Section 8 of the USA Constitution.

“NATIONAL GOVERNMENT. The government of a whole nation, as distinguished from that of a local or territorial division of the nation, and also as distinguished from that of a league or confederation.

“A national government is a government of the people of a single state or nation, united as a community by what is termed the “social compact,” and possessing complete and perfect supremacy over persons and things, so far as they can be made the lawful objects of civil government. A federal government is distinguished from a national government by its being the government of a community of independent and sovereign states, united by compact.” Piqua Branch Bank v. Knoup, 6 Ohio.St. 393.”
[Black’s Law Dictionary, Revised Fourth Edition, 1968, p. 1176]

“FEDERAL GOVERNMENT. The system of government administered in a state formed by the union or confederation of several independent or quasi independent states; also the composite state so formed.

*In strict usage, there is a distinction between a confederation and a federal government. The former term denotes a league or permanent alliance between several states, each of which is fully sovereign and independent, and each of which retains its full dignity, organization, and sovereignty, though yielding to the central authority a controlling power for a few limited purposes, such as external and diplomatic relations. In this case, the component states are the units, with respect to the confederation, and the central government acts upon them, not upon the individual citizens. In a federal government, on the other hand, the allied states form a union,-not, indeed, to such an extent as to destroy their separate organization or deprive them of quasi sovereignty with respect to the administration of their purely local concerns, but so that the central power is erected into a true state or nation, possessing sovereignty both external and internal,-while the administration of national affairs is directed, and its effects felt, not by the separate states deliberating as units, but by the people of all, in their collective capacity, as citizens of the nation. The distinction is expressed, by the German writers, by the use of the two words “Staatenbund” and “Bundesstaut;” the former denoting a league or confederation of states, and the latter a federal government, or state formed by means of a league or confederation.”
[Black’s Law Dictionary, Revised Fourth Edition, 1968, p. 740]

This jurisdiction deals mainly with post offices, foreign nationals (aliens), and patents. Taxation within states of the Union is not authorized and never has been authorized, and especially not excise or franchise taxes. The only type of taxation authorized by the Constitution is excise of franchise taxes upon foreign commerce (imports) in Article 1, Section 8, Clauses 1 and 3 collected upon the high seas and at the borders and not within the states themselves.

“The difficulties arising out of our dual form of government and the opportunities for differing opinions concerning the relative rights of state and national governments are many; but for a very long time this court has steadfastly adhered to the doctrine that the taxing power of Congress does not extend to the states or their political subdivisions. The same basic reasoning which leads to that conclusion, we think, requires like limitation upon the power which springs from the bankruptcy clause. United States v. Butler, supra.”

"It is no longer open to question that the general government, unlike the states, Hammer v. Dagenhart, 247 U.S. 251, 275, 38 S.Ct. 529, 3 A.L.R. 649, Ann.Cas.1918E 724, possesses no inherent power in respect of the internal affairs of the states; and emphatically not with regard to legislation."
[Carter v. Carter Coal Co., 298 U.S. 238, 56 S.Ct. 855 (1936)]

4.1 General constraints

It is very important to understand the following principles of law limiting federal legislative jurisdiction within states of the Union:

1. States of the Union are NOT "territories" of the national government, but rather "foreign states" who by virtue of being "foreign" are beyond the legislative jurisdiction of Congress.

Corpus Juris Secundum Legal Encyclopedia
"§1. Definitions, Nature, and Distinctions

"The word 'territory,' when used to designate a political organization has a distinctive, fixed, and legal meaning under the political institutions of the United States, and does not necessarily include all the territorial possessions of the United States, but may include only the portions thereof which are organized and exercise governmental functions under act of congress."

"While the term 'territory' is often loosely used, and has even been construed to include municipal subdivisions of a territory, and 'territories of the' United States is sometimes used to refer to the entire domain over which the United States exercises dominion, the word 'territory,' when used to designate a political organization, has a distinctive, fixed, and legal meaning under the political institutions of the United States, and the term 'territory' or 'territories' does not necessarily include only a portion or the portions thereof which are organized and exercise government functions under acts of congress. The term 'territories' has been defined to be political subdivisions of the outlying dominion of the United States, and in this sense the term 'territory' is not a description of a definite area of land but of a political unit governing and being governed as such. The question whether a particular subdivision or entity is a territory is not determined by the particular form of government with which it is, more or less temporarily, invested.

"Territories' or 'territory' as including 'state' or 'states.'" While the term 'territories of the' United States may, under certain circumstances, include the states of the Union, as used in the federal Constitution and in ordinary acts of congress "territory" does not include a foreign state.

"As used in this title, the term 'territories' generally refers to the political subdivisions created by congress, and not within the boundaries of any of the several states."
[86 Corpus Juris Secundum (C.J.S.), Territories, §1 (2003)]

2. It is a canon of statutory construction and interpretation that all federal law is limited to the "territory" and property of the national government subject to its exclusive and general jurisdiction. Based on the previous item, that "territory" does not include the exclusive jurisdiction of any constitutional state of the Union and includes ONLY federal territory. That "territory" could conceivably be within the exterior limits of a state of the Union such as a national park or shipyard.

"It is a well established principle of law that all federal regulation applies only within the territorial jurisdiction of the United States unless a contrary intent appears."
[Foley Brothers, Inc. v. Filardo, 336 U.S. 281 (1949)]

"The laws of Congress in respect to those matters [outside of Constitutionally delegated powers] do not extend into the territorial limits of the states, but have force only in the District of Columbia, and other places that are within the exclusive jurisdiction of the national government."
[Caha v. U.S., 152 U.S. 211 (1894)]

"There is a canon of legislative construction which teaches Congress that, unless a contrary intent appears [legislation] is meant to apply only within the territorial jurisdiction of the United States."
[U.S. v. Spelar, 338 U.S. 217 at 222.]

3. The right of the national government to enforce national law and tax law upon federal territory extends to those DOMICILED on federal territory, wherever physically situated.

3.1. Extraterritorial jurisdiction over those domiciled on federal territory and who are abroad but NOT within a state of the Union was recognized in the case of Cook v. Tait, where the U.S. Supreme Court held:

“Plaintiff assigns against the power not only his rights under the Constitution of the United States, but under international law, and in support of the assignments cites many cases. It will be observed that the foundation of the assignments is the fact that the citizen receiving the income and the property of which it is the product are outside of the territorial limits of the United States. These two facts, the contention is, exclude the existence of the power to tax. Or, to put the contention another way, to the existence of the power and its exercise, the person receiving the income and the property from which he receives it must both be within the territorial limits of the United States to be within the taxing power of the United States. The contention is not justified, and that it is not justified is the necessary deduction of recent cases. In United States v. Bennett, 232 U.S. 299, the power of the United States to tax a foreign-built yacht owned and used during the taxing period outside of the [265 U.S. 55] United States by a citizen domiciled in the United States was sustained. The tax passed on was imposed by a tariff act, but necessarily the power does not depend upon the form by which it is exerted.”
[Cook v. Tait, 265 U.S. 47 (1924)]

The important point of the above is that so long as the person claims to be a “citizen of the United States” under federal statutory law, then he or she is a “taxpayer”, regardless of what domicile they claim.

3.2. All tax liability is a civil liability in a de jure government which attaches to one’s choice of civil domicile. The only way to lawfully decouple tax liability from domicile is to create a PRIVATE LAW franchise contract in which:

3.2.1. The “taxpayer” is a public officer engaged in franchises by private law contract. Since the franchise is a contract, that contract is enforceable anywhere:

Debitum et contractus non sunt nullius loci.

Debt and contract [franchise agreement, in this case] are of no particular place.

Locus contractus regit actum.

The place of the contract [franchise agreement, in this case] governs the act.
[Bouvier’s Maxims of Law, 1856;

SOURCE: <http://famguardian.org/Publications/BouvierMaximsOfLaw/BouviereMaxims.htm>]

3.2.2. The public officer is representing a federal corporation that IS a statutory “U.S. citizen” per 8 U.S.C. §1401.

3.2.3. Information returns filed against the “taxpayer” connect them to the public office, and therefore provide evidence that the party was engaged in the franchise contract.

3.3. The right to tax those domiciled on federal territory includes those who are statutory but not constitutional “U.S. citizens” per 8 U.S.C. §1401 or “Resident aliens” per 26 U.S.C. §7701(b)(4)(B), who have in common a domicile on federal territory. Hence, they are subject to the civil laws of the United States wherever they physically are. You don’t HAVE to have a civil domicile, but if you are dumb enough to have one, then then government essentially is treated as the owner of all your property. This fact is reflected in the following provisions of the law of nations:

The Law of Nations, Book II: Of a Nation Considered in Her Relation to Other States

§ 81. The property of the citizens is the property of the nation, with respect to foreign nations.

Even the property of the individuals is, in the aggregate, to be considered as the property of the nation, with respect to other states. It, in some sort, really belongs to her, from the right she has over the property of her citizens, because it constitutes a part of the sum total of her riches, and augments her power. She is interested in that property by her obligation to protect all her members. In short, it cannot be otherwise, since nations act and treat together as bodies in their quality of political societies, and are considered as so many moral persons. All those who form a society, a nation being considered by foreign nations as constituting only one whole, one single person, — all their wealth together can only be considered as the wealth of that same person. And this is to true, that each political society may, if it pleases, establish within itself a community of goods, as Campanella did in his republic of the sun. Others will not inquire what it does in this respect: its domestic regulations make no change in its rights with respect to foreigners nor in the manner in which they ought to consider the aggregate of its property, in what way soever it is possessed.*

1 3.4. A corollary is that those born or naturalized anywhere in the Union and domiciled in a legislatively foreign state,
2 such as either a foreign nation or a Constitutional but not statutory state of the Union, are NOT statutory “U.S.
3 citizens”, or “Resident aliens” per 26 U.S.C. §7701(b)(4)(B), but rather non-resident non-persons and stateless
4 persons” beyond the legislative jurisdiction of Congress. Note in the ruling below that Bettison was described as
5 “stateless” because he was not domiciled on federal territory in a statutory federal “State”, but rather in a foreign
6 state and foreign country that is not subject to federal law, which in this case was Venezuela but could also have
7 been a constitutional state of the Union.

32 4. When asserting “extraterritorial jurisdiction” outside of federal territory identified in Article 1, Section 8, Clause 17,
33 the national government must meet the following burden of proof:

34 While Congress certainly "has the authority to enforce its laws beyond the territorial boundaries of the United
35 States", there must be evidence of its intent to do so in the plain language of the statute. Arabian Am. Oil, 499

46 ("Where ... the plain language of the statute is clear, the court generally will not inquire further into its

48 will only apply extraterritorially to United States citizens. Title VII's definition of "employee" was specifically 49 amended to reflect that "[w]ith respect to employment in a foreign county, such term [employee] includes an 50 *individual 66*66 who is a citizen of the United States." 42 U.S.C. § 2000e(f). If Congress had intended to* 51 extend Title VII's scope to protect non-United States citizens working abroad for American controlled
52 companies, it could very well have included such individuals in its definition of employee. See Iwata, 59
53 F.Supp.2d at 604 (holding that if Congress intended for Title VII to extend to foreign nationals working outside 54 of the United States, it had the opportunity to do so). While Congress did not explicitly address the 55 extraterritorial reach of Title VII to non-citizen United States nationals in the Civil Rights Act of 1991,[6]
56 Congress was abundantly clear that Title VII's protections would not be extended abroad to aliens. 42 U.S.C. §
57 2000e-1 ("This subchapter shall not apply to an employer with respect to the employment of aliens outside any 58 State"); see Arabian Am. Oil, 499 U.S. at 246, 111 S.Ct. 1227; Mota v. Univ. of Tex. Houston Health Sci.
59 Ctr., 261 F.3d 512, 524 n. 34 (5th Cir.2001); Mithani v. Lehman Bros., No. 01 CIV 5927, 2002 WL 14359, at 60 1 (S.D.N.Y. Jan. 4, 2002); Iwata, 59 F.Supp.2d at 604. Since Title VII's reach does not extend to non-United*
61 States citizens employed outside of the United States, the Court must address (1) the plaintiff's immigration
62 status and (2) the location of his employment.

Statutory geographical definitions and the rules of statutory construction and interpretation are the starting place for satisfying the burden of proving extraterritorial jurisdiction as indicated above.

5. The right of the federal government to officiate and legislate over its own chattel property extends EVERYWHERE in the Union and wherever said property is physically located.

5.1. Jurisdiction over government chattel property extends to every type of property owned by said government. In law:

5.1.1. All rights are property.

5.1.2. Anything that conveys rights is property.

5.1.3. Contracts convey rights and are therefore “property”.

5.1.4. All franchises are contracts between the grantor and the grantee and therefore “property”.

5.2. This jurisdiction over chattel property originates from Article 4, Section 3, Clause 2 of the United States Constitution.

“The Constitution permits Congress to dispose of and to make all needful rules and regulations respecting the territory or other property belonging to the United States. This power applies as well to territory belonging to the United States within the States, as beyond them. It comprehends all the public domain, wherever it may be. The argument is, that the power to make ‘ALL needful rules and regulations,’ ‘is a power of legislation,’ ‘a full legislative power;’ ‘that it includes all subjects of legislation in the territory,’ and is without any limitations, except the positive prohibitions which affect all the powers of Congress. Congress may then regulate or prohibit slavery upon the public domain within the new States, and such a prohibition would permanently affect the capacity of a slave, whose master might carry him to it. And why not? Because no power has been conferred on Congress. This is a conclusion universally admitted. But the power to ‘make rules and regulations respecting the territory’ is not restrained by State lines, nor are there any constitutional prohibitions upon its exercise in the domain of the United States within the States; and whatever rules and regulations respecting territory Congress may constitutionally make are supreme, and are not dependent on the situs of ‘the territory.’”

[Dred Scott v. Sandford, 60 U.S. 393, 509-510 (1856)]

5.3. Cases involving federal property must be heard in federal and not state court.

5.4. The jurisdiction of federal district and circuit courts is limited almost exclusively to disputes involving chattel property and franchises. All such courts, in fact, are created and maintained under Article 4, Section 3, Clause 2 of the United States Constitution and they are NOT created under the authority of Article III of the United States Constitution. NOWHERE, in fact, within the statutes creating such administrative franchise courts is Article III expressly invoked such as it is in the case of the Court of International Trade. Hence, the only REAL Article III courts are the Court of International Trade and the U.S. Supreme Court. Every other federal court is an Article IV franchise court that can only manage property. These conclusions are exhaustively established with thousands of pages of evidence in the following book on our website:

4.2 Extraterritorial CIVIL jurisdiction

There are only two ways that any government can legislatively reach outside their territory to people or property in a legislatively foreign state:

1. Domicile in the case of those TEMPORARILY outside the territory protected by the government.
2. MUTUAL consent (comity) in the case of those PERMANENTLY domiciled OUTSIDE the territory of the government. This includes:
 - 2.1. Debt.
 - 2.2. Contract.

As we summarized in section 2 earlier, item 2 above is an extension and expression of your right to contract, and it is a maxim of law that contract and debt know no place:

*Debitum et contractus non sunt nullius loci.
Debt and contract [franchise agreement, in this case] are of no particular place.*

*Locus contractus regit actum.
The place of the contract [franchise agreement, in this case] governs the act.*

4 In addition, those in states of the Union have "inalienable rights" according to the Declaration of Independence, and
5 therefore are legally FORBIDDEN from consenting to give them away to a REAL de jure government. Consequently,
6 WHEN they are given away, they must be given away in a place NOT protected by the Constitution, and therefore not
7 within a constitutional state, or else the contract is ALSO void and unenforceable:

8 "We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator
9 with certain unalienable Rights, that among these are Life, Liberty and the pursuit of Happiness.--That to
10 secure these [EXCLUSIVELY PRIVATE, God-given] rights, Governments are instituted among Men,
11 deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed, -"
12 [Declaration of Independence, 1776]

13 "Unalienable. Inalienable; incapable of being aliened, that is, sold and transferred."
14 [Black's Law Dictionary, Fourth Edition, p. 1693]

15 Some covetous lawyers and judges like to try to argue that the Declaration of Independence is NOT "law", but the very first 16 enactment of the Congress in Statutes at Large, Volume 1, Page 1 (1 Stat. 1), MADE it into law. Judge Napolitano even
17 goes so far as to say that not only is the Declaration of Independence LAW, but that it is THE MOST FREQUENTLY
18 violated law in existence for that reason:

Judge Andrew Napolitano says the Declaration of Independence is LAW enacted by Congress, Exhibit #03.006
<http://sedm.org/Exhibits/ExhibitIndex.htm>

19 Furthermore, anyone entering into any contract with any government has an OBLIGATION to define IN WRITING:

- 20 1. The parties and any agency or LACK of agency (office) they are exercising when giving their consent.
21 1.1. For Christians, that agency is God, and hence, cannot ALSO be "Caesar" or else they are serving to masters in 22 violation of Luke 16:13.
23 1.2. The bible describes the human body of Christians as "the church", and hence, "separation of church and state"
24 mandated by the constitution forbids them to serve as officers or agents of the government or the state.¹² Nearly 25 all statutory civil "persons" and "individuals" are officers of the state, as we prove in Forms #05.037 and 05.042.
26 1.3. No contract with any government can be allowed to supersede or conflict with your delegation of authority order
27 direct from God in the Holy Bible. That delegation of authority is described in:

Delegation of Authority Order from God to Christians, Form #13.007
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

- 28 1.4. Any contract with the government that DOES create agency on behalf of the government, and ESPECIALLY 29 agency as a public officer or "trade or business" franchise participant violates the FIRST Commandment of the 30 Ten Commandments, in which believers are forbidden to SERVE "other gods". By "gods" it means anyone who 31 has SUPERIOR or SUPERNATURAL rights above yours and is therefore UNEQUAL and SUPERIOR to you.
32 See Exodus 20:3-8.
33 2. All terms IN ADVANCE. A good example of how to do this is found in:
Citizenship, Domicile, and Tax Status Options, Form #10.003
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>
34 3. The place where disputes are litigated. Otherwise, they will be prejudicially litigated before the government you are 35 contracting with.
36 4. ALL civil obligations and civil relations between the parties

37 If you don't do it in WRITING and insist that at least one government representative sign it, the U.S. Supreme Court has 38 held that the contract is UNENFORCEABLE. Not only that, by not reducing it to writing and defining and limiting the 39 jurisdiction of the government, you are in effect signing a blank check and handing it to a corrupt covetous government.

¹² See We Are The Church, Family Guardian Fellowship, <http://famguardian.org/Subjects/Spirituality/ChurchTaxation/WeAreTheChurch.htm>.

1 "Every man is supposed to know the law. A party who makes a contract with an officer without having it
2 reduced to writing is knowingly accessory to a violation of duty on his part. Such a party aids in the violation of 3 the law."

5 Any deviation from the above constitutes essentially CRIMINAL identity theft, as described in the following:

<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

6 Below is what the U.S. Attorneys Manual says about extraterritorial CRIMINAL jurisdiction. They don't have an
7 equivalent section on CIVIL jurisdiction, perhaps because there IS no such jurisdiction:

39 4.3 Extraterritorial Tax Jurisdiction of the National Government

40 4.3.1 History of Cook v. Tait, 265 U.S. 47 (1924)

41 We wish to elaborate further on the case of Cook v. Tait, 265 U.S. 47 (1924) mentioned earlier in section 4.1. That case is 42 important because it is frequently cited as authority by federal courts as the origin of their extraterritorial jurisdiction to tax.

43 First, a little history on Cook who brought the case. The 1921 Revenue Act imposed 8% tax on nonresident aliens, but a
44 lower 4% tax rate on the first $4,000 of income in the case of a citizen or resident of the United States. On Cook's 1921

1 1040 return he took the 4% rate on the first $4,000. Thus he accepted the benefit of the lower tax rate for a citizen, in
2 addition to expressly declaring himself a citizen on the 1040. You can see the history of citizenship on tax returns below:

Tax Return History-Citizenship, Family Guardian Fellowship
<https://famguardian.org/Subjects/Taxes/Citizenship/TaxReturnHistory-Citizenship/TaxReturnHistory-Citizenship.htm>

3 The tax was imposed under the Revenue Act of 1921, which provides by section 210 (42 Stat. 227, 233 [Comp. St. Ann.
4 Supp. 1923, § 6336 1/8 e]):

5 That, in lieu of the tax imposed by section 210 of the Revenue Act of 1918, there shall be levied, collected, and
6 paid for each taxable year upon the net income of every individual a normal tax of 8 per centum of the amount
7 of the net income in excess of the credits provided in section 216: Provided, that in the case of a citizen or
8 resident of the United States the rate upon the first $4,000 of such excess amount shall be 4 per centum.'1
9 [Revenue Act of 1921, Section 210, 42 Stat. 227, 233]

10 They used "every individual", but what they REALLY mean is "every nonresident alien individual with income subject to 11 federal tax" deriving ONLY from the federal zone. VERY SNEAKY. See how they make it look like everyone has to pay
12 an 8% tax and that you get this big tax break and only have to pay 4% on the first $4,000 if only you declare yourself a
13 STATUTORY "citizen or resident of the United States"?

14 Here is the reasoning of SCOTUS in Cook v. Tait in affirming the lower court decision to uphold the Collector's denial of 15 Cook's refund claim:

16 "We may make further exposition of the national power as the case depends upon it. It was illustrated at once
17 in United States v. Bennett by a contrast with the power of a state. It was pointed out that there were limitations
18 upon the latter that were not on the national power. The taxing power of a state, it was decided, encountered at
19 its borders the taxing power of other states and was limited by them. There was no such limitation, it was
20 pointed out, upon the national power, and that the limitation upon the states affords, it was said, no ground for
21 constructing a barrier around the United States, 'shutting that government off from the exertion of powers
22 which inherently belong to it by virtue of its sovereignty."
23 [Cook v. Tait, 265 U.S. 47 (1924)]

24 You have to understand that Cook's argument was the only thing SCOTUS needed to address.

25 "Plaintiff assigns against the power, not only his rights under the Constitution of the United States, but under
26 international law, and in support of the assignments cites many cases. It will be observed that the foundation of 27 the assignments is the fact that the citizen receiving the income and the property of which it is the product are
28 outside of the territorial limits of the United States. These two facts, the contention is, exclude the existence of 29 the power to tax. Or to put the contention another way, to the existence of the power and its exercise, the person
30 receiving the income and the property from which he receives it must both be within the territorial limits of the 31 United States to be within the taxing power of the United States. The contention is not justified, and that it is not 32 justified is the necessary deduction of recent cases. "
33 [Cook v. Tait, 265 U.S. 47 (1924)]

34 This is the end of it right here---his contentions were not justified. They had the power to tax Cook because COOK
35 HIMSELF GAVE IT TO THEM by filing as a STATUTORY "citizen of the United States" and claiming a statutory 36 benefit. By accepting the benefit of the lower tax rate (4% on the first $4,000) afforded ONLY to a citizen or resident of 37 the United States (which he SAID he was on his 1921 1040 tax return). Cook made ALL of his worldwide income from 38 1921 subject to the provisions of the 1921 revenue act by virtue of accepting that benefit. Citizens pay tax on 39 WORLDWIDE income, while nonresident aliens only pay tax from the territorial/statutory "United States".

40 The only question raised by Cook was this:

41 "The question in the case, and which was presented by the demurrer to the declaration is, as expressed by 42 plaintiff, whether Congress has power to impose a tax upon income received by a native citizen of the United
43 States who, at the time the income was received, was permanently resident and domiciled in the city of Mexico,
44 the income being from real and personal property located in Mexico."

45 The lower court answered "yes" to this question and SCOTUS affirmed. They were justified in this conclusion because
46 Cook claimed the "benefit" or "privilege" of a voluntary civil status of STATUTORY "citizen of the United States" under 8
47 U.S.C. §1401, even though he was NOT such a citizen as a person born in a constitutional state. As a state national, he was 48 a nonresident alien in relation to the national government as we prove in:

In effect, they bribed Cook with the “benefit” of deductions he didn’t need in exchange for making ALL of his earnings worldwide subject to tax instead of only those originating from the federal zone as in the case of the nonresident alien that he really was. STATUTORY “citizens” are subject to income tax on WORLDWIDE earnings while nonresident aliens are only subject to earnings from the federal zone. Cook was a fool who probably knew nothing about the law and hired an attorney who helped turn the ENTIRE WORLD into a huge farm full of cows that Uncle Sam could milk. MOO!

4.3.2 Origin of income tax jurisdiction: physical residence ONLY

Ordinarily, and especially in the case of states of the Union, physical residence on federal territory within that state in what is called a federal enclave is the determining factor as to whether an income tax is owed to the state by that citizen:

“But in personal and income taxes domicile has played no necessary part, and residence at a fixed date has determined the liability for the tax. Bell v. Pierce, 51 N.Y. 12; Douglas v. Mayor, 9 N.Y. Super. Ct. 110; Matter of Austen, 13 A.D. 247, 42 N.Y.S. 1097; Finley v. Philadelphia, 32 Pa. 361. In the New York Income Tax law (Consol. Laws, c. 60), which is largely based on the federal acts, section 350 defines a ‘resident’ as ‘any person domiciled in the state of New York, and any other person who maintains a permanent place of abode within the state, and spends in the aggregate more than seven months of the taxable year within the state.’

Likewise under the English income tax laws, prior to 1914, residence, and not domicile, was the test of liability (Inland Revenue v. John Lambert Caldwell, (1904) 7 Session Cases, 146; Attorney General v. Coots, 4 Price, 183), though income, unless derived from a trade or employment carried on in England, had to be received there in order to render one subject to taxation upon it (Liverpool, London & Globe Ins. Co. v. Bennett, (1913) A.C. 610). But since 1914 a resident of more than six months (though not domiciled) has had to pay an income tax on all income received in the United Kingdom, and a domiciled person a tax on income derived from all sources. Thus, under all the British income tax laws, a resident, though having no domicile in England, had to pay a tax on all income received in England whatever its source. Whether he received all his income there, of course, depended on circumstances, but whatever he received was taxable against a resident, irrespective of his domicile.

*In the federal act of 1913, income taxes are imposed upon ‘the entire net income arising or accruing from all sources in the preceding calendar year to every citizen of the United States, whether residing at home or abroad, and to every person residing in the United States, though not a citizen thereof, * * * and a like tax shall be assessed, levied, collected, and paid annually upon the entire net income from all property owned and of every business, trade, or profession carried on in the United States by persons residing elsewhere.’ 38 Stat. 166.”*

Don’t confuse the CIVIL STATUS of “resident” (alien) under 26 U.S.C. §7701(b)(1)(A) with the FACT of “residence” or BEING “resident”. They are not the same. Being “resident” is a geographical term that relates to the geographical “United States” defined by statute and not by the constitution. The “United States” they are referring to that one must be “resident” within to be “subject” to the income tax is federal territory not within the exclusive jurisdiction of a Constitutional state and defined geographically in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(9) and (a)(10) and 4 U.S.C. §110(d). Further, the “citizen of the United States” they are referring to is someone born and domiciled on federal territory and what we call a STATUTORY citizen rather than a CONSTITUTIONAL citizen. If they weren’t domiciled there, they would simply be a national rather than a statutory citizen. “national” is a political status, while “citizen” is a CIVIL/STATUTORY status. In other words, those without a domicile have a POLITICAL status but not a CIVIL status in relation to the place they are NOT domiciled.

4.3.3 Civil status of “citizen”/“resident” under the Internal Revenue Code

Recall that domicile, consent, or physical presence on federal territory are the only ways one can have a civil status under the civil statutes of Congress.¹³ This is acknowledged below:

¹³ See: Civil Status (Important!), SEDM; <https://sedm.org/civil-status/>.

1 § 29. Status.¹⁴ It may be laid down that the status-or, as it is sometimes called, civil status, in
2 contradistinction to political status - of a person depends largely, although not universally, upon domicil.
3 The older jurists, whose opinions are fully collected by Story¹⁵ and Burge¹⁶ maintained, with few exceptions,
4 the principle of the ubiquity of status, conferred by the lex domicilii with little qualification. Lord Westbury,
5 in *Udny v. Udny*¹⁷ thus states the doctrine broadly: "The civil status is governed by one single principle,
6 namely, that of domicil, which is the criterion established by law for the purpose of determining civil status.
7 For it is on this basis. that the personal rights of the party - that is to say, the law which determines his 8 majority and minority, his marriage, succession, testacy, or intestacy-must depend." Gray, C. J., in the late
9 Massachusetts case of *Ross v. Ross*¹⁸ speaking with special reference to capacity to inherit, says: "It is a 10 general principle that the status or condition of a person, the relation in which he stands to another person,
11 and by which he is qualified or made capable to take" certain rights in that other's property, is fixed by the 12 law of the domicil; and that this status and capacity are to be recognized and upheld in every other State, so 13 far as they are not inconsistent with its own laws and policy."

14 But great difficulty in the discussion of this subject has arisen by reason of the loose and varying use of the 15 term status and the want of any clear definition of what is meant by it. Savigny¹⁹ understood it to mean "
16 capacity to have rights and to act;" and this undoubtedly was the sense in which it was understood by the 17 older jurists. In Niboyet v. Niboyet,²⁰ Brett, L. J., gives this definition: "The status of an individual, used as a 18 legal term, means the legal position of the individual in or with regard to the rest of a community." But 19 whatever may be the definition of the term, or whatever rules applicable to status in general may be looked 20 upon as having received general acceptance, there are certain prominent states or conditions of persons,
21 which have been treated of by writers and considered by the courts, and these it will be well to examine 22 separately, with a view to ascertain how far they are affected by domicil.

23 [Treatise on the Law of Domicil, M.W. Jacobs, 1887; Little Brown and Company, §29, pp. 38-39]

24 Because domicile is a prerequisite to BEING a statutory citizen and domicile is voluntary, then being a "taxpayer" must be
25 voluntary. In the case of Cook, he WAS NOT domiciled in the STATUTORY "United States*" (federal zone) but rather 26 Mexico at the time. So, to claim the status of STATUTORY "citizen", he had to volunteer or consent by claiming it on his 27 1921 1040 tax return.

28 In addition, domicile also plays a factor in civil enforcement, because there is not civil statutory jurisdiction without a
29 domicile, per Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 17(b). Below is a definition of "domicile":

30 "domicile. A person's legal home. That place where a man has his true, fixed, and permanent home and
31 principal establishment, and to which whenever he is absent he has the intention of returning. Smith v. Smith,
32 206 Pa.Super. 310, 213 A.2d. 94. Generally, physical presence within a state and the intention to make it one's
33 home are the requisites of establishing a "domicile" therein. The permanent residence of a person or the place
34 to which he intends to return even though he may actually reside elsewhere. A person may have more than one
35 residence but only one domicile. The legal domicile of a person is important since it, rather than the actual
36 residence, often controls the jurisdiction of the taxing authorities and determines where a person may
37 exercise the privilege of voting and other legal rights and privileges."

38 [Black's Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, p. 485]

39 "Thus, the Court has frequently held that domicile or residence, more substantial than mere presence in 40 transit or sojourn, is an adequate basis for taxation, including income, property, and death taxes. Since the 41 Fourteenth Amendment makes one a citizen of the state wherein he resides, the fact of residence creates
42 universally reciprocal duties of protection by the state and of allegiance and support by the citizen. The latter

¹⁹ System, etc. §361 (Guthrie's Trans, p. 139). Bar understands status in the same sense, §44 (Gillespie's trans. p.172). Gray, C. J., in the case above cited, thus distinguishes the two phases of capacity which go to make up status: "The capacity or qualification to inherit or succeed to property, which is an incident of the status or condition, requiring no action to give it effect, is to be distinguished from the capacity or competency to enter into contracts that confer rights upon others. A capacity to take and have differs from a capacity to do and contract; in short, a capacity of holding from a capacity to act." Ross v. Ross, ubi supra.

1 obviously includes a duty to pay taxes, and their nature and measure is largely a political matter. Of course,
2 the situs of property may tax it regardless of the citizenship, domicile, or residence of the owner, the most
3 obvious illustration being a tax on realty laid by the state in which the realty is located."

5 We also establish the connection between domicile and tax liability in the following article.

Why Domicile and Becoming a "Taxpayer" Require Your Consent*, Form #05.002
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

6 Only in the case of the national government for statutory but not constitutional "U.S. citizens" abroad are factors OTHER
7 than physical "residence" or domicile even relevant, as pointed out in Cook v. Tait. What "OTHER" matters might those
8 be? Well, in the case of Cook, the thing taxed is a voluntary franchise, and that status of being a statutory but not 9 constitutional "U.S. citizen" abroad exercising what the courts call "privileges and immunities" of the national (rather than 10 FEDERAL) government is the franchise. Note the language in Cook v. Tait, which attempted to connect the American 11 located and domiciled "abroad" in Mexico with receipt of a government "benefit" and therefore excise taxable "privilege"
12 and franchise/contract.

13 "We may make further exposition of the national power as the case depends upon it. It was illustrated at once
14 in United States v. Bennett by a contrast with the power of a state. It was pointed out that there were limitations
15 upon the latter that were not on the national power. The taxing power of a state, it was decided, encountered
16 at its borders the taxing power of other states and was limited by them. There was no such limitation, it was
17 pointed out, upon the national power, and that the limitation upon the states affords, it was said, no ground
18 for constructing a barrier around the United States, 'shutting that government off from the exertion of 19 powers which inherently belong to it by virtue of its sovereignty.'

20 "The contention was rejected that a citizen's property without the limits of the United States derives no
21 benefit from the United States. The contention, it was said, came from the confusion of thought in 'mistaking
22 the scope and extent of the sovereign power of the United States as a nation and its relations to its citizens and
23 their relation to it.' And that power in its scope and extent, it was decided, is based on the presumption
24 that government by its very nature benefits the citizen and his property wherever found, and that
25 opposition to it holds on to citizenship while it 'belittles and destroys its advantages and blessings by denying 26 the possession by government of an essential power required to make citizenship completely beneficial.' In other
27 words, the principle was declared that the government, by its very nature, benefits the citizen and his property
28 wherever found, and therefore has the power to make the benefit complete. Or, to express it another way, the 29 basis of the power to tax was not and cannot be made dependent upon the situs of the property in all cases, it
30 being in or out of the United States, nor was not and cannot be made dependent upon the domicile of the 31 citizen, that being in or out of the United States, but upon his relation as citizen to the United States and the 32 relation of the latter to him as citizen. The consequence of the relations is that the native citizen who is taxed
33 may have domicile, and the property from which his income is derived may have situs, in a foreign country and 34 the tax be legal—the government having power to impose the tax."
35 [Cook v. Tait, 265 U.S. 47 (1924)]

36 So the key thing to note about the above is that the tax liability attaches to the STATUS of BEING or REPRESENTING a
37 statutory but not constitutional "citizen of the United States" under the Internal Revenue Code, and NOT to domicile of the 38 human being, based on the above case.

39 "Or, to express it another way, the basis of the power to tax was not and cannot be made dependent upon the
40 situs of the property in all cases, it being in or out of the United States, nor was not and cannot be made
41 dependent upon the domicile of the citizen, that being in or out of the United States, but upon his relation as
42 citizen to the United States and the relation of the latter to him as citizen. The consequence of the relations is
43 that the native citizen who is taxed may have domicile, and the property from which his income is derived may
44 have situs, in a foreign country and the tax be legal—the government having power to impose the tax."
45 [Cook v. Tait, 265 U.S. 47 (1924)]

46 There are only two ways to reach a nonresident party through the civil law: Domicile and contract/consent.²¹

47 "All the powers of the government [including ALL of its civil enforcement powers against the public] must be
48 carried into operation by individual agency, either through the medium of public officers, or contracts made
49 with [private] individuals."

²¹ See Great IRS Hoax, Form #11.302, Section 5.2.6: The Two Sources of Federal Civil Jurisdiction: "Domicile" and "Contract";
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>.

The voluntary choice of electing to be treated as a statutory “U.S. citizen” under the Internal Revenue Code, in turn, can only be a franchise contract/agreement that implements a “public office” in the U.S. government. The office, in turn, is chattel property of the U.S. Government that the creator of the franchise can regulate or tax ANYWHERE under the franchise “protection” contract. All rights that attach to STATUS are, in fact, franchises, and the Cook case is no exception. This, in fact, is why falsely claiming to be a statutory “U.S. citizen” is a crime under 18 U.S.C. §911: Because the franchise status is a creation of and therefore “property” of the national government and abuse of said property or the public rights and “benefits” that attach to it is a crime.

The government can only tax what it creates, and it created the PUBLIC OFFICE but not the OFFICER filling the office. The “Taxpayer Identification Number” functions as a de facto “license” to exercise the privilege/franchise. A license is permission from the state to do that which is otherwise illegal. You can’t license something unless it is FIRST ILLEGAL to perform WITHOUT a license, so they had to make it illegal to claim to be a statutory “U.S. citizen” per 18 U.S.C. §911 before they could license it and tax it. Hence:

1. The statutory “taxpayer” (self-proclaimed statutory “U.S. citizen”) at 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(14) is a public office in the U.S. Government.
2. The U.S. government, in turn, is a federal corporation.
3. All federal corporations are domiciled in the District of Columbia per Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 17(b).
4. The term “citizen of the United States” is a synonym for the “taxpayer” status and also a public office in the corporation.
5. All corporations are franchises and all those serving in offices within the corporation are acting in a representative capacity as “officers of a corporation” and therefore “persons” as statutorily defined in 26 U.S.C. §6671(b) and 26 U.S.C. §7343.
6. The human being is:
 - 6.1. Filling the public office of statutory “taxpayer” and statutory self-proclaimed “citizen of the United States”
 - 6.2. Representing the federal corporation as an officers of said corporation.
 - 6.3. Representing the office, which is the real statutory “person” defined in 26 U.S.C. §6671(b) and 26 U.S.C. §7343 because acting as a public officer.
 - 6.4. Surety for public office he fills but he/she is NOT the office.
 - 6.5. Availing himself of the “benefits” and “protections” and “privileges” of a federal franchise.
7. Because the human being consented to act as an officer and accept the franchise “benefits” of the public office, he must ALSO accept all the statutory franchise obligations that GO with the office. You can’t take the “goodies” of the office and refuse to also accept the obligations that go with those goodies. Here is how the California Civil Code describes this:

California Civil Code
DIVISION 3. OBLIGATIONS
PART 2. CONTRACTS
TITLE 1. NATURE OF A CONTRACT
CHAPTER 3. CONSENT

1589. A voluntary acceptance of the benefit of a transaction is equivalent to a consent to all the obligations arising from it, so far as the facts are known, or ought to be known, to the person accepting.

8. Invoking the franchise status causes a waiver of sovereign immunity under the Foreign Sovereign Immunities Act, 28 U.S.C. §1605(a)(2). This waiver of sovereign immunity is also called “purposeful availment” by the courts, which simply means that you consensually and purposefully directed your activities towards instigating commerce with the

1 Beast (government, Rev. 19:19). Hence by voluntarily calling yourself a statutory “U.S. citizen”, you are fornicating
2 with the Beast and you are among the “seas of people nations and tongues” who are part of Babylon the Great Harlot
3 mentioned in the Bible book of Revelation. Black’s Law Dictionary, in fact, defines “commerce” as “intercourse”.
4 This makes all those who engage in such commerce with government instead of God into fornicators and harlots.

5 “Commerce. ...Intercourse by way of trade and traffic between different peoples or states and the citizens or 6 inhabitants thereof, including not only the purchase, sale, and exchange of commodities, but also the 7 instrumentalities [governments] and agencies by which it is promoted and the means and appliances by which it 8 is carried on...”

9 [Black’s Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, p. 269]

- 10 9. Domicile is still important even within the Internal Revenue Code. The domicile at issue in the I.R.C., however, is the 11 domicile of the OFFICE and NOT the PERSON FILLING said office. The OFFICE can have a different domicile than 12 the OFFICER. The statutory “taxpayer” found in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(14) is a public office. The human being filling
13 the office is NOT the “taxpayer”, but a PARTNER with the office and surety for the office. That partnership is 14 mentioned in 26 U.S.C. §6671(b) and 26 U.S.C. §7343.

15 4.4 International Terrorism and legislating from the bench by Ex-President Taft and the U.S. 16 Supreme Court in Cook v. Tait, 265 U.S. 47 (1924)

17 The severe problems with the U.S. Supreme Court’s interpretation in Cook v. Tait, 265 U.S. 47 (1924) are that:

- 18 1. They say that state taxing authority stops at the state’s borders because it collides with adjacent states, and yet they 19 don’t apply the same extraterritorial limitation upon United States taxing jurisdiction, even though it:
20 1.1. Similarly collides with and interferes with neighboring countries
21 1.2. Violates the sovereignty and EQUALITY of adjacent nations under the law of nations.
22 2. Americans domiciled abroad ought to be able to decide when or if they want to be protected by the United States
23 government while abroad and that method ought to be DIRECT and explicit, by expressly asking in writing to be 24 protected and receiving a BILL for the cost of the protection. Instead, based on the outcome in Cook, the Supreme
25 Court made the request for protection and INDIRECT RUSE by associating it with the voluntary choice of calling
26 oneself a statutory “U.S. citizen” under national law. This caused the commission of a crime under current law and 27 additional confusion because:
28 2.1. 18 U.S.C. §911 makes it is a crime to claim to be a statutory “U.S. citizen” under 8 U.S.C. §1401.
29 2.2. Under current law, you cannot be a statutory “citizen” without a domicile in a place and you can only have a
30 domicile in one place at a time. Cook had a domicile in Mexico and therefore was a statutory “resident” or 31 “citizen” of Mexico AND NOWHERE ELSE. You can only be a statutory “citizen” in one place at a time
32 because you can only have a DOMICILE in one place at a time. Therefore, Cook COULD NOT be a statutory 33 “citizen of the “United States” at the same time and was LYING to claim that he was.
34 3. If an American domiciled abroad doesn’t want to be protected and says so in writing, they shouldn’t be forced to be 35 protected or to pay for said protection through “taxation”.
36 4. The U.S. government cannot and should not have the right to FORCE you to both be protected and to pay for such 37 protection, because that is THEFT and SLAVERY, and especially if you regard their protection as an injury or a 38 “protection racket”.
39 5. YOU and not THEY should have the right to define whether what they offer constitutes “PROTECTION” because 40 YOU are the “customer” for protection services and the customer is ALWAYS right. You can’t be sovereign if they 41 can define their mere existence as “protection” or a so-called “benefit”, force you to pay for that “protection” or 42 “benefit”, and charge whatever they want for said protection. After all, they could injure you and as long as they are the 43 only ones who can define words in a dispute, then they can call it a “benefit” and even charge you for it!

44 “Society in every state is a blessing, but government even in its best state is but a necessary evil; in its worst
45 state an intolerable one; for when we suffer, or are exposed to the same miseries by a government, which we 46 might expect in a country without government, our calamity is heightened by reflecting that we furnish the 47 means by which we suffer.”

48 [Thomas Paine, “Common Sense” Feb 1776]

- 49 6. If the government is going to enforce their right to force you to accept their “protection” and/or franchise “benefits”
50 and pay for them, then by doing so they are:
51 6.1. “Purposefully availing themselves” of commerce within your life and your private jurisdiction.

6.2. Conferring upon you the same EQUAL right to tax THEM and regulate THEM that they claim they have the right to do to you under the concept of equal rights and equal protection.

6.3. Conferring upon you the right to decide how much YOU get to charge THEM for invading your life, stealing your resources, time, and property, and enslaving you.

The above are an unavoidable consequence of the requirements of the Foreign Sovereign Immunities Act, 28 U.S.C. Chapter 97. That act applies equally to ALL governments, not just to foreign governments, under the concept of equal protection. YOU are your own “government” for your own “person”, family, and property. According to the U.S. Supreme Court, ALL the power of the U.S. government is delegated to them from YOU and “We the People”.

Therefore, whatever rights they claim you must ALSO have, including the right to enforce YOUR franchises against them without THEIR consent. Hence, the same rules they apply to you HAVE to apply to them or they are nothing but terrorists and extortionists. The U.S. Supreme Court affirmed that when they tax nonresidents without their consent, it is more akin to crime and extortion than a lawful government function.

"The power of taxation, indispensable to the existence of every civilized government, is exercised upon the assumption of an equivalent rendered to the taxpayer in the protection of his person and property, in adding to the value of such property, or in the creation and maintenance of public conveniences in which he shares -- such, for instance, as roads, bridges, sidewalks, pavements, and schools for the education of his children. If the taxing power be in no position to render these services, or otherwise to benefit the person or property taxed, and such property be wholly within the taxing power of another state, to which it may be said to owe an allegiance, and to which it looks for protection, the taxation of such property within the domicile of the owner partakes rather of the nature of an extortion than a tax, and has been repeatedly held by this Court to be beyond the power of the legislature, and a taking of property without due process of law. Railroad Company v. Jackson, 7 Wall. 262; State Tax on Foreign-Held Bonds, 15 Wall. 300; Tappan v. Merchants' National Bank, 19 Wall. 490, 499; Delaware &c. R. Co. v. Pennsylvania, 198 U.S. 341, 358. In Chicago &c. R. Co. v. Chicago, 166 U.S. 226, it was held, after full consideration, that the taking of private property [199 U.S. 203] without compensation was a denial of due process within the Fourteenth Amendment. See also Davidson v. New Orleans, 96 U.S. 97, 102; Missouri Pacific Railway v. Nebraska, 164 U.S. 403, 417; Mt. Hope Cemetery v. Boston, 158 Mass. 509, 519."
[Union Refrigerator Transit Company v. Kentucky, 199 U.S. 194 (1905)]

Of course, the U.S. Supreme Court in Cook v. Tait DID NOT address any of the problems or “cognitive dissonance” deliberately created above by their hypocritical double standard and self-serving word games, and if they had reconciled the problems described, they would have had to expose the FALSE, injurious, and prejudicial presumptions they were making and the deliberate conflict of law and logic those presumptions created, and thereby reconcile them.

As you will eventually learn, most cases in federal court essentially boil down to a criminal conspiracy by the judge and the government prosecutor to “hide their presumptions” and “hide the consent of the governed” in order to advantage the government and conceal or protect their criminal conspiracy to steal from you and enslave you. This game is done by quoting words out of context, confusing the statutory and constitutional contexts, and abusing “words of art” to deceive and presume in a way that “benefits” them RATHER than the people they are supposed to be protecting. Their “presumptions” serve as the equivalent of religious faith, and the false god they worship in their religion is SATAN himself and the money and power he tempts them with. They know that:

1. They can’t govern you civilly without your consent as the Declaration of Independence requires.
2. The statutory “person”, “individual”, “citizen”, “resident”, and “inhabitant” they civilly govern is created by your consent.
3. When you call them on it and say you aren’t a “person”, “citizen”, “individual”, or “resident” under the civil law because you never consented to be governed, and instead are a nonresident, then instead of proving your consent to be governed as the Declaration of Independence requires, the criminals on the bench call you frivolous to cover up their FRAUD and THEFT of your property.

Likewise, corrupt governments frequently try to hide the prejudicial and injurious presumptions they are making because having to justify and defend them would expose the cognitive conflicts, irrationality, and deception in their reasoning. They know that all presumptions that prejudice rights protected by the Constitution are a violation of due process of law and render a void judgment so they try to hide them. For instance, in the Cook case, the presumption the Supreme Court made was that the term “citizen of the United States” made by Plaintiff Cook meant a STATUTORY citizen pursuant to 8 U.S.C. §1401, and NOT a CONSTITUTIONAL citizen. However, the only thing the Plaintiff reasonably could have been was a CONSTITUTIONAL and NOT STATUTORY citizen by virtue of being domiciled abroad. It is a fact that you can only have a domicile in one place at a time, that your statutory status as a “citizen” comes from that choice of domicile, and that you can therefore only be a statutory “citizen” of ONE place at a time. The Plaintiff in Cook was a citizen or resident

1 of Mexico and NOT of the statutory "United States" (federal territory). Hence, he was not a "taxpayer" because not the
2 statutory "citizen of the United States" that they fraudulently acquiesced to allow him to claim that he was. Allowing him
3 to claim that status was FRAUD, but because it padded their pockets they tolerated it and went along with it, and used it to 4 deceive even more people with a vague ruling describing their ruse.

5 If the Supreme Court had exposed all of their presumptions in the Cook case and were honest, they would have held that:

- 6 1. Cook was NOT a statutory "citizen of the United States" under the federal revenue laws at that time. The Internal 7 Revenue Code was not in existence at that time and wasn't introduced until 1939.
- 8 2. Cook could not truthfully claim to be a statutory "citizen of the United States" if he was domiciled in Mexico as he 9 claimed and as they accepted. He didn't have a domicile on federal territory called the "United States" therefore his 10 claim that he was such a statutory "citizen" was FRAUD that they could not condone, even if it profited them.
11 Compare Newman-Green v. Alfonso Larrain, 490 U.S. 826 \(1989\), in which a foreign domiciled American was 12 declared "stateless" and therefore beyond the jurisdiction of the federal courts.
- 13 3. Cook was a nonresident alien and "stateless person" in relation to federal jurisdiction by virtue of his foreign domicile 14 in Mexico. Hence, he was beyond the reach of the federal courts:

- 37 4. As a private human being, Cook did not lawfully occupy a public office in the federal government as that term is 38 legally defined. Hence, he could not lawfully be a statutory "individual" or "person". All "persons" and "individuals"
39 within the Internal Revenue Code are public offices and/or instrumentalities of the national and not state government.
40 Hence, Cook was a "nonresident alien NON-individual". The U.S. Supreme Court has held that the ability to regulate 41 EXCLUSIVELY PRIVATE conduct is repugnant to the constitution. Hence, only activities of public officers and 42 agents may be regulated or taxed without violating the USA Constitution. Any other approach results in slavery and 43 involuntary servitude. See the following for proof that all statutory "taxpayers" are public officers engaged in the 44 "trade or business" and public officer franchise defined in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(26):

Why Your Government is Either a Thief or You are a "Public Officer" for Income Tax Purposes, Form #05.008
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

- 45 5. Since all public offices must be executed in the District of Columbia and not elsewhere, and since Cook wasn't in the 46 District of Columbia, then the I.R.C. could not be used to CREATE that public office and the "taxpayer" status that 47 attaches to it in Mexico where he was.

1 In order to sidestep the SIGNFICANT issues raised by the above considerations, the U.S. Supreme Court:

- 2 1. Made their ruling far too ambiguous and short.
- 3 2. Refused to address:
 - 4 2.1. All the implications described above and generated more rather than less confusion.
 - 5 2.2. The holding in United States v. Erie R. Co., 106 U.S. 327 (1882) above.
- 6 3. Cited NO statutory authority or legal authority for their decision to create the statutory “citizen of the United States” franchise that exists INDEPENDENT of the domicile of a domestic national. It was created entirely by judicial fiat and “legislating from the bench”. The reason they had to do this is that Congress cannot write law that operates extraterritorially outside the country without the party who is subject to it consenting to it or to a status under it.
- 7 4. The entire exercise was based on prejudicial “presumption” that injured the rights and property of Cook, who was the party they allegedly were “protecting”.
 - 8 4.1. The injury to Cook’s rights and property came by having to pay a tax based on a civil law statute that did not and could not apply in a foreign country.
 - 9 4.2. The only rationale given by the U.S. Supreme Court was their unsubstantiated “presumption” that because they were a “government” or part of a government, then their very EXISTENCE as a government was a so-called “benefit”, even though they never proved with evidence that there was any “benefit” or protection directly to Cook in that case. In fact, he was INJURED by having to pay the tax, rather than protected, and got NOTHING in return for it.
 - 10 4.3. They made this presumption in SPITE of the fact that the very same court said that all presumptions that prejudice or injure rights are unconstitutional. The only defense they could rationally have for inflicting such an injury is that the Bill of Rights does NOT protect Americans in foreign countries and only operates within states of the Union. Hence, when not restrained by the Constitution, its’ OK to STEAL from anyone without any statutory authority using nothing but judicial fiat:

24 “The power to create presumptions is not a means of escape from constitutional [or territorial] restrictions,”
25 [New York Times v. Sullivan, 376 U.S. 254 (1964)]

- 26 5. Left everyone speculating and afraid about what it meant, and how someone could owe a tax without a domicile in the statutory “United States” (federal territory), even though in every other case domicile is the only reason that people owe an income tax.
- 27 6. Used the fear and speculation and presumption that uncertainty creates and compels to force people to believe things that are simply not supportable by evidence nor true about tax liability, such as that EVERYONE IN THE WORLD, regardless of where they physically are or where they are domiciled, owe a tax to the place of their birth, if that place of birth is the United States of America.

33 The above factors, when combined, amount to acts of INTERNATIONAL TERRORISM against nonresident parties. Terrorists, after all, engage primarily in kidnapping and extortion. Their self-serving presumptions about your status and their abuse of “words of art”²² are the means of kidnapping you without your consent or knowledge, and the result of the kidnapping is that they get to treat you as a “virtual resident” of what Mark Twain calls “the District of Criminals” who has to bend over for King Congress on a daily basis as a compelled public officer of the national government. And they have the GALL to call this kind of abuse a “benefit” and charge you for it! If you want to know how these international terrorists describe THEMSELVES, see:

34 Sovereignty Forms and Instructions Online, Form #10.004, Cites by Topic: “terrorism”
35 <http://famguardian.org/TaxFreedom/CitesByTopic/terrorism.htm>

36 The judicial fiat that created this extraterritorial PLUNDER, ahem, I mean “tax” is completely hypocritical, because the United States, even to this day, is the ONLY major industrialized country that in fact invokes an income tax on “citizens of the United States” ANYWHERE IN THE WORLD, and thus interferes with the EQUAL taxing powers of other countries and causes Americans to falsely believe that they are subject to DOUBLE taxation of their foreign earnings.

37 What a SCAM these shysters pulled with this ruling. And why did they do it? Because the Federal Reserve printing presses were running full speed starting in 1913, and yet paper money was still redeemable in gold, so they had to have a

22 See Legal Deception, Propaganda, and Fraud, Form #05.014; <http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>.

1 way to sop up all the excess currency they were printing. And WHO issued this ruling? None other than the person
2 responsible for:

- 3 1. Introducing the Sixteenth Amendment, which was the Income Tax Amendment and getting it fraudulently ratified in 4 1913.
- 5 2. Starting the Federal Reserve in 1913.

6 President William Howard Taft, the only President of the United States to ever serve as a U.S. Supreme Court Justice,
7 assumed the role of Chief Justice in 1921, and this landmark ruling of Cook v. Tait was his method to expand the
8 implementation of that tax to have worldwide scope. It wouldn't surprise us if Cook was an insider government minion
9 commissioned secretly to undertake this critical case. He probably even setup this case to make sure it would come before
10 him and secretly HIRED Cook to bring it all the way up to the U.S. Supreme Court on his watch. That's how DEVIIOUS
11 these bastards are. Is it any wonder that in 1929, Congress handed Taft a marble palace to conduct his job in? That's right:
12 The current U.S. Supreme Court building and marble palace of the civil religion of socialism was authorized during his
13 tenure as a reward for his monumental exploits as both a President of the United States and a U.S. Supreme Court justice.²³
14 They didn't finish that palace until 1933, shortly after he died on March 30, 1930. That was his prize for creating a scam of 15 worldwide scope by:

- 16 1. Learning the tax ropes as a collector of internal revenue from 1882-1884. See:

Biography of William Howard Taft, SEDM Exhibit 11.003
<http://sedm.org/Exhibits/ExhibitIndex.htm>

- 17 2. Being elected President of the United States in 1909.
- 18 3. Introducing the current Sixteenth Amendment in 1909. This was one of his first official acts as President. See:

Congressional Record, June 16, 1909, pp. 3344-3345, SEDM Exhibit #02.001
<http://sedm.org/Exhibits/ExhibitIndex.htm>

- 19 4. Getting the Sixteenth Amendment fraudulently ratified in 1913 after he was voted out of office but while he still 20 occupied said office as a lame duck President.
- 21 5. Passing the Federal Reserve Act in 1913 during the Christmas recess when only five congressmen were present to vote.
- 22 6. Being appointed U.S. Supreme Court Justice in 1921.
- 23 7. Giving the new income tax he created a worldwide scope with the Cook v. Tait ruling.
- 24 8. Introducing and passing the Writ of Certiorari Act of 1925, in which Congress consented to allow the U.S. Supreme 25 Court to turn the appeal process into a franchise in which they had the discretion NOT to rule on cases before them and 26 thereby INTERFERE with the rights of the litigants. The cases they would then refuse to rule on would be those in 27 which income tax laws were unlawfully enforced. Thus, they denied justice to the people who were abused by the 28 unlawful enforcement of the revenue laws and FRAUDS that protect it.

29 It also shouldn't surprise you to learn that Taft was the ONLY president to ALSO serve as a collector of internal revenue.
30 Even as President and later as a Chief Justice of the U.S. Supreme Court, he apparently continued in that role. Here is what 31 Wikipedia says on this subject:

32 Legal career

²³ Maybe we should have used the phrase "heavy duty" instead of "monumental". After all, President William Howard Taft was literally the fattest person to ever serve as president, weighing in at over 300 pounds. Maybe the phrase "It ain't over till the fat lady sings" should be changed to "It ain't over till the fat man talks."

12 The bottom line is that any entity that can FORCE you to accept protection you don't want, call it a "benefit" even though
13 you call it an injury and a crime, and force you to pay for it is a protection racket and a mafia, not a government. And such 14 crooks will always resort to smoke and mirrors like that of Taft above to steal from you to subsidize their protection racket.

15 Prior to implementing the Taft international terrorism SCAM, a dissenting opinion of the same U.S. Supreme Court earlier
16 described it for what it is, and the court was naturally completely silent in opposing the objections made, and therefore
17 AGREED to ALL OF THEM under Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 17(b). The issue was withholding of a tax upon
18 English citizens by an American company situated abroad. The English citizens were aliens in relation to both the United 19 States and the corporation doing the withholding, and therefore nonresident aliens. Field basically said that withholding on 20 them was theft and violated the law of nations. You aren't surprised that Taft very conveniently omitted to address the 21 issues raised in this dissenting opinion, are you? He was a THIEF, a LIAR, and a charlatan intent on SUPPRESSING the 22 truth and effectively legislating from the bench INTERNATIONALLY, which is a thing that not even Congress can do.
23 Here is the text of that marvelous dissenting opinion by Justice Field:

24 *I am not able to agree with the majority of the court in the decision of this case. The tax which is sustained is, in 25 my judgment, a tax upon the income of non-resident aliens and nothing else. The 122d section of the act of June
26 30, 1864, c. 173, as amended by that of July 13, 1866, c. 184, subjects the interest on the bonds of the company
27 to a tax of five per cent, *331 and authorizes the company to deduct it from the amount payable to the coupon-
28 holder, whether he be a non-resident alien or a citizen of the United States. The company is thus made the 29 agent of the government [PUBLIC OFFICER!] for the collection of the tax. It pays nothing itself; the tax is 30 exacted from the creditor, the party who holds the coupons for interest. No collocation of words can change
31 this fact. And so it was expressly adjudged with reference to a similar tax in the case of United States v.
32 Railroad Company, reported in the 17th of Wallace. There a tax, under the same statute, was claimed upon the 33 interest of bonds held by the city of Baltimore. And it was decided that the tax was upon the bondholder and not 34 upon the corporation which had issued the bonds; that the corporation was only a convenient means of 35 collecting it; and that no pecuniary burden was cast upon the corporation. This was the precise question upon 36 which the decision of that case turned.*

37 *A paragraph from the opinion of the court will show this beyond controversy. "It is not taxation," said the 38 court, "that government should take from one the profits and gains of another. That is taxation which 39 compels one to pay for the support of the government from his own gains and of his own property. In the 40 cases we are considering, the corporation parts not with a farthing of its own property. Whatever sum it pays
41 to the government is the property of another. Whether the tax is five per cent on the dividend or interest, or 42 whether it be fifty per cent, the corporation is neither richer nor poorer. Whatever it thus pays to the

1 government, it by law withholds from the creditor. If no tax exists, it pays seven per cent, or whatever be its
2 rate of interest, to its creditor in one unbroken sum. If there be a tax, it pays exactly the same sum to its
3 creditor, less five per cent thereof, and this five per cent it pays to the government. The receivers may be two,
4 or the receiver may be one, but the payer pays the same amount in either event. It is no pecuniary burden
5 upon the corporation, and no taxation of the corporation. The burden falls on the creditor. He is the party
6 taxed. In the case before us, this question controls its decision. If the tax were upon the railroad, there is no
7 defence; it must be paid. But we hold that the tax imposed by the 122d section is in substance and in law a tax
8 upon the *332 income of the creditor or stockholder, and not a tax upon the corporation." See also Haight v.
9 Railroad Company, 6 Wall. 15, and Railroad Company v. Jackson, 7 id. 262, 269.

10 The bonds, upon the interest of which the tax in this case was laid, are held in Europe, principally in England;
11 they were negotiated there; the principal and interest are payable there; they are held by aliens there, and the 12 interest on them has always been paid there. The money which paid the interest was, until paid, the property of 13 the company; when it became the property of the bondholders it was outside of the jurisdiction of the United 14 States.

15 Where is the authority for this tax? It was said by counsel on the argument of the case — somewhat facetiously,
16 I thought at the time — that Congress might impose a tax upon property anywhere in the world, and this court
17 could not question the validity of the law, though the collection of the tax might be impossible, unless,
18 perchance, the owner of the property should at some time visit this country or have means in it which could be 19 reached. This court will, of course, never, in terms, announce or accept any such doctrine as this. And yet it is 20 not perceived wherein the substantial difference lies between that doctrine and the one which asserts a power to 21 tax, in any case, aliens who are beyond the limits of the country. The debts of the company, owing for interest,
22 are not property of the company, although counsel contended they were, and would thus make the wealth of the 23 country increase by the augmentation of the debts of its corporations. Debts being obligations of the debtors are 24 the property of the creditors, so far as they have any commercial value, and it is a misuse of terms to call them
25 anything else; they accompany the creditors wherever the latter go; their situs is with the latter. I have 26 supposed heretofore that this was common learning, requiring no argument for its support, being, in fact, a self-
27 evident truth, a recognition of which followed its statement. Nor is this the less so because the interest may be 28 called in the statute a part of the gains and profits of the company. Words cannot change the fact, though they 29 may mislead and bewilder. The thing remains through all disguises of terms. If the company makes no gains or 30 profits on its business and borrows the money to *333 meet its interest, though it be in the markets abroad, it is 31 still required under the statute to withhold from it the amount of the taxes. If it pays the interest, though it be 32 with funds which were never in the United States, it must deduct the taxes. The government thus lays a tax,
33 through the instrumentality of the company [PUBLIC OFFICE/WITHHOLDING AGENT], upon the 34 income of a non-resident alien over whom it cannot justly exercise any control, nor upon whom it can justly
35 lay any burden.

36 The Chief Justice, in his opinion in this case, when affirming the judgment of the District Court, happily
37 condensed the whole matter into a few words. "The tax," he says, "for which the suit was brought, was the tax
38 upon the owner of the bond, and not upon the defendant. It was not a tax in the nature of a tax in rem upon the 39 bond itself, but upon the income of the owner of the bond, derived from that particular piece of property. The 40 foreign owner of these bonds was not in any respect subject to the jurisdiction of the United States, neither was 41 this portion of his income. His debtor was, and so was the money of his debtor; but the money of his debtor did
42 not become a part of his income until it was paid to him, and in this case the payment was outside of the United
43 States, in accordance with the obligations of the contract which he held. The power of the United States to tax
44 is limited to persons, property, and business within their jurisdiction, as much as that of a State is limited to 45 the same subjects within its jurisdiction. State Tax on Foreign-Held Bonds, 15 Wall. 300."

46 "A personal tax," says the Supreme Court of New Jersey, "is the burden imposed by government on its own
47 citizens for the benefits which that government affords by its protection and its laws, and any government
48 which should attempt to impose such a tax on citizens of other States would justly incur the rebuke of the
49 intelligent sentiment of the civilized world." State v. Ross, 23 N.J.L. 517, 521.

50 In imposing a tax, says Mr. Chief Justice Marshall, the legislature acts upon its constituents. "All subjects," he 51 adds, "over which the power of a State extends are objects of taxation, but those over which it does not 52 extend are, upon the soundest principles, exempt from taxation. This proposition *334 may almost be 53 pronounced self-evident." McCulloch v. Maryland, 4 Wheat. 316, 428.

54 There are limitations upon the powers of all governments, without any express designation of them in their
55 organic law; limitations which inhere in their very nature and structure, and this is one of them, — that no
56 rightful authority can be exercised by them over alien subjects, or citizens resident abroad or over their 57 property there situated. This doctrine may be said to be axiomatic, and courts in England have felt it so
58 obligatory upon them, that where general terms, used in acts of Parliament, seem to contravene it, they have 59 narrowed the construction to avoid that conclusion. In a memorable case decided by Lord Stowell, which 60 involved the legality of the seizure and condemnation of a French vessel engaged in the slave trade, which was,
61 in terms, within an act of Parliament, that distinguished judge said: "That neither this British act of 62 Parliament nor any commission founded on it can affect any right or interest of foreigners unless they are
63 founded upon principles and impose regulations that are consistent with the law of nations. That is the only

1 law which Great Britain can apply to them, and the generality of any terms employed in an act of Parliament
2 must be narrowed in construction by a religious adherence thereto." The Le Louis, 2 Dod. 210, 239.

3 Similar language was used by Mr. Justice Bailey of the King's Bench, where the question was whether the
4 act of Parliament, which declared the slave trade and all dealings therewith unlawful, justified the seizure of
5 a Spanish vessel, with a cargo of slaves on board, by the captain of an English naval vessel, and it was held
6 that it did not. The odiousness of the trade would have carried the justice to another conclusion if the public
7 law would have permitted it, but he said, "That, although the language used by the legislature in the statute
8 referred to is undoubtedly very strong, yet it can only apply to British subjects, and can only render the slave
9 trade unlawful if carried on by them; it cannot apply in any way to a foreigner. It is true that if this were a
10 trade contrary to the law of nations a foreigner could not maintain this action. But it is not; and as a
11 Spaniard could not be considered as bound by the acts of the British legislature prohibiting this trade, it
12 would be unjust to deprive *335 him of a remedy for the heavy damage he has sustained." Madrazo v. Willes,
13 3 Barn. & Ald. 353.

14 In The Apollon, a libel was filed against the collector of the District of St. Mary's for damages occasioned by 15 the seizure of the ship and cargo whilst lying in a river within the territory of the King of Spain, and Mr. Justice
16 Story said, speaking for the court, that "The laws of no nation can justly extend beyond its own jurisdiction,
17 except so far as regards its own citizens. They can have no force to control the sovereignty or rights of any 18 other nation within its own jurisdiction. And however general and comprehensive the phraseology used in 19 our municipal laws may be, they must always be restricted in construction to places and persons upon whom 20 the legislatures have authority and jurisdiction." 9 Wheat. 362.

21 When the United States became a separate and independent nation, they became, as said by Chancellor Kent,
22 "subject to that system of rules which reason, morality, and custom had established among the enlightened
23 nations of Europe as their public law," and by the light of that law must their dealings with persons of a foreign
24 jurisdiction be considered; and according to that law there could be no debatable question, that the jurisdiction
25 of the United States over persons and property ends where the foreign jurisdiction begins.

26 What urgent reasons press upon us to hold that this doctrine of public law may be set aside, and that the 27 United States, in disregard of it, may lawfully treat as subject to their taxing power the income of non-
28 resident aliens, derived from the interest received abroad on bonds of corporations of this country negotiable
29 and payable there? If, in the form of taxes, the United States may authorize the withholding of a portion of 30 such interest, the amount will be a matter in their discretion; they may authorize the whole to be withheld.
31 And if they can do this, why may not the States do the same thing with reference to the bonds issued by 32 corporations created under their laws. They will not be slow to act upon the example set. If such a tax may be
33 levied by the United States in the rightful exercise of their taxing power, why may not a similar tax be levied
34 upon the interest on bonds of the same corporations by the States within their respective jurisdictions in the 35 rightful *336 exercise of their taxing power? What is sound law for one sovereignty ought to be sound law
36 for another.

37 It is said, in answer to these views, that the governments of Europe — or at least some of them, where a tax is 38 laid on incomes — deduct from the interest on their public debts the tax due on the amount as income, whether 39 payable to a non-resident alien or a subject of the country. This is true in some instances, and it has been 40 suggested in justification of it that the interest, being payable at their treasuries, is under their control, the 41 money designated for it being within their jurisdiction when set apart for the debtor, who must in person or by 42 agent enter the country to receive it. That presents a case different from the one before us in this, — that here
43 the interest is payable abroad, and the money never becomes the property of the debtor until actually paid to
44 him there. So, whether we speak of the obligation of the company to the holder of the coupons, or the money
45 paid in its fulfilment, it is held abroad, not being, in either case, within the jurisdiction of the United States.
46 And with reference to the taxation of the interest on public debts, Mr. Phillimore, in his Treatise on 47 International Laws, says: "It may be quite right that a person having an income accruing from money lent to a
48 foreign State should be taxed by his own country on his income derived from this source; and if his own country
49 impose an income tax, it is, of course, a convenience to all parties that the government which is to receive the 50 tax should deduct it from the debt which, in this instance, that government owes to the payer of the tax, and thus
51 avoid a double process; but a foreigner, not resident in the State, is not liable to be taxed by the State; and it
52 seems unjust to a foreign creditor to make use of the machinery which, on the ground of convenience, is applied
53 in the cases of domestic creditors, in order to subject him to a tax to which he is not on principle liable." Vol. ii.
54 pp. 14, 15.

55 Here, also, is a further difference: the tax here is laid upon the interest due on private contracts. As observed
56 by counsel, no other government has ever undertaken to tax the income of subjects of another nation
57 accruing to them at their own domicile upon property held there, and arising out of ordinary business, or 58 contracts between individuals.

59 *337 This case is decided upon the authority of Railroad Company v. Collector, reported in 100 U.S., and the 60 doctrines from which I dissent necessarily flow from that decision. When that decision was announced I was 61 apprehensive that the conclusions would follow which I now see to be inevitable. It matters not what the interest
62 may be called, whether classed among gains and profits, or covered up by other forms of expression, the fact

1 remains, the tax is laid upon it, and that is a tax which comes from the party entitled to the interest, — here, a
2 non-resident alien in England, who is not, and never has been, subject to the jurisdiction of this country.

3 In that case the tax is called an excise on the business of the class of corporations mentioned, and is held to
4 be laid, not on the bondholder who receives the interest, but upon the earnings of the corporations which pay
5 it. How can a tax on the interest to be paid be called a tax on the earnings of the corporation if it earns
6 nothing — if it borrows the money to pay the interest? How can it be said not to be a tax upon the income of 7 the bondholder when out of his interest the tax is deducted?

8 That case was not treated as one, the disposition of which was considered important, as settling a rule of action.
9 The opening language of the opinion is: "As the sum involved in this suit is small, and the law under which the 10 tax in question was collected has long since been repealed, the case is of little consequence as regards any 11 principle involved in it as a rule of future action." But now it is invoked in a case of great magnitude, and many 12 other similar cases, as we are informed, are likely soon to be before us; and though it overrules repeated and 13 solemn adjudications rendered after full argument and mature deliberation, though it is opposed to one of the 14 most important and salutary principles of public law, it is to be received as conclusive, and no further word
15 from the court, either in explanation or justification of it, is to be heard. I cannot believe that a principle so
16 important as the one announced here, and so injurious in its tendencies, so well calculated to elicit
17 unfavorable comment from the enlightened sentiment of the civilized world, will be allowed to pass
18 unchallenged, though the court is silent upon it.

19 I think the judgment should be affirmed.
20 [United States v. Erie R. Co., 106 U.S. 327 (1882)]

21 Note some key points from the above dissenting opinion of Justice Field:

- 22 1. The tax imposed is an EXCISE and FRANCHISE tax upon the "benefits" of the protection of a specific municipal 23 government. Those who DON'T WANT or NEED and DO NOT CONSENT to such protection are NOT the lawful 24 subjects of the tax. Those who consent call themselves statutory "citizens". Those who don't call themselves non-25 resident non-persons.

26 "A personal tax," says the Supreme Court of New Jersey, "is the burden imposed by government on its own
27 citizens for the benefits which that government affords by its protection and its laws, and any government
28 which should attempt to impose such a tax on citizens of other States would justly incur the rebuke of the 29 intelligent sentiment of the civilized world." State v. Ross, 23 N.J.L. 517, 521.

- 30 2. The United States has no jurisdiction outside its own borders or outside its own TERRITORY, meaning federal 31 territory. Constitutional states of the Union are NOT federal territory.

32 ". . . the jurisdiction of the United States over persons and property ends where the foreign jurisdiction 33 begins."

- 34 3. The only way that any legal PERSON, including a government, can reach outside its own territory is by exercising its 35 right to contract, which means that it can ONLY act upon those who EXPRESSLY consent and thereby contract with 36 the sovereign. That consent is manifested by calling oneself a STATUTORY "citizen". Those who don't consent to 37 the franchise protection contract call themselves statutory "nonresident aliens".

38 Debitum et contractus non sunt nullius loci.
39 Debt and contract [franchise agreement, in this case] are of no particular place.

40 Locus contractus regit actum.
41 The place of the contract [franchise agreement, in this case] governs the act.

44

- 45 4. The tax is upon the RECIPIENT, not the company making the payment. The "taxpayer" is the recipient of the payment, 46 and hence, the company paying the recipient is NOT the "taxpayer". The company, in turn, is identified as an "agent of 47 the government", meaning a withholding agent and therefore PUBLIC OFFICER. WHY? Because the Erie railroad is 48 a FEDERAL and not STATE corporation. They hid this from their ruling. If they had been a PRIVATE company that 49 was NOT a FEDERAL corporation, they could not lawfully act as agents of the government.

50 "It is not taxation," said the court, "that government should take from one the profits and gains of another.
51 That is taxation which compels one to pay for the support of the government from his own gains and of his
52 own property. In the cases we are considering, the corporation parts not with a farthing of its own property.

1 Whatever sum it pays to the government is the property of another. Whether the tax is five per cent on the
2 dividend or interest, or whether it be fifty per cent, the corporation is neither richer nor poorer. Whatever it
3 thus pays to the government, it by law withholds from the creditor. If no tax exists, it pays seven per cent, or
4 whatever be its rate of interest, to its creditor in one unbroken sum. If there be a tax, it pays exactly the same
5 sum to its creditor, less five per cent thereof, and this five per cent it pays to the government. The receivers
6 may be two, or the receiver may be one, but the payer pays the same amount in either event. It is no
7 pecuniary burden upon the corporation, and no taxation of the corporation. The burden falls on the creditor.
8 He is the party taxed. In the case before us, this question controls its decision. If the tax were upon the railroad,
9 there is no defence; it must be paid. But we hold that the tax imposed by the 122d section is in substance and
10 *in law a tax upon the 332 income of the creditor or stockholder, and not a tax upon the corporation. See 11 also Haight v. Railroad Company, 6 Wall. 15, and Railroad Company v. Jackson, 7 id. 262, 269.

- 12 5. The recipient is a non-resident alien BECAUSE he has a legislatively FOREIGN DOMICILE. NOT because he has a 13 FOREIGN NATIONALITY.
14 6. The FOREIGN DOMICILE makes the target of the tax a STATUTORY “alien” but not necessarily a
15 CONSTITUTIONAL alien.

16 "Here, also, is a further difference: the tax here is laid upon the interest due on private contracts. As
17 observed by counsel, no other government has ever undertaken to tax the income of subjects of another
18 nation accruing to them at their own domicile upon property held there, and arising out of ordinary business,
19 or contracts between individuals."

- 20 7. The “non-resident alien” is COMPLETELY outside the jurisdiction of the United States. Hence, it is LEGALLY
21 IMPOSSIBLE for such a person to become a statutory “taxpayer”. The only way to CRIMINALLY force him to 22 become a taxpayer is to:
23 7.1. Let the company illegally withhold earnings of a nontaxpayer.
24 7.2. Make getting a refund of amounts withheld a “privilege” in which he has to request a "INDIVIDUAL Taxpayer
25 Identification Number" (ITIN) that makes him a statutory "individual".
26 7.3. After he gets the number ILLEGALLY, force him to file "taxpayer" tax return. If he refuses to do that, then they 27 refuse to refund the amount withheld. That's international terrorism and extortion.

28 "The government thus lays a tax, through the instrumentality [PUBLIC OFFICE] of the company, upon the
29 income of a non-resident alien over whom it cannot justly exercise any control, nor upon whom it can justly
30 lay any burden."

- 31 8. The laws of a nation ONLY apply to its own STATUTORY “citizens” who have a domicile on FEDERAL 32 TERRITORY. They do NOT apply to STATUTORY aliens with a legislatively FOREIGN DOMICILE. These 33 statutory “citizens” can ONLY become statutory citizens by SELECTING and CONSENTING to a domicile on federal 34 territory AND physically being on said territory.

35 "The laws of no nation can justly extend beyond its own jurisdiction, except so far as regards its own
36 citizens. They can have no force to control the sovereignty or rights of any other nation within its own 37 jurisdiction. And however general and comprehensive the phraseology used in our municipal laws may be,
38 they must always be restricted in construction to places and persons upon whom the legislatures have 39 authority and jurisdiction." 9 Wheat. 362.

- 40 9. If you are not a STATUTORY citizen (per 8 U.S.C. §1401, 26 U.S.C. §3121(d) and 26 C.F.R. §1.1-1(c)), which 41 Justice Field calls a "SUBJECT", then you can't be taxed. Field refers to those who can't be taxed as “aliens”, and he
42 can only mean STATUTORY aliens, not CONSTITUTIONAL aliens:

43 "All subjects," he adds, "over which the power of a State extends are objects of taxation, but those over
44 *which it does not extend are, upon the soundest principles, exempt from taxation. This proposition 334 may 45 almost be pronounced self-evident." McCulloch v. Maryland, 4 Wheat. 316, 428.

- 46 10. The court KNEW they were pulling a FRAUD on the people, because they were SILENT on so many important issues
47 that Field pointed out. Per Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 8(b)(6), they AGREED with his conclusions because they 48 did not EXPRESSLY DISAGREE or disprove ANY of his arguments.

49 "though it is opposed to one of the most important and salutary principles of public law, it is to be received as
50 conclusive, and no further word from the court, either in explanation or justification of it, is to be heard. I
51 cannot believe that a principle so important as the one announced here, and so injurious in its tendencies, so
52 well calculated to elicit unfavorable comment from the enlightened sentiment of the civilized world, will be 53 allowed to pass unchallenged, though the court is silent upon it."

1 11. Justice Field says the abuse of "words of art" mask the nature of the above criminal extortion:

2 "Words [of art] cannot change the fact, though they may [DELIBERATELY] mislead and bewilder. The 3 thing remains through all disguises of terms."

4 12. If you want to search for cases on "nonresident aliens" defined in 26 U.S.C. §7701(b)(1)(B) , the Supreme Court spells
5 them differently than the code itself. You have to search for "non-resident alien" instead.

6 4.5 Supporting evidence for doubters

7 Those skeptical readers who doubt the conclusions of the previous section or who challenge the significance of the Cook v.
8 Tait ruling to federal jurisdiction are invited to compare the following two cases and try to explain the differences between 9 them:

- 10 1. Cook v. Tait, 265 U.S. 47 (1924).
- 11 2. Newman-Green v. Alfonso Larrain, 490 U.S. 826 (1989).

12 In BOTH of the above cases, the parties were:

- 13 1. Were domiciled in a legislatively foreign state AND a foreign country. Cook was domiciled in Mexico while Bettison 14 was domiciled in Venezuela.
- 15 2. Were statutory "non-resident non-persons" under the Internal Revenue Code based on their chosen domicile.
- 16 3. Became the party to a controversy with someone domiciled in the statutory "United States", meaning federal territory.
- 17 4. Because of their legislatively foreign domicile, were technically "stateless persons" and therefore not statutory 18 "persons" under federal law.
- 19 5. Were born in America (the COUNTRY) and therefore an American national and Constitutional citizen.

20 The only difference between the two cases is the DECLARED CIVIL (STATUTORY) STATUS of the litigant and the 21 CONTEXT in which that status is interpreted or applied. Recall that there are TWO main contexts in which legal terms can 22 be used: CONSTITUTIONAL and STATUTORY.

23 In Newman-Green, Bettison was presumed by the court to be a CONSTITUTIONAL "U.S. citizen" by virtue of his foreign 24 domicile. Here is what the court said about him:

25 Petitioner Newman-Green, Inc., an Illinois corporation, brought this state law contract action in District Court
26 *against a Venezuelan corporation, four Venezuelan citizens, and William L. Bettison, a United States citizen
27 domiciled in Caracas, Venezuela. Newman-Green's complaint alleged that the Venezuelan corporation had* 28 breached a licensing agreement, and that the individual defendants, joint and several guarantors of royalty
29 payments due under the agreement, owed money to Newman-Green. Several years of discovery and pretrial
30 motions followed. The District Court ultimately granted partial summary judgment for the guarantors and
32 appealed.

33 At oral argument before a panel of the Seventh Circuit Court of Appeals, Judge Easterbrook inquired as to the 34 statutory basis for diversity jurisdiction, an issue which had not been previously raised either by counsel or by*
35 the District Court Judge. In its complaint, Newman-Green had invoked 28 U.S.C. §1332(a)(3), which confers
36 jurisdiction in the District Court when a citizen of one State sues both aliens and citizens of a State (or States)
37 *different from the plaintiffs. In order to be a citizen of a State within the meaning of the diversity statute, a
38 natural person must both be a citizen of the United States and be domiciled within the State. See Robertson v.
39 Cease, 97 U.S. 646, 648-649 (1878); Brown v. Keene, 8 Pet. 112, 115 (1834). The problem in this case is that 40 Bettison, although a United States citizen, has no domicile in any State. He is therefore "stateless" for 41 purposes of § 1332(a)(3). Subsection 1332(a)(2), which confers jurisdiction in the District Court when a
42 citizen of a State sues aliens only, also could not be satisfied because Bettison is a United States citizen. [490
43 U.S. 829]
44 [Newman-Green v. Alfonso Larrain, 490 U.S. 826 (1989)]

45 In the above context, the phrase "United States citizen" was used in its CONSTITUTIONAL sense. Bettison could not
46 have been a STATUTORY "United States citizen" without a domicile a statutory "State". He was therefore a
47 CONSTITUTIONAL "United States citizen".

1 "The problem in this case is that Bettison, although a United States citizen, has no domicile in any State. He
2 is therefore "stateless" for purposes of § 1332(a)(3)."
3 [Newman-Green v. Alfonso Larrain, 490 U.S. 826 (1989)]

4 Comparing the Cook v. Tait case, the phrase "citizen of the United States" was interpreted in its STATUTORY sense.

5 "Or, to express it another way, the basis of the power to tax was not and cannot be made dependent upon the
6 situs of the property in all cases, it being in or out of the United States, nor was not and cannot be made
7 dependent upon the domicile of the citizen, that being in or out of the United States, but upon his relation as
8 citizen to the United States and the relation of the latter to him as citizen. The consequence of the relations is
9 that the native citizen who is taxed may have domicile, and the property from which his income is derived may
10 have situs, in a foreign country and the tax be legal—the government having power to impose the tax."
11 [Cook v. Tait, 265 U.S. 47 (1924)]

12 Because Bettison in the Newman-Green case was a CONSTITUTIONAL citizen but not a STATUTORY citizen with a
13 legislatively foreign domicile, he had to be dismissed from the class action and be treated as BEYOND the jurisdiction of 14 the court and OUTSIDE the class of involved in the CLASS action.

15 Cook, on the other hand, personally petitioned the court for protection and they heard his case, even though he technically
16 had the SAME CONSTITUTIONAL but not STATUTORY "U.S. citizen" status as Bettison. The U.S. Supreme Court,
17 however, instead of claiming he was ALSO a "stateless person" and dismissing either him or the case as they did with 18 Bettison, rather claimed they HAD jurisdiction and ruled on the matter in the government's favor and AGAINST Cook.
19 The U.S. Supreme Court did so based on the UNSUBSTANTIATED PRESUMPTION that the "U.S. citizen" he claimed
20 to be was a STATUTORY "U.S. citizen" under 8 U.S.C. §1401 rather than CONSTITUTIONAL "U.S. citizen".

22 4.6 Challenging Extraterritorial Enforcement to Prevent Identity Theft³⁴

23 We have prepared an entire short presentation showing you all the "traps" on government forms and how to avoid them:

Avoiding Traps in Government Forms Course, Form #12.023
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

24 All of the so-called "traps" described in the above presentation center around the following abuses and FRAUDS:

- 25 1. The perjury statement at the end of the form betrays where they PRESUME you geographically are. 28 U.S.C. 1746
26 identifies TWO possible jurisdictions, and if they don't use the one in 28 U.S.C. §1746(1), they are PRESUMING,
27 usually falsely, that you are located on federal territory and come under territorial law.

28 28 U.S. Code § 1746 - Unsworn declarations under penalty of perjury

29 Wherever, under any law of the United States or under any rule, regulation, order, or requirement made
30 pursuant to law, any matter is required or permitted to be supported, evidenced, established, or proved by the 31 sworn declaration, verification, certificate, statement, oath, or affidavit, in writing of the person making the 32 same (other than a deposition, or an oath of office, or an oath required to be taken before a specified official 33 other than a notary public), such matter may, with like force and effect, be supported, evidenced, established, or 34 proved by the unsworn declaration, certificate, verification, or statement, in writing of such person which is 35 subscribed by him, as true under penalty of perjury, and dated, in substantially the following form:

36 (1) If executed without the United States [federal territory or the government]: "I declare (or certify, verify, or 37 state) under penalty of perjury under the laws of the United States of America that the foregoing is true and

39 (Signature)".

40 (2) If executed within the United States [federal territory or the government], its territories, possessions, or 41 commonwealths: "I declare (or certify, verify, or state) under penalty of perjury that the foregoing is true and
42 correct. Executed on (date).

³⁴ Source: Why Domicile and Becoming a "Taxpayer" Require Your Consent, Form #05.002, Section 13.11; <http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>.

(Signature)".

2. Telling you when you submit the form that the terms on the form have their ordinary, PRIVATE, non-statutory meaning but after they RECEIVE the form, INTERPRETING all terms in their PUBLIC and STATUTORY context. This is bait and switch, deception, and FRAUD.
3. Confusing the CONSTITUTIONAL context with the STATUTORY context for geographical words of art such as "United States" and "State".
4. Confusing CONSTITUTIONAL "Citizens" or "citizens of the United States" in the Fourteenth Amendment with STATUTORY "U.S. citizen", or "nationals and citizens of the United states at birth" under 8 U.S.C. §1401.
5. Confusing CONSTITUTIONAL "persons" or "people" with STATUTORY "persons" or "individuals". CONSTITUTIONAL "persons" are all MEN OR WOMEN AND NOT ARTIFICIAL entities or offices, while civil STATUTORY persons are all PUBLIC offices and fictions of law created by Congress.
6. Connecting you with a civil status found in civil statutory law, which is a public office. The form itself does this:
 - 6.1. In the "status" block. It either doesn't offer a STATUTORY "non-resident non-person" status in the form or they don't offer ANY form for STATUTORY "non-resident non-persons".
 - 6.2. The Title of the form. The upper left corner of the 1040 identifies the applicant as a "U.S. individual", meaning a public office domiciled on federal territory.
 - 6.3. Underneath the signature, which usually identifies the civil status of the applicant, such as "taxpayer".

The remedy for the above types of deception and fraud is the following:

1. Avoid filling out any and every government form.
2. If FORCED to fill out a government form, ALWAYS attach a MANDATORY attachment that defines all geographical, citizenship, and status terms the form with precise definitions and betray whether the meaning is STATUTORY or CONSTITUTION. It CANNOT be both. If you think it is both, you are practicing a logical fallacy called "equivocation". State on the form you are attaching to that the form is "Not valid, false, and fraudulent if not accompanied by the following attachment: _____". The attachments on our site are good for this.
3. Tell the recipient that if they don't rebut the definitions you provide within a specified time limit, then they agree and are estopped from later challenging it.
4. Specify that none of the terms on the form submitted have the meaning found in any state or federal statutory code. Instead they imply only the common meaning.

There are many forms on our site you can attach to standard forms provided by the IRS, state revenue agencies, financial institutions, and employers that satisfy the above to ensure that your correct status is reflected in their records. Below are the most important ones.

1. Affidavit of Citizenship, Domicile, and Tax Status, Form #02.001
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>
2. Tax Form Attachment, Form #04.201
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>
3. USA Passport Application Attachment, Form #06.007
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>
4. Voter Registration Attachment, Form #06.003
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>
5. Affidavit of Domicile: Probate, Form #04.223
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

The language after the line below is language derived from Form #04.223 above. The language included is very instructive and helpful to our readers in identifying HOW the identity theft happens. We strongly suggest reusing this language in the administrative record of any entity who claims you are a statutory "taxpayer", "person", or "individual" under the Internal Revenue Code or state revenue code.

AFFIDAVIT REGARDING ESTATE OF

4 which this estate settlement relates for all parties concerned.

5 1. Civil status and domicile of decedent: Decedent at the time of his death was:

6 1.1. A CONSTITUTIONAL "Citizen" or "citizen of the United States" as defined in the Fourteenth Amendment.

8 26 C.F.R. §1.1-1(c), or 26 U.S.C. §3121(e). 26 C.F.R. §1.1-1(c) identifies an 8 U.S.C. §1401 "U.S. citizen" as 9 the ONLY type of "citizen" subject to the Internal Revenue Code. All such "U.S. citizens" are territorial citizens
10 born within and domiciled within federal territory and NOT a CONSTITUTIONAL "State".

11 1.3. Domiciled in the CONSTITUTIONAL "United States" and CONSTITUTIONAL State at the time of his death.

39 1.4. NOT domiciled in the STATUTORY "United States" or "State" as that term is defined in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(9)
40 and (a)(10) or 4 U.S.C. §110(d) or the state revenue codes. These areas are federal territory not within the 41 exclusive jurisdiction of a state of the Union.

42 1.5. NOT a STATUTORY "U.S. person" as that term is defined in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(30), because it relies on the 43 definition of "United States" found in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(9) and (a)(10) or 4 U.S.C. §110(d) or the state revenue 44 codes.

45 1.6. An "individual" in an ordinary or CONSTITUTIONAL sense. By this we mean he was a PRIVATE man or 46 woman protected by the CONSTITUTION and the COMMON LAW and NOT subject to the jurisdiction of the 47 STATUTORY civil law.

48 1.7. NOT an "individual" in a STATUTORY sense or as used in any revenue code. 26 C.F.R. §1.1441-1(c)(3)
49 indicates that the ONLY types of "individuals" found anywhere in the Internal Revenue Code are both "foreign 50 persons" and "aliens" or "nonresident aliens". Therefore the decedent could not possibly be an "individual" as 51 that term is used in the Internal Revenue Code.

(1901).

³⁶ Congress, under the Act of February 21, 1871, ch. 62, § 34, 16 Stat. 419, 426, expressly extended the Constitution and federal laws to the District of Columbia. See Downes, 182 U.S. at 261, 21 S.Ct. at 777 (stating that the "mere cession of the District of Columbia" from portions of Virginia and Maryland did not "take [the District of Columbia] out of the United States or from under the aegis of the Constitution.").

1 26 C.F.R. §1.1441-1 Requirement for the deduction and withholding of tax on payments to foreign persons.

2 (c) Definitions

3 (3) Individual.

4 (i) Alien individual.

5 The term alien individual means an individual who is not a citizen or a national of the United States. See Sec.
6 1.1-1(c).

7 (ii) Nonresident alien individual.

8 The term nonresident alien individual means a person described in section 7701(b)(1)(B), an alien individual
9 who is a resident of a foreign country under the residence article of an income tax treaty and Sec. 301.7701(b)-
10 7(a)(1) of this chapter, or an alien individual who is a resident of Puerto Rico, Guam, the Commonwealth of 11 Northern Mariana Islands, the U.S. Virgin Islands, or American Samoa as determined under Sec. 301.7701(b)-
12 1(d) of this chapter. An alien individual who has made an election under section 6013 (g) or (h) to be treated as
13 a resident of the United States is nevertheless treated as a nonresident alien individual for purposes of
14 withholding under chapter 3 of the Code and the regulations thereunder.

15 2. Warning NOT to confuse STATUTORY and CONSTITUTIONAL contexts for geographical or citizenship terms:

16 2.1. Recipient of this form is cautioned NOT to PRESUME that the STATUTORY and CONSTITUTIONAL contexts
17 of geographical, citizenship, or domicile terms are equivalent. They are NOT and are mutually exclusive.

18 2.2. One CANNOT lawfully have a domicile in two different places that are legislatively “foreign” and a “foreign 19 estate” in relation to each other. This is what George Orwell called DOUBLETHINK and the result is 20 CRIMINAL IDENTITY THEFT.

21 2.3. The U.S. Supreme Court held in Rogers v. Bellei, 401 U.S. 815 (1971) that an 8 U.S.C. §1401 STATUTORY
22 "U.S. citizen" is NOT a CONSTITUTIONAL "citizen of the United States" under the Fourteenth Amendment.
23 See also Valmonte v. I.N.S., 136 F.3d. 914 (C.A.2, 1998) earlier. Therefore, it is my firm understanding that the 24 decedent:

25 2.3.1. Was NOT domiciled in the STATUTORY “United States” or “State” defined in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(9) and 26 (a)(10) or 4 U.S.C. §110(d) or the state revenue codes. These areas are federal territory under the exclusive
27 jurisdiction of the national government.

28 2.3.2. Was NOT a STATUTORY "U.S. citizen" under 8 U.S.C. §1401, which is the ONLY type of “citizen”
29 mentioned anywhere in the Internal Revenue Code. These are territorial citizens domiciled on federal 30 territory, and the decedent was NOT so domiciled.

31 3. “Intention” of the Decedent:

32 The transaction to which this submission relates requires the affiant to provide legal evidence of the “domicile” of the 33 decedent for the purposes of settling the estate. This requires that he/she make a “legal determination” about someone
34 who he/she had a blood relationship with. “Domicile” is a legal term which includes both PHYSICAL presence in a 35 place COMBINED with consent AND intent to dwell there permanently.

36 *“domicile. A person's legal home. That place where a man has his true, fixed, and permanent home and
37 principal establishment, and to which whenever he is absent he has the intention of returning. Smith v. Smith,
38 206 Pa.Super. 310, 213 A.2d. 94. Generally, physical presence within a state and the intention to make it one's
39 home are the requisites of establishing a “domicile” therein. The permanent residence of a person or the place
40 to which he intends to return even though he may actually reside elsewhere. A person may have more than one
41 residence but only one domicile. The legal domicile of a person is important since it, rather than the actual
42 residence, often controls the jurisdiction of the taxing authorities and determines where a person may 43 exercise the privilege of voting and other legal rights and privileges.”*

44 [Black's Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, p. 485]

45 3.1. Two types of domicile are involved in the estate of the decedent:

46 3.1.1. The domicile of the PRIVATE PHYSICAL MAN OR WOMAN under the common law and the 47 constitution.

48 3.1.2. The domicile of any PUBLIC OFFICES he/she fills as part of any civil statutory franchises, such as the 49 revenue codes, family codes, traffic codes, etc. These “offices” are represented by the civil statutory 50 “person”, “individual”, “taxpayer”, “driver”, “spouse”, etc.

51 3.2. Legal publications recognize the TWO components of a MAN OR WOMAN, meaning the PUBLIC and the 52 PRIVATE components as follows:

53 “A private person cannot make constitutions or laws, nor can he with authority construe them, nor can he 54 administer or execute them.”

55 [United States v. Harris, 106 U.S. 629, 1 S.Ct. 601, 27 L.Ed. 290 (1883)]

1 "All the powers of the government [including ALL of its civil enforcement powers against the public] must be
2 *carried into operation by individual agency, either through the medium of public officers, or contracts made
3 with [private] individuals."
4 [Osborn v. Bank of U.S., 22 U.S. 738 (1824)]

5 3.3. Man or woman can simultaneously be in possession of BOTH PUBLIC and PRIVATE rights. This gives rise to 6 TWO legal "persons": PUBLIC and PRIVATE.

7 3.3.1. The CIVIL STATUTORY law attaches to the PUBLIC person. It can do so ONLY by EXPRESS
8 CONSENT, because the Declaration of Independence, which is organic law, declares that all JUST powers
9 derive from the CONSENT of the party. The implication is that anything NOT expressly and in writing
10 consented to is UNJUST and a tort.

11 3.3.2. The COMMON law and the Constitution attach to and protect the PRIVATE person. This is the person
12 most people think of when they refer to someone as a "person". They are not referring to the PUBLIC civil 13 statutory "person".

14 This is consistent with the following maxim of law.

15 Quando duo juro concurrunt in und personâ, aequum est ac si essent in diversis.
16 *When two rights [public right v. private right] concur in one person, it is the same as if they were two separate
17 persons. 4 Co. 118.
18 [Bouvier's Maxims of Law, 1856;
19 SOURCE: <http://famguardian.org/Publications/BouvierMaximsOfLaw/BouviereMaxims.htm>]

20 3.4. The affiant would be remiss and malfeasant NOT to:

21 3.4.1. Distinguish between the PRIVATE man or woman and the PUBLIC office that are both represented by the 22 decedent.

23 3.4.2. Condone or allow the recipient of the form to PRESUME that they are both equivalent. They are simply 24 NOT.

25 3.4.3. Require all those enforcing PUBLIC rights associated with a PUBLIC office in the government (such as 26 "person", "individual", "taxpayer", etc.) to satisfy the burden of proving that the decedent lawfully 27 CONSENTED to the office by making an application, taking an oath, and serving where the office (also 28 called a statutory "trade or business" in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(26)) was EXPRESSLY authorized to be 29 executed.

30 3.5. Regarding the "intent" of the decedent, affiant is certain that the decedent had NO DESIRE to occupy, accept the 31 benefits of, or accept the obligations of any offices he/she was compelled to fill, and therefore:

32 3.5.1. These offices DO NOT lawfully exist . . .and

33 3.5.2. It would be UNJUST to enforce the obligations of said offices WITHOUT written evidence of consent being 34 presented by those doing the enforcing. . .and

35 3.5.3. The recipient of this form has a duty to provide a way NOT to accept any government "benefit" or franchise
36 or the obligations that attach to such an acceptance in the context of any and all transactions which relate to 37 his PRIVATE, exclusively owned property, including the entire estate that is the subject of probate. . . .and

38 "Invito beneficium non datur.
39 No one is obliged to accept a benefit against his consent. Dig. 50, 17, 69. But if he does not dissent he will be 40 considered as assenting. Vide Assent.

41 Quilibet potest renunciare juri pro se inducto.

52 arising from it, so far as the facts are known, or ought to be known, to the person accepting.

3.5.4. It would be criminal THEFT and IDENTITY THEFT to presume that the decedent did hold any such PUBLIC offices or to enforce the obligations of such offices upon the decedent. These offices include any and all civil statuses he might have under the Internal Revenue Code (e.g. “taxpayer”, “person”, or “individual”) or the state revenue codes. 4. Location of decedent, estate, and property of the estate:

4.1. All property of the estate is WITHIN the CONSTITUTIONAL “United States” and the CONSTITUTIONAL State of domicile of the decedent.

4.2. All property is WITHOUT the STATUTORY "United States" defined in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(9) and (a)(10), and 4 U.S.C. §110(d).

4.3. The CONSTITUTIONAL and the STATUTORY “United States” and “State” are mutually exclusive and non-overlapping.

5. The estate and all affiants are a STATUTORY “foreign estate” per 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(31) because:

(31) Foreign estate or trust

(A) Foreign estate

The term “foreign estate” means an estate the income of which, from sources without the United States which is not effectively connected with the conduct of a trade or business within the United States, is not includible in gross income under subtitle A.

(B) Foreign trust

The term “foreign trust” means any trust other than a trust described in subparagraph (E) of paragraph (30).

5.1. WITHOUT the STATUTORY “United States”.

*TITLE 26 > Subtitle F > CHAPTER 79 > Sec. 7701. [Internal Revenue Code]
Sec. 7701. – Definitions
(a)(9) United States*

The term “United States” when used in a geographical sense includes only the States and the District of Columbia.

(a)(10) State

The term “State” shall be construed to include the District of Columbia, where such construction is necessary to carry out provisions of this title.

*TITLE 4 - FLAG AND SEAL, SEAT OF GOVERNMENT, AND THE STATES

(d) The term “State” includes any Territory or possession of the United States.

5.2. WITHIN the CONSTITUTIONAL “United States”, meaning states of the CONSTITUTIONAL union of states.

5.3. NOT WITHIN the STATUTORY “State” or STATUTORY “United States” under the state revenue codes. It may be within these things in OTHER titles of the state codes, because other titles use different definitions for “State” and “United States”.

6 17018. "State" includes the District of Columbia, and the possessions of the United States.
7 (Amended by Stats. 1961, Ch. 537.)

8 5.4. Not connected with a STATUTORY "trade or business" within the STATUTORY "United States" as defined in 9 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(26). Decedent was NOT engaged in a public office within the national but not state
10 government.

11 26 U.S.C. §7701
12 (a) Definitions
13 (26) trade or business

14 "The term 'trade or business' includes the performance of the functions of a public office."

15 NOTE: The U.S. Supreme Court held in the License Tax Cases that Congress CANNOT establish the above
16 "trade or business" in a state in order to tax it.

17 "Congress cannot authorize a trade or business within a State in order to tax it."
18 [License Tax Cases, 72 U.S. 462, 18 L.Ed. 497, 5 Wall. 462, 2 A.F.T.R. 2224 (1866)]

19 Keep in mind that the "license" they are talking about is the constructive license represented by the Social
20 Security Number and Taxpayer Identification Number, which are only required for those ENGAGING in a 21 STATUTORY "trade or business" per 26 C.F.R. §301.6109-1. The number therefore behaves as the equivalent of 22 what the Federal Trade Commission (FTC) calls a "franchise mark".

23 "A franchise entails the right to operate a business that is "identified or associated with the franchisor's
24 trademark, or to offer, sell, or distribute goods, services, or commodities that are identified or associated with 25 the franchisor's trademark." The term "trademark" is intended to be read broadly to cover not only trademarks,
26 but any service mark, trade name, or other advertising or commercial symbol. This is generally referred to as 27 the "trademark" or "mark" element.

28 The franchisor [the government] need not own the mark itself, but at the very least must have the right to 29 license the use of the mark to others. Indeed, the right to use the franchisor's mark in the operation of the 30 business - either by selling goods or performing services identified with the mark or by using the mark, in 31 whole or in part, in the business' name - is an integral part of franchising. In fact, a supplier can avoid Rule
32 coverage of a particular distribution arrangement by expressly prohibiting the distributor from using its 33 mark."

34 [FTC Franchise Rule Compliance Guide, May 2008;

35 SOURCE: <http://business.ftc.gov/documents/bus70-franchise-rule-compliance-guide>]

36 Decedent, if he or she used any government issued identifying number, did so under compulsion, in violation of 42
37 U.S.C. §408(a)(8), and he/she hereby defines such use as NOT creating any presumption that he was engaged in any 38 franchise or office, but rather evidence of unlawful duress against a non-resident non-person.

39 6. The above definitions of geographical and citizenship terms are NOT definitions as legally defined if they do not
40 include all things or classes of things which are EXPRESSLY included. Furthermore, the rules of statutory 41 construction require that anything and everything that is NOT EXPRESSLY INCLUDED in the above definitions is
42 PURPOSEFULLY EXCLUDED:

43 "Expressio unius est exclusio alterius. A maxim of statutory interpretation meaning that the expression of one
44 thing is the exclusion of another. Burgin v. Forbes, 293 Ky. 456, 169 S.W.2d 321, 325; Newblock v. Bowles,
45 170 Okl. 487, 40 P.2d. 1097, 1100. Mention of one thing implies exclusion of another. When certain persons
46 or things are specified in a law, contract, or will, an intention to exclude all others from its operation may be
47 inferred. Under this maxim, if statute specifies one exception to a general rule or assumes to specify the effects
48 of a certain provision, other exceptions or effects are excluded."

49 [Black's Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, p. 581]

1 NOTE: Judges and even government administrators are NOT legislators and cannot by fiat or presumption add
2 ANYTHING they want to the definition of statutory terms. If they do, they are violating the separation of powers and
3 conducting a commercial invasion of the states in violation of Article 4, Section 4 of the United States Constitution.
4 Furthermore, according the creator of our three branch system of government, there is NO FREEDOM AT ALL and
5 liberty is IMPOSSIBLE when the executive and LEGISLATIVE functions are united under a single person:

6 "When the legislative and executive powers are united in the same person, or in the same body of
7 magistrates, there can be no liberty; because apprehensions may arise, lest the same monarch or senate
8 should enact tyrannical laws, to execute them in a tyrannical manner.

9 Again, there is no liberty, if the judiciary power be not separated from the legislative and executive. Were it
10 joined with the legislative, the life and liberty of the subject would be exposed to arbitrary control; for the judge
11 would be then the legislator. Were it joined to the executive power, the judge might behave with violence and
12 oppression [sound familiar?].

13 There would be an end of everything, were the same man or the same body, whether of the nobles or of the
14 people, to exercise those three powers, that of enacting laws, that of executing the public resolutions, and of 15 trying the causes of individuals."

16 [. . .]

17 In what a situation must the poor subject be in those republics! The same body of magistrates are possessed,
18 as executors of the laws, of the whole power they have given themselves in quality of legislators. They may
19 plunder the state by their general determinations; and as they have likewise the judiciary power in their
20 hands, every private citizen may be ruined by their particular decisions."

23 It is FRAUD to presume that the use of the word "includes" in any definition gives unlimited license to anyone to add

- 45 8. How NOT to respond to this submission: In responding to this submission, please DO NOT:
46 8.1. Tell the affiant what to put or NOT to put in his/her paperwork. That would be practicing law on affiant's
47 behalf, which I do not consent to.
48 8.2. Try to censor this addition or submission. That would be criminal subornation of perjury. This affidavit and the 49 attached paperwork are signed under penalty of perjury and therefore constitute "testimony of a witness". Any 50 attempt to influence that witness or restrict his or her testimony is criminal subornation of perjury.
51 8.3. Threaten to withhold service or in some way punish the affiant for submitting or insisting on including this 52 mandatory affidavit. All such efforts constitute criminal witness tampering.

- 1 8.4. Violate the privacy of the affiant or anyone involved in this transaction by sharing any information about them or 2 this transaction to any third party, whether private or in government.
- 3 8.5. Communicate emotions or opinions about this correspondence. The ONLY thing requested in response is 4 FACTS and LAW admissible as evidence in court and immediately relevant and “material” to the issues raised
 5 herein. Opinions, beliefs, or presumptions are not admissible as evidence in court under the rules of evidence and
 6 I don’t consent or stipulate to admit them. Furthermore, even FACTS or LAW are not admissible as evidence
 7 unless and until they are communicated by a competent IDENTIFIED witness who signs under penalty of 8 perjury. The identification required must include the full legal name, email address, phone number, and 9 workplace address of the witness. Otherwise, the evidence is without foundation and will be excluded. All 10 attempts to respond emotionally, with opinions, beliefs, or presumptions shall constitute malicious abuse of legal 11 process per 18 U.S.C. §1589 and the equivalent state statutes.
- 12 8.6. Cite or try to enforce any company policy that might override or supersede what is requested here. Any company
 13 policy which promotes, condones, or protects the commission of CRIMINAL activity clearly is unenforceable
 14 and non-binding on anyone it is alleged to pertain to, including the recipient of this form and the submitter as a 15 man or woman.
- 16 8.7. Contact the IRS or any government agency or rely on any government publication for help in dealing with this 17 issue. The courts have repeatedly held that you CANNOT rely on anything said by any government
 18 representative and the IRS’ own website says you can’t rely on their publications as a source of reasonable belief.
 19 This is also covered in:
Reasonable Belief About Income Tax Liability, Form #05.007

- 20 9. Invitation and time limit to rebut by recipient of this form: If the recipient disagrees about the civil status, domicile, or 21 location of the estate of the decedent, you are required to provide court admissible evidence proving EXACTLY where 22 the term "U.S. citizen", “United States”, and “State” as you used it in your communication includes
 23 CONSTITUTIONAL states of the Union or CONSTITUTIONAL “citizens” under the Fourteenth Amendment before
 24 the transaction that is related to this submission is completed. If you do not rebut the definitions appearing in this 25 affidavit with court admissible evidence, then:
 26 9.1. You constructively consent and stipulate to the definitions provided here both between us and between you and 27 other parties who might be involved in this transaction.
 28 9.2. You are equitably estopped and subject to laches in all future proceedings from contradicting the definitions
 29 herein provided.
- 30 10. Franchise agreement protecting commercial uses or abuses of this submission or any attachments: Any attempt to do
 31 any of the following shall constitute constructive irrevocable consent to the following franchise agreement by those 32 accepting this submission or any of the attached forms or those third parties who use such information as legal

4.7 Tactics that prevent federal extraterritorial jurisdiction

Therefore, if you are domiciled outside the statutory but not constitutional “United States”, meaning federal territory, and you wish to ensure that you are not falsely regarded as a “taxpayer” as in the case of Cook v. Tait above, then you need to ensure that:

1. You thoroughly understand citizenship so that the court can’t play word games on you like they did in Cook. Read the following to accomplish this:

Why You are a “national”, “state national”, and Constitutional but not Statutory Citizen, Form #05.006
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

2. You DO NOT connect yourself to the status of being a statutory “national and citizen of the United States at birth” per 8 U.S.C. §1401. Note that a CONSTITUTIONAL “citizen of the United States” per the Fourteenth Amendment is NOT equivalent and mutually exclusive to that of a statutory “citizen of the United States” per 8 U.S.C. §1401. This was the MAIN mistake in the Cook case. He claimed to be domiciled abroad and yet described himself as a statutory citizen, which means that he contradicted himself and even committed perjury if he filled out a government form describing himself as such. You can only have a domicile in one place and therefore be a statutory “citizen” of one place at a time. If the Plaintiff was domiciled in Mexico as he claimed, then he had no business calling himself a statutory “U.S. citizen”, but rather a non-resident non-person. He, on the other hand, essentially claimed to be a statutory citizen of TWO places at a time, and therefore to have a domicile in TWO places at once, which is a theoretical impossibility.
3. You describe yourself as:
 - 3.1. A CONSTITUTIONAL citizen under the Fourteenth Amendment.
 - 3.2. NOT a statutory “U.S. citizen” or “citizen of the United States” per 8 U.S.C. §1401.
 - 3.3. A “stateless person” not subject to federal statutory law or statutory jurisdiction.
 - 3.4. A nonresident of the statutory “United States” and a nonresident of federal territory.
4. You apply for a passport using forms off our website to ensure that:
 - 4.1. Acquisition of the passport is identified as NOT being a request for protection or “benefit” and which does not connect you to any government franchises.
 - 4.2. Your status is fully and accurately established in the governments records as a constitutional but not statutory citizen.
 - 4.3. The presumption that you are a statutory “U.S. citizen” per 8 U.S.C. §1401 or 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(30) is THOROUGHLY REBUTTED. The Department of State Form DS-11 Passport Application form has a big long warning about how “YOU”, meaning STATUTORY “U.S. citizens”, are liable for tax on their “WORLDWIDE EARNINGS”. The form PRESUMES that all those applying are statutory “U.S. citizens”. However, Form #06.007 rebuts that presumption and identifies the applicant as a CONSTITUTIONAL citizen and a “non-resident non-person” and identifies that notice as FALSE AND FRAUDULENT.

The form that accomplishes this is:

USA Passport Application Attachment, Form #06.007
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

5. You should NEVER ask a court for protection using federal statutory law. You should instead invoke ONLY the common law, natural law, and constitutional rather than statutory citizenship. Cook asked for protection under the I.R.C INSTEAD of the common law, and the court’s perverse answer is summed up below. Perverts:

“You want protection? When you want it REALLY bad, you’re gonna get it REALLY bad. Here, bend over and lube yourself with KY jelly. We’ve got ten hard inches of protection for you right here! And while you’re at it, we call this a ‘benefit’ and you gotta pay for the privilege.”

6. You leave ABSOLUTELY NO ROOM or DISCRETION to any corrupt judge, government prosecutor, or federal or state court to decide WHICH of the two contexts they mean for ANY term or especially STATUS that you either claim or which they could associate with you. This is done by defining all terms so judges and bureaucrats have no wiggle room or room to make presumptions of any kind.
7. In the interests of protecting your freedom and sovereignty, you have a DUTY to define any and every geographic terms and “words of art” in every communication you make with any government, both administratively and in court. This is done by attaching mandatory attachments to every form you submit defining the terms and stating on the original government form that it is FALSE, FRAUDULENT, and PERJURIOUS unless accompanied with your attachment and the mandatory definitions.

- 1 8. If you don't define ALL terms, you will most assuredly end of as the willing and often unknowing slave and "useful 2 idiot" for socialists like Taft who prey on human flesh as CANIBALS.
- 3 9. If you want sample forms that accomplish this result, see:

19 The Plaintiff in Cook DID NOT do the above and that is why the U.S. Supreme Court picked this case to rule on: To create 20 yet more deception about the proper application of the revenue laws that illegally manufactures more of what at least
 21 "looks" like "taxpayers" and unlawfully enlarges their revenues and importance. Chances are that the Cook also filed a
 22 "resident" tax form such as IRS Form 1040 instead of more properly calling himself a nonresident alien, even though he 23 was not domiciled in the "United States", which left room for the U.S. Supreme Court to create BAD precedent such as 24 Cook v. Tait. The U.S. Supreme Court, in turn, took advantage of the situation by deliberately confusing statutory citizens
 25 with constitutional citizens to create the false appearance of civil jurisdiction that did not, in fact, exist in the case of a
 26 stateless person domiciled outside the country. Forms which implement all the above and which are intended to protect you
 27 from this type of THEFT, judicial verbicide, and abuse by the courts and the government are available on our website at:

Affidavit of Citizenship, Domicile, and Tax Status, Form #02.001

28 5 Jurisdiction of Federal Courts³⁷

29 Some, and especially the IRS, upon reading and responding to this memorandum of law, might respond by saying such 30 ridiculous things as the following:

31 *"Federal courts have ruled against the position in this pamphlet. They have said the claims here are 'frivolous'
 32 and completely without merit."*

33 Well, first of all, even the IRS' own Internal Revenue Manual (I.R.M.) says the IRS cannot cite any ruling OTHER than the 34 Supreme Court. The Supreme Court has never ruled against any of the arguments in this pamphlet:

35 Internal Revenue Manual
 36 4.10.7.2.9.8 (05-14-1999)
 37 Importance of Court Decisions

38 1. "Decisions made at various levels of the court system are considered to be interpretations of tax laws and 39 may be used by either examiners or taxpayers to support a position."

40 2. *Certain court cases lend more weight to a position than others. A case decided by the U.S. Supreme Court
 41 becomes 2the law of the land and takes precedence over decisions of lower courts. The Internal Revenue
 42 Service must follow Supreme Court decisions. For examiners, Supreme Court decisions have the same
 43 weight as the Code.*

³⁷ Adapted from Federal and State Tax Withholding Options for Private Employers, Form #04.101, Section 20.2.

1 3. Decisions made by lower courts, such as Tax Court, District Courts, or Claims Court, are binding on the
2 Service only for the particular taxpayer and the years litigated. Adverse decisions of lower courts do not
3 require the Service to alter its position for other taxpayers."
4 [Internal Revenue Manual (I.R.M.), 4.10.7.2.9.8 (05/14/99)]

5 So if you hear the IRS or anyone from the legal profession spouting off federal judicial precedent in a tax case and in a 6 court below the Supreme Court, then they are:

- 7 1. Certainly not following the IRS' own rules on the subject.
- 8 2. Falsely presuming that the person who is the subject of the controversy is a federal public officer, federal "employee", 9 federal agent, or federal contractor acting in a representative capacity under the laws of the parent corporation, which is
10 the United States government. 28 U.S.C. §3002\(15\)\(A\) defines the term "United States" to mean a federal corporation
11 and not a geographic region.
- 12 3. Falsely presuming that federal district and circuit case law is relevant to the average American.

13 "The power to create presumptions is not a means of escape from constitutional restrictions,"
14 [New York Times v. Sullivan, 376 U.S. 254 (1964)]

- 15 4. Citing irrelevant case law from a foreign jurisdiction which does not apply to most Americans. The federal District
16 and Circuit courts, in fact, are Article IV legislative and territorial courts that can only rule on what Congress says they
17 can rule on, and in the context of federal territory, franchises, and property. United States Judicial Districts encompass
18 only federal real and chattel property within the outer limits of the District that has been ceded to the federal 19 government as required under Article 1, Section 8, Clause 17 of the Constitution.
- 20 5. Abusing irrelevant case law as a means of political propaganda.
- 21 6. Involving the federal courts in strictly "political questions" beyond their jurisdiction. See the following:

Political Jurisdiction, Form #05.004
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

- 22 7. Probably have a criminal and financial conflict of interest in criminal violation of 18 U.S.C. §208, because they 23 wouldn't have a paying job if they admitted the truth about federal jurisdiction.

24 Second, the Declaratory Judgments Act, 28 U.S.C. §2201\(a\), says that federal courts don't have the authority to declare
25 rights or status within the context of federal taxes. Can someone please explain how they can call a person a "taxpayer"
26 who submits evidence under penalty of perjury proving that they are a "nontaxpayer"? A "nontaxpayer", which is the 27 status of most Americans, is outside the jurisdiction of the I.R.C. and no judge can lawfully apply the provisions of the 28 I.R.C. to those who are not "taxpayers" or who do not consent to be "taxpayers". The same thing applies to the IRS as 29 well.

30 "A reasonable construction of the taxing statutes does not include vesting any tax official with absolute power
31 of assessment against individuals not specified in the statutes as a person liable for the tax without an
32 opportunity for judicial review of this status before the appellation of 'taxpayer' is bestowed upon them and
33 their property is seized..."
34 [Botta v. Scanlon, 288 F.2d. 504, 508 (1961)]
35

36 "The revenue laws are a code or system in regulation of tax assessment and collection. They relate to taxpayers,
37 and not to nontaxpayers. The latter are without their scope. No procedure is prescribed for nontaxpayers, and
38 no attempt is made to annul any of their rights and remedies in due course of law. With them Congress does not
39 assume to deal, and they are neither of the subject nor of the object of the revenue laws..."

40 "The distinction between persons and things within the scope of the revenue laws and those without is vital."
41 [Long v. Rasmussen, 281 F. 236, 238 (1922)]

42 Third, according to the Supreme Court in the case of Erie R. Co. v. Tompkins, 304 U.S. 64 (1938), there is no federal 43 common law within states of the Union. State court precedent is the only thing that is even relevant for those who do not 44 live on land within federal jurisdiction. Consequently, it's meaningless to spout out federal appellate cites and doing so is 45 nothing but a dangerous exercise in political propaganda using "judge-made law" that is irrelevant to Americans living
46 outside of federal jurisdiction.

47 Lastly, when federal jurisdiction is challenged in a tax case using the materials in this pamphlet, the existence of territorial
48 and subject matter jurisdiction must be decided by the jury, and NOT by the judge. A conflict of interest would result

1 otherwise, because judges are subject to IRS extortion in violation of 28 U.S.C. §144 and 28 U.S.C. §455, and 18 U.S.C.
2 §208. See:

Why the Federal Courts Can't Properly Address These Questions, Family Guardian Fellowship
<http://famguardian.org/TaxFreedom/Forms/Discovery/Deposition/WhyCourtsCantAddressQuestions.htm>

3 Judges have no authority to be labeling an argument which challenges federal jurisdiction as frivolous without involving the
4 jury or without a separate pleading and trial on the matter of being frivolous. This prevents abuses of judicial authority and 5 conflict of interest. The U.S. Attorney Manual confirms this:

6 United States Attorney Manual
7 666 Proof of Territorial Jurisdiction

8 There has been a trend to treat certain "jurisdictional facts" that do not bear on guilt (mens rea or actus reus)
9 as non-elements of the offense, and therefore as issues for the court rather than the jury, and to require proof by 10 only a preponderance that the offense was committed in the territorial jurisdiction of the court to establish that 11 venue has been properly laid. See United States v. Bowers, 660 F.2d. 527, 531 (5th Cir. 1981); Government of 12 Canal Zone v. Burjan, 596 F.2d. 690, 694 (5th Cir. 1979); United States v. Black Cloud, 590 F.2d. 270 (8th Cir.
13 1979) (jury question); United States v. Powell, 498 F.2d. 890, 891 (9th Cir. 1974). The court in Government of 14 Canal Zone v. Burjan, 596 F.2d. at 694-95, applied the preponderance test to determinations of whether or not
15 the offenses took place within the Canal Zone which established not merely proper venue but subject matter
16 jurisdiction as well. Other cases, however, hold that the issue of whether the United States has jurisdiction
17 over the site of a crime is a judicial question, see United States v. Jones, 480 F.2d. 1135, 1138 (2d Cir. 1973),
18 but that the issue of whether the act was committed within the borders of the Federal enclave is for the jury
19 and must be established beyond a reasonable doubt. See United States v. Parker, 622 F.2d. 298 (8th Cir.
20 1980); United States v. Jones, 480 F.2d. at 1138. The law of your Circuit must be consulted to determine which 21 approach is followed in your district.

22 The decision in Burjan should be viewed with caution. The analogy between territorial jurisdiction and venue
23 has much to recommend it. Nevertheless, it is important to recognize that the two are not of equal importance.
24 As the Burjan court noted, citing Fed. R. Crim. P. 12, subject matter jurisdiction is so important that it
25 cannot be waived and may be noticed at any stage of the proceeding, see Government of the Canal Zone v.
26 Burjan, 596 F.2d. at 693, whereas the Ninth Circuit in Powell rested its ruling that venue need be proved by
27 only a preponderance on the relative unimportance of venue as evidenced by its waivability. There is a clear
28 distinction between the question of which court of a sovereign may try an accused for a violation of its laws and
29 whether the sovereign's law has been violated at all.

30 Proof of territorial jurisdiction may be by direct or circumstantial evidence, and at least at the trial level may 31 be aided by judicial notice. See United States v. Bowers, 660 F.2d. at 530-31; Government of Canal Zone v.
32 Burjan, 596 F.2d. at 694. Compare Government of Canal Zone v. Burjan, 596 F.2d. 690 with United States v.
33 Jones, 480 F.2d. 1135, concerning the role judicial notice may play on appeal.
34 [\[http://www.usdoj.gov/usao/eousa/foia_reading_room/usam/title9/crm00666.htm\]](http://www.usdoj.gov/usao/eousa/foia_reading_room/usam/title9/crm00666.htm)

35 Consequently, it is a violation of due process and a conflict of interest for a federal judge to label as frivolous the arguments
36 of a person who has challenged federal territorial or subject matter jurisdiction in a tax case without involving a jury, and 37 especially where a jury trial has been demanded. Therefore, any citations of authority citing frivolous arguments in the 38 context of challenges to federal jurisdiction must have been decided by a jury and not a judge.

39 6 Jurisdiction to Tax

40 6.1 Choice of Law in Tax Litigation³⁸

41 Within any federal tax litigation, there are certain rules for determining what law may be cited as evidence of violation or 42 injury. The foundation of these rules is Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 17(b) , which says in pertinent part:

43 IV. PARTIES > Rule 17.
44 Rule 17. Parties Plaintiff and Defendant: Capacity

45 (b) Capacity to Sue or be Sued.

³⁸ Adapted from Tax Fraud Prevention Manual, Form #06.008, Chapter 4.

Capacity to sue or be sued is determined as follows:

- (1) for an individual who is not acting in a representative capacity, by the law of the individual's domicile;
(2) for a corporation, by the law under which it was organized; and
(3) for all other parties, by the law of the state where the court is located, except that:
(A) a partnership or other unincorporated association with no such capacity under that state's law may sue or be sued in its common name to enforce a substantive right existing under the United States Constitution or laws; and
(B) 28 U.S.C. §§ 754 and 959(a) govern the capacity of a receiver appointed by a United States court to sue or be sued in a United States court.
[SOURCE: <http://www.law.cornell.edu/rules/frcp/Rule17.htm>]

The above means literally that in tax litigation, there are only two sources or choices of law:

1. Civil law

1.1. Civil Law of the Defendant's domicile: The Defendant's domicile, in turn, is a matter of his own personal and political choice, and it is recorded on government forms, such as driver's license applications, tax forms, etc. See the following for details:

[Why Domicile and Becoming a "Taxpayer" Require Your Consent, Form #05.002
http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm](http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm)

1.2. Private law resulting from contracts or agency created by the actions of the Defendant. For instance, the person voluntarily acquired an office in a corporation through his right to contract. That office created agency as an officer of the corporation and the laws that courts must then apply are only the laws of the state where the corporation was formed and maintains its corporate headquarters. This category also includes "public offices" filled as a result of voluntarily participating in "public rights" or franchises or "privileges" that we discussed in the previous section.

2. Criminal law:

All criminal that applies to the territory that the defendant was on at the exact time of the alleged crime.

We also emphasize that a person with a domicile within a state of the Union does NOT maintain a domicile within the "United States" as defined in the Internal Revenue Code, 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(9) and (a)(10). See:

<http://famguardian.org/Subjects/Taxes/ChallJurisdiction/Definitions/freemaninvestigation.htm>

Therefore, by implication, the I.R.C. may not be cited against a person domiciled within the exclusive jurisdiction of a state of the Union. The only exception to this requirement is the case of a person who is either a federal "public office", federal contractor, or benefit recipient. This is alluded to in Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 17 above, when it says:

"The capacity of an individual, other than one acting in a representative capacity, to sue or be sued shall be determined by the law of the individual's domicile. The capacity of a corporation [or its officers or employees acting as its agent] to sue or be sued shall be determined by the law under which it was organized."
[Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 17]

In the case where a person is acting in a representative capacity over a federal business entity, federal contract, or as a federal "public office", the American Jurisprudence 2d legal encyclopedia describes what law prevails. It says of claims of the United States against private parties the following:

*American Jurisprudence, 2d
United States
§ 42 Interest on claim [77 Am Jur 2d UNITED STATES]*

*The interest to be recovered as damages for the delayed payment of a contractual obligation to the United States is not controlled by state statute or local common law. In the absence of an applicable federal statute, the federal courts must determine according to their own criteria the appropriate measure of damages. State law may, however, be adopted as the federal law of decision in some instances.
[American Jurisprudence 2d, United States, §42: Interest on Claim (1999)]*

Federal "public office", employment, contract, or benefit claims may not be litigated in a state court because of the Separation of Powers Doctrine and because it involves what we called a "franchise" in the previous section. Therefore, they must be litigated in federal court as a contract claim, and the rules of decision must be only federal law, based on the above. The laws to be applied, under Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 17(b) , are the laws under which the United States

1 Government federal corporation are organized, which are the U.S. Code, instead of state law. What makes the issue
2 justiciable is that it is a federal benefit, employment, or contract issue. Our memorandum of law below also proves that
3 Subtitle A of the I.R.C. attaches to people in states of the Union as “private law” or “contract law” at:

Requirement for Consent, Form #05.003
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

4 The Internal Revenue Code, Subtitle A therefore attaches to people as “private law”, “contract law” and “special law”.
5 Even the U.S. Supreme Court admitted this when it said:

6 “Even if the judgment is deemed to be colored by the nature of the obligation whose validity it establishes, and
7 we are free to re-examine it, and, if we find it to be based on an obligation penal in character, to refuse to 8 enforce it outside the state where rendered, see Wisconsin v. Pelican Insurance Co., 127 U.S. 265, 292, et seq.
9 8 S.Ct. 1370, compare Fauntleroy v. Lum, 210 U.S. 230, 28 S.Ct. 641, still the obligation to 10 pay taxes is not penal. It is a statutory liability, quasi
11 contractual in nature, enforceable, if there is no exclusive
12 statutory remedy, in the civil courts by the common-law action
13 of debt or indebitatus assumpsit. United States v. Chamberlin, 219 U.S. 250, 31 S.Ct.
14 155; Price v. United States, 269 U.S. 492, 46 S.Ct. 180; Dollar Savings Bank v. United States, 19 Wall. 227;
15 and see Stockwell v. United States, 13 Wall. 531, 542; Meredith v. United States, 13 Pet. 486, 493. This was 16 the rule established in the English courts before the Declaration of Independence. Attorney General v. Weeks,
17 Bunbury's Exch. Rep. 223; Attorney General v. Jewers and Batty, Bunbury's Exch. Rep. 225; Attorney General

19 Comyn's Digest (Title 'Dett,' A, 9); 1 Chitty on Pleading, 123; cf. Attorney General v. Sewell, 4 M.&W. 77. “
20 [Milwaukee v. White, 296 U.S. 268 (1935)]

21 Below is the meaning of “quasi-contract” from the above quote:

22 “Quasi contract. An obligation which law creates in absence of agreement; it is invoked by courts where there
23 is unjust enrichment. Andrews v. O'Grady, 44 Misc.2d. 28, 252 N.Y.S.2d. 814, 817. Sometimes referred to as 24 implied-in-law contracts (as a legal fiction) to distinguish them from implied-in-fact contracts (voluntary 25 agreements inferred from the parties' conduct). Function of “quasi-contract” is to raise obligation in law where 26 in fact the parties made no promise, and it is not based on apparent intention of the parties. Fink v. Goodson-
27 Todman Enterprises, Limited, 9 C.A.3d. 996, 88 Cal.Rptr. 679, 690. See also Contract.”
28 [Black's Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, p. 1245]

29 The trouble is, the federal courts refuse to acknowledge the requirement to prove written or even constructive consent to the 30 contract, and by ignoring the requirement for written, explicit consent, they have in effect made participation in this
31 “scheme” to defraud the people involuntary and enforced. The result is racketeering and extortion, in violation of 18
32 U.S.C. §1951. We can easily see how being party to this contract makes us into “domiciliaries” and “residents” of the 33 District of Columbia by examining the older implementing regulations for Section 7701 of the Internal Revenue Code
34 below. Note that a party becomes a “resident” by virtue of whether they are engaged in a “trade or business”, which means
35 federal contracts and employment. In effect, consenting to the federal employment contract by engaging in a “trade or 36 business” contractually shifts one’s domicile to the District of Columbia. Here is the regulation which proves this, which 37 by the way was conveniently REMOVED from the regulations right after we published this finding in order to hide the true
38 nature of the income tax from the average American:

39 26 C.F.R. §301.7701-5 Domestic, foreign, resident, and nonresident persons.

40 A domestic corporation is one organized or created in the United States, including only the States (and during 41 the periods when not States, the Territories of Alaska and Hawaii), and the District of Columbia, or under the 42 law of the United States or of any State or Territory. A foreign corporation is one which is not domestic. A 43 domestic corporation is a resident corporation even though it does no business and owns no property in the 44 United States. A foreign corporation engaged in trade or business within the United States is referred to in 45 the regulations in this chapter as a resident foreign corporation, and a foreign corporation not engaged in
46 trade or business within the United States, as a nonresident foreign corporation. A partnership engaged in 47 trade or business within the United States is referred to in the regulations in this chapter as a resident
48 partnership, and a partnership not engaged in trade or business within the United States, as a nonresident
49 partnership. Whether a partnership is to be regarded as resident or nonresident is not determined by the 50 nationality or residence of its members or by the place in which it was created or organized.

To give you one simple example of how Subtitle A of the I.R.C. attaches to people in states of the Union as a federal employment contract and “private law” issue consistent with the above, consider the IRS Form W-4. The regulations describing the W-4 identify it as a “voluntary withholding agreement”. Here is the regulation:

Title 26
CHAPTER I
SUBCHAPTER C
PART 31
Subpart E
Sec. 31.3402\(p\)-1 Voluntary withholding agreements.

(a) In general.

An employee and his employer may enter into an agreement under section 3402(b) to provide for the withholding of income tax upon payments of amounts described in paragraph (b)(1) of Sec. 31.3401(a)-3, made after December 31, 1970. An agreement may be entered into under this section only with respect to amounts which are includible in the gross income of the employee under section 61, and must be applicable to all such amounts paid by the employer to the employee. The amount to be withheld pursuant to an agreement under section 3402(p) shall be determined under the rules contained in section 3402 and the regulations thereunder. (b) Form and duration of agreement. (1)(i) Except as provided in subdivision (ii) of this subparagraph, an employee who desires to enter into an agreement under section 3402(p) shall furnish his employer with Form W-4 (withholding exemption certificate) executed in accordance with the provisions of section 3402(f) and the regulations thereunder. The furnishing of such Form W-4 shall constitute a request for withholding.

Black’s Law Dictionary defines an “agreement” essentially as a contract. When you fill out and submit a W-4, you are signing a contract or agreement to procure “social insurance” from the national (not “federal”) government. That contract:

1. Makes you into a “Trustee” over federal property. See:

Resignation of Compelled Social Security Trustee , Form #06.002 http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm

2. Makes you into a federal “employee”, or at least an agent or fiduciary for a federal trust which is wholly owned by the mother corporation, the “United States”, as defined in 28 U.S.C. §3002\(15\)\(A\).
3. Makes you into an “officer of a corporation”, who is liable under 26 U.S.C. §6671\(b\) for all I.R.C. penalties and liable for all criminal provisions of the I.R.C. under 26 U.S.C. §7343.
4. Shifts your effective legal domicile to the District of Columbia, because that is the domicile of the trust that you now represent. This is confirmed by 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(39) and 26 U.S.C. §7408(d) and Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 17(b).
5. Makes the Social Security Number into a “Taxpayer Identification Number” and a license number for the Trustee, which is now you. See:

Who are “Taxpayers” and Who Needs a “Taxpayer Identification Number”? , Form #05.013 http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm
--
6. Makes your earnings into federal revenues and you into a “transferee” and “fiduciary” over federal payments. See 26 U.S.C. §§6901 to 6903.
7. Makes you into a federal subcontractor or “Kelley girl”.
8. Donates your earnings and your time voluntarily to a “public use”, thereby giving the public the right to control that use:

*“Surely the matters in which the public has the most interest are the supplies of food and clothing; yet can it be that by reason of this interest the state may fix the price at which the butcher must sell his meat, or the vendor of boots and shoes his goods? Men are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable rights, -life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness;’ and to ‘secure,’ not grant or create, these rights, governments are instituted. That property which a man has honestly acquired he retains full control of, subject to these limitations: First, that he shall not use it to his neighbor's injury, and that does not mean that he must use it for his neighbor's benefit; second, that if he devotes it to a public use, he gives to the public a right to control that use; and third, that whenever the public needs require, the public may take it upon payment of due compensation.”
[Budd v. People of State of New York, 143 U.S. 517 (1892)]

- 1 9. Makes the 1040 form into a profit and loss statement for a federal business trust. The amount “returned” on this form
2 is the “corporate profit” that is the subject of the Internal Revenue Code, Subtitle A income tax. In effect, the 1040
3 form is a method by which subsidiaries of the mother corporation send “kickbacks” to the mother corporation.
4 10. Makes you into a withholding agent who is liable under 26 U.S.C. §1461 to “return” federal payments to your new 5 employer, the federal government.

6 You can read why all the above is true in the following sources, should you wish to further investigate:

12 evidence) of liability in a federal trial relating to tax issues. This list is particularized to deal only with tax issues. For a list

1 The party on the left in the above table, who is the person with no contracts, employment, or agency, is the person you want
2 to be in order to be free and sovereign. The U.S. Supreme Court has said of such a person:

12 [Hale v. Henkel, 201 U.S. 43, 74 (1906)]

13 On the other hand, the party on the right, the federal employee or contractor, has essentially no Constitutional rights. This

31 If you would like to know all the many additional reasons why federal courts are presuming you to be a federal 32 "employee", contractor, or agent if they prosecute you for income tax crimes, penalties, or other infractions under Internal 33 Revenue Code, Subtitle A, please consult our other informative memorandum of law available free on the internet at the 34 link below. If you still doubt what we have said in this section, please also rebut the evidence and questions at the end of 35 memorandum below:

Why Your Government is Either a Thief or You are a "Public Officer" for Income Tax Purposes, Form #05.008
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

6.2 Why federal income taxation is not a “federal question” for those who are “nontaxpayers”

Based on the content of the foregoing section, we must conclude the following:

1. The Internal Revenue Code is not “law” for those who are “nontaxpayers” not subject to it.

“The revenue laws are a code or system in regulation of tax assessment and collection. They relate to taxpayers, and not to nontaxpayers. The latter are without their scope. No procedure is prescribed for nontaxpayers, and no attempt is made to annul any of their rights and remedies in due course of law. With them Congress does not assume to deal, and they are neither of the subject nor of the object of the revenue laws...”
[Long v. Rasmussen, 281 F. 236 (1922)]

2. No provision of the Internal Revenue Code may be cited in any court against parties who are “nontaxpayers” not subject to it.

“A reasonable construction of the taxing statutes does not include vesting any tax official with absolute power of assessment against individuals not specified in the states as a person liable for the tax without an opportunity for judicial review of this status before the appellation of ‘taxpayer’ is bestowed upon them and their property is seized...”

3. Those who pursue privileged federal employment or franchises have contracted away their Constitutional Rights, but only while standing on federal territory not protected by the Constitution. Otherwise, these rights are “unalienable” per the Declaration of Independence:

“The restrictions that the Constitution places upon the government in its capacity as lawmaker, i.e., as the regulator of private conduct, are not the same as the restrictions that it places upon the government in its capacity as employer. We have recognized this in many contexts, with respect to many different constitutional guarantees. Private citizens perhaps cannot be prevented from wearing long hair, but policemen can. Kelley v. Johnson, 425 U.S. 238, 247 (1976). Private citizens cannot have their property searched without probable cause, but in many circumstances government employees can. O’Connor v. Ortega, 480 U.S. 709, 723 (1987) (plurality opinion); id., at 732 (SCALIA, J., concurring in judgment). Private citizens cannot be punished for refusing to provide the government information that may incriminate them, but government employees can be dismissed when the incriminating information that they refuse to provide relates to the performance of their job. Gardner v. Broderick, [497 U.S. 62, 95] 392 U.S. 273, 277 -278 (1968). With regard to freedom of speech in particular: Private citizens cannot be punished for speech of merely private concern, but government employees can be fired for that reason. Connick v. Myers, 461 U.S. 138, 147 (1983). Private citizens cannot be punished for partisan political activity, but federal and state employees can be dismissed and otherwise punished for that reason. Public Workers v. Mitchell, 330 U.S. 75, 101 (1947); Civil Service Comm’n v. Letter Carriers, 413 U.S. 548, 556 (1973); Broadrick v. Oklahoma, 413 U.S. 601, 616 -617 (1973).”
[Rutan v. Republican Party of Illinois, 497 U.S. 62 (1990)]

4. The term “nontaxpayer”, in the context of federal income taxation under Internal Revenue Code, Subtitle A, includes parties who is domiciled in a state of the Union who have not contracted away their Constitutional rights by pursuing privileged, excise taxable federal office called a “trade or business”. See the following memorandums of law for exhaustive proof of this fact:

4.1. Why Your Government is Either a Thief or You are a “Public Officer” for Income Tax Purposes, Form #05.008:

<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

4.2. The “Trade or Business” Scam, Form #05.001

<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

5. BEFORE the Internal Revenue Code may be cited against a party domiciled in a state of the Union:

5.1. Evidence must be admitted into evidence proving that:

5.1.1. The officer is lawfully elected or appointed.

5.1.2. In the case of a human, an oath of office must be given to the person serving. A perjury oath on a government form does NOT satisfy the oath requirement. The oath requirement is found in 5 U.S.C. §3331.

5.1.3. The office is exercised ONLY in places EXPRESSLY authorized as required by 4 U.S.C. §72. If no express legislative authorization is provided to serve outside the District of Columbia, they may ONLY serve in the District of Columbia.

5.1.4. The officer consented to engage in the franchise, such as “public office”. Absent consent, holding a person responsible for the liabilities associated with “public office” constitutes slavery in violation of the Thirteenth Amendment, 42 U.S.C. §1994, and 18 U.S.C. §1589.

5.2. The party must admit they are “taxpayers” subject to it, which is indirect consent to serve as said officer.

5.3. The party must cite provision of the I.R.C. in litigation so as to indicate their consent to be bound by it.

“The Government urges that the Power Company is estopped to question the validity of the Act creating the Tennessee Valley Authority, and hence that the stockholders, suing in the right of the corporation, cannot [297 U.S. 323] maintain this suit. The principle is invoked that one who accepts the benefit of a statute cannot be heard to question its constitutionality. Great Falls Manufacturing Co. v. Attorney General, 124 U.S. 581; Wall v. Parrot Silver & Copper Co., 244 U.S. 407; St. Louis Casting Co. v. Prendergast Construction Co., 260 U.S. 469.”
Ashwander v. Tennessee Valley Auth., [297 U.S. 288 (1936)]

5.4. The party must VOLUNTARILY act as though they are subject to it and consent to it by providing such things as a Social Security Number in some context, which indicates domicile in the federal zone, pursuant to 26 C.F.R. §301.6109-1(b). Those who are NOT “U.S. persons” are not required to use such a number.

*(b) Requirement to furnish one's own number--(1) U.S. persons. Every U.S. person who makes under this title a return, statement, or other document must furnish its own taxpayer identifying number as required by the forms and the accompanying instructions.

The term “U.S. person” is defined in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(30) as a “citizen” or “resident” of the United States, both of whom have in common a domicile in the “United States”, which is defined in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(9) and (a)(10) as the “District of Columbia” and does not include states of the Union.

6. If the party does not satisfy the criteria in the preceding item, the government counsel must either:

6.1. Admit evidence of the above into evidence so as to create jurisdiction for the court to proceed against a “taxpayer” or

6.2. The case must be dismissed for lack of jurisdiction. If it is not dismissed, the party is wrongfully and illegally satisfying the duties of a public officer in criminal violation of 18 U.S.C. §912 and the judge is complicit in this crime.

Presumption may not be used as a substitute for such evidence in any court of law against a party protected by the Bill of Rights, which includes those domiciled in states of the Union. The court may not “presume” that a person is a “taxpayer” until evidence appears proving it. This requirement of law is thoroughly examined in our free memorandum below:

Presumption: Chief Weapon for Unlawfully Enlarging Federal Jurisdiction, Form #05.017
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

Our system of jurisprudence is based upon the notion of innocence until proven guilty.

The presumption of innocence, although not articulated in the Constitution, is a basic component of a fair trial under our system of criminal justice. Long ago this Court stated:

The principle that there is a presumption of innocence in favor of the accused is the undoubted law, axiomatic and elementary, and its enforcement lies at the foundation of the administration of our criminal law.

Coffin v. United States, 156 U.S. 432, 453 (1895).

The above statement of public policy constitutes a presumption in favor of everyone which can only be overcome with evidence. In the case of tax trials, one must therefore be “presumed” to be a “nontaxpayer” until evidence is introduced which the accused does not rebut that identifies him as a “taxpayer” subject to the I.R.C. This was also reiterated by the U.S. Supreme Court directly when it held:

“In the interpretation of statutes levying taxes, it is the established rule not to extend their provisions by implication beyond the clear import of the language used, or to enlarge their operations so as to embrace matters not specifically pointed out. In case of doubt they are construed most strongly against the government and in favor of the citizen.”
[Gould v. Gould, 245 U.S. 151, at 153 (1917)]

“Keeping in mind the well-settled rule that the citizen is exempt from taxation unless the same is imposed by clear and unequivocal language, and that where the construction of a tax law is doubtful, the doubt is to be resolved in favor of those upon whom the tax is sought to be laid.”
[Spreckels Sugar Refining Co. v. McClain, 192 U.S. 397 (1904)]

1 We also emphasize that the above provisions apply to the process of determining whether a sovereign citizen is a
2 “taxpayer”. Only AFTER this has been substantiated WITH EVIDENCE may any part of the Internal Revenue Code be
3 cited or applied against him or her. Until that time, the burden of proof rests on the government to prove that the person is
4 a “taxpayer” subject to the I.R.C. This is also confirmed by the provisions of the Administrative Procedures Act, 5 U.S.C.
5 §556(d), which says:

6 TITLE 5 - GOVERNMENT ORGANIZATION AND EMPLOYEES

7 PART I - THE AGENCIES GENERALLY

8 CHAPTER 5 - ADMINISTRATIVE PROCEDURE

9 SUBCHAPTER II - ADMINISTRATIVE PROCEDURE

10 Sec. 556. Hearings: presiding employees; powers and duties; burden of proof; evidence; record as basis of
11 decision

12 (d) Except as otherwise provided by statute, the proponent of a rule or order has the burden of proof. Any oral
13 or documentary evidence may be received, but the agency as a matter of policy shall provide for the exclusion
14 of irrelevant, immaterial, or unduly repetitious evidence. A sanction may not be imposed or rule or order
15 issued except on consideration of the whole record or those parts thereof cited by a party and supported by
16 and in accordance with the reliable, probative, and substantial evidence. The agency may, to the extent
17 consistent with the interests of justice and the policy of the underlying statutes administered by the agency,
18 consider a violation of section 557(d) of this title sufficient grounds for a decision adverse to a party who has
19 knowingly committed such violation or knowingly caused such violation to occur. A party is entitled to present
20 his case or defense by oral or documentary evidence, to submit rebuttal evidence, and to conduct such cross-
21 examination as may be required for a full and true disclosure of the facts. In rule making or determining claims
22 for money or benefits or applications for initial licenses an agency may, when a party will not be prejudiced
23 thereby, adopt procedures for the submission of all or part of the evidence in written form.

24 UNTIL evidence is produced on the record proving that a party is a “taxpayer”, no provision of the I.R.C. may be cited
25 against the party which might prejudice their Constitutional rights, and ESPECIALLY not the provision below relating to 26 the burden of proof in proceeding further:

27 TITLE 26 > Subtitle F > CHAPTER 76 > Subchapter E > §7491
28 § 7491. Burden of proof

29 (a) Burden shifts where taxpayer produces credible evidence

30 (1) General rule

31 If, in any court proceeding, a taxpayer introduces credible evidence with respect to any factual issue relevant to 32 ascertaining the liability of the taxpayer for any tax imposed by subtitle A or B, the Secretary shall have the 33 burden of proof with respect to such issue.

34 (2) Limitations

35 Paragraph (1) shall apply with respect to an issue only if—

36 (A) the taxpayer has complied with the requirements under this title to substantiate any item;

37 (B) the taxpayer has maintained all records required under this title and has cooperated with reasonable
38 requests by the Secretary for witnesses, information, documents, meetings, and interviews; and

39 (C) in the case of a partnership, corporation, or trust, the taxpayer is described in section 7430 (c)(4)(A)(ii).

40 Subparagraph (C) shall not apply to any qualified revocable trust (as defined in section 645 (b)(1)) with respect
41 to liability for tax for any taxable year ending after the date of the decedent’s death and before the applicable

43 (3) Coordination

44 Paragraph (1) shall not apply to any issue if any other provision of this title provides for a specific burden of 45 proof with respect to such issue.

46 A party who is a “nontaxpayer” domiciled in a state of the Union to which “diversity of citizenship” applies under United 47 States Constitution, Article III, Section 2 but NOT 28 U.S.C. §1332(a)(2) may therefore not be tried in a federal court,
48 including on matters relating to his status as a “nontaxpayer”.

1 "The result is that the federal court in a diversity case sits in effect as just another state court, seeking out
2 forum state law for all substantive issues. The Rules of Decision Act does not apply to procedural matters,
3 however; for matters of procedure a federal court, sitting in a diversity or any other kind of case, applies its
4 own rules. This has been so since 1938, when , coincidentally (Erie was also decided in 1938), the Federal

6 [Conflicts in a Nutshell, David D. Seigel, West Publishing, 1994, ISBN 0-314-02952-4, p. 317]

7 Instead, the federal government must litigate in a state court and obtain a declaratory judgment that a person is a "taxpayer"
8 BEFORE he/she can be tried in a federal court as a "taxpayer" and have any provision of the private law found Internal 9 Revenue Code, Subtitle A applied against him. The reasons for this are:

- 10 1. The state courts are the place where are rights are protected and defended, and not the federal courts. This was 11 explained by the U.S. Supreme Court, when it ruled:

12 "It would be the vainest show of learning to attempt to prove by citations of authority, that up to the adoption of 13 the recent Amendments [the Thirteenth and Fourteenth Amendment], no claim or pretense was set up that those
14 rights depended on the Federal government for their existence or protection, beyond the very few express
15 limitations which the Federal Constitution imposed upon the states—such as the prohibition against ex post
16 *facto laws, bill of attainder, and laws impairing the obligation of contracts. But with the exception of these

34 2. There is no way that a federal judge in a U.S. District Court can hear the case without having a conflict of interest in 35 violation of 28 U.S.C. §455 and 18 U.S.C. §208. His pay and benefits derive directly from the tax which is being 36 enforced by him.

37 Only AFTER the burden of proof has been satisfied by the government that the party is a "taxpayer" subject to the I.R.C.,
38 may the following provision of law be cited in applying those provisions to the party in question:

39 "In view of other settled rules of statutory construction, which teach that a law is presumed, in the absence of 40 *clear expression to the contrary, to operate prospectively; that, if doubt exists as to the construction of a 41 taxing statute, the doubt should be resolved in favor of the taxpayer..."
42 Hassett v. Welch., [303 U.S. 303, pp. 314 - 315, 82 L Ed 858. (1938)]

43 In establishing whether a party is a "taxpayer", certain sources of evidence are used by IRS and the courts to establish 44 "prima facie" presumption that they are, which in turn creates the usually false and fraudulent "appearance" that they are 45 subject to federal law even if they are NOT a public officer. These include:

- 46 1. IRS Form W-2. If this form has been filed and not disputed by the litigant, it establishes a prima facie presumption that 47 the party is a federal employee, because only federal employees engaged in a "trade or business" may have this form
48 filed against them. A "trade or business" is defined as a "public office" in the federal government at 26 U.S.C.
49 §7701\(a\)\(26\). The form may only be filed against parties who voluntarily filed a W-4 requesting withholding and 50 declaring themselves to be federal employees. See:
51 <http://sedm.org/Forms/04-Tax/FormW2/CorrectingIRSFormW2.htm>
52 2. IRS Form W-4. Constitutes a request by the party to commence withholding. The form declares the person to be a 53 federal "employee", because that is what it says in the upper left corner.

- 1 3. IRS Form 1042's filed against the party in question. The instructions for the form indicate that it is only for "trade or
2 business" use, which means federal employment. See:
3 <http://sedm.org/Forms/04-Tax/Form1042/CorrectingIRSForm1042.htm>
- 4 4. IRS Form 1098's filed against the party in question. The instructions for the form indicate that it is only for "trade or
5 business" use, which means federal employment. See:
6 <http://sedm.org/ItemInfo/RespLtrs/Form1098/CorrectingIRSForm1098.htm>
- 7 5. IRS Form 1099's filed against the party in question. The instructions for the form indicate that it is only for "trade or 8 business" use, which means federal employment. See:
9 <http://sedm.org/ItemInfo/RespLtrs/Form1099/CorrectingIRSForm1099.htm>
- 10 6. IRS Form 8300, Currency Transaction Report. This form is filled out by financial institutions for amounts withdraw in 11 cash exceeding $10,000 that are connected with a "trade or business". See:
12 <http://sedm.org/Forms/Discovery/DmdVerEvOfTradeOrBusiness.pdf>
- 13 7. The use or possession of a Social Security Number. This establishes the person who uses it as a public employee and 14 trustee over a federal business trust.
15 7.1. The domicile of the trust and its parent, the United States government, is the District of Columbia.
16 7.2. The terms of the trust document and the means of leaving the system and exhaustively explained in the document
17 below:

Resignation of Compelled Social Security Trustee , Form #06.002 http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm

19 7.3. The trust is created under the authority of the Social Security Act, at the time that the SSA Form SS-5 is 20 completed by an applicant. The SS-5 form is a federal employment application. After application has been made
21 and approved and the Social Security Number is issued, the party becomes a "public officer" or federal 22 "employee" in the context of everything the number is used with.
23 7.4. This creation of federal "agency" and "employment" by submitting the SS-5 application shifts the domicile of a
24 formerly private citizen to the District of Columbia in all federal courts for all occasions involving the use of the 25 Social Security Number of the employment duties associated with it. See:
26 7.4.1. 26 U.S.C. §7408(d). Shifts the domicile of all persons to the District of Columbia for the purposes of 27 injunctions.
28 7.4.2. 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(39). Shifts the domicile of all persons to the District of Columbia for all matters
29 involving federal tax liability.
30 7.4.3. Federal Rule of Civil Procedure Rule 17(b), which says that when a person is acting in a representative
31 capacity for a federal corporation, including the "United States", the law to be applied is the law of the 32 domicile of the Corporation, which is the District of Columbia in the case of the federal government.
- 33 8. The filing of IRS Form 1040, which is the wrong form to file for a person domiciled in a state of the Union. Persons
34 domiciled in states of the Union are nonresident aliens and if they file any IRS return form, it must be the IRS Form
35 1040NR, not 1040. See:

45 9. Financial account signature cards. Accounts opened at banks must be opened with an IRS Form W-8BEN. If the W-
46 8BEN is not provided, there is a prima facie presumption that the person opening the account is a "U.S. person", who 47 must provide a Social Security Number or Taxpayer Identification Number in order to open an account, which creates 48 a prima facie presumption that they are "taxpayers". Persons domiciled in states of the Union, who are "nationals" but 49 not "citizens" under federal law, use the IRS Form W-8BEN to open accounts without Social Security Numbers or
50 Taxpayer Identification Numbers. See:

1 All of the above sources of prima facie evidence used by the courts in establishing one as a “U.S. citizen”, a “U.S. person”
2 (as defined in 26 U.S.C. §7701\(a\)\(30\)), and a “taxpayer” MUST be denounced as untrue and rebutted as shown in the items
3 above before the burden of proof shifts to the government to establish a person as a “taxpayer”. If you have ensured that no
4 evidence stands in all of the above categories, then the government must leave you alone and respect your sovereignty. All
5 of the above sources of evidence create a nexus for federal jurisdiction because they all involve “commerce” with the 6 government of one kind or another. When one conducts “commerce” with the government, they surrender their sovereign
7 immunity as a “nonresident alien” under the Foreign Sovereign Immunities Act. 28 U.S.C. §1605\(a\)\(2\).

8 TITLE 28 > PART IV > CHAPTER 97 > § 1605
9 § 1605. General exceptions to the jurisdictional immunity of a foreign state

10 (a) A foreign state shall not be immune from the jurisdiction of courts of the United States or of the States in any 11 case—

12 [. . .]

13 (2) in which the action is based upon a commercial activity carried on in the United States by the foreign state;
14 or upon an act performed in the United States in connection with a commercial activity of the foreign state
15 elsewhere; or upon an act outside the territory of the United States in connection with a commercial activity of 16 the foreign state elsewhere and that act causes a direct effect in the United States;

17 Those who want their sovereignty respected and who want to be left alone by the IRS and the federal government must 18 therefore go out of their way to ensure that they are not conducting “commerce” of any kind with the federal government.
19 Commerce is the nexus for nearly all forms of federal jurisdiction, and this nexus originates from Article 1, Section 8,
20 Clause 3 and Article 4, Section 3, Clause 2 of the Constitution of the United States of America.

27 6.3 Why it is UNLAWFUL for the I.R.S. to enforce Internal Revenue Code, Subtitle A within 28 states of the Union

29 The federal government enjoys NO legislative jurisdiction on land within the exterior limits of a state of the Union that is 30 not its own territory. The authorities for this fact are as follows:

- 31 1. The U.S. Supreme Court has stated repeatedly that the United States federal government is without ANY legislative 32 jurisdiction within the exterior boundaries of a sovereign state of Union:

33 “The difficulties arising out of our dual form of government and the opportunities for differing opinions
34 *concerning the relative rights of state and national governments are many; but for a very long time this court
35 has steadfastly adhered to the doctrine that the taxing power of Congress does not extend to the states or
36 their political subdivisions. The same basic reasoning which leads to that conclusion, we think, requires like*
37 *limitation upon the power which springs from the bankruptcy clause. United States v. Butler, supra.”*
39

40 *“It is no longer open to question that the general government, unlike the states, Hammer v. Dagenhart, 247
41 U.S. 251, 275, 38 S.Ct. 529, 3 A.L.R. 649, Ann.Cas.1918E 724, possesses no inherent power in respect of the 42 internal affairs of the states; and emphatically not with regard to legislation.”*
43 [Carter v. Carter Coal Co., 298 U.S. 238, 56 S.Ct. 855 (1936)]

44 If you meet with someone from the IRS, ask them whether the Internal Revenue Code qualifies as “legislation” within 45 the meaning of the above rulings. Tell them you aren’t interested in court cases because judges cannot make law or 46 create jurisdiction where none exists.

- 1 2. 40 U.S.C. §3112 creates a presumption that the United States government does not have jurisdiction unless it
2 specifically accepts jurisdiction over lands within the exterior limits of a state of the Union:

3 TITLE 40 - PUBLIC BUILDINGS, PROPERTY, AND WORKS
4 SUBTITLE II - PUBLIC BUILDINGS AND WORKS
5 PART A - GENERAL
6 CHAPTER 31 - GENERAL
7 SUBCHAPTER II - ACQUIRING LAND
8 Sec. 3112. Federal jurisdiction

9 (a) Exclusive Jurisdiction Not Required. - It is not required that the Federal Government obtain exclusive
10 jurisdiction in the United States over land or an interest in land it acquires.

11 (b) Acquisition and Acceptance of Jurisdiction. - When the head of a department, agency, or independent
12 establishment of the Government, or other authorized officer of the department, agency, or independent
13 establishment, considers it desirable, that individual may accept or secure, from the State in which land or an
14 interest in land that is under the immediate jurisdiction, custody, or control of the individual is situated, consent
15 to, or cession of, any jurisdiction over the land or interest not previously obtained. The individual shall indicate
16 acceptance of jurisdiction on behalf of the Government by filing a notice of acceptance with the Governor of the 17 State or in another manner prescribed by the laws of the State where the land is situated.

18 (c) Presumption. - It is conclusively presumed that jurisdiction has not been accepted until the Government 19 accepts jurisdiction over land as provided in this section.

- 21 3. The Uniform Commercial Code defines the term “United States” as the District of Columbia:

22 Uniform Commercial Code (U.C.C.)
23 § 9-307. LOCATION OF DEBTOR.

24 (h) [Location of United States.]

25 The United States is located in the District of Columbia.

28]

- 29 4. Article 1, Section 8, Clause 17 of the Constitution expressly limits the territorial jurisdiction of the federal government
30 to the ten square mile area known as the District of Columbia. Extensions to this jurisdiction arose at the signing of the 31 Treaty of Peace between the King of Spain and the United States in Paris France, which granted to the United States
32 new territories such as Guam, Cuba, the Philippines, etc.

- 33 5. The Internal Revenue Code, Subtitle A places the income tax primarily upon a “trade or business”. A “trade or 34 business” is defined as the “functions of a public office” in 26 U.S.C. §7701\(a\)\(26\). See:

The “Trade or Business” Scam, Form #05.001

<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

- 35 6. 4 U.S.C. §72 limits the exercise of all “public offices” and the application of their laws to the District of Columbia and 36 NOT elsewhere except as expressly provided by Congress.

37 TITLE 4 > CHAPTER 3 > § 72
38 § 72. Public offices; at seat of Government

39 All offices attached to the seat of government shall be exercised in the District of Columbia, and not elsewhere,
40 except as otherwise expressly provided by law.

- 41 7. One of the key words in 4 U.S.C. § 72 is the word “expressly.” When Congress extends the authority of any office or 42 officer of the United States outside “the District of Columbia, and not elsewhere,” Congress will do it by “expressly”
43 extending the Secretary’s authority and by leaving no doubt that said authority has been extended by Congress to a
44 particular geographical area outside “the District of Columbia.” The definition of “expressly” from Black’s Law
45 Dictionary, Sixth Edition is as follows:

46 “expressly. In an express manner; in direct and unmistakable terms; explicitly; definitely; directly. St. Louis
47 Union Trust Co. v. Hill, 336 Mo. 17, 76 S.W.2d. 685, 689. The opposite of impliedly. Bolles v. Toledo Trust
48 Co., 144 Ohio.St. 195, 58 N.E.2d. 381, 396.” (Emphasis added)
49 [Black’s Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition]

1 8. The U.S. Supreme Court expressly held that Congress may not establish a “trade or business”, and by implication a
2 “public office”, in a state of the Union and tax it.

3 “Congress cannot authorize a trade or business within a State in order to tax it.”
4 License Tax Cases, [72 U.S. 462, 18 L.Ed. 497, 5 Wall. 462, 2 A.F.T.R. 2224 (1866)]

5 9. The Supreme Court agrees that all jurisdiction must be conferred by Congress and not by the judiciary or “judge made
6 law”:

7 “Official powers cannot be extended beyond the terms and necessary implications of the grant. If broader
8 powers be desirable, they must be conferred by Congress.”
9 [Federal Trade Commission v. Raladam Co., 283 U.S. 643, 51 S.Ct. 587 (1931)(Emphasis added)]

10 10. The IRS and the DOJ have been repeatedly asked for the statute which “expressly extends” the “public office” that is 11 the subject of the tax upon “trade or business” activities within states of the Union. NO ONE has been able to produce
12 such a statute because IT DOESN’T EXIST. There is no provision of law which “expressly extends” the enforcement
13 of Internal Revenue Code, Subtitle A to any state of the Union. Therefore, IRS jurisdiction does not exist there.

14 “Expressio unius est exclusio alterius. A maxim of statutory interpretation meaning that the expression of one
15 thing is the exclusion of another. Burgin v. Forbes, 293 Ky. 456, 169 S.W.2d. 321, 325; Newblock v. Bowles,
16 170 Okl. 487, 40 P.2d. 1097, 1100. Mention of one thing implies exclusion of another. When certain persons
17 or things are specified in a law, contract, or will, an intention to exclude all others from its operation may be
18 inferred. Under this maxim, if statute specifies one exception to a general rule or assumes to specify the effects
19 of a certain provision, other exceptions or effects are excluded.”
20 [Black’s Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, p. 581]

21 10.1. 48 U.S.C. §1612 and 48 U.S.C. §1397 expressly extend the enforcement of the criminal provisions of the Internal 22 Revenue Code to the Virgin Islands and is the only enactment of Congress that extends enforcement of any part 23 of the Internal Revenue Code to any place outside the District of Columbia.

24 10.2. 48 U.S.C. §1421i extends the internal revenue laws to Guam.

25 10.3. 48 U.S.C. §1801 extends the revenue laws to the Northern Mariana Islands.

26 11. The U.S. Supreme Court commonly refers to states of the Union as “foreign states”. To wit:

27 We have held, upon full consideration, that although under existing statutes a circuit court of the United States
28 has jurisdiction upon habeas corpus to discharge from the custody of state officers or tribunals one restrained
29 of his liberty in violation of the Constitution of the United States, it is not required in every case to exercise its 30 power to that end immediately upon application being made for the writ. 'We cannot suppose,' this court has 31 said, 'that Congress intended to compel those courts, by such means, to draw to themselves, in the first instance,
32 the control of all criminal prosecutions commenced in state courts exercising authority within the same
33 territorial limits, where the accused claims that he is held in custody in violation of the Constitution of the 34 United States. The injunction to hear the case summarily, and thereupon 'to dispose of the party as law and
35 justice require' [R. S. 761], does not deprive the court of discretion as to the time and mode in which it will 36 exert the powers conferred upon it. That discretion should be exercised in the light of the relations existing,
37 under our system of government, between the judicial tribunals of the Union and of the states, and in
38 recognition of the fact that the public good requires that those relations be not disturbed by unnecessary
39 conflict between courts equally bound to guard and protect rights secured by the Constitution. When the 40 petitioner is in custody by state authority for an act done or omitted to be done in pursuance of a law of the 41 United States, or of an order, process, or decree of a court or judge thereof; or where, being a subject or 42 citizen of a foreign state, and domiciled therein, he is in custody, under like authority, for an act done or 43 omitted under any alleged right, title, authority, privilege, protection, or exemption claimed under the 44 commission, or order, or sanction of any foreign state, or under color thereof, the validity and effect whereof
45 depend upon the law of nations; in such and like cases of urgency, involving the authority and operations of 46 the general government, or the obligations of this country to, or its relations with, foreign nations, [180 U.S.
47 499, 502] the courts of the United States have frequently interposed by writs of habeas corpus and
48 discharged prisoners who were held in custody under state authority. So, also, when they are in the custody of

12. The Federal Register Act, 44 U.S.C. §1505(a), and the Administrative Procedures Act, 5 U.S.C. §553(a) both require that when a federal agency wishes to enforce any provision of statutory law within a state of the Union, it must write proposed implementing regulations, publish them in the Federal Register, and thereby give the public opportunity for “notice and comment”. Notice that 44 U.S.C. §1508 says that the Federal Register is the official method for providing “notice” of laws that will be enforced in “States of the Union”. There are no implementing regulations authorizing the enforcement of any provision of the Internal Revenue Code within any state of the Union, and therefore it cannot be enforced against the general public domiciled within states of the Union. See the following for exhaustive proof:

IRS Due Process Meeting Handout, Form #03.008
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

13. Various provisions of law indicate that when implementing regulations authorizing enforcement have NOT been published in the Federal Register, then the statutes cited as authority may NOT prescribe a penalty or adversely affect rights protected by the Constitution of the United States:

TITLE 5 > PART I > CHAPTER 5 > SUBCHAPTER II > § 552
§ 552. Public information; agency rules, opinions, orders, records, and proceedings

(a)(1) Except to the extent that a person has actual and timely notice of the terms thereof, a person may not in any manner be required to resort to, or be adversely affected by, a matter required to be published in the Federal Register and not so published. For the purpose of this paragraph, matter reasonably available to the class of persons affected thereby is deemed published in the Federal Register when incorporated by reference therein with the approval of the Director of the Federal Register.

26 C.F.R. §601.702 Publication and public inspection

(a)(2)(ii) Effect of failure to publish. Except to the extent that a person has actual and timely notice of the terms of any matter referred to in subparagraph (1) of this paragraph which is required to be published in the Federal Register, such person is not required in any manner to resort to, or be adversely affected by, such matter if it is not so published or is not incorporated by reference therein pursuant to subdivision (i) of this subparagraph. Thus, for example, any such matter which imposes an obligation and which is not so published or incorporated by reference will not adversely change or affect a person's rights.

14. 44 U.S.C. §1505(a) and 5 U.S.C. §553(a) both indicate that the only case where an enactment of the Congress can be enforced DIRECTLY against persons domiciled in states of the Union absent implementing regulations is for those groups specifically exempted from the requirement. These groups include:
- 14.1. A military or foreign affairs function of the United States. 5 U.S.C. §553(a)(1).
 - 14.2. A matter relating to agency management or personnel or to public property, loans, grants, benefits, or contracts. 5 U.S.C. §553(a)(2).
 - 14.3. Federal agencies or persons in their capacity as officers, agents, or employees thereof. 44 U.S.C. §1505(a)(1).
15. The Internal Revenue Code itself defines and limits the term “United States” to include only the District of Columbia and nowhere expands the term to include any state of the Union. Consequently, states of the Union are not included.

TITLE 26 > Subtitle F > CHAPTER 79 > Sec. 7701.
Sec. 7701. - Definitions

(a)(9) United States

The term “United States” when used in a geographical sense includes only the States and the District of Columbia.

(a)(10) State

The term “State” shall be construed to include the District of Columbia, where such construction is necessary to carry out provisions of this title.

16. 26 U.S.C. §7601 limits and defines enforcement of the Internal Revenue Code and discovery related to the enforcement only within the bounds of internal revenue districts. Any evidence gathered by the IRS outside the District of Columbia is UNLAWFULLY obtained and in violation of this statute, and therefore inadmissible. See Weeks v. United States, 232 U.S. 383 (1914), which says that evidence unlawfully obtained is INADMISSIBLE.

17. 26 U.S.C. §7621 authorizes the President of the United States to define the boundaries of all internal revenue districts.
- 17.1. The President delegated that authority to the Secretary of the Treasury pursuant to Executive Order #10289.
- 17.2. Neither the President nor his delegate, the Secretary of the Treasury, may establish internal revenue districts outside of the “United States”, which is then defined in 26 U.S.C. §7701\(a\)\(9\) and (a)(10), 26 U.S.C. §7701\(a\)\(39\), and 26 U.S.C. §7408\(d\) to mean ONLY the District of Columbia. This restriction is a result of the fact that the Constitution in Article 4, Section 3, Clause 2 only authorizes Congress to write rules and regulations for the territory and other property of the United States, and states of the Union are not “territory” of the United States:

"Territories' or 'territory' as including 'state' or 'states.'" While the term 'territories of the' United States may, under certain circumstances, include the states of the Union, as used in the federal Constitution and in ordinary acts of congress "territory" does not include a foreign state.
[86 Corpus Juris Secundum (C.J.S.), Territories, §1 (2003)]

- 17.3. Congress cannot delegate to the President or the Secretary an authority within states of the Union that it does not have. Congress has NO LEGISLATIVE JURISDICTION within a state of the Union.

"It is no longer open to question that the general government, unlike the states, Hammer v. Dagenhart, 247 U.S. 251, 275, 38 S.Ct. 529, 3 A.L.R. 649, Ann.Cas.1918E 724, possesses no inherent power in respect of the internal affairs of the states; and emphatically not with regard to legislation."
Carter v. Carter Coal Co., [298 U.S. 238, 56 S.Ct. 855 (1936)]

18. Treasury Order 150-02 abolished all internal revenue districts except that of the District of Columbia.
19. IRS is delegate of the Secretary in insular possessions, as “delegate” is defined at 26 U.S.C. §7701\(a\)\(12\)\(B\), but NOT in states of the Union.

Based on all the above authorities:

1. The word “INTERNAL” in the phrase “INTERNAL Revenue Service” means INTERNAL to the federal government or the federal zone. This includes people OUTSIDE the federal zone but who have a domicile there, such as statutory but not constitutional citizens and residents abroad coming under a tax treaty with a foreign country, pursuant to 26 U.S.C. §911. It DOES NOT include persons domiciled in states of the Union. See:

Why Domicile and Becoming a “Taxpayer” Require Your Consent, Form #05.002
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

2. The U.S. Supreme Court has confirmed that there is no basis to believe that any part of the federal government enjoys any legislative jurisdiction within any state of the Union, including in its capacity as a lawmaker for the general government. This was confirmed by one attorney who devoted his life to the study of Constitutional law below:

“§79. [. . .]There cannot be two separate and independent sovereignties within the same limits or jurisdiction; nor can there be two distinct and separate sources of sovereign authority within the same jurisdiction. The right of commanding in the last resort can be possessed only by one body of people inhabiting the same territory, and can be executed only by those intrusted with the execution of such authority.”

Our public dis-servants have tried to systematically destroy this separation using a combination of LIES, PROPAGANDA in unreliable government publications, and the abuse of “words of art” in the void for vagueness “codes” they write in order to hunt and trap and enslave you like an animal.

*But this is a people robbed and plundered;
All of them are snared in [legal] holes, [by the sophistry of rebellious public “servant” lawyers]
And they are hidden in prison houses;
They are for prey, and no one delivers;
For plunder, and no one says, “Restore!”
Who among you will give ear to this?
Who will listen and hear for the time to come?
Who gave Jacob [Americans] for plunder, and Israel [America] to the robbers?
Was it not the LORD,
He against whom we have sinned?

22 7 Government Franchises may NOT lawfully be offered to people (humans) physically within 23 and domiciled within Constitutional states of the Union and may only be offered to those 24 domiciled and present on federal territory³⁹

25 Another very important aspect of federal franchises is the fact that they cannot lawfully even be offered to human beings
26 domiciled in states of the Union and whose rights are protected by the United States Constitution. We will prove this 27 important fact in this section.

28 7.1 Background

29 All franchises are implemented with excise taxes. All excises are upon specific activities which are usually licensed. The 30 Constitutional authority for excise taxation is found in Article 1, Section 8, Clause 1 of the United States Constitution:

31 United States Constitution
32 Article I: Legislative Department
33 Section 8.

34 The Congress shall have Power To lay and collect Taxes, Duties, Imposts and Excises, to pay the Debts and
35 provide for the common Defence and general Welfare of the United States; but all Duties, Imposts and Excises
36 shall be uniform throughout the United States;

37 The interpretation of the U.S. Supreme Court upon the above provision is that it pertains ONLY to imports coming into the 38 country and to no other type of tax. The "activity" subject to excise taxation is therefore that of IMPORTING goods from 39 foreign countries:

40 "The difficulties arising out of our dual form of government and the opportunities for differing opinions
41 *concerning the relative rights of state and national governments are many; but for a very long time this court
42 has steadfastly adhered to the doctrine that the taxing power of Congress does not extend to the states or

1 their political subdivisions. The same basic reasoning which leads to that conclusion, we think, requires like
2 limitation upon the power which springs from the bankruptcy clause. United States v. Butler, supra."
3 [Ashton v. Cameron County Water Improvement District No. 1, 298 U.S. 513, 56 S.Ct. 892 (1936)]

4 "It is no longer open to question that the general government, unlike the states, Hammer v. Dagenhart, 247
5 U.S. 251, 275, 38 S.Ct. 529, 3 A.L.R. 649, Ann.Cas.1918E 724, possesses no inherent power in respect of the
6 internal affairs of the states; and emphatically not with regard to legislation."
7 [Carter v. Carter Coal Co., 298 U.S. 238, 56 S.Ct. 855 (1936)]

8 "The States, after they formed the Union, continued to have the same range of taxing power which they had
9 before, barring only duties affecting exports, imports, and on tonnage. 2 Congress, on the other hand, to lay
10 taxes in order 'to pay the Debts and provide for the common Defence and general Welfare of the United States',
11 Art. 1, Sec. 8, U.S.C.A.Const., can reach every person and every dollar in the land with due regard to 12 Constitutional limitations as to the method of laying taxes."
13 [Graves v. People of State of New York, 306 U.S. 466 (1939)]

14 The phrase "every person" as used in the last case above relates to:

- 15 1. "persons" domiciled on federal territory and licensed to engage in the regulated activity... OR
- 16 2. Those lawfully serving as public officers in the NATIONAL and not STATE government.

17 The term "every person" as used in Graves above does NOT include EVERYONE, or those domiciled in states of the 18 Union.

19 The foregoing considerations would lead, in case of doubt, to a construction of any statute as intended to be
20 confined in its operation and effect to the territorial limits over which the lawmaker has general and legitimate
21 power. 'All legislation is prima facie territorial.' Ex parte Blain, L. R. 12 Ch. Div. 522, 528; State v. Carter,
22 27 N.J.L. 499; People v. Merrill, 2 Park. Crim. Rep. 590, 596. Words having universal scope, such as 'every
23 contract in restraint of trade,' 'every person who shall monopolize,' etc., will be taken, as a matter of course,
24 to mean only everyone subject to such legislation, not all that the legislator subsequently may be able to
25 catch. In the case of the present statute, the improbability of the United States attempting to make acts done in 26 Panama or Costa Rica criminal is obvious, yet the law begins by making criminal the acts for which it gives a
27 right to sue. We think it entirely plain that what the defendant did in Panama or Costa Rica is not within the 28 scope of the statute so far as the present suit is concerned. Other objections of a serious nature are urged, but 29 need not be discussed.
30 [American Banana Co. v. U.S. Fruit, 213 U.S. 347 at 357-358]

31 "The canon of construction which teaches that legislation of Congress, unless a contrary intent appears, is 32 meant to apply only within the territorial jurisdiction of the United States, Blackmer v. United States, supra, at 33 437, is a valid approach whereby unexpressed congressional intent may be ascertained. It is based on the 34 assumption that Congress is primarily concerned with domestic conditions."
35 [Foley Brothers, Inc. v. Filardo, 336 U.S. 281 (1949)]

36 "The laws of Congress in respect to those matters [outside of Constitutionally delegated powers] do not
37 extend into the territorial limits of the states, but have force only in the District of Columbia, and other 38 places that are within the exclusive jurisdiction of the national government."
39 [Caha v. U.S., 152 U.S. 211 (1894)]

40 "There is a canon of legislative construction which teaches Congress that, unless a contrary intent appears
41 [legislation] is meant to apply only within the territorial jurisdiction of the United States."
42 [U.S. v. Spelar, 338 U.S. 217 at 222.]

43 By "territory" above is meant TERRITORIES of the United States and not land subject to the exclusive jurisdiction of a 44 state of the Union.

45 Corpus Juris Secundum (C.J.S.) Secundum Legal Encyclopedia
46 Volume 86: Territories
47 "§1. Definitions, Nature, and Distinctions

48 "The word 'territory,' when used to designate a political organization has a distinctive, fixed, and legal
49 meaning under the political institutions of the United States, and does not necessarily include all the 50 territorial possessions of the United States, but may include only the portions thereof which are organized 51 and exercise governmental functions under act of congress."

52 "While the term 'territory' is often loosely used, and has even been construed to include municipal subdivisions
53 of a territory, and 'territories of the' United States is sometimes used to refer to the entire domain over which

1 the United States exercises dominion, the word 'territory,' when used to designate a political organization, has
2 a distinctive, fixed, and legal meaning under the political institutions of the United States, and the term
3 'territory' or 'territories' does not necessarily include only a portion or the portions thereof which are organized
4 and exercise government functions under acts of congress. The term 'territories' has been defined to be political
5 subdivisions of the outlying dominion of the United States, and in this sense the term 'territory' is not a
6 description of a definite area of land but of a political unit governing and being governed as such. The question
7 whether a particular subdivision or entity is a territory is not determined by the particular form of government
8 with which it is, more or less temporarily, invested.

9 "Territories' or 'territory' as including 'state' or 'states.'" While the term 'territories of the' United States
10 may, under certain circumstances, include the states of the Union, as used in the federal Constitution and in 11 ordinary acts of congress "territory" does not include a foreign state.

12 "As used in this title, the term 'territories' generally refers to the political subdivisions created by congress,
13 and not within the boundaries of any of the several states."

14 [86 Corpus Juris Secundum (C.J.S.), Territories, §1 (2003)]

15 Congress can only reach “persons” via civil law by their consent expressed in ONE or more of the following forms:

- 16 1. They must choose a civil domicile within exclusive federal jurisdiction on federal territory to be subject to federal civil
17 law...AND
- 18 2. The must represent a public office domiciled on federal territory. This requires that they must apply for a license or 19 run for a public office, both of which are federal franchises. All franchises are implemented with the civil statutory 20 law.

21 Unless and until they have done one or more of the above, they are NOT statutory “persons” under federal law and cannot 22 be reached by the civil law of the national government. We call those who are not statutory “persons” by the name “non-
23 resident non-persons” throughout our website. The Constitution protects states of the Union and all those domiciled therein
24 by ensuring that nearly all federal legislation cannot reach beyond federal territory and is therefore legislatively “foreign”
25 and “alien” in relation to the states. That is why we allege that the word “INTERNAL” within the phrase “INTERNAL 26 Revenue Service” only relates to activities and offices executed on federal territory by federal officers. However, there are 27 places where the Constitution does not apply, such as:

- 28 1. In a foreign country.
- 29 2. In a territory or possession of the United States. See 4 U.S.C. §110(d).

30 People in any of the above circumstances don’t have any rights to protect, but only statutorily granted privileges and 31 franchises. The U.S. Supreme Court recognized this when it held the following:

32 "Indeed, the practical interpretation put by Congress upon the Constitution has been long continued and
33 uniform to the effect [182 U.S. 244, 279] that the Constitution is applicable to territories acquired by purchase
34 or conquest, only when and so far as Congress shall so direct. Notwithstanding its duty to 'guarantee to every
35 state in this Union a republican form of government' (art. 4, 4), by which we understand, according to the
36 definition of Webster, 'a government in which the supreme power resides in the whole body of the people,
37 and is exercised by representatives elected by them,' Congress did not hesitate, in the original organization of
38 the territories of Louisiana, Florida, the Northwest Territory, and its subdivisions of Ohio, Indiana,
39 Michigan, Illinois, and Wisconsin and still more recently in the case of Alaska, to establish a form of
40 government bearing a much greater analogy to a British Crown colony than a republican state of America,
41 and to vest the legislative power either in a governor and council, or a governor and judges, to be appointed by
42 the President. It was not until they had attained a certain population that power was given them to organize a
43 legislature by vote of the people. In all these cases, as well as in territories subsequently organized west of the
44 Mississippi, Congress thought it necessary either to extend to Constitution and laws of the United States over
45 them, or to declare that the inhabitants should be entitled to enjoy the right of trial by jury, of bail, and of the
46 privilege of the writ of habeas corpus, as well as other privileges of the bill of rights."
47 [Downes v. Bidwell, 182 U.S. 244 (1901)]

48 All legitimate governments are established primarily to protect private rights of those who expressly CONSENT to be
49 protected. However, that protection is only mandated by the Constitution and by law in places where the Constitution
50 applies. The Constitution, in turn attaches to the land and not to your status as a "person", "citizen", or "resident"
51 (alien). The Constitution doesn’t travel with you wherever you go but instead attaches to the land you are standing on at 52 the moment you receive an injury to your rights. THAT is why the Constitution calls itself “the law of the land”.

1 "There could be no doubt as to the correctness of this conclusion, so far, at least, as it applied to the District
2 of Columbia. This District had been a part of the states of Maryland and [182 U.S. 244, 261] Virginia. It had
3 been subject to the Constitution, and was a part of the United States[]. The Constitution had attached to it
4 irrevocably. There are steps which can never be taken backward. The tie that bound the states of Maryland
5 and Virginia to the Constitution could not be dissolved, without at least the consent of the Federal and state
6 governments to a formal separation. The mere cession of the District of Columbia to the Federal government
7 relinquished the authority of the states, but it did not take it out of the United States or from under the aegis
8 of the Constitution. Neither party had ever consented to that construction of the cession. If, before the 9 District was set off, Congress had passed an unconstitutional act affecting its inhabitants, it would have been
10 void. If done after the District was created, it would have been equally void; in other words, Congress could not
11 do indirectly, by carving out the District, what it could not do directly. The District still remained a part of the 12 United States, protected by the Constitution. Indeed, it would have been a fanciful construction to hold that 13 territory which had been once a part of the United States ceased to be such by being ceded directly to the 14 Federal government."
15 [Downes v. Bidwell, 182 U.S. 244 (1901)]

16 Former President William Howard Taft, the person most responsible for the introduction and ratification of the Sixteenth
17 Amendment, understood these concepts well when he made the following ruling as a U.S. Supreme Court Chief Justice
18 after leaving the office of President:

19 "It is locality that is determinative of the application of the Constitution, in such matters as judicial procedure,
20 and not the status of the people who live in it."
21 [Balzac v. Porto Rico, 258 U.S. 298 (1922)]

22 The Constitution protects your rights by making them "unalienable" in relation to the government. The Declaration of 23 Independence declares that these rights are "unalienable".

24 "We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator
25 with certain unalienable Rights, that among these are Life, Liberty and the pursuit of Happiness.--That to
26 secure these rights, Governments are instituted among Men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the 27 governed, -"
28 [Declaration of Independence]

29 Below is the definition of "unalienable":

30 "Unalienable. Inalienable; incapable of being aliened, that is, sold and transferred [to the government]."
31 [Black's Law Dictionary, Fourth Edition, p. 1693]

32 The implication of the above is that it is ILLEGAL for you to bargain away any of your constitutional rights to a real, de
33 jure government through any commercial process. Franchises are a commercial process that exchange rights for privileges.
34 Therefore, franchises cannot lawfully be offered within states of the Union without violating organic/fundamental law and 35 may only be offered where rights do not exist within the meaning of the Constitution, which is federal territory or a foreign 36 country.

37 Let's examine this restriction even further. The Constitution requires that the federal government must protect the states of 38 the Union from invasion by "foreigners".

39 United States Constitution
40 Article IV: States Relations, Section 4.

41 The United States shall guarantee to every State in this Union a Republican Form of Government, and shall 42 protect each of them against Invasion; and on Application of the Legislature, or of the Executive (when the 43 Legislature cannot be convened) against domestic Violence.

44 Well, guess what? The District of Columbia is "foreign" for the purposes of legislative jurisdiction with respect to people
45 domiciled in states of the Union.

46 "The United States government is a foreign corporation with respect to a state."
47 [19 Corpus Juris Secundum (C.J.S.), Corporations, §§883-884 (2003);
48 SOURCE: <http://famguardian.org/TaxFreedom/CitesByTopic/UnitedStates-19CJS883to884.pdf>]

49 "It is clear that Congress, as a legislative body, exercise two species of legislative power: the one, limited as to
50 its objects, but extending all over the Union: the other, an absolute, exclusive legislative power over the District

1 of Columbia. The preliminary inquiry in the case now before the Court, is, by virtue of which of these
2 authorities was the law in question passed?"
3 [Cohens v. Virginia, 19 U.S. 264, 6 Wheat. 265; 5 L.Ed. 257 (1821)]

4 Foreign States: "Nations outside of the United States...Term may also refer to another state; i.e. a sister state.
5 The term 'foreign nations', ...should be construed to mean all nations and states other than that in which the 6 action is brought; and hence, one state of the Union is foreign to another, in that sense."
7 [Black's Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, p. 648]

8 Foreign Laws: "The laws of a foreign country or sister state."
9 [Black's Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, p. 647]

10 Certainly, any attempt by the general government to offer franchises that destroy, regulate, and tax rights protected by the 11 Constitution within legislatively "foreign" states of the Union would constitute an "invasion" within the meaning of Article
12 4, Section 4 of the Constitution and an unconstitutional act of Treason. Our Bible dictionary says on the subject of "taxes"
13 that they constitute an act of war against a hostile state, in fact. In older times, "taxes" were called "tribute". Nearly all
14 such "taxes" and "tribute" are collected as franchise taxes:

15 "TRIBUTE. Tribute in the sense of an impost paid by one state to another, as a mark of subjugation, is a
16 common feature of international relationships in the biblical world. The tributary could be either a hostile state
17 or an ally. Like deportation, its purpose was to weaken a hostile state. Deportation aimed at depleting the
18 man-power. The aim of tribute was probably twofold: to impoverish the subjugated state and at the same time
19 to increase the conqueror's own revenues and to acquire commodities in short supply in his own country. As
20 an instrument of administration it was one of the simplest ever devised: the subjugated country could be made
21 responsible for the payment of a yearly tribute. Its non-arrival would be taken as a sign of rebellion, and an
22 expedition would then be sent to deal with the recalcitrant. This was probably the reason for the attack
23 recorded in Gn. 14.
24 [New Bible Dictionary, Third Edition. Wood, D. R. W., Wood, D. R. W., & Marshall, I. H. 1996, c1982, c1962;
25 InterVarsity Press: Downers Grove]

26 The U.S. Supreme Court recognized that the central government cannot lawfully offer licenses or franchises within a state
27 of the Union without violating the Constitution when it held the following:

28 "Thus, Congress having power to regulate commerce with foreign nations, and among the several States, and
29 with the Indian tribes, may, without doubt, provide for granting coasting licenses, licenses to pilots, licenses to
30 trade with the Indians, and any other licenses necessary or proper for the exercise of that great and extensive
31 power; and the same observation is applicable to every other power of Congress, to the exercise of which the
32 granting of licenses may be incident. All such licenses confer authority, and give rights to the licensee.

33 But very different considerations apply to the internal commerce or domestic trade of the States. Over this
34 commerce and trade Congress has no power of regulation nor any direct control. This power belongs
35 exclusively to the States. No interference by Congress with the business of citizens transacted within a State
36 is warranted by the Constitution, except such as is strictly incidental to the exercise of powers clearly granted
37 to the legislature. The power to authorize a business within a State is plainly repugnant to the exclusive power
38 of the State over the same subject. It is true that the power of Congress to tax is a very extensive power. It is
39 given in the Constitution, with only one exception and only two qualifications. Congress cannot tax exports, and
40 it must impose direct taxes by the rule of apportionment, and indirect taxes by the rule of uniformity. Thus
41 limited, and thus only, it reaches every subject, and may be exercised at discretion. But, it reaches only existing
42 subjects. Congress cannot authorize [e.g. LICENSE, using a Social Security Number (SSN) or Taxpayer
43 Identification Number (TIN)] a trade or business [per 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(26)] within a State in order to tax
44 it."

5 Article I, Section 9, Clause 8

6 No Title of Nobility shall be granted by the United States: And no Person holding any Office of Profit or Trust
7 under them, shall, without the Consent of the Congress, accept of any present, Emolument, Office, or Title, of
8 any kind whatever, from any King, Prince, or foreign State.

9
10 United States Constitution
11 Article I, Section. 10

12 No State shall enter into any Treaty, Alliance, or Confederation; grant Letters of Marque and Reprisal; coin
13 Money; emit Bills of Credit; make any Thing but gold and silver Coin a Tender in Payment of Debts; pass any 14 Bill of Attainder, ex post facto Law, or Law impairing the Obligation of Contracts, or grant any Title of 15 Nobility.

16 Notice in the above references that “offices” under a foreign power are prohibited. All franchises create and perpetuate
17 such de facto illegal “offices”, which are referred to as “public offices” in most franchise agreements. These offices are not 18 within the de jure government, but in fact are within the de facto government SCAM:

- 19 1. The IRS, which is NOT part of the de jure government. See:

Origins and Authority of the Internal Revenue Service, Form #05.005
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

- 20 2. Corporate DE FACTO states, which are not the de jure states mentioned in the U.S. Constitution. All such de facto
21 “States” are federal corporations acting as agents of the national government. These virtual corporations are created
22 when constitutional states of the Union ILLEGALLY sign up for federal “benefits”, such as Social Security, Medicare,
23 etc, and thus waive sovereign immunity and implicitly consent to act as the equivalent of federal territories and 24 statutory “States” identified in 4 U.S.C. §110(d). See:

Corporatization and Privatization of the Government, Form #05.024
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

25 Hence, all such offices are ipso facto unlawful and unconstitutional to implement within a state of the Union because they
26 violate the separation of powers doctrine that forms the heart of the United States Constitution. The U.S. Supreme Court
27 also reaffirmed that franchises and the offices and titles of nobility that accompany them could not be established within a
28 state when it held the following:

29 “The United States have no constitutional capacity to exercise municipal jurisdiction, sovereignty, or 30 eminent domain, within the limits of a State or elsewhere, except in cases where it is delegated, and the 31 court denies the faculty of the Federal Government to add to its powers
32 by treaty or compact.”

33 [Dred Scott v. Sandford, 60 U.S. 393, 508-509 (1856)]
34

35 “Thus, Congress having power to regulate commerce with foreign nations, and among the several States, and
36 with the Indian tribes, may, without doubt, provide for granting coasting licenses, licenses to pilots, licenses to
37 trade with the Indians, and any other licenses necessary or proper for the exercise of that great and extensive
38 power; and the same observation is applicable to every other power of Congress, to the exercise of which the
39 granting of licenses may be incident. All such licenses confer authority, and give rights to the licensee.

40 *But very different considerations apply to the internal commerce or domestic trade of the States. Over this
41 commerce and trade Congress has no power of regulation nor any direct control. This power belongs
42 exclusively to the States. No interference by Congress with the business of citizens transacted within a State
43 is warranted by the Constitution, except such as is strictly incidental to the exercise of powers clearly granted
44 to the legislature. The power to authorize a business within a State is plainly repugnant to the exclusive power*
45 of the State over the same subject. It is true that the power of Congress to tax is a very extensive power. It is
46 given in the Constitution, with only one exception and only two qualifications. Congress cannot tax exports, and
47 it must impose direct taxes by the rule of apportionment, and indirect taxes by the rule of uniformity. Thus
48 limited, and thus only, it reaches every subject, and may be exercised at discretion. But, it reaches only existing
49 subjects. Congress cannot authorize [e.g. “license”] a trade or business within a State in order to tax it.”

Note that the “treaty or compact” term above includes franchise agreements. All franchises are “contracts” and the term “compact” is equivalent to “contract”:

“Compact, n. An agreement or contract between persons, nations, or states. Commonly applied to working agreements between and among states concerning matters of mutual concern. A contract between parties, which creates obligations and rights capable of being enforced and contemplated as such between the parties, in their distinct and independent characters. A mutual consent of parties concerned respecting some property or right that is the object of the stipulation, or something that is to be done or forborne. See also Compact clause; Confederacy; Interstate compact; Treaty.”
[Black’s Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, p. 281]

As a rule, franchises spring from contracts between the sovereign power and private citizens, made upon valuable considerations, for purposes of individual advantage as well as public benefit,⁴⁰ and thus a franchise partakes of a double nature and character. So far as it affects or concerns the public, it is publici juris and is subject to governmental control. The legislature may prescribe the manner of granting it, to whom it may be granted, the conditions and terms upon which it may be held, and the duty of the grantee to the public in exercising it, and may also provide for its forfeiture upon the failure of the grantee to perform that duty. But when granted, it becomes the property of the grantee, and is a private right, subject only to the governmental control growing out of its other nature as publici juris.⁴¹
[American Jurisprudence 2d, Franchises, §4: Generally (1999)]

The above analysis explains why the ONLY place where franchises can lawfully be exercised (per 4 U.S.C. §72) and where the office they are associated with can be domiciled is on federal territory not protected by the Constitution. On federal territory not protected by the Constitution, EVERYTHING is a privilege and you need permission to even exist from a legal perspective.

Why would our Founding Fathers be so intent on restricting the use of Titles of Nobility? Quite simple -- Our Declaration of Independence declares all men to be equal. The granting of Titles of Nobility creates a superior class of Citizens.

Generally, if someone has a Title of Nobility they join cliques and private groups that shun those they consider to be of lesser quality than themselves. Our Founding Fathers knew that many people were very unhappy about being cut off from the pomp and pageantry of England. It was these people, many of whom already held titles and positions of authority under the Crown, that the ban was aimed at.

If we allow people to claim honors, titles, and privileges it will not be very long before the equality of all men is destroyed and we start on the path to having those who have the money, the power, and the position, in short those who consider themselves to be the elite, make slaves and servants out of the rest of us.

Participation in franchises and “privileges” confers the equivalent of a “title of nobility” upon those who participate. Those who participate receive special favors and emoluments associated with participation that violates the notion of equal protection and equal treatment, thus destroying one of the main goals of the Constitution to implement equal protection.

In addition to the above provisions of the Constitution prohibiting “titles of nobility”, one additional amendment was proposed to the United States Constitution that would have added further weight to the above by causing anyone who accepts privileges or franchises to be mandatorily expatriated and lose their citizenship. That amendment was the Original Thirteenth Amendment proposed in 1810 and officially adopted in 1812. However, news of its adoption has been silenced because it would undermine and destroy nearly everything that our present government does, which is implemented almost entirely using franchises and privileges. The Original Thirteenth Amendment reads as follows:

“If any citizen of the United States shall accept, claim, receive, or retain any title of nobility or honour, or shall without the consent of Congress, accept and retain any present, pension, office, or emolument of any kind whatever, from any emperor, king, prince, or foreign power, such person shall cease to be a citizen of the united States, and shall be incapable of holding any office of trust or profit under them, or either of them.”

⁴¹ Georgia R. & Power Co. v. Atlanta, 154 Ga. 731, 115 S.E. 263; Lippencott v. Allander, 27 Iowa 460; State ex rel. Hutton v. Baton Rouge, 217 La. 857, 47 So.2d. 665; Tower v. Tower & S. Street R. Co. 68 Minn 500, 71 N.W. 691.

The history behind the cover-up of the adoption of this amendment is described below, along with some very interesting political commentary. The analysis concludes that the phrase "attorney at law" is a title of nobility that is unlawful.

1. Although already prohibited by the Constitution, an additional "title of nobility" amendment was proposed in 1789, and again in 1810, known as the 13th Amendment. The Founding Fathers wanted an Amendment that provided a punishment for those who defied the Law. The 1810 Amendment was properly ratified by the States and thus became a part of the Constitution, and thereby the law of the land.
2. The founding fathers saw such a serious threat in "titles of nobility" and "honors" that anyone receiving them would forfeit their citizenship, and never again be able to hold any office in either the federal or State government. Since the government prohibited them several times over four decades, and went through the amending process (even though "titles of nobility" were already prohibited by the Constitution), the Amendment carries much more significance for our Founding Fathers than is readily apparent today.
3. In an attempt to unlawfully change the Constitution, the predecessors of the above listed individuals quietly removed a valid Amendment to the Constitution for the united States of America. Their actions were timed to coincide with the tumult and confusion of the War of 1812, when the Capital Building and many of the original records were destroyed by the British. The removal was completed following the Civil War. This Amendment, the 13th, was properly ratified in 1812. It has never been reversed, and so, it is still the law of the land, Today. The 13th Amendment bars all individuals who claim a title of nobility from holding any office of honor or trust.

"If any citizen of the United States shall accept, claim, receive, or retain any title of nobility or honour, or shall without the consent of Congress, accept and retain any present, pension, office, or emolument of any kind whatever, from any emperor, king, prince, or foreign power, such person shall cease to be a citizen of the united States, and shall be incapable of holding any office of trust or profit under them, or either of them."
[Original 13th Amendment to the Constitution for the united states of America]

4. When the Proposed Amendment was passed by the Congress there were 17 States. Ratification requires $\frac{3}{4}$ of the then existing States accept the Amendment. Thirteen States were required to Ratify the Amendment. The order of ratification is:
 - 4.1. December 25, 1810: Maryland ratifies the 13th Amendment, the 1st state.
 - 4.2. January 31, 1811: Kentucky ratifies the 13th Amendment, the 2nd state.
 - 4.3. January 31, 1811: Ohio unanimously ratifies the 13th Amendment, the 3rd state.
 - 4.4. February 2, 1811: Delaware ratifies the 13th Amendment, the 4th state.
 - 4.5. February 6, 1811 Pennsylvania ratifies the 13th Amendment, the 5th state.
 - 4.6. February 13, 1811: New Jersey ratifies the 13th Amendment, the 6th state.
 - 4.7. October 24, 1811: Vermont ratifies the 13th Amendment, the 7th state.
 - 4.8. November 21, 1811: Tennessee ratifies the 13th Amendment, the 8th state.
 - 4.9. November 22, 1811: Georgia ratifies the 13th Amendment, the 9th state.
 - 4.10. December 23, 1811: North Carolina ratifies the 13th Amendment, the 10th state.
 - 4.11. February 27, 1812: Massachusetts ratifies the 13th Amendment, the 11th state.
 - 4.12. March 12, 1812: New York fails ratification of the 13th Amendment.
 - 4.13. April 30, 1812: Louisiana becomes the 18th state in the Union, but is not consulted on the pending constitutional amendment.
 - 4.14. June 12, 1812: The War of 1812 begins.
 - 4.15. June 12, 1812: Governor Plumer of New Hampshire send letter to New Hampshire Legislature accompanied by letters from the Chief Executive Officers of Georgia, North Carolina, Tennessee, Virginia, and Vermont indicating ratification of the 13th Amendment by their State. Virginia thus is shown to be the 12th State to ratify the Amendment.
 - 4.16. December 9, 1812: New Hampshire ratifies the 13th Amendment, the 13th of the 13 states required.
5. On March 10, 1819, the Virginia legislature passed Act No. 280 (Virginia Archives of Richmond, "misc." file, p. 299 for micro-film):

"Be it enacted by the General Assembly, that there shall be published an edition of the Laws of this Commonwealth in which shall be contained the following matters, that is to say: the Constitution of the united States and the amendments thereto..."

This act, by the Virginia General Assembly, was the specific legislated instructions on what was, by law, to be included in the re-publication (a special edition) of the Virginia Civil Code.

1
2 The Virginia General Assembly had already agreed that all Acts were to go into effect on the day that the Act to re-
3 publish the Civil Code was enacted. Therefore, if the 13th Amendment had not already been ratified, its official date of 4 ratification would be as of the date of re-publication of the Virginia Civil Code: March 12, 1819.

- 5 6. However, there is evidence that the State of Virginia ratified the Amendment in 1812 and the documentation was either
6 never forwarded to Washington or was lost when the Capital and records were burned in the War of 1812.
7 7. In 2003 -- A bill, House Concurrent Resolution 10, was placed before the New Hampshire legislature, to reaffirm New
8 Hampshire's December 9, 1812 ratification of the 13th Amendment... Known as New Hampshire House Concurrent
9 Resolution 10
10 8. February 2003 -- Representative Marple, prime sponsor of the New Hampshire Resolution 10 above, sent the 13th
11 Amendment Committee copies of pages from the NH Journal of the Senate, Dated June 12, 1812, that has these 12 surprising statements on pages 48 and 49:

14 "The following was received from His Excellency the Governor, by the Secretary.

15 To the Senate and House of Representatives.

16 I herewith communicate to the Legislature for their consideration, certain laws and resolutions passed by the 17 Legislatures of Georgia, North-Carolina, Tennessee, Virginia and Vermont, upon the subject of amendments of 18 the Constitution of the United States, together with letters from the executive officers of those States.

19 WILLIAM PLUMER"

20 June 12, 1812

21 Page 49:

22 "Voted, That Messers. Kimball and Ham, with such as the House of Representatives may join, be a committee to
23 take into consideration certain laws and resolutions passed by the Legislatures of Georgia, North-Carolina,
24 Tennessee, Virginia and Vermont, and other documents accompanying the same, communicated this day by His 25 Excellency the Governor, and report thereon. Sent down for concurrence."

- 26 9. The above entry in the Senate Record for New Hampshire clearly shows that Virginia ratified the 13th Amendment
27 prior to June 12, 1812. Early enough before that date that documents from Virginia reached New Hampshire
28 evidencing their ratification of the Amendment. Governor Plumer, clearly states that he included copies of those 29 documents with his transmittal letter to the New Hampshire Senate and House of Representatives.
30 10. The publication of the Constitution for the United States with the Laws of the Commonwealth of Virginia on March
31 12, 1819 clearly indicates that the Amendment was properly ratified by Virginia. They also knew there were powerful
32 forces allied against this ratification so they took extraordinary measures to make sure that it was published in 33 sufficient quantity (4,000 copies were ordered, almost triple their usual order), and instructed the printer to send a copy
34 to President James Monroe as well as James Madison and Thomas Jefferson. (The printer, Thomas Ritchie, was 35 bonded. He was required to be extremely accurate in his research and his printing, or he would forfeit his bond.)
36 11. There is no Constitutional requirement that any notification be sent to the Secretary of State, or to any other individual,
37 that they had ratified the 13th Amendment. The Constitution only requires that three-fourths of the states ratify so that
38 an Amendment will be added to the Constitution. If three-quarters of the states ratify, the Amendment is passed. No
39 provisions are stated concerning any announcement.
40 12. Printing the Constitution, with the 13th Amendment, by the Virginia Legislature is prima facie evidence of ratification.
41 The 13th Amendment is now, and has been since 1812, the official Law of the Land and a valid part of the Constitution
42 for the united States of America.
43 13. Following Virginia's publication of March 12, 1819, other states and territories quickly followed suit. Word of 44 Virginia's publication quickly spread throughout the States and both Rhode Island and Kentucky published the new
45 Amendment in 1822. Ohio first published in 1824. Maine ordered 10,000 copies of the Constitution with the 13th
46 Amendment to be printed for use in the schools in 1825, and again in 1831 for their Census Edition. Indiana Revised
47 Laws of 1831 published the 13th Article on p. 20. Northwestern Territories published in 1833. Ohio published in 1831
48 and 1833. Then came the Wisconsin Territory in 1839; Iowa Territory in 1843; Ohio again, in 1848; Kansas Statutes in 49 1855; and Nebraska Territory six times in a row from 1855 to 1860.
50 14. The title "Esquire," which Attorneys have freely adopted and claim, is a "title of nobility or honor." They have no right
51 to be a citizen of the united States, and cannot hold any office of trust or profit. All laws passed by a Senate, or a House of Representatives, that has a sitting member who claims the title of Esquire, or any other Title of Nobility, are null and void.

15. When an Attorney is admitted to the "Bar" they are granted the title "Esquire." In England a knight held the title of "Squire" and his armor bearer was granted the title "Esquire". King George, of Revolutionary War fame, established the International Bar Association (IBA) and authorized the IBA to grant the title of Attorney and the associated title, Esquire, to all Lawyers who joined the IBA. Because the International Bar Association, to which the other Bar Associations, ABA and State Bars belong, still grants the titles of "Attorney" and "Esquire" as approved and permitted by the King, or Queen of England the titles "Attorney" and "Esquire" are titles of nobility granted by the King or Queen of England.
16. Every Congress since 1812 has contained individuals who claim titles of nobility. Thus, every Congress since 1812 is unconstitutional. No valid laws have been passed, no valid Amendments to the U.S. Constitution have been adopted, no additional States have been properly created. All States formed since 1812 do not exist as valid States.
17. Every Federal and State Supreme Court is composed of Attorneys who claim the title of "Esquire." These Supreme Courts are unconstitutionally staffed. The constitution does not require that any specific learning or knowledge be had by anyone for any position. Any Sovereign can "sit" on the Supreme Court.
18. The constitutions of most states formed since 1812 require that the State Attorney General be a member of the Bar. The Attorney General is serving unlawfully and the provision in the State Constitution is unconstitutional.
19. In Colonial America, attorneys trained attorneys but most held no "title of nobility" or "honor". There was no requirement that one be a lawyer to hold the position of district attorney, attorney general, or judge; a citizen's "counsel of choice" was not restricted to a lawyer; there were no state or national bar associations. The only organization that certified lawyers was the International Bar Association (IBA), chartered by the King of England, headquartered in London, and closely associated with the international banking system. Lawyers admitted to the IBA received the rank "Esquire" -- a "title of nobility".
20. Just holding a Title of Nobility is not the basic problem. The problem lies in the Oath that accompanies the granting of the Title. You never get anything for nothing. The Oath requires strict allegiance to the codes of the "Bar" Association. Even today, an Attorney's first obligation is not to his, or her, client, but to the court. This creates a conflict of interest, because the Attorney has accepted payment from the client.

No man can serve two masters: for either he will hate the one, and love the other; or else he will hold to the one, and despise the other. Ye cannot serve God and mammon.
[Matthew 6:24, Bible, NKJV]

21. All of the laws passed since 1812, are invalid.

"The general rule is that an unconstitutional statute, though having the form and name of law, is in reality no law, but is wholly void, and ineffective for any purpose; since unconstitutionality dates from the time of its enactment, and not merely from the date of the decision so branding it. An unconstitutional law, in legal contemplation, is as inoperative as if it had never been passed. Such a statute leaves the question that it purports to settle just as it would be had the statute not been enacted.

"Since an unconstitutional law is void, the general principles follow that it imposes no duties, confers no rights, creates no office, bestows no power or authority on anyone, affords no protection, and justifies no acts performed under it. . .

A void act cannot be legally consistent with a valid one. An unconstitutional law cannot operate to supersede any existing valid law. Indeed, insofar as a statute runs counter to the fundamental law of the land, it is superseded thereby.

No one is bound to obey an unconstitutional law and no courts are bound to enforce it. "
[Black's Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, p. 260]

Pursuant to the facts established, The 13th Amendment to the Constitution for the united States as originally passed in 1812, and as set forth to wit:

"If any citizen of the United States shall accept, claim, receive, or retain any title of nobility or honour, or shall without the consent of Congress, accept and retain any present, pension, office, or emolument of any kind whatever, from any emperor, king, prince, or foreign power, such person shall cease to be a citizen of the united States, and shall be incapable of holding any office of trust or profit under them, or either of them."
[Original 13th Amendment to the Constitution for the united states of America]

1 is a true and valid Amendment to the said Constitution and must be recognized as the valid "Law of the Land" in all States
2 and venues.

3 "Titles of nobility", including the titles of:

- 4 1. "attorney at law": Attorneys at law are the ONLY ones allowed to represent people. The term "assistance of counsel"
5 found in the Sixth Amendment is misinterpreted by judges to EXCLUDE PRIVATE non-attorneys from helping 6 others.
- 7 2. "taxpayer": IRS refuses to recognize, correspond with, or help NON-taxpayers. You can't even call them on the phone
8 without admitting you are a "taxpayer". They won't talk to you until you provide a "TAXPAYER identification
9 number". What about simply an Account Number that doesn't imply "taxpayer" status?
- 10 3. "United States government": The de facto government asserts sovereign immunity in ALL cases except where they 11 expressly waive it, and yet they deny the same capability to private human beings.
- 12 4. "IRS agent": IRS agents use pseudo names officially for anonymity but private parties are accused of FRAUD when 13 they do it.

14 . . .etc. are therefore prohibited by the United States Constitution. The U.S. Supreme Court has held that such "titles of 15 nobility" deny equal protection that is the foundation of the United States Constitution:

16 Central both to the idea of the rule of law and to our own Constitution's guarantee of equal protection is the 17 principle that government and each of its parts remain open on impartial terms to all who seek its assistance.
18 "Equal protection of the laws is not achieved through indiscriminate imposition of inequalities." "Sweatt v.
19 Painter, 339 U.S. 629, 635 (1950) (quoting Shelley v. Kraemer, 334 U.S. 1, 22 (1948)). Respect for this
20 principle explains why laws singling out a certain class of citizens for disfavored legal status or general
21 hardships are rare. A law declaring that in general it shall be more difficult for one group of citizens than for 22 all others to seek aid from the government is itself a denial of equal protection of the laws in the most literal
23 sense. "The guaranty of equal protection of the laws 634*634 is a pledge of the protection of equal laws." "
24 Skinner v. Oklahoma ex rel. Williamson, 316 U.S. 535, 541 (1942) (quoting Yick Wo v. Hopkins, 118 U.S.
25 356, 369 (1886)).
26 [Romer v. Evans, 517 U.S. 620 (1996)]

27
28 The Court's method of analysis seems to ignore the strictures of JUSTICES DOUGLAS and WHITE, but the 29 analysis is clear: the Court holds sua sponte that the Due Process Clause requires that Stanley, the unwed
30 biological father, be accorded a hearing as to his fitness as a parent before his children are declared wards of 31 the state court; the Court then reasons that, since Illinois recognizes such rights to due process in married
32 fathers, it is required by the Equal Protection Clause to give such protection to unmarried fathers. This
33 "method of analysis" is, of course, no more or less than the use of the Equal Protection Clause as a
34 shorthand condensation of the entire Constitution: a State may not deny any constitutional right to some of 35 its citizens without violating the Equal Protection Clause through its failure to deny such rights to all of its 36 citizens. The limits on this Court's jurisdiction are not properly expandable by the use of such semantic devices
37 as that. [405 U.S. 661]
38 [Stanley v. Illinois, 405 U.S. 645 (1972)]
39

40 We have consistently held, however, that some objectives, such as "a bare . . . desire to harm a politically
41 unpopular group," are not legitimate state interests. Department of Agriculture v. Moreno, supra, at 534. See
42 also Cleburne v. Cleburne Living Center, supra, at 446-447; Romer v. Evans, supra, at 632. When a law
43 exhibits such a desire to harm a politically unpopular group, we have applied a more searching form of 44 rational basis review to strike down such laws under the Equal Protection Clause.

45 [. . .]

46 The Equal Protection Clause "neither knows nor tolerates classes among citizens." Id. at 623 (quoting Plessy 47 v. Ferguson, 163 U.S. 537, 559 (1896) (Harlan, J. dissenting)).

49 The facts and conclusions in this section are carefully hidden by a corrupted legal profession using the following means:

- 50 1. The annotated version of the clauses within the Constitution which prohibit titles of nobility are the nearly silent and 51 irrelevant to the issues discussed herein. See:

2 1.2. Article I, Section 9, Clause 8

3 <http://caselaw.lp.findlaw.com/data/constitution/article01/>

- 4 2. The term “title of nobility” is not found in any law dictionary or regular dictionary that we could find.
- 5 3. Courts of justice deceive you into participating in the “attorney at law” franchise by fooling you into “representing
- 6 yourself” as a “pro per” or a “pro se” litigant. You can’t “represent” anyone unless you are acting as a franchisee
- 7 called an “attorney at law”. This is how they get the jurisdiction to regulate your conduct as a franchise court. Those
- 8 who don’t want to participate in such franchise cannot claim to be “pro se” or “pro per”, but rather must claim to be
- 9 “sui juris”. Note the phrase “for oneself” instead of “as oneself” in the definition of “pro se” and then compare that
- 10 with the definition of “sui juris” below:

11 “Pro se. For one’s own behalf; in person. Appearing for oneself, as in the case of one who does not retain a 12 lawyer and appears for himself in court.”

13 [Black’s Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, p. 1221]

14 *“Sui juris. Of his own right; possessing full social and civil rights; not under any legal disability [e.g.

15 “franchise”], or the power of another, or guardianship. Having capacity to manage one’s own affairs; not*

16 under legal disability to act for one’s self.”

21 The states of the Union are legislatively but not constitutionally foreign and alien and sovereign in respect to the national

22 government. Maintaining that separation of legislative powers, in fact, is one of the main purposes of the United States

23 Constitution:

24 “We start with first principles. The Constitution creates a Federal Government of enumerated powers. See U.S.

25 Const., Art. I, 8. As James Madison wrote, “[t]he powers delegated by the proposed Constitution to the federal

26 government are few and defined. Those which are to remain in the State governments are numerous and

27 *indefinite.” The Federalist No. 45, pp. 292-293 (C. Rossiter ed. 1961). This constitutionally mandated division

28 of authority “was adopted by the Framers to ensure protection of our fundamental liberties.” Gregory v.

29 Ashcroft, 501 U.S. 452, 458 (1991) (internal quotation marks omitted). “Just as the separation and

30 independence of the coordinate branches of the Federal Government serves to prevent the accumulation of

31 excessive power in any one branch, a healthy balance of power between the States and the Federal

32 Government will reduce the risk of tyranny and abuse from either front.” Ibid.

33 [U.S. v. Lopez, 514 U.S. 549 (1995)]

34 In order to break down this separation of powers and enact law that regulates the conduct of nonresident alien parties

35 domiciled in a legislatively foreign state such as a state of the Union, the national government has to use contracts and

36 franchises to unlawfully reach outside of federal territory. It is a maxim of law that debt and contract know no place,

37 meaning that they can be enforced anywhere.

38 Debt and contract [franchise agreement, in this case] are of no particular place.

39 Locus contractus regit actum.

40 The place of the contract [franchise agreement, in this case] governs the act.

41 [Bouvier’s Maxims of Law, 1856;

42 SOURCE: <http://famguardian.org/Publications/BouvierMaximsOfLaw/BouviereMaxims.htm>]

43 Those who are in a state of the Union, in order to acquire a “commercial existence”, identity, or right in a foreign

44 jurisdiction such as the federal zone are mandatorily required to become privileged. Here is an explanation of this

45 phenomenon by the U.S. Supreme Court. Note that legislatively foreign and alien inhabitants of states of the Union must

46 be treated as possessing an “implied license” to do business in a foreign jurisdiction, which in this case is the national

47 government, and therefore become privileged “resident aliens”:

1 The reasons for not allowing to other aliens exemption 'from the jurisdiction of the country in which they are
2 found' were stated as follows: When private individuals of one nation [states of the Unions are "nations"
3 under the law of nations] spread themselves through another as business or caprice may direct, mingling
4 indiscriminately with the inhabitants of that other, or when merchant vessels enter for the purposes of trade,
5 it would be obviously inconvenient and dangerous to society, and would subject the laws to continual
6 infraction, and the government to degradation, if such individuals or merchants did not owe temporary and
7 local allegiance, and were not amenable to the jurisdiction of the country. Nor can the foreign sovereign have
8 any motive for wishing such exemption. His subjects thus passing into foreign countries are not employed by 9 him, nor are they engaged in national pursuits. Consequently, there are powerful motives for not exempting
10 persons of this description from the jurisdiction of the country in which they are found, and no one motive for 11 requiring it. The implied license, therefore, under which they enter, can never be construed to grant such 12 exemption.' 7 Cranch, 144.

13 In short, the judgment in the case of The Exchange declared, as incontrovertible principles, that the jurisdiction
14 of every nation within its own territory is exclusive and absolute, and is susceptible of no limitation not imposed
15 by the nation itself; that all exceptions to its full and absolute territorial jurisdiction must be traced up to its
16 own consent, express or implied; that upon its consent to cede, or to waive the exercise of, a part of its 17 territorial jurisdiction, rest the exemptions from that jurisdiction of foreign sovereigns or their armies entering 18 its territory with its permission, and of their foreign ministers and public ships of war; and that the implied
19 license, under which private individuals of another nation enter the territory and mingle indiscriminately
20 with its inhabitants, for purposes of business or pleasure, can never be construed to grant to them an
21 exemption from the jurisdiction of the country in which they are found. See, also, Carlisle v. U.S. (1872), 16
22 Wall. 147, 155; Radich v. Hutchins (1877), 95 U.S. 210; Wildenhuis' Case (1887), 120 U.S. 1, 7 Sup.Ct. 385;
23 Chae Chan Ping v. U.S. (1889) 130 U.S. 581, 603, 604, 9 Sup.Ct. 623.
24 [United States v. Wong Kim Ark, 169 U.S. 649, 18 S.Ct. 456, 42 L.Ed. 890 (1898)]

25 The above is another way of expressing the operation of the Foreign Sovereign Immunities Act (F.S.I.A.), 28 U.S.C.
26 Chapter 97, in which 28 U.S.C. §1605 identifies the criteria by which foreign sovereigns such as states of the Union, and 27 the inhabitants within them "waive sovereignty immunity" and become subject to the jurisdiction of otherwise foreign law.
28 Those mechanisms imply that when one "purposefully avails" himself of commerce in a foreign jurisdiction, they are to be
29 deemed "resident aliens" within that otherwise foreign jurisdiction.

30 TITLE 28 > PART IV > CHAPTER 97 > § 1605
31 § 1605. General exceptions to the jurisdictional immunity of a foreign state

- 32 (a) A foreign state shall not be immune from the jurisdiction of courts of the United States or of the States in any 33 case—
- 34 (2) in which the action is based upon a commercial activity carried on in the United States by the foreign
35 state; or upon an act performed in the United States in connection with a commercial activity of the foreign
36 state elsewhere; or upon an act outside the territory of the United States in connection with a commercial
37 activity of the foreign state elsewhere and that act causes a direct effect in the United States;

38 Below is how the courts describe this mechanism. When a foreign state explicitly (in writing) or implicitly (through their 39 conduct) consents to the jurisdiction of a sister Forum or State, they are deemed to be "present" within that state legally, but 40 not necessarily physically. Here is how the Ninth Circuit Court of Federal Appeals describes this concept:

41 In International Shoe Co. v. Washington, 326 U.S. 310 (1945), the Supreme Court held that a court may
42 exercise personal jurisdiction over a defendant consistent with due process only if he or she has "certain
43 minimum contacts" with the relevant forum "such that the maintenance of the suit does not offend 'traditional
44 notions of fair play and substantial justice.'" Id. at 316 (quoting Milliken v. Meyer, 311 U.S. 457, 463 (1940)).
45 Unless a defendant's contacts with a forum are so substantial, continuous, and systematic that the defendant
46 can be deemed to be "present" in that forum for all purposes, a forum may exercise only "specific"
47 jurisdiction - that is, jurisdiction based on the relationship between the defendant's forum contacts and the 48 plaintiff's claim.

49 [. . .]

50 In this circuit, we analyze specific jurisdiction according to a three-prong test:

- 51 (1) The non-resident defendant must purposefully direct his activities or consummate some transaction with
52 the forum or resident thereof; or perform some act by which he purposefully avails himself of the privilege
53 of conducting activities in the forum, thereby invoking the benefits and protections of its laws;
54 (2) the claim must be one which arises out of or relates to the defendant's forum-related activities; and
55 (3) the exercise of jurisdiction must comport with fair play and substantial justice, i.e. it must be reasonable.

1 Schwarzenegger v. Fred Martin Motor Co., 374 F.3d. 797, 802 (9th Cir. 2004) (quoting Lake v. Lake, 817 F.2d.
2 1416, 1421 (9th Cir. 1987)). The first prong is determinative in this case. We have sometimes referred to it, in
3 shorthand fashion, as the "purposeful availment" prong. Schwarzenegger, 374 F.3d. at 802. Despite its label,
4 this prong includes both purposeful availment and purposeful direction. It may be satisfied by purposeful
5 availment of the privilege of doing business in the forum; by purposeful direction of activities at the forum; or
6 by some combination thereof.
7 [Yahoo! Inc. v. La. Ligue Contre Le Racisme Et L'Antisemitisme, 433 F.3d. 1199 (9th Cir. 01/12/2006)]

8 The key is the phrase "purposeful availment". If you did not consent to do business in the forum, and instead had your 9 money stolen by an ignorant payroll clerk or financial institution and sent to the corrupt United States, then that
10 government:

- 11 1. Becomes the custodian over STOLEN money.
- 12 2. Becomes a "bailee" and "transferee" in temporary possession of property rightfully belonging to the party who was the 13 subject of unlawful withholding and/or reporting.
- 14 3. Is required to return the funds, even if no law or even the franchise agreement itself authorizes the return of funds.
15 Hence, a statutory "tax return" available ONLY to statutory franchisees called "taxpayers" need not be filled out and a 16 NON-statutory claim should suffice.

17 "A claim against the United States is a right to demand money from the United States."⁴² Such claims are 18 sometimes spoken of as gratuitous in that they cannot be enforced by suit without statutory consent.⁴³ The

- 1 4. May be sued in state court under a REPLEVIN action without invoking the franchise contract because the party whose
2 funds were stolen did not consent to be a franchisee and therefore never “purposefully availed” themselves of the 3 franchise or the commercial consequences of the franchise.

4 Here is how that process is described in the Foreign Sovereign Immunities Act (F.S.I.A.):

5 TITLE 28 > PART IV > CHAPTER 97 > § 1605
6 § 1605. General exceptions to the jurisdictional immunity of a foreign state

7 (a) A foreign state shall not be immune from the jurisdiction of courts of the United States or of the States in any
8 case—

9 (3) in which rights in property taken in violation of international law are in issue and that property or any
10 property exchanged for such property is present in the United States in connection with a commercial activity
11 carried on in the United States by the foreign state; or that property or any property exchanged for such 12 property is owned or operated by an agency or instrumentality of the foreign state and that agency or
13 instrumentality is engaged in a commercial activity in the United States;

14 Below is the sequence of legal events that creates implied consent to the franchise, creates the legal “person”, “individual”,
15 and “resident”, transports your identity to federal territory, and places it within the jurisdiction of a federal FRANCHISE
16 court, and creates what the courts call a “federal question” to be heard ONLY in a federal court. In other words, the 17 franchise agreement dictates choice of law that kidnaps your identity and moves it outside the protections of state law and 18 the constitution and onto federal territory.

- 19 1. Through deceit, fraud, and adhesion contracts within financial account applications and employment withholding
20 paperwork, you are illegally coerced to apply to receive and become a custodian of government property. The legal 21 definition of “public office” confirms that a public officer is, in fact, someone who manages public property. The 22 property you receive is the Social Security Card, Social Security Number, and the Taxpayer Identification Number.
23 These numbers act as the equivalent of de facto license numbers giving permission from the state for you to engage in 24 “the functions of a public office”. IRS Regulations at 26 C.F.R. §301.6109-1 confirm that the use of the number is 25 ONLY mandatory in the case of those engaging in a “trade or business”, which is defined in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(26) as 26 “the functions of a public office”.

27 “Public office. The right, authority, and duty created and conferred by law, by which for a given period, either
28 fixed by law or enduring at the pleasure of the creating power, an individual is invested with some portion of 29 the sovereign functions of government for the benefit of the public. Walker v. Rich, 79 Cal.App. 139, 249 P. 56,
30 58. An agency for the state, the duties of which involve in their performance the exercise of some portion of the 31 sovereign power, either great or small. Yaselli v. Goff, C.C.A., 12 F.2d. 396, 403, 56 A.L.R. 1239; Lacey v.
32 State, 13 Ala.App. 212, 68 So. 706, 710; Curtin v. State, 61 Cal.App. 377, 214 P. 1030, 1035; Shelmadine v.

34 413, 52 P.2d. 483, 486. Where, by virtue of law, a person is clothed, not as an incidental or transient
35 authority, but for such time as de- notes duration and continuance, with Independent power to control the 36 property of the public, or with public functions to be exercised in the supposed interest of the people, the 37 service to be compensated by a stated yearly salary, and the occupant having a designation or title, the position
38 so created is a public office. State v. Brenman, 49 Ohio.St. 33, 29 N.E. 593.
39 [Black’s Law Dictionary, Fourth Edition, p. 1235]

- 40 2. The USE of said public property and de facto license and the number that goes with it constitutes “prima facie implied 41 consent” to engage in the franchise and accept all of its terms and conditions. Hence, your implied consent makes you
42 into a PRESUMED, DE FACTO public officer and transferee managing federal property. Any commercial transaction
43 you connect the de facto license number to constitutes consent to donate the FRUITS of the transaction to a public
44 purpose in order to receive the benefits of a government franchise.
- 45 3. Implied consent to the franchise contract creates “agency” on the part of the applicant. All contracts create agency,
46 which as a bare minimum consists of delivering the “consideration” called for under the contract. The courts and the 47 government illegally treat this agency as a public office as described in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(26). They do this
48 unlawfully, because NO WHERE in the I.R.C. are the creation of any new public offices in the government authorized
49 by the use of any tax form or any identifying number. The “consideration” they define by fiat as consisting of 50 obedience to the laws and dictates of a legislatively foreign jurisdiction.
- 51 4. Third parties are LIED TO by the IRS into producing FALSE legal evidence that connects PRIVATE people with a 52 public office. For instance, IRS FALSELY tells everyone that:

- 1 4.1. Every payment IN A LEGISLATIVELY FOREIGN JURISDICTION AND OUTSIDE THEIR TERRITORY
 2 must be reported using information returns such as IRS Forms W-2, 1042-S, 1098, and 1099.
 3 4.2. The reports MUST contain Taxpayer Identification Numbers, Employer Identification Numbers, and Social
 4 Security Numbers, all of which are ONLY mandatory in the case of those lawfully occupying a public office in
 5 ONLY the District of Columbia and not elsewhere pursuant to 4 U.S.C. §72.
 6 This has the practical effect of “electing” third parties into a public office without their consent, and in most cases
 7 ALSO without even their knowledge. Since they aren’t aware how the SCAM works, they never bother to rebut the
 8 FALSE evidence and hence, are compelled to act as a de facto public officer in criminal violation of 18 U.S.C. §912
 9 and to satisfy all the obligations of the office WITHOUT any real compensation. See:

Correcting Erroneous Information Returns, Form #04.001
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

- 10 5. The public office (the “trade or business”) that is fraudulently created using your implied consent means that you:
 11 5.1. Are acting in a representative capacity on behalf of a federal corporation, which in this case is the national
 12 government.
 13 5.2. Are a statutory “U.S. citizen”, because the United States federal corporation you represent is a statutory but not 14 constitutional citizen.

15 “A corporation is a citizen, resident, or inhabitant of the state or country by or under the laws of which it was 16 created, and of that state or country only.”
 17 [19 Corpus Juris Secundum (C.J.S.), Corporations, §886 (2003)]

- 18 6. Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 17(b) is used to transport your identity to the District of Columbia, because that is 19 where “U.S. Inc.” is domiciled and located, who is the REAL party in interest for those acting in a representative 20 capacity.

21 IV. PARTIES > Rule 17.
 22 Rule 17. Parties Plaintiff and Defendant: Capacity

23 (b) Capacity to Sue or be Sued.

24 Capacity to sue or be sued is determined as follows:

- 25 (1) for an individual who is not acting in a representative capacity, by the law of the individual's domicile;
 26 (2) for a corporation [the “United States”, in this case, or its officers on official duty representing the 27 corporation], by the law under which it was organized [laws of the District of Columbia]; and
 28 (3) for all other parties, by the law of the state where the court is located, except that:
 29 (A) a partnership or other unincorporated association with no such capacity under that state's law may sue
 30 or be sued in its common name to enforce a substantive right existing under the United States Constitution
 31 or laws; and
 32 (B) 28 U.S.C. §§754 and 959(a) govern the capacity of a receiver appointed by a United States court to sue
 33 or be sued in a United States court.
 34 [SOURCE: <http://www.law.cornell.edu/rules/frcp/Rule17.htm>]

- 35 7. The franchise contract is then used to transport your identity against your will to the Domicile of “U.S. Inc.” in the 36 District of Criminals. For example, 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(39) and 26 U.S.C. §7408(d) are used to transport your identity
 37 to the District of Columbia under the I.R.C. The “citizen or resident” they are talking about is the PUBLIC OFFICE,
 38 and NOT the human being and OFFICER filling the office.

7.4 How Deception, fraud, and “words of art” on government forms are abused by state and federal governments to illegally bypass the geographical restrictions on franchises

Now that we understand where franchises may lawfully be offered, we can also answer the question of WHY both state and federal government statutes and forms and services do all the following:

1. Ask whether you are a statutory “U.S. citizen”, which implies you are a “person” or “U.S. person” (26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(30)) domiciled on federal territory and NOT within the exclusive jurisdiction of any state of the Union. The term “U.S.” within that phrase means the national government and no part of any state of the Union. This is exhaustively proven in the following:

Why You are a “national”, “state national”, and Constitutional but not Statutory Citizen, Form #05.006
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

2. Forbid the issuance of licenses such as driver’s licenses to those who are not domiciled on federal territory and therefore not statutory ‘U.S. citizens’ or “residents” (aliens).

*State of Virginia
Title 46.2 - MOTOR VEHICLES.

*A. Notwithstanding any other provision of this title, except as provided in subsection G of § 46.2-345, the Department shall not issue an original license, permit, or special identification card to any applicant who has not presented to the Department, with the application, valid documentary evidence that the applicant is either (i) a citizen of the United States, (ii) a legal permanent resident of the United States, or (iii) a conditional resident alien of the United States.

3. Ask for a government identifying number that ties you to domicile on federal territory. 20 C.F.R. §422.104 says that Social Security Numbers may only lawfully be issued to persons domiciled on federal territory.

26 C.F.R. §301.6109-1\(g\)

(g) Special rules for taxpayer identifying numbers issued to foreign persons—

A social security number is generally identified in the records and database of the Internal Revenue Service as a number belonging to a U.S. citizen or resident alien individual. A person may establish a different status for the number by providing proof of foreign status with the Internal Revenue Service under such procedures as the Internal Revenue Service shall prescribe, including the use of a form as the Internal Revenue Service may specify. Upon accepting an individual as a nonresident alien individual, the Internal Revenue Service will assign this status to the individual's social security number.*

4. Unlawfully and prejudicially deprive those who do not fraudulently declare a domicile on federal territory or a connection with some public franchise of the ability to conduct commerce to support their family and this is a violation of the equal protection of the laws mandated by the Constitution. They do this by:

1 4.1. Refusing to recognize the right of self-government declared in the Declaration of Independence to form your own
2 government and issue your own private ID. No entity deserves to be called a “government” that refuses to
3 recognize the EQUAL right of EVERYONE to peacefully govern themselves to the exclusion of others
4 guaranteed by the Declaration of Independence without having to institute violence or force against anyone. The 5 Declaration of Independence, in fact, makes it our DUTY to form our own government if the one we have does 6 not meet our needs.

7 We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator

14 [Declaration of Independence, Thomas Jefferson]

15 4.2. Refusing to recognize, permit, or protect private ID or ID issued by families, churches, or private groups not 16 associated with the government.

17 4.3. Refusing to publish standards for the issuance of PRIVATE ID for use by financial institutions and employers.

18 4.4. Refusing to prosecute financial institutions and employers for discrimination who fail to recognize or accept
19 private ID while acting as government officers called “withholding agents”.

20 For further details on this subject, see section 12 for the methods by which Americans are unlawfully compelled to 21 fraudulently declare a domicile on federal territory that they have never visited:

22 Why Domicile and Becoming a “Taxpayer” Require Your Consent, Form #05.002
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

23 What they are trying to do is create the FALSE presumption that:

24 1. You are domiciled or resident on federal territory. For instance, those engaged in the “trade or business”/public officer
25 franchise that forms the heart of Internal Revenue Code, Subtitles A through C have an effective residence on federal 26 territory by virtue of simply engaging in the public office.

42 4. You are a government statutory “employee” pursuant to 5 U.S.C. §2105(a) or “public officer” on official business

1 7.5 The criminal and unconstitutional consequences when governments are allowed to offer
2 franchises outside of their territory and exclusive jurisdiction

3 Another important thing to completely understand is what are all of the legal consequences of allowing any government to
4 enforce civil franchises outside of its territory and exclusive or general jurisdiction? Many people might say something like
5 the following when such a thing happens, which is what one person said in the forums of the Family Guardian Fellowship
6 sister website when the Obama Healthcare Bill was passed in 2010:

7 It's my feeling that the Health Care Law is constitutional because it is consensual. Correct me if I'm wrong, but
8 I believe a "nonresident alien" is allowed the option of not participating, while a "U.S. person" must 9 participate. Therein lies the voluntary and consensual nature of the franchise.

10 1) Either claim your true and correct status as provided for in the Constitution -- "nonresident alien"

11 or,

12 2) Elect to be treated as a "lawful permanent resident," and thus, a "U.S. person" -- someone who is subject.

13 To such a statement, we can only say that the person who said it was PRESUMING that the people can consent to 14 ANYTHING without violating the law. The fact is THEY CANNOT. When this was attempted with the first major
15 franchise, Social Security the U.S. Supreme Court held that states of the Union are not allowed to consent to the 16 enlargement of federal powers within their borders under the Constitution.

17 "The people of the United States, by their Constitution, have affirmed a division of internal governmental
18 powers between the federal government and the governments of the several states-committing to the first its
19 powers by express grant and necessary implication; to the latter, or [301 U.S. 548, 611] to the people, by 20 reservation, 'the powers not delegated to the United States by the Constitution, nor prohibited by it to the 21 States.' The Constitution thus affirms the complete supremacy and independence of the state within the field of 22 *its powers. Carter v. Carter Coal Co., 298 U.S. 238, 295, 56 S.Ct. 855, 865. The federal government has no
23 more authority to invade that field than the state has to invade the exclusive field of national governmental
24 powers; for, in the oft-repeated words of this court in Texas v. White, 7 Wall. 700, 725, 'the preservation of 25 the States, and the maintenance of their governments, are as much within the design and care of the 26 Constitution as the preservation of the Union and the maintenance of the National government.' The 27 necessity of preserving each from every form of illegitimate intrusion or interference on the part of the other
28 is so imperative as to require this court, when its judicial power is properly invoked, to view with a careful
29 and discriminating eye any legislation challenged as constituting such an intrusion or interference. See*
30 South Carolina v. United States, 199 U.S. 437, 448, 26 S.Ct. 110, 4 Ann.Cas. 737."
31 [Steward Machine Co. v. Davis, 301 U.S. 548 (1937)]

32 And that same U.S. Supreme Court went so far as to say that the separation between the two must be indestructible and not 33 subject to political whim, when it held just one year prior the following:

34 "The determination of the Framers Convention and the ratifying conventions to preserve complete and 35 unimpaired state self-government in all matters not committed to the general government is one of the 36 plainest facts which emerges from the history of their deliberations. And adherence to that determination is* 37 incumbent equally upon the federal government and the states. State powers can neither be appropriated on 38 the one hand nor abdicated on the other. As this court said in Texas v. White, 7 Wall. 700, 725, 'The 39 preservation of the States, and the maintenance of their governments, are as much within the design and
40 care of the Constitution as the preservation of the Union and the maintenance of the National government.
41 The Constitution, in all its provisions, looks to an indestructible Union, composed of indestructible States.'
42 Every journey to a forbidden end begins with the first step; and the danger of such a step by the federal 43 government in the direction of taking over the powers of the states is that the end of the journey may find the 44 states so despoiled of their powers, or-what may amount to the same thing-so [298 U.S. 238, 296] relieved of 45 the responsibilities which possession of the powers necessarily enjoins, as to reduce them to little more than 46 geographical subdivisions of the national domain. It is safe to say that if, when the Constitution was under 47 consideration, it had been thought that any such danger lurked behind its plain words, it would never have been 48 ratified."
49 [Carter v. Carter Coal Co., 298 U.S. 238 (1936)]

50 The people can't consent to an enlargement of federal power within the borders of their state either, because while they are
51 in a state and participating in the affairs of state government as jurists and voters, they are part of the state government and
52 hence, they cannot consent to give up their authority to the federal government. And, the rights of people in the states of 53 the Union are, per the Declaration of Independence, inalienable, which means you cannot lawfully consent to give them

1 away in relation to a real de jure government. So, even with their consent, it still cannot be done without destroying the 2 constitutional separation of powers and therefore being unconstitutional.

3 It is unconstitutional to offer civil franchises to those domiciled outside of federal territory and within a state of the Union,
4 because:

- 5 1. Franchises blur the line between what is public and private.
- 6 2. Franchises cause the de jure government to have to create “foreign agents” that are not part of the government and yet
7 who fraudulently PRETEND to be part of the government. This includes:
8 2.1. The Federal Reserve.

The Money Scam, Form #05.041
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

- 9 2.2. The Internal Revenue Service. See:
10 Origins and Authority of the Internal Revenue Service, Form #05.005
11 <http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

- 12 3. Franchises can't lawfully be offered to population protected by the constitution whose rights are unalienable. An 13 unalienable right is a right that cannot be sold, bargained away, or transferred by any means, including a franchise.
14 How do you “alienate” rights or make those who are the subject of them “resident aliens” under a franchise agreement?
15 4. Franchises create a conflict of interest in the people running the government. They will, on the one hand, be in charge
16 of PROTECTING private rights, but on the other hand making a business out of destroying, taxing, and burdening
17 those rights using franchises. They will simultaneously have to provide equal protection that is the foundation of the 18 constitution, and yet also be in charge of destroying equality and replacing it with privilege, partiality, hypocrisy, and 19 greed that is at the heart of all franchises. No man can serve two masters in this way.

20 "No [public] servant [or biological person] can serve two masters; for either he will hate the one and love the 21 other, or else he will be loyal to the one and despise the other. You cannot serve God and mammon [money, 22 franchises, or government]."
23 [Luke 16:13, Bible, NKJV]

- 24 5. Franchises cause money changers and lobbyists who benefit financially from the franchises to hijack the civic temple
25 called “government” for personal gain, not unlike how the money changers took over the church court described in 26 Matt. 21:12-17. This kind of corruption was the ONLY thing that Jesus ever got angry at, and here we are 27 institutionalizing and expanding it. Even the thieves in the District of Criminals themselves identify the capitol they 28 serve in as a “civic temple” and refer to the trust that Americans have in their conduct as “faith”, which is a kind of 29 “civic religion”.

30 *"Now, Mr. Speaker, this Capitol is the civic temple of the people, and we are here by direction of the people to
31 reduce the tariff tax and enact a law in the interest of all the people. This was the expressed will of the people
32 at the polls, and you promised to carry out that will, but you have not kept faith with the American people."*
33 *[44 Cong.Rec. 4420, July 12, 1909; Congressman Heflin talking about the enactment of the Sixteenth
34 Amendment]*

- 35 6. Franchises cause the commission of a crime of impersonating a statutory citizen under 18 U.S.C. §911, which is a 36 public officer, by those domiciled outside of federal territory and within a state of the Union. Congress STILL cannot 37 establish public offices within states of the Union under 4 U.S.C. §72.
- 38 7. Franchises put federal judges in a criminal conflict of interest in violation of 18 U.S.C. §208, because they are put in 39 charge of protecting rights protected by the constitution of those domiciled outside their jurisdiction, and yet also puts 40 them in charge of maximizing revenues from DESTROYING those same rights and forcing people to participate. Do
41 YOU want judges who are criminals?
- 42 8. Franchises commercially entice judges to abuse sovereign immunity to protect and expand a government monopoly in 43 a specific field of PRIVATE business, and thus give the government unfair advantage. This is a violation of 28 U.S.C.
44 §§144, 455, and 18 U.S.C. §208.
- 45 9. Franchises result in crime by jurors in federal court and voters because many of those jurors and voters will be 46 receiving the socialist “benefit” and yet will also be ruling on cases relating to the benefit or voting for candidates
47 based on promises to INCREASE the benefit. That is the same problem the income tax has. It is a CRIME to rule on 48 any issue you have a financial interest in (18 U.S.C. §208) and it is a CRIME to bribe a voter (18 U.S.C. §201). And 49 by the way: all jurors and voters are public officers in their STATE governments as well. See 18 U.S.C. §201, which describes jurors as public officers. BOTH will be happening if everyone receiving ANY kind of federal benefit is not disqualified from serving as a jurist or a voter. Personally, I think it ought to be against the law to be a jurist or a voter

1 if one receives ANY government benefit for this very reason. The original Articles of Confederation refused to count
2 "paupers and vagabonds" as voters, and they were smart for this. That corruption will cause EVERYONE to be
3 compelled to participate. Do you REALLY want to have to go in front of a WHOLE ROOM full of tax consumers on 4 the jury and the bench and tell them that you don't want to subsidize their activities or bribe them? How do you think
5 that is going to turn out?

6 "And you shall take no bribe, for a bribe blinds the discerning and perverts the words of the righteous."
7 [Exodus 23:8, Bible, NKJV]

8 "He who is greedy for gain troubles his own house,
9 But he who hates bribes will live."
10 [Prov. 15:27, Bible, NKJV]

11 "Surely oppression destroys a wise man's reason.
12 And a bribe debases the heart."
13 [Ecclesiastes 7:7, Bible, NKJV]

- 14 10. Franchises are based on fraud, because you can't call yourself a statutory "citizen" or "resident" in a place you have 15 never physically lived in on federal territory. By this we mean that you as a person domiciled in a constitutional state
16 of the Union can't truthfully call yourself a statutory citizen because you are domiciled outside the statutory but not 17 constitutional "United States".
- 18 11. Franchises are based on fraud because the people participating still think they are private parties, and the courts lie
19 about their status. Then, when you realize the fraud and correct your status as described in pleadings, the government
20 tries to hide that fact by calling the litigant "frivolous", which really means you are a heretic who refuses to join the 21 state sponsored religion of socialism.
- 22 12. Franchises are based on fraud because it is being offered as a government program, and yet cannot be offered by a de
23 jure government to a people who cannot give up rights. A private corporation that is not a government is the only thing
24 that can offer such a franchise, and that corporation cannot and should not use sovereign immunity to expand its 25 program, and yet it does. It is fraud because they won't describe it as it REALLY is: Private business activity that can 26 lawfully be refused and which a REAL de jure government would and should defend your right NOT to participate in.
- 27 13. Franchises are unconstitutional because people domiciled in states of the Union and serving within state governments
28 will have to violate their state constitutions, most of which forbid simultaneously serving in federal office and state
29 office at the same time. State judges, legislators, and employees who sign up for this FEDERAL program and become 30 federal public officers will be committing TREASON. For a list of states with this constitutional prohibition, see:

SEDM Jurisdictions Database, Litigation Tool #09.003
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

31 There are MANY things that even if it is lawful under man's law to consent to, that Christians CANNOT consent to without 32 committing mutiny against God under HIS trust indenture called the Bible. This is exhaustively proven in:

Delegation of Authority Order from God to Christians, Form #13.007
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

33 We believers are God's trustees under the Bible trust indenture and covenant and we have a duty to faithfully execute it.
34 Jesus did not repeal the old testament and we still have to obey it. We must CARE at all times about what God's law says
35 about what we are supposed to do.

36 The only place it is constitutional is where the constitution doesn't apply: Federal territory. Offering it to those domiciled in 37 states of the Union and protected by the constitution is unconstitutional and violates the separation of powers doctrine. All
38 it does is magnify corruption that is already rampant and is caused by a violation of the separation of powers. That doesn't 39 help and it certainly doesn't "protect" anyone or anything.

Government Conspiracy to Destroy the Separation of Powers, Form #05.023
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

40 All government franchises are civil law, and civil statutory federal law cannot be enforced outside of federal territory or 41 against those not domiciled on federal territory without violating the separation of powers doctrine. Enforcing "health

1 insurance franchises" within a state of the Union is unconstitutional for the same reasons that enforcing the "trade or
2 business" franchise within a state of the Union is unconstitutional, as documented in:

The "Trade or Business" Scam, Form #05.001, Section 17
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

3 The only way to MAKE it constitutional is to authorize private companies to do it or to create private corporation that will
4 do it and seed it with government money initially, but privatize it IMMEDIATELY.

5 "Congress cannot authorize a trade or business [INCLUDING a health insurance business] within a State in 6 order to tax it."
7 License Tax Cases, [72 U.S. 462, 18 L.Ed. 497, 5 Wall. 462, 2 A.F.T.R. 2224 (1866)]

8 The above case has NEVER been overruled. They STILL cannot lawfully establish franchises WITHIN states of the 9 Union. They tip toe around this by refusing to call it a franchise, but that is the ONLY way they can reach inside states and 10 outside their territory to begin with: Contracts, of which franchises are a type of contract. Therefore, they CANNOT
11 contract with people in a state to create public offices. That is why everyone who occupies said offices has to physically
12 MOVE to the District of Columbia and work on the king's land to begin with. Because that is the only way they can 13 lawfully reach these people under civil law.

14 7.6 How "comity" has been redefined to allow franchises to be unconstitutionally extended 15 outside the territory of the granting power

16 The main method of extending franchises outside the territory of the granting power is through the concept called "comity".
17 Comity is the process by which courts voluntarily recognize the laws of a legislatively foreign jurisdiction that do not
18 otherwise have the "force of law". At the founding of America, franchises were not allowed to be enforced outside the 19 territory of the granting powers. This is also clear from the original definition of Comity in Bouvier's Law Dictionary,
20 1856:

21 COMITY. Courtesy; a disposition to accommodate.

22 2. Courts of justice in one state will, out of comity, enforce the laws of another state, when by such enforcement
23 they will not violate their laws or inflict an injury on some one of their own citizens; as, for example, the 24 discharge of a debtor under the insolvent laws of one state, will be respected in another state, where there is a
25 reciprocity in this respect.

26 3. It is a general rule that the municipal laws of a country do not extend beyond its limits, and cannot be
27 enforced in another, except on the principle of comity. But when those laws clash and interfere with the rights
28 of citizens, or the laws of the countries where the parties to the contract seek to enforce it, as one or the other
29 must give way, those prevailing where the relief is sought must have the preference. 2 Mart. Lo. Rep. N. S. 93;
30 S. C. 2 Harr. Cond. Lo. Rep. 606, 609; 2 B. & C. 448, 471; 6 Binn. 353; 5 Cranch, 299; 2 Mass. 84; 6 Mass.
31 358; 7 Mart.Lo.R. 318. See Conflict of Laws; Lex loci contractus.

32 [Bouvier's Law Dictionary, 1856; SOURCE: <http://famguardian.org/Publications/Bouviere/bouviere.txt>]

33 As time progressed and courts became corrupted, comity was unilaterally and unconstitutionally and illegally redefined by 34 the legal profession as the main means of protecting and expanding franchises outside of federal territory. They did this
35 because it enhanced the importance of lawyers and judges. Judges did this by expanding the definition of "comity" to add
36 to the definition the phrase "a willingness to grant a privilege":

37 COMITY. Courtesy; complaisance; respect; a willingness to grant a privilege [FRANCHISE], not as a matter
38 of right, but out of deference and good will. Dow v. Lillie, 26 N.D. 512, 144 N.W. 1082, 1088, L.R.A. 1915D,
39 754; Cox v. Terminal R. Ass'n of St. Louis, 331 Mo. 910, 55 S.W.2d. 685.

40 Comity of Nations
41 (Lat. comitas gentium)

42 The most appropriate phrase to express the true foundation and extent of the obligation of the laws of one
43 nation within the territories of another. Story, Confl.Laws, §38. That body of rules which states observe towards 44 one another from courtesy or mutual convenience, although they do not form part of international law. Holtz.

1 Enc. s. v. Hilton v. Guyot, 159 U.S. 113, 16 S.Ct. 139, 40 L.Ed. 95; People v. Rushworth, 294 Ill. 455, 128 N.E.
2 555, 558; Second Russian Ins. Co. v. Miller, C.C.A.N.Y., 297 F. 404, 409.

3 It is derived altogether from the voluntary consent of the latter; and it is inadmissible when it is contrary to
4 its known policy, or prejudicial to its interests. In the silence of any positive rule affirming or denying or
5 restraining the operation of foreign laws, courts of justice presume the tacit adoption of them by their own
6 government, unless repugnant to its policy, or prejudicial to its interests. It is not the, comity of the courts, but 7 the comity of the nation, which is administered and ascertained in the same way, and guided by the same
8 reasoning, by which all other principles of the municipal law are ascertained and guided.

9 The recognition which one nation allows within its territory to the legislative, executive, or judicial acts of 10 another nation, having due regard both to international duty and convenience and to the rights of its own
11 citizens or of other persons who are under the protection of its laws. State ex rel. National Surety Corporation
12 v. Price, 129 Neb. 433, 261 N.W. 884.

13 "The use of the word 'comity' as expressing the basis of jurisdiction has been criticized. It is, however, a mere 14 question of definition. The principles lying behind the word are recognized. * * * The truth remains that 15 jurisdiction depends upon the law of the forum, and this law in turn depends upon the public policy disclosed
16 by the acts and declarations of the political departments of the government." Russian Socialist Federated 17 Soviet Republic v. Cibrario, 235 N.Y. 255, 139 N.E. 259, 260.

18 Judicial Comity

19 The principle in accordance with which the courts of one state or jurisdiction will give effect to the laws and 20 judicial decisions of another, not as a matter of obligation, but out of deference and respect. Franzen v.
21 Zimmer, 35 N.Y.S. 612, 90 Hun. 103; Stowe v. Bank, C.C.Me., 92 F. 96; Strawn Mercantile Co. v. First Nat.
22 Bank, Tex. Civ.App., 279 S.W. 473, 474; Bobala v. Bobala, 68 Ohio.App. 63, 33 N.E.2d. 845, 849.

23 There is no statute or common-law rule by which one court is bound to abide by the decisions of another
24 court of equal rank. It does so simply for what may be called comity among judges. There is no common law
25 or statutory rule to oblige a court to bow to its own decisions; it does so on the ground of judicial comity.
26 (1884) 9 P.D. 98, per Brett. M. R.

27 Of such a use of the word, however, Dicey says: "The term 'comity' * * * is open to the charge of implying that 28 the judge, when he applies foreign law to a particular case, does so as a matter of caprice or favor."

29 Comity is not a rule of law, but one of practice, convenience and expediency. It is something more than mere 30 courtesy, which implies only deference to the opinion of others, since it has a substantial value in securing
31 uniformity of decision, and discouraging repeated litigation of the same question. But its obligation is not
32 imperative. Comity persuades; but it does not command. It declares not how a case shall be decided, but how it
33 may with propriety be decided. Mast, Foos & Co. v. Mfg. Co., 177 U.S. 485, 488, 20 S.Ct. 708, 44 L.Ed. 856;
34 National Electric Signaling Co. v. Telefunken Wireless Telegraph Co. of United States, C.C.A.N.Y., 221 F. 629, 35 632; Lauer v. Freudenthal, 96 Wash. 394, 165 P. 98, 99.

36 Comity of States

37 Simply a phrase designating the practice by which the courts of one state follow the decision of another on a 38 like question, though not bound by law of precedents to do so. Larrick v. Walters, 39 Ohio.App. 363, 177 N.E.
39 642, 645.

40 [Black's Law Dictionary, Fourth Edition, p. 334]

41 Important principles emerge from the above which need to be emphasized:

- 42 1. "Comity is not a rule of law, but one of practice, convenience and expediency."
 - 43 1.1. They don't define WHO'S convenience it is for, but the implication is obvious: It is for the convenience and 44 profit of the GOVERNMENT, and NOT the people that the government was created to PROTECT and SERVE.
45 Hence, it creates an unequal and prejudicial relationship between the governed and the governors.
 - 46 1.2. The opportunity for a judge to exercise this type of discretion obviously cannot coexist with obligations under the 47 constitution to protect PRIVATE rights. This would create a criminal conflict of interest in violation of 18 U.S.C.
48 §208, 28 U.S.C. §144, and 28 U.S.C. §455. Hence, no judge who exercises this kind of discretion can or should
49 ALSO hear constitutional issues not involving franchises. Anyone who consents to the jurisdiction of a judge
50 who wears TWO hats, "franchise" and "constitutional", is aiding and abetting crime.
- 51 2. "The truth remains that jurisdiction depends upon the law of the forum, and this law in turn depends upon the public 52 policy disclosed by the acts and declarations of the political departments of the government." Comity therefore is the means by which judges act in a POLITICAL rather than LEGAL manner and implement “public policy” by caprice, rather than law. A true constitutional court cannot lawfully enforce public policy and therefore, only legislative franchises courts in the Executive Branch of the government can lawfully exercise this kind of comity. See:

Political Jurisdiction, Form #05.004
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

3. “. . .they do not form part of international law.” This means that they are judge made law, not statutory law. That is why courts hearing franchise issues such as tax issues frequently will make their rulings “unpublished” so that they cannot be cited as precedence: Because they are not law but essentially an edict or command from the judge personally to a litigant before the court. Judges recognize that such unconstitutional and fraudulent commands cannot and do not have the “force of law”, which is why they are published as “opinions” or “memorandum opinions” instead of “ORDERS”. Under the Federal Rule of Evidence 610, “opinions” are inadmissible as evidence of ANYTHING, including an obligation. This is a sign that they are operating in a POLITICAL rather than LEGAL capacity AND that their “opinion” need not be obeyed.
 - 3.1. They only people they can issue “memorandums” to are OTHER public officers within the government.
 - 3.2. They can’t issue civil commands to public officers in any branch of the government outside the judicial branch without violating the separation of powers. That’s why FRANCHISE judges and FRANCHISEES have to BOTH be in the Executive Branch of the government, as the U.S. Supreme Court indirectly referenced in Freytag v. Commissioner, 501 U.S. 868 (1991).
4. “There is no statute or common-law rule by which one court is bound to abide by the decisions of another court of equal rank. It does so simply for what may be called comity among judges.” This means that the mere will of the judge is the sole arbiter of whether the foreign law is enforced. The U.S. Supreme Court defined the exercise of this type of discretion as “the essence of slavery itself”:

“And the law is the definition and limitation of power. It is, indeed, quite true that there must always be lodged somewhere, and in some person or body, the authority of final decision; and in many cases of mere administration, the responsibility is purely political, no appeal lying except to the ultimate tribunal of the public judgment, exercised either in the pressure of opinion, or by means of the suffrage. But the fundamental rights to life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness, considered as individual possessions, are secured by those maxims of constitutional law which are the monuments showing the victorious progress of the race in securing to men the blessings of civilization under the reign of just and equal laws, so that, in the famous language of the Massachusetts bill of rights, the government of the commonwealth 'may be a government of laws and not of men.' For the very idea that one man may be compelled to hold his life, or the means of living, or any material right essential to the enjoyment of life, at the mere will of another, seems to be intolerable in any country where freedom prevails, as being the essence of slavery itself.”
[Yick Wo v. Hopkins, 118 U.S. 356 (1886)]

In conclusion, it ought to be obvious to the reader that:

1. The exercise of “comity” as it is currently defined turns a “society of law” into a “society of men”.
2. Lodging the kind of discretion exercised by judges that is described above is extremely dangerous.

“When we consider the nature and the theory of our institutions of government, the principles upon which they are supposed to rest, and review the history of their development, we are constrained to conclude that they do not mean to leave room for the play and action of purely personal and arbitrary power.”
[Yick Wo v. Hopkins, 118 U.S. 356, 369, 6 S. Sup.Ct. 1064, 1071]

3. Franchises and franchise courts ought to be avoided entirely, because the conflict of interest, greed, and covetousness by the government that they create and perpetuate are a severe threat to one’s liberty.
4. It is a violation of the separation of powers for franchise judges to hear matters not involving those who are not lawfully appointed or elected to public offices within the federal and not state government. All such cases MUST be dismissed or the constitute an unconstitutional Bill of Attainder.

7.7 Summary

The profound implications of this section are the following:

1. De jure constitutional governments are established to protect private rights by keeping what is “public” separate from what is “private”.

- 1 2. The rights of those protected by the Constitution are “unalienable”, which means that they cannot be bargained away
- 2 through any commercial process in relation to the government.
- 3 3. Franchises are a commercial process, and therefore they may not lawfully be offered to human beings protected by the
- 4 Constitution.
- 5 4. The purpose of franchises is to tax, regulate and DESTROY rights, not protect them.
- 6 5. Franchises may only be offered to persons domiciled on federal territory where rights do not exist. Offering them any
- 7 other place or within a state of the Union is a violation of the Constitution.
- 8 6. Rights and franchises compete with each other and destroy each other. They cannot coexist in any truly free de jure
- 9 government. Any attempt to mix them inevitably will cause every single private right to be gobbled up by Pac Man
- 10 franchises and turned into “public rights” and publici juris because the love of money by politicians is without end and
- 11 without scruples. That conversion will occur primarily by manufacturing legal ignorance in the public schools,
- 12 STEALING ordinary words and converting them into “words of art”, and abusing unconstitutional presumption to
- 13 deceive the ignorant into volunteering for these franchises. See:

Presumption: Chief Weapon for Unlawfully Enlarging Federal Jurisdiction, Form #05.017
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

- 14 7. We cannot have a “Dr. Jekyll” and “Mr. Hyde” government or court that on the one hand is in charge of protecting
- 15 private rights, and on the other hand and at the same time, is running profitable businesses or “franchises” that can tax,
- 16 destroy, and regulate rights! For instance:
- 17 7.1. It is a conflict of interest for a judge to rule on any matter that he has either a direct or an indirect pecuniary
- 18 financial interest in. See 18 U.S.C. §208, 28 U.S.C. §144.
- 19 7.2. It is a conflict of interest for a voter to vote on any measure that might produce a financial benefit for himself at
- 20 the expense of another nonconsenting party. See 18 U.S.C. §597.

21 “The government that robs Peter to pay Paul can always depend on the support of Paul.”
 22 [George Bernard Shaw]

23 “A democracy cannot exist as a permanent form of government. It can only exist until the voters discover that
 24 they can vote themselves money from the Public Treasury. From that moment on, the majority always votes for 25 the candidate promising the most benefits from the Public Treasury with the result that a democracy always 26 collapses over loose fiscal policy always followed by dictatorship.”
 27 [“The Decline and Fall of the Athenian Republic”, Alexander Fraser Tytler]

28 “A tax, in the general understanding of the term and as used in the constitution, signifies an exaction for the
 29 support of the government. The word has never thought to connote the expropriation of money from one group
 30 for the benefit of another.”
 31 [U.S. Supreme Court in United States v. William M. Butler, 297 U.S. 1 (1936)]

- 32 7.3. It is a conflict of interest for a jurist who receives government “benefits” to rule on any matter involving the
- 33 payment of taxes for those benefits. 18 U.S.C. §201 makes it a crime to bribe a “public officer” and it also
- 34 describes jurists as “public officers”:

35 TITLE 18 > PART 1 > CHAPTER 11 > § 201
 36 § 201. Bribery of public officials and witnesses

37 (a) For the purpose of this section—

38 (1) the term “public official” means Member of Congress, Delegate, or Resident Commissioner, either before
 39 or after such official has qualified, or an officer or employee or person acting for or on behalf of the United 40 States, or any department, agency or branch of Government thereof, including the District of Columbia, in any 41 official function, under or by authority of any such department, agency, or branch of Government, or a juror;

42 What we have is Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde government. On the one hand, it claims to champion freedom and rights
 43 throughout the world but behind the scenes and on government forms, it is secretly undermining those same rights and 44 making everyone into a government statutory “employee” (5 U.S.C. §2105(a)) or “public officer” and servant without 45 compensation who is called by any one of the following names:

- 46 1. Statutory “taxpayer” as defined at 26 U.S.C. §§7701(a)(14) and 1313. A federal business trust that earns “income” as
- 47 defined in 26 U.S.C. §643(b). This trust is wholly owned by a federal corporation, the “United States” pursuant to 28
- 48 U.S.C. §3002(15)(A). All federal corporations are “citizens” under the law they were incorporated, which in the case
- 49 of the “U.S. Inc.” is the District of Columbia. By signing and submitting SSA Form SS-5, you created this trust and

1 agreed to become surety for it as a “public officer”. Possession of the Social Security Card and use of the number
2 constitutes prima facie evidence that you consent to act as the “trustee” and custodian of public property. The card and
3 number are “public property” pursuant to 20 C.F.R. §422.103(d) and you can’t use public property for a private use. If
4 you did, you would be guilty of conversion pursuant to 18 U.S.C. §654. In that sense, the number acts as a prima facie
5 license to act as a “public officer” engaged in federal franchises. See:

Resignation of Compelled Social Security Trustee, Form #06.002
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

- 6 2. Statutory “person” as defined at 26 U.S.C. §6671(b) and 7343. All such “persons” are officers or employees of federal 7 corporations or federal partnerships contractually engaged with the government as “public officers”.
- 8 3. Statutory “individual” as defined at 26 C.F.R. §1.1441-1(c)(3). This is an alien or “nonresident alien” who signed up
9 for a Taxpayer Identification Number or provided a Social Security Number as a substitute for a Taxpayer
10 Identification Number. He or she or it is engaged in any one of the following franchises. All of these franchises are 11 described in the instructions for IRS Form 1042-S:
 - 12 3.1. Any recipient whose income is effectively connected with the conduct of a trade or business in the United States.
 - 13 3.2. Any foreign person claiming a reduced rate of, or exemption from, tax under a tax treaty between a foreign 14 country and the United States, unless the income is an unexpected payment (as described in Regulations, 26
15 U.S.C. §1.1441-6(g)) or consists of dividends and interest from stocks and debt obligations that are actively
16 traded; dividends from any redeemable security issued by an investment company registered under the Investment
17 Company Act of 1940 (mutual fund); dividends, interest, or royalties from units of beneficial interest in a unit
18 investment trust that are (or were, upon issuance) publicly offered and are registered with the Securities and 19 Exchange Commission under the Securities Act of 1933; and amounts paid with respect to loans of any of the 20 above securities.
 - 21 3.3. Any nonresident alien individual claiming exemption from tax under section 871(f) for certain annuities received 22 under qualified plans.
 - 23 3.4. A foreign organization claiming an exemption from tax solely because of its status as a tax-exempt organization
24 under I.R.C. §501(c) or as a private foundation.
 - 25 3.5. Any QI.
 - 26 3.6. Any WP or WT.
 - 27 3.7. Any nonresident alien individual claiming exemption from withholding on compensation for independent 28 personal services [services connected with a “trade or business”].
 - 29 3.8. Any foreign grantor trust with five or fewer grantors.
 - 30 3.9. Any branch of a foreign bank or foreign insurance company that is treated as a U.S. person.
- 31 4. Statutory “Voter” as referred to at 18 U.S.C. §201(a)(1). All voters are “public officers”.
- 32 5. Statutory “Employee” as defined at 26 U.S.C. §3401(c), 26 C.F.R. §31.3401(c)-1, and 5 U.S.C. §2105. Defined as an 33 officer or employee of the national government and NOT a private business.
- 34 6. Statutory “U.S. citizen” as defined at 8 U.S.C. §1401 and 26 C.F.R. §1.1-1(c) and 26 U.S.C. §3121(e).
- 35 7. Statutory “U.S. resident” as defined at 26 U.S.C. §7701(b)(A). A statutory “U.S. citizen” temporarily abroad and 36 coming under an income tax treaty with a foreign country pursuant to 26 U.S.C. §911. Under the treaty and in relation
37 to the foreign country, he or she is an “alien”. Pursuant to 26 U.S.C. §911(d)(3), this “resident alien” has an “abode”,
38 which means domicile, in the District of Columbia.
- 39 8. Statutory “Federal personnel” as defined at 5 U.S.C. §552a(a)(13). A Social Security Trust that you created by filling 40 out an SSA Form SS-5 and agreeing to act as a trustee over said trust.

41 Of the above hypocrisy and the “Pharisees”, meaning lawyers who propagate it, Jesus Himself said the following:

42 “But woe to you, scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites! For you shut up the kingdom of heaven against men; for 43 you neither go in yourselves, nor do you allow those who are entering to go in.

14 8 How statutory franchises and "public rights" effect your standing in federal court⁴⁶

15 This section will describe all the affects upon your standing in federal court in the case of those who participate in federal 16 franchises. For exhaustive details on the nature of government franchise and all the legal consequences of participation, see 17 the following informative and important memorandum of law on our website:

Government Instituted Slavery Using Franchises, Form #05.030
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

18 8.1 Background

19 A very important aspect of determining choice of law in any controversy that could be heard in either a state or federal 20 court is the concept of government "franchises". A franchise is any statutory system created by the government which 21 results in some kind of perceived "benefit" or "privilege". Such franchises are frequently called "public rights" by the 22 courts.

23 FRANCHISE. A special privilege conferred by government on individual or corporation, and which does not
24 belong to citizens of country generally of common right. Elliott v. City of Eugene, 135 Or. 108, 294 P. 358,
25 360. In England it is defined to be a royal privilege in the hands of a subject.

26 A "franchise," as used by Blackstone in defining quo warranto, (3 Com. 262 [4th Am. Ed.] 322), had reference
27 to a royal privilege or branch of the king's prerogative subsisting in the hands of the subject, and must arise
28 from the king's grant, or be held by prescription, but today we understand a franchise to be some special
29 privilege conferred by government on an individual, natural or artificial, which is not enjoyed by its citizens in
30 general. State v. Fernandez, 106 Fla. 779, 143 So. 638, 639, 86 A.L.R. 240.

31 In this country a franchise is a privilege or immunity of a public nature, which cannot be legally exercised
32 without legislative grant. To be a corporation is a franchise. The various powers conferred on corporations
33 are franchises. The execution of a policy of insurance by an insurance company [e.g. Social Insurance/Social
34 Security], and the issuing a bank note by an incorporated bank [such as a Federal Reserve NOTE], are
35 franchises. People v. Utica Ins. Co., 15 Johns., N.Y., 387, 8 Am.Dec. 243. But it does not embrace the property
36 acquired by the exercise of the franchise. Bridgeport v. New York & N.H.R. Co., 36 Conn. 255, 4 Arn.Rep. 63.
37 Nor involve interest in land acquired by grantee. Whitbeck v. Funk, 140 Or. 70, 12 P.2d. 1019, 1020. In a 38 popular sense, the political rights of subjects and citizens are franchises, such as the right of suffrage, etc.
39 Pierce v. Emery, 32 N.H. 484; State v. Black Diamond Co., 97 Ohio.St. 24, 119 N.E. 195, 199, L.R.A.1918E, 40 352.

41 Elective Franchise. The right of suffrage: the right or privilege of voting in public elections.

⁴⁶ Source: Government Instituted Slavery Using Franchises, Form #05.030, Section 26; <http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>.

1 Exclusive Franchise. See Exclusive Privilege or Franchise.

2 General and Special. The charter of a corporation is its "general" franchise, while a "special" franchise
3 consists in any rights granted by the public to use property for a public use but-with private profit. Lord v.
4 Equitable Life Assur. Soc., 194 N.Y. 212, 81 N. E. 443, 22 L.R.A.,N.S., 420.

5 Personal Franchise. A franchise of corporate existence, or one which authorizes the formation and existence of
6 a corporation, is sometimes called a "personal" franchise, as distinguished from a "property" franchise, which
7 authorizes a corporation so formed to apply its property to some particular enterprise or exercise some special
8 privilege in its employment, as, for example, to construct and operate a railroad. See Sandham v. Nye, 9
9 Misc.ReP. 541, 30 N.Y.S. 552.

10 Secondary Franchises. The franchise of corporate existence being sometimes called the "primary" franchise of
11 a corporation, its "secondary" franchises are the special and peculiar rights, privileges, or grants which it may,
12 receive under its charter or from a municipal corporation, such as the right to use the public streets, exact tolls,
13 collect fares, etc. State v. Topeka Water Co., 61 Kan. 547, 60 P. 337; Virginia Canon Toll Road Co. v. People,
14 22 Colo. 429, 45 P. 398 37 L.R.A. 711. The franchises of a corporation are divisible into (1) corporate or
15 general franchises; and (2) "special or secondary franchises. The former is the franchise to exist as a
16 corporation, while the latter are certain rights and privileges conferred upon existing corporations. Gulf
17 Refining Co. v. Cleveland Trust Co., 166 Miss. 759, 108 So. 158, 160.

18 Special Franchise. See Secondary Franchises, supra.
19 [Black's Law Dictionary, Fourth Edition, pp. 786-787]

20 The most important fact which emerges from the above is that when you agree to accept a franchise, then you agree, based 21 on the above to:

22 1. Abide by all the legal obligations associated with the statutory franchise:

23 CALIFORNIA CIVIL CODE
24 DIVISION 3. OBLIGATIONS
25 PART 2. CONTRACTS
26 CHAPTER 3. CONSENT
27 Section 1589

28
29 1589. A voluntary acceptance of the benefit of a transaction is equivalent to a consent to all the obligations
30 arising from it, so far as the facts are known, or ought to be known, to the person accepting.

31 2. Become a "privileged subject" and nominate a "king" to rule over you by "royal prerogative".

32 "In England it is defined to be a royal privilege in the hands of a subject.

33 A "franchise," as used by Blackstone In defining quo warranto, (3 Com. 262 [4th Am. Ed.] 322), had reference
34 to a royal privilege or branch of the king's prerogative subsisting in the hands of the subject, and must arise
35 from the king's grant, or be held by prescription, . . ."
36 [Black's Law Dictionary, Fourth Edition, pp. 786-787]

37 Generally, anything that includes a "license" is a statutory franchise or "public right" that is voluntary, and all the laws that 38 implement it function essentially as private law and the equivalent of a contract between the "applicant" for the license, and 39 the government:

40 "Private law. That portion of the law which defines, regulates, enforces, and administers relationships among 41 individuals, associations, and corporations. As used in contradistinction to public law, the term means all that 42 part of the law which is administered between citizen and citizen, or which is concerned with the definition,
43 regulation, and enforcement of rights in cases where both the person in whom the right inheres and the person
44 upon whom the obligation is incident are private individuals. See also Private bill; Special law. Compare
45 Public Law."
46 [Black's Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, p. 1196]

47 Examples of "public rights" and statutory franchises include such things as:

- 48 1. Income tax
- 49 2. Social Security
- 50 3. Medicare
- 51 4. Medicaid

- 1 5. Driver's licenses
- 2 6. Marriage licenses
- 3 7. Nearly every form of "public assistance"
- 4 8. Professional licenses of every description

5 In law, rights are property:

6 Property. That which is peculiar or proper to any person; that which belongs exclusively to one. In the strict
7 legal sense, an aggregate of rights which are guaranteed and protected by the government. Fulton Light, Heat
8 & Power Co. v. State, 65 Misc.Rep. 263, 121 N.Y.S. 536. The term is said to extend to every species of valuable
9 right and interest. More specifically, ownership; the unrestricted and exclusive right to a thing; the right to 10 dispose of a thing in every legal way, to possess it, to use it, and to exclude every one else from interfering with 11 it. That dominion or indefinite right of use or disposition which one may lawfully exercise over particular things
12 or subjects. The exclusive right of possessing, enjoying, and disposing of a thing. The highest right a man can 13 have to anything; being used to refer to that right which one has to lands or tenements, goods or chattels, which 14 no way depends on another man's courtesy.

15 The word is also commonly used to denote everything which is the subject of ownership, corporeal or 16 incorporeal, tangible or intangible, visible or invisible, real or personal, everything that has an exchangeable
17 value or which goes to make up wealth or estate. It extends to every species of valuable right and interest, and 18 includes real and personal property, easements, franchises, and incorporeal hereditaments, and includes
19 every invasion of one's property rights by actionable wrong. Labberton v. General Cas. Co. of America, 53

36 Anything that conveys rights is also property. Contracts convey rights and therefore are property. All franchises are 37 contracts between the grantor and grantee and therefore also are property.

38 As a rule, franchises spring from contracts between the sovereign power and private citizens, made upon
39 valuable considerations, for purposes of individual advantage as well as public benefit,⁴⁷ and thus a franchise
40 partakes of a double nature and character. So far as it affects or concerns the public, it is publici juris and is 41 subject to governmental control. The legislature may prescribe the manner of granting it, to whom it may be 42 granted, the conditions and terms upon which it may be held, and the duty of the grantee to the public in 43 exercising it, and may also provide for its forfeiture upon the failure of the grantee to perform that duty. But 44 when granted, it becomes the property of the grantee, and is a private right, subject only to the governmental
45 control growing out of its other nature as publici juris.⁴⁸
46 [American Jurisprudence 2d, Franchises, §4: Generally (1999)]

47 Corporations are only one of several types of government franchises. Below is an example:

⁴⁷ Georgia R. & Power Co. v. Atlanta, 154 Ga. 731, 115 S.E. 263; Lippencott v. Allander, 27 Iowa 460; State ex rel. Hutton v. Baton Rouge, 217 La. 857, 47 So.2d. 665; Tower v. Tower & S. Street R. Co. 68 Minn 500, 71 N.W. 691.

⁴⁸ Georgia R. & Power Co. v. Atlanta, 154 Ga. 731, 115 S.E. 263; Lippencott v. Allander, 27 Iowa 460; State ex rel. Hutton v. Baton Rouge, 217 La. 857, 47 So.2d. 665; Tower v. Tower & S. Street R. Co. 68 Minn 500, 71 N.W. 691.

1 "The power of making all needful rules and regulations respecting the territory [property] of the United
2 States, is one of the specified powers of congress. Under this power, it has never been doubted, that congress
3 had authority to establish corporations [franchises] in the territorial governments. But this power is derived
4 entirely from implication. It is assumed, as an incident to the principal power."
5 [M'Culloch v. State, 17 U.S. 316, 1819 WL 2135 (U.S.,1819)]

6 Therefore, contracts, franchises, territory, and domicile (which is a protection franchise) all constitute "property" of the 7 national government and are the origin of all civil jurisdiction over "persons" in federal courts. Jurisdiction of federal 8 courts over such "property" extends into the states and wherever said property is found:

9 "The Constitution permits Congress to dispose of and to make all needful rules and regulations respecting
10 the territory or other property belonging to the United States. This power applies as well to territory
11 belonging to the United States within the States, as beyond them. It comprehends all the public domain,
12 wherever it may be. The argument is, that the power to make 'ALL needful rules and regulations' 'is a power
13 of legislation,' 'a full legislative power;' 'that it includes all subjects of legislation in the territory,' and is 14 without any limitations, except the positive prohibitions which affect all the powers of Congress. Congress
15 may then regulate or prohibit slavery upon the public domain within the new States, and such a prohibition
16 would permanently affect the capacity of a slave, whose master might carry him to it. And why not? Because no
17 power has been conferred on Congress. This is a conclusion universally admitted. But the power to 'make 18 rules and regulations respecting the territory' is not restrained by State lines, nor are there any constitutional
19 prohibitions upon its exercise in the domain of the United States within the States; and whatever rules and 20 regulations respecting territory Congress may constitutionally make are supreme, and are not dependent on 21 the situs of 'the territory.'"
22 [Dred Scott v. Sandford, 60 U.S. 393, 509-510 (1856)]

23 It is jurisdiction mainly over government/public franchises which is the origin of nearly all civil jurisdiction that federal 24 courts assert over most Americans. Franchises are the main method by which your legal identity is "kidnapped" and 25 transported to a foreign jurisdiction.

26 "For the upright will dwell in the land,
27 And the blameless will remain in it;
28 But the wicked [those who allow themselves through their covetousness to be enticed by a government bribe
29 in the form of a franchise] will be cut off [legally kidnapped pursuant to F.R.Civ.P. 17(b)] from the earth
30 [and transported to a foreign land to serve tyrants like the Israelites were kidnapped and transported to 31 Egypt].
32 And the unfaithful will be uprooted from it."
33 [Prov. 2:21-22, Bible, NKJV]

34 The U.S. Supreme Court described how this kidnapping occurs against those who accept privileges when it held the 35 following. The phrase "exempted from the rigor of the common law" is synonymous with exempted from the protections
36 of the bill of rights and equity jurisdiction in relation to the grantor of the franchise:

37 The words "privileges" and "immunities," like the greater part of the legal phraseology of this country, have
38 been carried over from the law of Great Britain, and recur constantly either as such or in equivalent
39 expressions from the time of Magna Charta. For all practical purposes they are synonymous in meaning, and 40 originally signified a peculiar right or private law conceded to particular persons or places whereby a certain 41 individual or class of individuals was exempted from the rigor of the common law. Privilege or immunity is 42 conferred upon any person when he is invested with a legal claim to the exercise of special or peculiar rights,
43 authorizing him to enjoy some particular advantage or exemption. See Magill v. Browne, Fed.Cas. No. 8952, 16
44 Fed.Cas. 408; 6 Words and Phrases, 5583, 5584; A J. Lien, "Privileges and Immunities of Citizens of the 45 United States," in Columbia University Studies in History, Economics, and Public Law, vol. 54, p. 31.
46 [Paul v. Virginia, 8 Wall. 168, 19 L.Ed. 357]

47 For an example of how this legal kidnapping or "identity theft" operates, see 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(39) and 26 U.S.C.
48 §7408(d) . The "citizen" or "resident" described in these two code sections is a person who participates in the "protection
49 franchise", or should we say "protection racket" called "domicile", which domicile is on federal territory and not within any 50 state of the Union. If you would like to know more about how this process of legal kidnapping operates both spiritually and 51 legally, see the following:

Government Instituted Slavery Using Franchises, Form #05.030, Section 11.3
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

52 All franchises cause those engaged in them to take on a "public character" and become government agents, officers, and 53 "public officers" of one kind or another and the "office" they occupy has an effective domicile on federal territory. The

1 public office is the “res” or subject of nearly all civil proceedings in the district and circuit “franchise courts”, and not the
2 physical person occupying said office.

3 “Res. Lat. The subject matter of a trust [the Social Security Trust or “public trust” (government), in most
4 cases] or will [or legislation]. In the civil law, a thing; an object. As a term of the law, this word has a very
5 wide and extensive signification, including not only things which are objects of property, but also such as are
6 not capable of individual ownership. And in old English law it is said to have a general import, comprehending
7 both corporeal and incorporeal things of whatever kind, nature, or species. By “res,” according to the modern 8 civilians, is meant everything that may form an object of rights, in opposition to “persona,” which is 9 regarded as a subject of rights. “Res,” therefore, in its general meaning, comprises actions [or 10 CONSEQUENCES of choices and CONTRACTS/AGREEMENTS you make by procuring BENEFITS] of 11 all kinds; while in its restricted sense it comprehends every object of right, except actions. This has reference
12 to the fundamental division of the Institutes that all law relates either to persons, to things, or to actions.

13 Res is everything that may form an object of rights and includes an object, subject-matter or status. In re
14 Riggle's Will, 11 A.D.2d 51 205 N.Y.S.2d. 19, 21, 22. The term is particularly applied to an object, subject-
15 matter, or status, considered as the defendant [hence, the ALL CAPS NAME] in an action, or as an object
16 against which, directly, proceedings are taken. Thus, in a prize case, the captured vessel is “the res”; and
17 proceedings of this character are said to be in rem. (See In personam; In Rem.) “Res” may also denote the 18 action or proceeding, as when a cause, which is not between adversary parties, is entitled “In re _____”.
19 [Black’s Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, pp. 1304-1306]

20 The trust they are talking about in the phrase “subject matter of a trust” is the “public trust”. Government is a public trust:

21 TITLE 5--ADMINISTRATIVE PERSONNEL
22 CHAPTER XVI--OFFICE OF GOVERNMENT ETHICS
23 PART 2635--STANDARDS OF ETHICAL CONDUCT FOR EMPLOYEES OF THE EXECUTIVE BRANCH--
24 Table of Contents
25 Subpart A--General Provisions
26 Sec. 2635.101 Basic obligation of public service.

27 (a) Public service is a public trust. Each employee has a responsibility to the United States Government and 28 its citizens to place loyalty to the Constitution, laws and ethical principles above private gain. To ensure that 29 every citizen can have complete confidence in the integrity of the Federal Government, each employee shall 30 respect and adhere to the principles of ethical conduct set forth in this section, as well as the implementing 31 standards contained in this part and in supplemental agency regulations.

32 In the case below, this source of civil jurisdiction over government franchises is called “statutory law”:

33 One great object of the Constitution is to permit citizens to structure their private relations as they choose
34 subject only to the constraints of statutory or decisional law. [500 U.S. 614, 620]

35 To implement these principles, courts must consider from time to time where the governmental sphere [e.g.
36 “public purpose” and “public office”] ends and the private sphere begins. Although the conduct of private 37 parties lies beyond the Constitution's scope in most instances, governmental authority may dominate an 38 activity to such an extent that its participants must be deemed to act with the authority of the government
39 and, as a result, be subject to constitutional constraints. This is the jurisprudence of state action, which 40 explores the “essential dichotomy” between the private sphere and the public sphere, with all its attendant
41 constitutional obligations. Moose Lodge, supra, at 172. “

42 [. . .]

43 Given that the statutory authorization for the challenges exercised in this case is clear, the remainder of our
44 state action analysis centers around the second part of the Lugar test, whether a private litigant, in all fairness,
45 must be deemed a government actor in the use of peremptory challenges. Although we have recognized that this
46 aspect of the analysis is often a fact-bound inquiry, see Lugar, supra, 457 U.S. at 939, our cases disclose
47 certain principles of general application. Our precedents establish that, in determining whether a particular
48 action or course of conduct is governmental in character, it is relevant to examine the following: the extent
49 to which the actor relies on governmental assistance and benefits, see Tulsa Professional Collection Services,
50 Inc. v. Pope, 485 U.S. 478 (1988); Burton v. Wilmington Parking Authority, 365 U.S. 715 (1961); whether
51 the actor is performing a traditional governmental function, see Terry v. Adams, 345 U.S. 461 (1953); Marsh
52 v. Alabama, 326 U.S. 501 (1946); cf. San Francisco Arts & Athletics, Inc. v. United States Olympic [500 U.S.
53 614, 622] Committee, 483 U.S. 522, 544 -545 (1987); and whether the injury caused is aggravated in a unique
54 way by the incidents of governmental authority, see Shelley v. Kraemer, 334 U.S. 1 (1948). Based on our 55 application of these three principles to the circumstances here, we hold that the exercise of peremptory
56 challenges by the defendant in the District Court was pursuant to a course of state action.
57 [Edmonson v. Leesville Concrete Company, 500 U.S. 614 (1991)]

1 In support of the above conclusions, the following memorandum of law exhaustively analyzes the subject of civil statutory
2 jurisdiction of the national government over persons domiciled outside of federal territory and in states of the Union and
3 concludes that all statutory law is law only for the government and franchisees who are also part of the government:

Why Statutory Civil Law is Law for Government and Not Private Persons, Form #05.037
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

4 8.2 Franchises are the main tool that judges and governments use to plunder and enslave you

5 We're sure you have heard the old saying:

6 "A fool and his money are soon parted."

7 This section will describe how government granted franchises such as Social Security, the income tax, Medicare, federal
8 employment or office, etc are the main method of choice used and abused by clever judges and government prosecutors in 9 THEIR privileged "franchise courts" for parting a fool of ALL of his or her money and rights. More particularly,
10 franchises are the main method:

- 11 1. That God uses to punish a wicked and rebellious people. See Nehemiah 8-9.
- 12 2. That rulers and governments use to plunder and enslave those they are supposed to be serving and protecting.
- 13 3. By which the wicked are uprooted from the land and kidnapped legally from the protections of God to occupy a foreign 14 land. Prov. 2:21-22.

15 The Bible says that the Heavens and the Earth belong to the Lord and NOT Caesar.

16 The heavens are Yours [God's], the earth also is Yours;
17 The world and all its fullness, You have founded them.
18 The north and the south, You have created them;
19 Tabor and Hermon rejoice in Your name.
20 You have a mighty arm;
21 Strong is Your hand, and high is Your right hand."
22 [\[Psalm 89:11-13, Bible, NKJV\]](#)
23

24 "I have made the earth,
25 And created man on it.
26 I—My hands—stretched out the heavens,
27 And all their host I have commanded."
28 [\[Isaiah 45:12, Bible, NKJV\]](#)
29

30 "Indeed heaven and the highest heavens belong to the Lord your God, also the earth with all that is in it."
31 [\[Deuteronomy 10:14, Bible, NKJV\]](#)

32 Since God owns everything and Caesar owns nothing, then what we are to render to Caesar is NOTHING according to 33 Romans 13. Caesar is therefore God's temporary trustee and steward over what ultimately belongs exclusively and
34 permanently and ONLY to God. The delegation of authority from God to Caesar is the Bible itself, which is a trust
35 indenture that describes itself as a covenant or promise, and which makes God the beneficiary of all of Caesar's and our 36 choices as God's steward. The terms of that delegation of authority order and trust indenture are exhaustively described
37 below:

Delegation of Authority Order from God to Christians, Form #13.007
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

38 The above facts are the basis for why 1 Peter 2 says the following, and note the phrase "for the Lord's sake":

39 "Therefore submit yourselves to every ordinance of man for the Lord's sake, whether to the king as supreme,
40 or to governors, as to those who are sent by him for the punishment of evildoers and for the praise of those who
41 do good. For this is the will of God, that by doing good you may put to silence the ignorance of foolish men—
42 as free, yet not using liberty as a cloak for vice, but as bondservants of God. Honor all people. Love the 43 brotherhood. Fear God. Honor the king."

1 [1 Peter 2:13-17, Bible, NKJV]

2 That government which is NOT “for the Lord’s sake” and instead is for Satan’s sake we are not only NOT to submit to as
3 Christians, but are required to rebel against and literally “hate” its bad deeds but not the people who affect them. The hate
4 is directed at evil behavior, not evil people. It is a fact that most kings and governors are NOT sent by God, but by Satan,
5 and most of them rebel against rather than obey God or His moral laws. These rulers, in fact, are the ones who ultimately
6 will engage in the final conflict against God:

7 “And I saw the beast, the kings of the earth, and their armies, gathered together to make war against Him
8 [Jesus] who sat on the horse and against His army.”
9 [Rev. 19:19, Bible, NKJV]

10 God would never and has never commanded us to do evil nor to obey rulers who are evil. In fact, most of the evil in our 11 society originates from abuses by rulers who refuse to either recognize or obey God’s moral laws in the Bible. The essence
12 of loving the Lord, for instance, is to “fear God”.

13 You shall fear the LORD your God and serve [ONLY] Him, and shall take oaths in His name. You shall not
14 go after other gods, the gods of the peoples who are all around you (for the LORD your God is a jealous God 15 among you), lest the anger of the LORD your God be aroused against you and destroy you from the face of the 16 earth.

17 [. . .]

18 And the LORD commanded us to observe all these statutes, to fear the LORD our God, for our good always,
19 that He might preserve us alive, as it is this day.

21
22 “You shall fear the LORD your God; you shall serve [ONLY] Him, and to Him you shall hold fast, and take 23 oaths in His name.”
24 [Deut. 10:20, Bible, NKJV]

25 The Bible then defines “fearing the Lord” as “hating evil”. You can’t “hate evil” by effecting it or by obeying or 26 subsidizing rulers who effect it in our name as our representatives. No one who wars against God’s commandments or 27 obeys rulers who war against God’s commandments can claim to be “fearing the Lord”. We argue that one cannot 28 simultaneously love God, and not hate his opposite, which is evil.

29 “The fear of the LORD is to hate evil:
30 Pride and arrogance and the evil way
31 And the perverse mouth I hate.”
32 [Prov. 8:13, Bible, NKJV]

33 Therefore, so long as we as Christians continually recognize God’s exclusive ownership and control over the Earth and the 34 fact that Caesar doesn’t own any part of it, the only type of allegiance we can have that attaches to any geographical 35 territory is allegiance to God and not Caesar. That allegiance manifests itself in choosing a legal domicile that is not within 36 the jurisdiction of any man-made government and instead is within God’s Kingdom on Earth exclusively. This exclusive
37 allegiance we have to God then determines who we nominate as our protector and where the civil laws are derived which 38 protect us.

39 “domicile. A person’s legal home. That place where a man has his true, fixed, and permanent home and
40 principal establishment, and to which whenever he is absent he has the intention of returning. Smith v. Smith,
41 206 Pa.Super. 310, 213 A.2d. 94. Generally, physical presence within a state and the intention to make it one’s
42 home are the requisites of establishing a “domicile” therein. The permanent residence of a person or the place
43 to which he intends to return even though he may actually reside elsewhere. A person may have more than one
44 residence but only one domicile. The legal domicile of a person is important since it, rather than the actual
45 residence, often controls the jurisdiction of the taxing authorities and determines where a person may
46 exercise the privilege of voting and other legal rights and privileges.”
47 [Black’s Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, p. 485]

48 “The citizen cannot complain [about the laws or the tax system], because he has voluntarily submitted
49 himself to such a form of government. He owes allegiance to the two departments, so to speak, and within

1 their respective spheres must pay the penalties which each exacts for disobedience to its laws. In return, he can
2 demand protection from each within its own jurisdiction.”
3 [United States v. Cruikshank, 92 U.S. 542 (1875) [emphasis added]]

4 “Allegiance and protection [by the government from harm] are, in this connection, reciprocal obligations.
5 The one is a compensation for the other; allegiance for protection and protection for allegiance.”
6 [Minor v. Happersett, 88 U.S. (21 Wall.) 162, 166-168 (1874)]

7 We can’t have allegiance to Caesar because the Bible says we can’t serve two masters or, by implication, have two masters:

8 “No one can serve two masters [two employers, for instance]; for either he will hate the one and love the other,
9 or else he will be loyal to the one and despise the other. You cannot serve God and mammon [government].”
10 [Luke 16:13, NKJV. Written by a tax collector]

11 God is our ONLY Lawgiver, Judge, and Protector:

12 “For God is the King of all the earth; Sing praises with understanding.”
13 [Psalm 47:7, Bible, NKJV]

14 “For the LORD is our Judge, the LORD is our Lawgiver, the LORD is our King; He will save [and protect] us.”
15 [Isaiah 33:22, Bible, NKJV]

16 Those who do not have a domicile within Caesar’s jurisdiction are called by any of the following names in Caesar’s courts:

17 1. “transient foreigners”

18 “Transient foreigner. One who visits the country, without the intention of remaining.”
19 [Black’s Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, p. 1498]

20 2. “stateless persons”

21 Social Security Program Operations Manual System (POMS)
22 RS 02640.040 Stateless Persons

23 A. DEFINITIONS

24 [. . .]

25 DE FACTO—Persons who have left the country of which they were nationals and no longer enjoy its 26 protection and assistance. They are usually political refugees. They are legally citizens of a country because its 27 laws do not permit denaturalization or only permit it with the country’s approval.

28 [. . .]

29 2. De Facto Status

30 Assume an individual is de facto stateless if he/she:

31 a. says he/she is stateless but cannot establish he/she is de jure stateless; and

32 b. establishes that:

- 33 • he/she has taken up residence [chosen a legal domicile] outside the country of his/her nationality;
- 34 • there has been an event which is hostile to him/her, such as a sudden or radical change in the 35 government, in the country of nationality; and

36 NOTE: In determining whether an event was hostile to the individual, it is sufficient to show the 37 individual had reason to believe it would be hostile to him/her.

- 38 • he/she renounces, in a sworn statement, the protection and assistance of the government of the 39 country of which he/she is a national and declares he/she is stateless. The statement must be sworn

1 to before an individual legally authorized to administer oaths and the original statement must be
2 submitted to SSA.

3 De facto [stateless] status stays in effect only as long as the conditions in b. continue to exist. If, for example,
4 the individual returns [changes their domicile back] to his/her country of nationality, de facto statelessness
5 ends.

9 3. "nonresidents"

10 Man's law says that if we exercise our right of political association or DISASSOCIATION protected by the First
11 Amendment by choosing a domicile in God's kingdom rather than Caesar's kingdom, that the law which then applies is the 12 law from our domicile, which means God's Holy laws.

13 IV. PARTIES > Rule 17.

14 Rule 17. Parties Plaintiff and Defendant: Capacity

15 (b) Capacity to Sue or be Sued.

16 Capacity to sue or be sued is determined as follows:

17 (1) for an individual who is not acting in a representative capacity, by the law of the individual's domicile;

18 (2) for a corporation, by the law under which it was organized; and

19 (3) for all other parties, by the law of the state where the court is located, except that:

20 (A) a partnership or other unincorporated association with no such capacity under that state's law may sue
21 or be sued in its common name to enforce a substantive right existing under the United States Constitution
22 or laws; and

23 (B) 28 U.S.C. §§ 754 and 959\(a\) govern the capacity of a receiver appointed by a United States court to sue
24 or be sued in a United States court.

25 [SOURCE: <http://www.law.cornell.edu/rules/frcp/Rule17.htm>]

26 Notice that in addition to "domicile" above, three other sources or "choice of law" are provided, which is:

- 27 1. Acting in a representative capacity on behalf of another. This can only happen by holding an "office", such as a 28 "public office" in the government.
- 29 2. Operating as a corporation, which is a franchise.
- 30 3. The state court where suit is brought. This court ordinarily has civil jurisdiction only if the party bringing suit or the 31 respondent has a domicile in that forum.

32 Therefore, there are only two methods to switch the civil choice of law away from the protections of a person's domicile, 33 which are:

- 34 1. Acting in a representative capacity on behalf of another as an officer or public officer or trustee.
- 35 2. Operating as a corporation, which is a franchise.

36 Note that both of the above conditions of a person result from the voluntary exercise of your right to contract, because 37 contracting is the only way you can enter into such relationships. Note also that both conditions are franchises of one kind
38 or another. You can't become a "public officer" of the government, for instance, without signing an employment
39 agreement, which is a franchise. That franchise, by the way, implies a surrender of your constitutional rights, according to 40 the U.S. Supreme Court:

41 "The restrictions that the Constitution places upon the government in its capacity as lawmaker, i.e., as the

7 God's laws say that a wicked or unfaithful people will be "cut off from the earth" meaning divorced from the protections of 8 God's laws and of their legal domicile. By "wicked", we believe He means "ignorant, lazy, presumptuous, or covetous".
9 The above two mechanisms are the means for doing this:

10 "For the upright will dwell in the land,
11 And the blameless will remain in it;
12 But the wicked will be cut off from the earth.
13 And the unfaithful will be uprooted from it.
14 [Prov. 2:21-22, Bible, NKJV]

15 How do the upright "dwell in the land"? By having a legal domicile there! How are they "uprooted from it"? By 16 engaging in franchises or acting in a representative capacity. We hope that by now, you understand that:

- 17 1. Those who engage in government franchises act as "public officers" or agents of the government.
- 18 2. Engaging in a franchise and operating in a representative capacity are therefore synonymous.

19 Consequently, God's laws recognize that franchises are the main method to uproot a wicked people from His protection, the 20 protection of His laws, and their legal domicile in order that they may be legally kidnapped and moved to another
21 jurisdiction. The mechanisms for effecting that kidnapping are recognized by Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 17(b) above.

22 Whenever a judge or ruler wants to tempt a wicked person and use their weaknesses to bring them into servitude and
23 "voluntary compliance", they will try to bribe them with franchises, such as Social Security, Medicare, Unemployment
24 compensation. They do this to entice the ignorant, the lazy, covetous, and those who want "something for nothing" to give 25 up their rights.

26 "The hand of the diligent will rule, but the lazy man will be put to forced labor [slavery!]."
27 [Prov. 12:24, Bible, NKJV]

28
29 "My son, if sinners [socialists, in this case] entice you,
30 Do not consent
31 If they say, "Come with us,
32 Let us lie in wait to shed blood;
33 Let us lurk secretly for the innocent without cause;
34 Let us swallow them alive like Sheol,
35 And whole, like those who go down to the Pit:
36 We shall fill our houses with spoil [plunder];
37 Cast in your lot among us,
38 Let us all have one purse"--
39 My son, do not walk in the way with them,
40 Keep your foot from their path;
41 For their feet run to evil,
42 And they make haste to shed blood.
43 Surely, in vain the net is spread
44 In the sight of any bird;
45 But they lie in wait for their own blood.
46 They lurk secretly for their own lives.
47 So are the ways of everyone who is greedy for gain;
48 It takes away the life of its owners."
49 [Proverbs 1:10-19, Bible, NKJV]

50 The "one purse" they are referring to above is the government's purse! They want to hire you on as a recipient of stolen
51 goods, which are goods stolen from others who are compelled to participate in their franchises and would not participate if
52 offered a fully informed, uncoerced choice not to participate. Once your tyrant rulers and public servants get you eating out
53 of their hand, then you are roped into ALL their other franchises and become their servant and slave, literally. Every one of

1 their franchises inevitably ropes you into other franchises. For instance, the drivers licensing franchise forces you to have a
2 domicile on federal territory and to participate in the federal and state income tax system.

3 "The more you want, the more the world can hurt you."
4 [Confucius]

5 *"But those who desire to be rich fall into temptation and a snare, and into many foolish and harmful lusts [for 6 "free" government "benefits"] which drown men in destruction and perdition. For the love of money [or 7 unearned "benefits"] is a root of all kinds of evil, for which some have strayed from the faith in their 8 greediness, and pierced themselves through with many sorrows."
9 [\[1 Tim. 6:9-10, Bible, NKJV\]](#)*

10 "For the turning away of the simple will slay them. And the complacency of fools will destroy them; but
11 whoever listens to me [God and the wisdom that comes ONLY from God] will dwell safely, and will be secure
12 [within the protections of God's laws and their place of domicile], without fear of evil."
13 [\[Prov. 1:20-33, Bible, NKJV\]](#)

14 When we abuse our power of choice to consent to government franchises we therefore are FIRING God as our Lawgiver,
15 Judge, and Protector and replacing Him and His Laws with a vain man or ruler. For that, God says ultimately, we are 16 severely punished, plundered, and enslaved:

17 *"The Lord is well pleased for His righteousness' sake; He will exalt the law [HIS law, not man's law] and 18 make it honorable. But this is a people robbed and plundered! [by tyrants in government] All of them are 19 snared in [legal] holes [by the sophistry of greedy lawyers], and they are hidden in prison houses; they are 20 for prey, and no one delivers; for plunder, and no one says, "Restore!"

21 Who among you will give ear to this? Who will listen and hear for the time to come? Who gave Jacob for 22 plunder, and Israel to the robbers? [IRS] Was it not the Lord, He against whom we have sinned? For they 23 would not walk in His ways, nor were they obedient to His law [they divorced themselves from their domicile
24 using their right to contract], therefore He has poured on him the fury of His anger and the strength of battle;
25 it has set him on fire all around, yet he did not know; and it burned him, yet he did not take it to heart. [he 26 became an unwitting victim of his own IGNORANCE OF THE LAW]"
27 [\[Isaiah 42:21-25, Bible, NKJV\]](#)

28
29 "Woe to the rebellious children," says the Lord, "Who take counsel, but not of Me, and who devise plans
30 [e.g. "social insurance"], but not of My Spirit, that they may add sin to sin; who walk to go down to Egypt
31 [Babylon or the District of Criminals, Washington, D.C.], and have not asked My advice, to strengthen 32 themselves in the strength of Pharaoh, and to trust in the shadow of Egypt! Therefore the strength of 33 Pharaoh shall be your shame, and trust in the shadow of Egypt shall be your humiliation..."

34 Now go, write it before them on a tablet, and note it on a scroll, that it may be for time to come, forever and 35 ever: that this is a rebellious people, lying children, children who will not hear the law of the Lord; who say to 36 the seers, "Do not see," and to the prophets [economic prognosticators], "Do not prophesy to us right things"
37 Speak to us smooth [politically correct] things, prophesy deceits. Get out of the way, turn aside from the path,
38 cause the Holy One of Israel to cease from before us [take the ten commandments out of the Supreme Court
39 Building]."

40 Therefore thus says the Holy One of Israel:

41 "Because you despise this word [God's word/law], and trust in [government] oppression and perversity, and 42 rely on them, therefore this iniquity shall be to you like a breach ready to fall, a bulge in a high wall, whose 43 breaking comes suddenly, in an instant. And He shall break it like the breaking of the potter's vessel, which 44 is broken in pieces; He shall not spare. So there shall not be found among its fragments a shard to take fire
45 from the hearth, or to take water from the cistern."
46 [\[Isaiah 30:1-3, 8-14, Bible, NKJV\]](#)

47 Thus, franchises act as an insidious snare that destroys freedom, people, lives, and families. Both the Bible and our 48 Founding Fathers forcefully say we must wisely exercise our discretion and our power of choice to systematically avoid 49 such snares and the franchises and contracts which implement them:

50 Take heed to yourself, lest you make a covenant [contract or franchise] with the inhabitants of the land
51 where you are going, lest it be a snare in your midst. But you shall destroy their altars, break their sacred
52 pillars, and cut down their wooden images (for you shall worship no other god, for the LORD, whose name 53 is Jealous, is a jealous God), lest you make a covenant [engage in a franchise, contract, or agreement] with 54 the inhabitants of the land, and they play the harlot with their gods [pagan government judges and rulers]

1 and make sacrifice [YOU and your RIGHTS!] to their gods, and one of them invites you and you eat of his
2 sacrifice, and you take of his daughters for your sons, and his daughters play the harlot with their gods and
3 make your sons play the harlot with their gods.
4 [Exodus 34:10-16, Bible, NKJV]

5 "My ardent desire is, and my aim has been...to comply strictly with all our engagements foreign and domestic;
6 but to keep the United States free from political connections with every other Country. To see that they may 7 be independent of all, and under the influence of none. In a word, I want an American character, that the 8 powers of Europe may be convinced we act for ourselves and not for others [as contractors, franchisees, or 9 "public officers"]; this, in my judgment, is the only way to be respected abroad and happy at home."
10 [George Washington, (letter to Patrick Henry, 9 October 1775);
11 Reference: The Writings of George Washington, Fitzpatrick, ed., vol. 34 (335)]

12 "About to enter, fellow citizens, on the exercise of duties which comprehend everything dear and valuable to 13 you, it is proper that you should understand what I deem the essential principles of our government, and 14 consequently those which ought to shape its administration. I will compress them within the narrowest compass
15 they will bear, stating the general principle, but not all its limitations. Equal and exact justice to all men, of 16 whatever state or persuasion, religious or political; peace, commerce, and honest friendship with all nations
17 — entangling alliances [contracts, treaties, franchises] with none."
18 [Thomas Jefferson, First Inaugural Address, March 4, 1801]

19 The Bible forbids Christians to allow anyone but the true and living God to be their king or ruler. Franchises replace God
20 as our ruler, replace him with a man or a government, and destroy equal protection of the law. Your right to contract is the 21 most dangerous right you have, folks! The abuse of that right to sign up for government franchises leaves you entirely
22 without remedy and entirely without any protection for any of your God given rights. Governments are created to protect
23 the exercise of your right to contract and if you abuse that right, you are TOAST folks, because they can't undo the damage
24 for you and you lose your right to even go into court to invoke the government's protection!

25 "These general rules are well settled: (1) That the United States, when it creates [STATUTORY
26 FRANCHISE] rights in individuals against itself [a "public right", which is a euphemism for a "franchise"
27 to help the court disguise the nature of the transaction], is under no obligation to provide a remedy through
28 the courts. United States ex rel. Dunlap v. Black, 128 U.S. 40, 9 Sup.Ct. 12, 32 L.Ed. 354; Ex parte Atocha, 17
29 Wall. 439, 21 L.Ed. 696; Gordon v. United States, 7 Wall. 188, 195, 19 L.Ed. 35; De Groot v. United States, 5
30 Wall. 419, 431, 433, 18 L.Ed. 700; Comegys v. Vasse, 1 Pet. 193, 212, 7 L.Ed. 108. (2) That where a statute
31 creates a right and provides a special remedy, that remedy is exclusive. Wilder Manufacturing Co. v. Corn
32 Products Co., 236 U.S. 165, 174, 175, 35 Sup.Ct. 398, 59 L.Ed. 520, Ann. Cas. 1916A, 118; Armon v. Murphy,
33 109 U.S. 238, 3 Sup.Ct. 184, 27 L.Ed. 920; Barnet v. National Bank, 98 U. S. 555, 558, 25 L.Ed. 212;
34 Farmers' & Mechanics' National Bank v. Dearing, 91 U. S. 29, 35, 23 L.Ed. 196. Still the fact that the right and
35 the remedy are thus intertwined might not, if the provision stood alone, require us to hold that the remedy
36 expressly given excludes a right of review by the Court of Claims, where the decision of the special tribunal
37 involved no disputed question of fact and the denial of compensation was rested wholly upon the construction of 38 the act. See Medbury v. United States, 173 U.S. 492, 198, 19 Sup.Ct. 503, 43 L.Ed. 779; Parish v. MacVeagh,
39 214 U. S. 124, 29 Sup.Ct. 556, 53 L.Ed. 936; McLean v. United States, 226 U. S. 374, 33 Sup.Ct. 122, 57 L.Ed.

41 1919. But here Congress has provided:
42 [U.S. v. Babcock, 250 U.S. 328, 39 S.Ct. 464 (1919)]

43 Under God's law, all persons are equal and any attempt to make them unequal is an attempt at idolatry. In God's eyes,
44 when we show partiality in judgment of others based on the "privileges" or "franchises" they are in receipt of or other
45 forms of "social status", then we are condemned as Christians:

46 "You shall not show partiality in judgment; you shall hear the small as well as the great; you shall not be afraid
47 in any man's presence, for the judgment is God's. The case that is too hard for you, bring to me, and I will hear
48 it."
49 [Deut. 1:17, Bible, NKJV]

50 "You shall not pervert justice; you shall not show partiality, nor take a bribe [a franchise or "benefit"
51 payment], for a bribe blinds the eyes of the wise and twists the words of the righteous."
52 [Deut. 16:19, Bible, NKJV]

53 "For the LORD your God is God of gods and Lord of lords, the great God, mighty and awesome, who shows 54 no partiality nor takes a bribe [a franchise is a type of government bribe]."
55 [Deut. 10:17, Bible, NKJV]

56 "He [God] will surely rebuke you If you secretly show partiality [against a accused who refuses to participate 57 in franchises as taxpayer and therefore refuses to subsidize your lifestyle as a "benefit" recipient]."
58 [Job 13:10, Bible, NKJV]

1 “The rich and the poor have this in common, the LORD is the maker of them all.”
2 [Prov. 22:2, Bible, NKJV]

3 “But you, do not be called ‘Rabbi’; for One is your Teacher, the Christ, and you are all brethren. Do not call
4 anyone on earth your father; for One is your Father, He who is in heaven. And do not be called teachers; for
5 One is your Teacher, the Christ. But he who is greatest among you shall be your servant. And whoever exalts
6 himself will be humbled, and he who humbles himself will be exalted.
7 [Jesus in Matt. 23:8-12, Bible, NKJV]

8 But Jesus called them to Himself and said to them, “You know that those who are considered rulers over the 9 Gentiles lord it over them, and their great ones exercise authority over them. Yet it shall not be so among you;
10 but whoever desires to become great among you shall be your servant. And whoever of you desires to be first
11 shall be slave of all. For even the Son of Man did not come to be served, but to serve, and to give His life a 12 ransom for many.”
13 [Mark 10:42-45, Bible, NKJV. See also Matt. 20:25-28]

14 “There is neither Jew nor Greek, there is neither slave nor free, there is neither male nor female; for you are 15 all one in Christ Jesus.”
16 [Gal. 3:28, Bible, NKJV]

17 Is it fitting to say to a king, “You are worthless,
18 And to nobles, “You are wicked’?
19 Yet He [God] is not partial to princes [or FRANCHISEES].
20 Nor does He regard the rich more than the poor;
21 For they are all the work of His hands.
22 [Job. 34:18-19, Bible, NKJV]

23 “The poor man is hated even by his own neighbor,
24 But the rich has many friends.
25 He who despises his neighbor sins;
26 But he who has mercy on the poor, happy is he.”
27 [Prov. 14:20-21]

28 “You shall not show partiality to a poor man in his dispute.”
29 [Exodus 23:3, Bible, NKJV]

30 “The rich shall not give more and the poor shall not give less than half a shekel, when you give an offering to 31 the LORD, to make atonement for yourselves.”
32 [Exodus 30:15, Bible, NKJV]

33 “Better is the poor who walks in his integrity Than one perverse in his ways, though he be rich.”
34 [Prov. 28:6, Bible, NKJV]

35 “And again I say to you, it is easier for a camel to go through the eye of a needle than for a rich man to enter 36 the kingdom of God.”
37 [Matt. 19:24, Bible, NKJV]

38 “For there is no distinction between Jew and Greek, for the same Lord over all is rich to all who call upon 39 Him.”
40 [Rom. 10:12, Bible, NKJV]

41 “Command those who are rich in this present age not to be haughty, nor to trust in uncertain riches but in the 42 living God, who gives us richly all things to enjoy.”
43 [1 Tim. 6:17, Bible, NKJV]

44 Therefore, accepting any kind of government “privilege” or franchise for a Christian encourages unlawful partiality and 45 constitutes idolatry. The “privilege” described by God in the passage below is the “privilege” of having a King (man) to 46 protect, care for, and “govern” the people as a substitute for God’s protection. It is a “protection franchise”. The price
47 exchanged for receipt of the “protection franchise” privilege is becoming “subjects” and paying usurious “tribute” in many 48 forms to the king using their labor, property, and life.

49 Then all the elders of Israel gathered together and came to Samuel at Ramah, and said to him, “Look, you are
50 old, and your sons do not walk in your ways. Now make us a king to judge us like all the nations [and be 51 OVER them].”

1 But the thing displeased Samuel when they said, "Give us a king to judge us." So Samuel prayed to the Lord.
2 And the Lord said to Samuel, "Heed the voice of the people in all that they say to you; for they have rejected
3 Me [God], that I should not reign over them. According to all the works which they have done since the day
4 that I brought them up out of Egypt, even to this day—with which they have forsaken Me and served other
5 gods [Kings, in this case]—so they are doing to you also [government becoming idolatry]. Now therefore,
6 heed their voice. However, you shall solemnly forewarn them, and show them the behavior of the king who 7 will reign over them."

8 *So Samuel told all the words of the LORD to the people who asked him for a king. And he said, "This will be
9 the behavior of the king who will reign over you: He will take [STEAL] your sons and appoint them for his
10 own chariots and to be his horsemen, and some will run before his chariots. He will appoint captains over his 11 thousands and captains over his fifties, will set some to plow his ground and reap his harvest, and some to 12 make his weapons of war and equipment for his chariots. He will take [STEAL] your daughters to be 13 perfumers, cooks, and bakers. And he will take [STEAL] the best of your fields, your vineyards, and your 14 olive groves, and give them to his servants. He will take [STEAL] a tenth of your grain and your vintage, and 15 give it to his officers and servants. And he will take [STEAL] your male servants, your female servants, your 16 finest young men, and your donkeys, and put them to his work [as SLAVES]. He will take [STEAL] a tenth
17 of your sheep. And you will be his servants. And you will cry out in that day because of your king whom you
18 have chosen for yourselves, and the LORD will not hear you in that day."

19 Nevertheless the people refused to obey the voice of Samuel; and they said, "No, but we will have a king over 20 us, that we also may be like all the nations, and that our king may judge us and go out before us and fight our 21 battles."

22 [1 Sam. 8:4-20, Bible, NKJV]

23 The right to be protected by the King above is earned by giving him exclusive allegiance, and thereby withdrawing
24 allegiance from God as your personal sovereign:

25 "The doctrine is, that allegiance cannot be due to two sovereigns; and taking an oath of allegiance to a new,
26 is the strongest evidence of withdrawing allegiance from a previous, sovereign...."

27 [Talbot v. Janson, 3 U.S. 133 (1795)]

28 "And the men of Israel were distressed that day, for Saul [their new king] had placed the people under oath [of 29 allegiance and thereby FIRED God as their protector]"

30 [1 Sam. 14:24, Bible, NKJV]

31 The method described above of taking an oath of allegiance is voluntarily choosing your domicile and nominating a king or
32 ruler to protect you, who you then owe allegiance, support, and tribute to, which today we call "taxes":

33 "TRIBUTE. Tribute in the sense of an impost paid by one state to another, as a mark of subjugation, is a
34 common feature of international relationships in the biblical world. The tributary could be either a hostile state
35 or an ally. Like deportation, its purpose was to weaken a hostile state. Deportation aimed at depleting the
36 man-power. The aim of tribute was probably twofold: to impoverish the subjugated state and at the same time
37 to increase the conqueror's own revenues and to acquire commodities in short supply in his own country. As
38 an instrument of administration it was one of the simplest ever devised: the subjugated country could be made
39 responsible for the payment of a yearly tribute. Its non-arrival would be taken as a sign of rebellion, and an
40 expedition would then be sent to deal with the recalcitrant. This was probably the reason for the attack
41 recorded in Gn. 14.

44 The abuse of "benefits" to tempt, debase, and destroy people is the heart of traitor Franklin Delano Roosevelt's "New 45 Deal", which we call the "Raw Deal". It's a raw deal because:

- 46 1. What they tempt you with has no economic value. This is because the government's half of the bargain is 47 unenforceable in a true, Article III court. Note the word "scheme" in the second ruling. Quite telling:

48 "... railroad benefits, like social security benefits, are not contractual and may be altered or even eliminated at 49 any time."

50 [United States Railroad Retirement Board v. Fritz, 449 U.S. 166 (1980)]

51 "We must conclude that a person covered by the Act has not such a right in benefit payments... This is not to
52 say, however, that Congress may exercise its power to modify the statutory scheme free of all constitutional
53 restraint."

54 [Flemming v. Nestor, 363 U.S. 603 (1960)]

2. The money used to pay you the “benefit” is counterfeited or stolen or both and isn’t lawful money anyway. Accepting the benefit therefore constitutes criminal money laundering. See:

The above may explain why the Bible says:

For thus says the LORD: “ You have sold yourselves for nothing, And you shall be redeemed without money.”

8.3 Effect of franchises on choice of forum

The U.S. Supreme Court has said that when Congress creates what it calls a “public right” and, by implication a “statutory privilege”, Congress has the authority to circumscribe and prescribe how that right may be exercised and which forums it is enforced within. Hence, for instance, Congress can prescribe that if you dispute your income tax liability, you must first enter Tax Court, which isn’t a Constitutional court at all, but an Article I administrative agency within the Executive rather than Judicial Branch of the government.

Although Crowell and Raddatz do not explicitly distinguish between rights created by Congress and other rights, such a distinction underlies in part Crowell's and Raddatz' recognition of a critical difference between rights created by federal statute and rights recognized by the Constitution. Moreover, such a distinction seems to us to be necessary in light of the delicate accommodations required by the principle of separation of powers reflected in Art. III. The constitutional system of checks and balances is designed to guard against “encroachment or aggrandizement” by Congress at the expense of the other branches of government. Buckley v. Valeo, 424 U.S., at 122, 96 S.Ct., at 683. But when Congress creates a statutory right [a “privilege” in this case, such as a “trade or business”], it clearly has the discretion, in defining that right, to create presumptions, or assign burdens of proof, or prescribe remedies; it may also provide that persons seeking to vindicate that right must do so before particularized tribunals created to perform the specialized adjudicative tasks related to that right.FN35 Such provisions do, in a sense, affect the exercise of judicial power, but they are also incidental to Congress' power to define the right that it has created. No comparable justification exists, however, when the right being adjudicated is not of congressional creation. In such a situation, substantial inroads into functions that have traditionally been performed by the Judiciary cannot be characterized merely as incidental extensions of Congress' power to define rights that it has created. Rather, such inroads suggest unwarranted encroachments upon the judicial power of the United States, which our Constitution reserves for Art. III courts. [Northern Pipeline Const. Co. v. Marathon Pipe Line Co., 458 U.S. 50, 83-84, 102 S.Ct. 2858 (1983)]

The U.S. Supreme Court also held that the only circumstances when Congress may remove the enforcement of a right to a non-Article III, legislative tribunal or, by implication, remove it from a state court to federal court is in connection with a statutory franchise or “public right”:

“The distinction between public rights and private rights has not been definitively explained in our precedents.FN22 Nor is it necessary to do so in the present cases, for it suffices to observe that a matter of public rights must at a minimum arise “between the government and others.” Ex parte Bakelite Corp., supra, at 451, 49 S.Ct., at 413.FN23 In contrast, “the liability of one individual to another under the law as defined,” Crowell v. Benson, supra, at 51, 52 S.Ct., at 292, is a matter of private rights. Our precedents clearly establish that only controversies in the former category may be removed from Art. III courts and delegated to legislative courts or administrative agencies for their determination. See Atlas Roofing Co. v. Occupational Safety and Health Review Comm'n, 430 U.S. 442, 450, n. 7, 97 S.Ct. 1261, 1266, n. 7, 51 L.Ed.2d. 464 (1977); Crowell v. Benson, supra, 285 U.S., at 50-51, 52 S.Ct., at 292. See also Katz, Federal Legislative Courts, 43 Harv.L.Rev. 894, 917-918 (1930).FN24 Private-rights disputes, on the other hand, lie at the core of the historically recognized judicial power.”
[Northern Pipeline Const. Co. v. Marathon Pipe Line Co., 458 U.S. 50, 102 S.Ct. 2858 (1983)]

The key to determining whether a matter must be heard in federal court or state court then, is to first determine whether it involves a “public right” or “statutory franchise”. If it is a state statutory privilege or right, it must be litigated in a state court. If it is a federal statutory right or privilege, then it can be litigated only in a federal court. The Separation of Powers

1 Doctrine and the sovereign immunity of the states and federal governments towards each other prohibit state matters from
2 being heard in a federal court or federal matters being heard in a state court. Alden v. Maine, 527 U.S. 706 (1999) .

3 8.4 How to determine whether you are engaged in a “franchise” or “public right”

4 This task of determining whether the controversy involves a “public right” or “statutory privilege” can be difficult, because
5 the statutes themselves that confer the right very deliberately do not specify because they don’t want you to know that
6 participation is voluntary and that you can un-volunteer. In that sense, statutory franchises are what we call a “roach trap
7 statute”. The trap has honey in the center to attract needy and hungry insects like you, and once you enter inside the trap,
8 you must obey all the unjust and prejudicial edicts of your new landlord. It is up to you as the vigilant and informed citizen
9 to research and know this in the defense of your Constitutional rights.

10 Every government “privilege” carries with it some kind of usually pecuniary benefit or entitlement. Examples include:
11 Social Security benefits, unemployment benefits, Medicare insurance benefits, etc. The U.S. Supreme Court has said that 12 the government may not lawfully pay money to anyone except in the course of what it calls a “public purpose”, which 13 means that the payment of all such benefits can only lawfully be made to “public officials” who are part of the government
14 in the lawful exercise of their constitutionally authorized employment duties.

15 “To lay, with one hand, the power of the government on the property of the citizen, and with the other to
16 bestow it upon favored individuals to aid private enterprises and build up private fortunes, is none the less a
17 robbery because it is done under the forms of law and is called taxation. This is not legislation. It is a decree
18 under legislative forms.

19 Nor is it taxation. ‘A tax,’ says Webster’s Dictionary, ‘is a rate or sum of money assessed on the person or
20 property of a citizen by government for the use of the nation or State.’ ‘Taxes are burdens or charges
21 imposed by the Legislature upon persons or property to raise money for public purposes.’ Cooley, Const.
22 Lim., 479.

23 Coulter, J., in Northern Liberties v. St. John’s Church, 13 Pa. St., 104 says, very forcibly, ‘I think the common
24 mind has everywhere taken in the understanding that taxes are a public imposition, levied by authority of the
25 government for the purposes of carrying on the government in all its machinery and operations—that they
26 are imposed for a public purpose.’ See, also Pray v. Northern Liberties, 31 Pa.St., 69; Matter of Mayor of 27 N.Y., 11 Johns., 77; Camden v. Allen, 2 Dutch., 398; Sharpless v. Mayor, supra; Hanson v. Vernon, 27 Ia., 47;
28 Whiting v. Fond du Lac, supra.’
29 [\[Loan Association v. Topeka, 20 Wall. 655 \(1874\)\]](#)
30

31 “A tax, in the general understanding of the term and as used in the constitution, signifies an exaction for the
32 support of the government. The word has never thought to connote the expropriation of money from one group
33 for the benefit of another.”
34 [\[U.S. v. Butler, 297 U.S. 1 \(1936\)\]](#)

35 Another angle on this situation is that the government cannot pass any law that imposes any duty upon you without 36 violating the Thirteenth Amendment prohibition against “involuntary servitude”.

37 “Every man has a natural right to the fruits of his own labor, is generally admitted; and no other person can 38 rightfully deprive him of those fruits, and appropriate them against his will ...”
39 [\[The Antelope, 23 U.S. 66, 10 Wheat. 66, 6 L.Ed. 268 \(1825\)\]](#)

40 The U.S. Supreme Court has held that there are only four ways for the government to obtain lawful authority over a man’s
41 property, which includes his life, liberty, and property. Labor, for instance, and all “rights” for that matter, constitute 42 “property” from a legal perspective:

43 “Men are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable rights, -life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness;’
44 and to ‘secure,’ not grant or create, these rights, governments are instituted. That property [or income] which a
45 man has honestly acquired he retains full control of, subject to these limitations: First, that he shall not use
46 it to his neighbor’s injury, and that does not mean that he must use it for his neighbor’s benefit; second,
47 that if he devotes it to a public use, he gives to the public a right to 48 control that use; and third, that whenever the public needs require, the public may take it upon 49 payment of due compensation.
50 [\[Budd v. People of State of New York, 143 U.S. 517 \(1892\)\]](#)

1 We have summarized the ONLY four distinct ways the government can lawfully take a man's property away from him
2 from the above ruling as follows:

- 3 1. He can involuntarily lose his property if he uses it to hurt others. This, by the way, is the foundation of all criminal
4 laws, because "rights", including constitutional rights, are considered property. You lose your rights when you
5 exercise them in such a way that you abuse them to destroy the equal rights of others. Thus, crimes against others are 6 the only basis for non-consensual taking of a person's life, liberty, property, or labor.
- 7 2. He cannot be compelled to benefit his neighbor. That means indirectly that can't be compelled to participate in any 8 government "benefit" or entitlement program such as Social Security, and that he can quit all such programs
9 IMMEDIATELY.
- 10 3. When he devotes it to a "public use", he gives the right to the public to control that use. Every provision of the Internal 11 Revenue Code, Subtitles A and C can only be applied against property and labor that have been connected to a "public 12 office", which is one kind of "public use".
- 13 4. When the public needs require, the public may take his property from him upon payment of due compensation. This is 14 the provision the government uses to assert eminent domain over real property in the building of public roads.

15 Notice that provisions 2 through 4 require his explicit consent in some form and that the ONLY way a man's property,
16 including his labor and the fruits from his labor, can be taken from him WITHOUT his consent is if he abuses it to hurt
17 others. For instance, when you murder someone, the government can take your liberty and labor from you by putting you
18 in jail or your life from you by instituting the death penalty against you. Both your life and your labor are "property".
19 Therefore, the basis for the "taking" was violation of the equal rights of a fellow sovereign "neighbor".

20 The main method the government uses to lawfully take your property, your labor, your earnings from labor is item number
21 3 above. What the government does is procure your consent through fraud using vague or ambiguous "words of art" on 22 government forms which effectively trick you into donating your private property to a "public use" to procure the benefits
23 of a franchise. This makes your formerly private property into "public property" which the government can then control,
24 levy, and lien because it is theirs while it is dedicated to a "public use". Everything that has a government issued SSN or 25 Taxpayer Identification Number associated with it essentially amounts to "private property" donated to "public use" to 26 procure the benefits of the "Trade or Business" franchise. The use of these government owned numbers effectively
27 constitutes a license to act as a "public officer" as well as "prima facie" evidence of consent to engage in The "Trade or 28 Business" franchise.⁴⁹

29 Consequently, the most effective way to determine whether a particular government program is a "privilege" is to look at 30 whether you must be a government employee or "public officer" to receive its benefits. If you must declare yourself to be
31 such a person, then it is a voluntary statutory privilege and not a common law or constitutional right. Examples of this 32 phenomenon include the following:

- 33 1. The Social Security Program , which makes all those who participate into "federal personnel":

34 TITLE 5 > PART 1 > CHAPTER 5 > SUBCHAPTER II > § 552a
35 § 552a. Records maintained on individuals

36 (a) Definitions.— For purposes of this section—

37 (13) the term "Federal personnel" means [not "includes", but MEANS] officers and employees of the 38 Government of the United States, members of the uniformed services (including members of the Reserve
39 Components), individuals entitled to receive immediate or deferred retirement benefits under any retirement
40 program of the Government of the United States (including survivor benefits).

- 41 2. Serving as a juror in a federal court. 18 U.S.C. §201 identifies all federal jurors as "public officers".

⁴⁹ 20 C.F.R. §422.104 says that the Social Security Number is NOT "yours", but instead belongs to the U.S. government and the Social Security Administration. The card itself has printed on the back "Property of the Social Security Administration. Must be returned upon request." This effectively makes you into a "fiduciary" and a "trustee" and a "public officer" in temporary custody of government property whose actions are governed by federal law in the using of said property. If you use the number for your own personal benefit as anything other than a "public officer" engaged in the federal franchise, you are embezzling and abusing government property for private gain, which is a criminal violation of 18 U.S.C. §641.

3. 26 U.S.C. §6331(a) limits all enforcement within the Internal Revenue Code to employees, officers, and instrumentalities of the United States Government. The IRS knows this, so they “conveniently” omit this provision of law from their citation of 26 U.S.C. §6331 on the back of a notice of levy to deceive the recipient. See:

4. Signing up for employment withholding using an IRS Form W-4. The upper left corner says “Employee Withholding Allowance Certificate” and the statutes and regulations at 26 U.S.C. §3401(c) and 26 C.F.R. §31.3401(c)-1 both define this “employee” as a “public official” of the United States Government. Therefore, the W-4 constitutes BOTH a federal employment application and a voluntary agreement which donates your labor and your earnings from labor to a “public office” and a “public use”.
5. 31 C.F.R. §202.2 says that all FDIC insured banks are “Financial Agents of the Government”. In other words, participating in the FDIC insurance franchise makes them “public officers”.
6. All federal law that does not have implementing regulations published in the Federal Register may only be enforced against agents, instrumentalities, “employees”, and “officers” of the United States Government. The Internal Revenue Code has no enforcement implementing regulations and therefore it fits into this category. See:

IRS Due Process Meeting Handout, Form #03.008

<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

The government has no delegated constitutional or statutory authority to regulate private conduct.

“There is a clear distinction in this particular case between an individual and a corporation, and that the latter has no right to refuse to submit its books and papers for an examination at the suit of the State. The individual may stand upon his constitutional rights as a citizen. He is entitled to carry on his private business in his own way. His power to contract is unlimited. He owes no such duty to the State, since he receives nothing therefrom, beyond the protection of his life and property. His rights are such as existed by the law of the land long antecedent to the organization of the State, and can only be taken from him by due process of law, and in accordance with the constitution. Among his rights are a refusal to incriminate himself, and the immunity of himself and his property from arrest or seizure except under a warrant of the law. He owes nothing to the public so long as he does not trespass upon their rights.”
[Hale v. Henkel, 201 U.S. 43, 74 (1906)]

Therefore if you want to receive any benefits from them, they can’t regulate the benefits without making you into one of their employees, instrumentalities, or agents using private/contract law that you must either implicitly or explicitly consent to in some form:

*“The restrictions that the Constitution places upon the government in its capacity as lawmaker, i.e., as the regulator of private conduct, are not the same as the restrictions that it places upon the government in its capacity as employer. We have recognized this in many contexts, with respect to many different constitutional guarantees. Private citizens perhaps cannot be prevented from wearing long hair, but policemen can. Kelley v. Johnson, 425 U.S. 238, 247 (1976). Private citizens cannot have their property searched without probable cause, but in many circumstances government employees can. O’Connor v. Ortega, 480 U.S. 709, 723 (1987) (plurality opinion); id., at 732 (SCALIA, J., concurring in judgment). Private citizens cannot be punished for refusing to provide the government information that may incriminate them, but government employees can be dismissed when the incriminating information that they refuse to provide relates to the performance of their job. Gardner v. Broderick, [497 U.S. 62, 95] 392 U.S. 273, 277-278 (1968). With regard to freedom of speech in particular: Private citizens cannot be punished for speech of merely private concern, but government employees can be fired for that reason. Connick v. Myers, 461 U.S. 138, 147 (1983). Private citizens cannot be punished for partisan political activity, but federal and state employees can be dismissed and otherwise punished for that reason. Public Workers v. Mitchell, 330 U.S. 75, 101 (1947) ; Civil Service Comm’n v. Letter Carriers, 413 U.S. 548, 556 (1973) ; Broadrick v. Oklahoma, 413 U.S. 601, 616-617 (1973).”*
[Rutan v. Republican Party of Illinois, 497 U.S. 62 (1990)]

Once you make voluntary application to become a federal “public officer” (e.g. a federal agent or instrumentality) using an IRS Forms W-4 or 1040 or SSA Form SS-5, you then must live your entire financial and work life under the following MAJOR legal disabilities as a fiduciary and “trustee” over federal property temporarily in your custody. This property includes your own labor and all the earnings from your labor in the context of the “trust” or “public trust” or “public office” that you have voluntarily chosen to exercise!:

1 “As expressed otherwise, the powers delegated to a public officer are held in trust for the people and are to be
2 exercised in behalf of the government or of all citizens who may need the intervention of the officer. 50
3 Furthermore, the view has been expressed that all public officers, within whatever branch and whatever level
4 of government, and whatever be their private vocations, are trustees of the people, and accordingly labor
5 under every disability and prohibition imposed by law upon trustees relative to the making of personal
6 financial gain from a discharge of their trusts. 51 That is, a public officer occupies a fiduciary relationship
7 to the political entity on whose behalf he or she serves. 52 and owes a fiduciary duty to the public. 53 It has
8 been said that the fiduciary responsibilities of a public officer cannot be less than those of a private
9 individual. 54 Furthermore, it has been stated that any enterprise undertaken by the public official which 10 tends to weaken public confidence and undermine the sense of security for individual rights is against public 11 policy.⁵⁵”
12 [63C American Jurisprudence 2d, Public Officers and Employees, §247 (1999)]

13 Therefore, you can deduce whether you are engaged in a “statutory franchise” if the government calls you by any of the 14 following names and defines these names to be federal instrumentalities in the “codes” that administer the program, such as 15 the Internal Revenue Code, Subtitle A or the Social Security Act:

- 16 1. “individual”: Means a “resident alien” engaged in a privileged “trade or business” or a nonresident alien who has 17 made an election to be treated as a “resident alien”. Notice the definition of “individual” below does not include
18 “citizens”. This is no accident, but an admission that you must volunteer to surrender your sovereign citizen status as a
19 “citizen” and consent to be treated instead as a “resident alien” in respect to your government in order to procure
20 privileges from it. Once you engage in the franchise, your status as a person domiciled in a state of the Union shifts
21 from that of a nonresident alien not engaged in a “trade or business” to that of a “resident alien”. More on this later.

26 The term alien individual means an individual who is not a citizen or a national of the United States. See Sec.

28 (ii) Nonresident alien individual.

29 The term nonresident alien individual means a person described in section 7701(b)(1)(B), an alien individual

31 7(a)(1) of this chapter, or an alien individual who is a resident of Puerto Rico, Guam, the Commonwealth of

33 1(d) of this chapter. An alien individual who has made an election under section 6013 (g) or (h) to be treated as
34 a resident of the United States is nevertheless treated as a nonresident alien individual for purposes of 35 withholding under chapter 3 of the Code and the regulations thereunder.

28 (d) Employer

29 For purposes of this chapter, the term “employer” means the person for whom an individual performs or 30 performed any service, of whatever nature, as the employee of such person, except that—

31 (1) if the person for whom the individual performs or performed the services does not have control of the 32 payment of the wages for such services, the term “employer” (except for purposes of subsection (a)) means the 33 person having control of the payment of such wages, and

34 (2) in the case of a person paying wages on behalf of a nonresident alien individual, foreign partnership, or 35 foreign corporation, not engaged in trade or business within the United States, the term “employer” (except for 36 purposes of subsection (a)) means such person.

- 37 7. “taxpayer”: Means a person subject to the Internal Revenue Code as defined in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(14) and 26 U.S.C.
38 §1313(b). The only persons who can be subject are those engaged in The “Trade or Business” franchise as “public 39 officers” working for the federal government. A person’s property can be subject through “in rem” jurisdiction without 40 them personally being subject.

43 A franchise associated with taxation is called by any one of the following names which are all synonymous:

- 44 1. “Excise tax”: Notice that even the legal dictionary below attempts to disguise and obfuscate the true nature of the 45 income tax as an excise tax.

1 *"Excise tax. A tax imposed on the performance of an act, the engaging in an occupation, or the enjoyment of a

16 2. "Privilege tax".

17 3. "Indirect excise tax": These are excise taxes instituted by the federal government only within states of the Union. If 19 "indirect" in front of it.

20 *...by the previous ruling it was settled that the provisions of the Sixteenth Amendment conferred no new
21 power of taxation but simply prohibited the previous complete and plenary power of income taxation*
22 possessed by Congress from the beginning from being taken out of the category of indirect taxation to which
23 it inherently belonged and being placed in the category of direct taxation subject to apportionment by a
24 consideration of the sources from which the income was derived, that is by testing the tax not by what it was -- a
25 tax on income, but by a mistaken theory deduced from the origin or source of the income taxed. "

26 [Stanton v. Baltic Mining (240 U.S. 103), 1916]

27 Let's now apply what we have just learned to a unraveling the most prevalent statutory "franchise" that forms the heart of 28 our federal income tax system, which is a "trade or business". A "trade or business" is defined as follows:

29 26 U.S.C. §7701\(a\)\(26\)

30 "The term 'trade or business' includes the performance of the functions of a public office."

31 A "trade or business" is a franchise or "public right", because it carries with it certain economic "privileges", such as:

- 32 1. "Public right"/privilege (as a "public officer") to claim benefits of a tax treaty with a foreign country so that one is not 33 subject to double-taxation by both countries.
- 34 2. "Public right" to claim deductions on a tax return pursuant to 26 U.S.C. §162.
- 35 3. "Public right" to claim credits on a tax return pursuant to 26 U.S.C. §32.
- 36 4. "Public right" to claim a reduced, graduated rate of tax pursuant to 26 U.S.C. §1. Those not engaged in a "trade or 37 business" must apply a flat rate of 30% described in 26 U.S.C. §871, which is usually higher than the graduated rate
38 found in 26 U.S.C. §1.

39 The "Trade or Business" franchise is exclusive to the federal government, because the "public office" described in that code
40 is an office within only the federal government and not in any state or other government. Under the principles of a judicial 41 doctrine known as "sovereign immunity", the U.S. Supreme Court has furthermore said that the federal government may 42 not be sued in a state court.

43 "It is unquestioned that the Federal Government retains its own immunity from suit not only in state tribunals 44 but also in its own courts."

45 [Alden v. Maine, 527 U.S. 706 (1999)]

46
47 "The exemption of the United States from being impleaded without their consent is, as has often been affirmed
48 by this court, as absolute as that of the crown of England or any other sovereign."

49 [U.S. v. Lee, 106 U.S. 196 (1882)]

50 The U.S. Constitution itself, in Article III, Section 2 also says that a state may not be sued in any federal court OTHER than 51 the U.S. Supreme Court.

1 U.S. Constitution:
2 Article III, Section 2

3 In all Cases affecting Ambassadors, other public Ministers and Consuls, and those in which a State shall be
4 Party, the supreme Court shall have original Jurisdiction. In all the other Cases before mentioned, the 5 supreme Court shall have appellate Jurisdiction, both as to Law and Fact, with such Exceptions, and under 6 such Regulations as the Congress shall make.

7 8.5 Summary of Choice of Law Rules Involving Federal Franchises

8 Therefore, in the adjudication of “public rights” or “statutory franchises” or “privileges”, if they are created by federal 9 statute or legislation, then the choice of law rules are as follows:

- 10 1. The franchise agreement behaves as “private law”, meaning that only parties who implicitly or explicitly consent can 11 have its provisions enforced against them.
- 12 2. Legal disputes relating to a federal franchise may not be litigated in a state or foreign court, even under equity, because 13 the United States cannot be sued in a foreign court without its express consent provided in legislative form.
- 14 3. Disputes relating to a federal franchise must be litigated ONLY in federal courts.
- 15 4. The franchise agreement itself prescribes and fixes all the “statutory rights” or “public rights” that exist among both 16 parties. Franchise agreements include:
 - 17 4.1. Internal Revenue Code, Subtitle A
 - 18 4.2. Social Security Act and 42 U.S.C. Chapter 7.
- 19 5. The statutes creating the franchise need not identify it as a franchise. This is implied by the franchise agreement or 20 legislation itself.
- 21 6. Those who are not party to the franchise agreement may not cite or invoke it in defense of their “public rights” because 22 they DON’T HAVE any “public rights”! For them, the franchise agreement is “foreign law” and their estate is a
23 “foreign estate” relative to that law or statute. The only thing you accomplish by citing the franchise agreement is 24 convey your consent to be bound by it, and thereby submit yourself to its jurisdiction. See the following supporting 25 information for examples:
 - 26 6.1. 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(31) : Defines the estate of those not engaged in The “Trade or Business” franchise as a 27 “foreign estate”.
 - 28 6.2. The following court rulings:

29 *“The revenue laws are a code or system in regulation of tax assessment and collection. They relate to taxpayers,
30 and not to nontaxpayers. The latter are without their scope. No procedure is prescribed for nontaxpayers, and
31 no attempt is made to annul any of their rights and remedies in due course of law. With them Congress does not
32 assume to deal, and they are neither of the subject nor of the object of the revenue laws...”*
33 [Long v. Rasmussen, 281 F. 236 (1922)]

34 *“Revenue Laws relate to taxpayers [officers, employees, instrumentalities, and elected officials of the Federal 35 Government] and not to non-taxpayers [American Citizens/American Nationals not subject to the exclusive
36 jurisdiction of the Federal Government and who did not volunteer to participate in the federal “trade or 37 business” franchise]. The latter are without their scope. No procedures are prescribed for non-taxpayers and 38 no attempt is made to annul any of their Rights or Remedies in due course of law.”*
39 [Economy Plumbing & Heating v. U.S., 470 F.2d. 585 (1972)]

40 *“A reasonable construction of the taxing statutes does not include vesting any tax official with absolute power
41 of assessment against individuals not specified in the statutes as a person liable for the tax without an
42 opportunity for judicial review of this status before the appellation of ‘taxpayer’ is bestowed upon them and 43 their property is seized...”*
44 [Botta v. Scanlon, 288 F.2d. 504, 508 (1961)]

45 6.3. Why You Shouldn’t Cite Federal Statutes for Protecting Your Rights, Family Guardian Fellowship:

46 <http://famguardian.org/Subjects/Discrimination/CivilRights/DontCiteFederalLaw.htm>

47 7. Anyone who cites provisions or case law of the statutory franchise or “public right” against you:

48 7.1. If they cited inapposite case law involving a franchisee against you when you in fact are NOT a franchisee, is 49 abusing case law for political purposes to prejudice your rights. See:

Political Jurisdiction, Form #05.004

<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

50 7.2. Is making a presumption that you consented to participate in the franchise.

7.2.1. This “prima facie presumption” will stick if you don’t challenge the jurisdiction at that point and vociferously deny the applicability of the statute.

7.2.2. If you don’t consent but also don’t speak up to challenge the misapplication of the franchise statute, your opponent has effectively:

7.2.2.1. Asserted unlawful eminent domain over your life, liberty, and property without just compensation and connected it to the government as “public property”.

7.2.2.2. Exploited your ignorance and/or laziness to enslave you.

7.2.2.3. Can claim you acquiesced to the “taking” of your property and assert an equitable estoppel and laches defense. See:

Silence as a Weapon and a Defense in Legal Discovery, Form #05.021
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

7.2.2.4. Has enslaved you against your will in violation of the Thirteenth Amendment, 42 U.S.C. §1994, and 18 U.S.C. §1589.

7.2.3. If you want to know how to challenge these unlawful and unconstitutional presumptions, see:

Presumption: Chief Weapon for Unlawfully Enlarging Federal Jurisdiction, Form #05.017
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

7.3. Should be challenged to produce evidence of consent ON THE RECORD at every point in the proceeding in order to communicate to them that you don’t consent to the franchise agreement and are deriving no benefits or protection from it. The method for challenging this presumption and FORCING them to admit they are making it is to use the following:

Federal Enforcement Authority Within States of the Union, Form #05.032
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

8. Explicit consent of each party to the franchise agreement in a legal dispute before a court must be proven on the record before any of the terms of the franchise may be enforced against that party. Otherwise, a violation of due process occurs because presumption of consent is acting as an unlawful substitute for evidence of consent. A court which does not prove consent on the record is:

8.1. Engaging in involuntary servitude against the party whose consent was never proven, in violation of the Thirteenth Amendment, 42 U.S.C. §1994, and 18 U.S.C. §1589.

8.2. Unlawfully interfering with the right to contract or not contract of the parties.

*"Independent of these views, there are many considerations which lead to the conclusion that the power to impair contracts, by direct action to that end, does not exist with the general [federal] government. In the first place, one of the objects of the Constitution, expressed in its preamble, was the establishment of justice, and what that meant in its relations to contracts is not left, as was justly said by the late Chief Justice, in Hepburn v. Griswold, to inference or conjecture. As he observes, at the time the Constitution was undergoing discussion in the convention, the Congress of the Confederation was engaged in framing the ordinance for the government of the Northwestern Territory, in which certain articles of compact were established between the people of the original States and the people of the Territory, for the purpose, as expressed in the instrument, of extending the fundamental principles of civil and religious liberty, upon which the States, their laws and constitutions, were erected. By that ordinance it was declared, that, in the just preservation of rights and property, 'no law ought ever to be made, or have force in the said Territory, that shall, in any manner, interfere with or affect private contracts or engagements bona fide and without fraud previously formed.' The same provision, adds the Chief Justice, found more condensed expression in the prohibition upon the States [in Article 1, Section 10 of the Constitution] against impairing the obligation of contracts, which has ever been recognized as an efficient safeguard against injustice; and though the prohibition is not applied in terms to the government of the United States, he expressed the opinion, speaking for himself and the majority of the court at the time, that it was clear 'that those who framed and those who adopted the Constitution intended that the spirit of this prohibition should pervade the entire body of legislation, and that the justice which the Constitution was ordained to establish was not thought by them to be compatible with legislation [or judicial precedent] of an opposite tendency.'" 8 Wall. 623. [99 U.S. 700, 765] Similar views are found expressed in the opinions of other judges of this court."
[Sinking Fund Cases, 99 U.S. 700 (1878)]*

8.3. Committing fraud, by misrepresenting what is actually “private law” as “public law”.

8.4. Violating the judge’s oath to support and defend the Constitution.

9. For those not engaged in the franchise:

9.1. The “code” or statute that implements the franchise is “foreign law” and they are nonresident persons or “nonresident aliens” in respect to it.

9.2. Courts litigating disputes under the franchise agreement must satisfy the requirements of Minimum Contacts Doctrine of the U.S. Supreme Court.

1 In International Shoe Co. v. Washington, 326 U.S. 310 (1945), the Supreme Court held that a court may
2 exercise personal jurisdiction over a defendant consistent with due process only if he or she has "certain
3 minimum contacts" with the relevant forum "such that the maintenance of the suit does not offend traditional
4 notions of fair play and substantial justice." Id. at 316 (quoting Milliken v. Meyer, 311 U.S. 457, 463 (1940)).
5 Unless a defendant's contacts with a forum are so substantial, continuous, and systematic that the defendant
6 can be deemed to be "present" in that forum for all purposes, a forum may exercise only "specific"
7 jurisdiction - that is, jurisdiction based on the relationship between the defendant's forum contacts and the 8 plaintiff's claim.

9 [. . .]

10 In this circuit, we analyze specific jurisdiction according to a three-prong test:

- 11 (1) The non-resident defendant must purposefully direct his activities or consummate some transaction with
12 the forum or resident thereof; or perform some act by which he purposefully avails himself of the privilege
13 of conducting activities in the forum, thereby invoking the benefits and protections of its laws;
14 (2) the claim must be one which arises out of or relates to the defendant's forum-related activities; and
15 (3) the exercise of jurisdiction must comport with fair play and substantial justice, i.e. it must be reasonable.

16 Schwarzenegger v. Fred Martin Motor Co., 374 F.3d. 797, 802 (9th Cir. 2004) (quoting Lake v. Lake, 817 F.2d.
17 1416, 1421 (9th Cir. 1987)). The first prong is determinative in this case. We have sometimes referred to it, in
18 shorthand fashion, as the "purposeful availment" prong. Schwarzenegger, 374 F.3d. at 802. Despite its label,
19 this prong includes both purposeful availment and purposeful direction. It may be satisfied by purposeful
20 availment of the privilege of doing business in the forum; by purposeful direction of activities at the forum; or
21 by some combination thereof.

22 [Yahoo! Inc. v. La. Ligue Contre Le Racisme Et L'Antisemitisme, 433 F.3d. 1199 (9th Cir. 01/12/2006)]

23 9.3. Their estate is a "foreign estate" not within the jurisdiction of the code which administers the program. See 26
24 U.S.C. §7701\(a\)\(31\).

25 10. Governments and courts frequently will go to great lengths to disguise the nature of the transaction as a voluntary
26 franchise and the accompanying requirement to prove consent by the following means, in order to unlawfully enlarge 27 their jurisdiction and enslave the people by:

28 10.1. Referring to everyone as a "franchisee". For instance, the IRS calls absolutely EVERYONE a "taxpayer", when 29 in fact, only those who partake of the privilege are "taxpayers". They also refuse on their website to even
30 mention the term "nontaxpayer", which is a person who is not subject to the I.R.C., even though the courts
31 routinely do. For further details, see:

Taxpayer v. Nontaxpayer: Which One Are You?, Family Guardian Fellowship
<http://famguardian.org/Subjects/Taxes/Articles/TaxpayerVNontaxpayer.htm>

32 10.2. Allowing case law to be cited by the government party against you that deals only with franchisees and which is 33 irrelevant or inapposite to a person such as yourself who is NOT a franchisee. This constitutes an abuse of 34 "foreign law" for political purposes to promote the selfish whims of the judge or the prosecutor who engages in it
35 for his own personal pecuniary gain in violation of 18 U.S.C. §208 and 28 U.S.C. §455. See:

Political Jurisdiction, Form #05.004
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

36 10.3. Refusing to acknowledge or enforce the constitutional or "private rights" of those who are not party to the 37 franchise agreement, in order to coerce them into volunteering for the franchise. This turns the court essentially 38 into a "franchise court" where only privileged persons may appear to conduct business in front of the court, which 39 at that point simply becomes an Executive Branch legislatively created agency for conducting "business" of the 40 federal government and turns judges from "justices" to federal administrators who arbitrate disputes under the 41 franchise agreement.

42 10.4. Inventing new names for the word "privilege", such as "public right", to disguise the true nature of the transaction
43 being arbitrated. See Northern Pipeline Const. Co. v. Marathon Pipe Line Co., 458 U.S. 50, 102 S.Ct. 2858
44 (1983) for a good example of this. Not ONCE does the court admit that what they are really describing is a
45 voluntary franchise or excise that requires the explicit consent of those whose terms it is being enforced against.

46 10.5. Refusing to require in a legal dispute that evidence of consent and the jurisdiction that it creates be produced on 47 the court record.

48 10.6. Evading the discussion of words that describe the existence of the franchise and diverting attention away from 49 them by bending the rules of statutory construction. See:

Legal Deception, Propaganda, and Fraud, Form #05.014
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

1 11. The protection and enforcement of constitutional rights in a court of law does NOT involve “public rights”, but rather
2 “private rights”.

3 11.1. A Bivens Action under 42 U.S.C. §1983 for deprivation of rights is always directed at specific individuals who
4 have violated your personal rights by either violating a law or acting outside their lawfully delegated authority. It
5 is usually never directed at the government, because this would require a waiver of sovereign immunity that
6 seldom is given.

7 11.2. The enforcement of constitutional or “private rights” must always be litigated in an Article III Constitutional
8 court and may not be litigated in a legislative court. Legislative courts include all United States District Courts,
9 which are Article IV legislative courts that may not lawfully officiate over Article III matters or “private rights”
10 or Constitutional rights. See:

What Happened to Justice?, Form #06.012

<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

11 11.3. No federal legislative court, such as any Article IV “United States District Court” or Article I “U.S. Tax Court”, 12 may lawfully rule on any matter that involves “private rights” nor may they lawfully remove such a matter to 13 such a legislative court. This would violate the separation of powers doctrine. Northern Pipeline Const. Co. v.
14 Marathon Pipe Line Co., 458 U.S. 50, 102 S.Ct. 2858 (1983).

15 11.4. Matters involving “private rights” or “constitutional rights” may be litigated in EITHER state courts or Article III
16 federal courts. State courts may rule against federal actors or Article III federal courts may rule against state
17 actors in cases involving violations of “private rights” because in nearly all cases, they are acting outside of their
18 lawful authority and in violation of the Constitution and consequently surrender official, judicial, and sovereign
19 immunity to become private persons. To wit:

20 “The Government may not be sued except by its consent. The United States has not submitted to suit for specific 21 *performance*99 or for an injunction. This immunity may not be avoided by naming an officer of the* 22 Government as a defendant. The officer may be sued only if he acts in excess of his statutory authority or in 23 violation of the Constitution for then he ceases to represent the Government.”
24 [U.S. ex. rel. Brookfield Const. Co. v. Stewart, 284 F.Supp. 94 (1964)]
25

26 “... the maxim that the King can do no wrong has no place in our system of government; yet it is also true, in
27 respect to the State itself, that whatever wrong is attempted in its name is imputable to its government and not
28 to the State, for, as it can speak and act only by law, whatever it does say and do must be lawful. That which 29 therefore is unlawful because made so by the supreme law, the Constitution of the United States, is not the 30 word or deed of the State, but is the mere wrong and trespass of those individual persons who falsely spread
31 and act in its name.”

32 “This distinction is essential to the idea of constitutional government. To deny it or blot it out obliterates the 33 line of demarcation that separates constitutional government from absolutism, free self- government based on 34 the sovereignty of the people from that despotism, whether of the one or the many, which enables the agent of 35 the state to declare and decree that he is the state; to say 'L'Etat, c'est moi.' Of what avail are written 36 constitutions, whose bills of right, for the security of individual liberty, have been written too often with the 37 blood of martyrs shed upon the battle-field and the scaffold, if their limitations and restraints upon power may
38 be overpassed with impunity by the very agencies created and appointed to guard, defend, and enforce them;
39 and that, too, with the sacred authority of law, not only compelling obedience, but entitled to respect? And how
40 else can these principles of individual liberty and right be maintained, if, when violated, the judicial tribunals
41 are forbidden to visit penalties upon individual offenders, who are the instruments of wrong, whenever they
42 interpose the shield of the state? The doctrine is not to be tolerated. The whole frame
43 and scheme of the political institutions of this country, state and federal, protest against it. Their continued
44 existence is not compatible with it. It is the doctrine of absolutism, pure, simple, and naked, and of 45 communism which is its twin, the double progeny of the same evil birth.”
46 [Poindexter v. Greenhow, 114 U.S. 270, 5 S.Ct. 903 (1885)]

47 8.6 Effects of Participating in Federal Franchises

48 The entirety of Internal Revenue Code, Subtitle A of the U.S. Code, also called the Internal Revenue Code (I.R.C.), 49 describes the administration of the TOP SECRET “trade or business” franchise, which is an excise tax upon federal
50 “privileges” or “public rights” associated with a “public office” in the United States government. This body of law is 51 “private law” that only applies against those who individually and expressly consent. For exhaustive details on how this 52 franchise operates, see:

1 Since no sane person would knowingly make an informed decision to participate if they knew it was a voluntary franchise,
2 then your public dis-servants have taken great pains to hide the requirement for consent, but to respect it using silent
3 presumptions which they will do everything within their power to avoid disclosing to the American public who they are 4 SUPPOSED to serve. See the following for how this SCAM works in the courts:

Requirement for Consent, Form #05.003
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

5 Yet another type of “public right” or “statutory franchise” is the Social Security system. The operation of this franchise is 6 exhaustively explained in the link below:

Resignation of Compelled Social Security Trustee, Form #06.002
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

7 Based on the exhaustive analysis of the “Trade or Business” and the “social security” franchises listed in the references
8 above, we can safely conclude the following:

- 9 1. Participating in any government franchise always creates the PRESUMPTION (usually illegally) of contractual agency
10 through the operation of a “trust” or “public trust”. That agency subjects you to the laws of a foreign jurisdiction in the 11 District of Columbia pursuant to Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 17\(b\), 26 U.S.C. §7701\(a\)\(39\) , and 26 U.S.C.
12 §7408\(d\) under the terms of the franchise agreements codified in Internal Revenue Code, Subtitle A and the Social 13 Security Act.
- 14 2. The agency created is that of a “trustee” over “public property”, which usually becomes public property by voluntarily
15 donating one’s private property to a “public use” for the purposes of procuring the privilege. That process of donating
16 private property to a public use implicitly grants the government the authority to control that use:

17 “Men are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable rights, -life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness;’
18 *and to ‘secure,’ not grant or create, these rights, governments are instituted. That property [or income] which a
19 man has honestly acquired he retains full [and EXCLUSIVE] control of, subject to these limitations: First,
20 that he shall not use it to his neighbor’s injury, and that does not mean that he must use it for his neighbor’s
21 benefit [that is why Social Security is voluntary!]; second, that if he devotes it to a public 22 use, he gives to the public a right to control that use; and third, that whenever the 23 public needs require, the public may take it upon payment of due compensation.
24 [Budd v. People of State of New York, 143 U.S. 517 (1892)]

- 25 3. The trust relation is a cestuis que trust, which is a charitable trust created for the equal benefit of all those who 26 participate. All those acting as “trustees” represent a federal corporation pursuant to 28 U.S.C. §3002(15)(A) and the 27 corporation they represent is a statutory “U.S. citizen” pursuant to 8 U.S.C. §1401. All corporations are classified as 28 “citizens” of the place where they were incorporated.

29 “A foreign corporation is one that derives its existence solely from the laws of another state, government, or 30 country, and the term is used indiscriminately, sometimes in statutes, to designate either a corporation created
31 by or under the laws of another state or a corporation created by or under the laws of a foreign country.”

32 “A federal corporation operating within a state is considered a domestic corporation rather than a foreign 33 *corporation. The United States government is a foreign corporation with respect to a state.”
34 [19 Corpus Juris Secundum, Corporations, §883 (2003)]

35
36 “A corporation is a citizen, resident, or inhabitant of the state or country by or under the laws of which it was 37 created, and of that state or country only.”
38 [19 Corpus Juris Secundum, Corporations, §886 (2003)]

- 39 4. You cannot participate in any “public right” or “public franchise” without becoming a “public officer” of the 40 government granting the privilege.
- 41 5. Participating in any government franchise makes one a “resident alien” for the purposes of federal jurisdiction and 42 causes an implied surrender of sovereign immunity pursuant to 28 U.S.C. §1605\(a\)\(2\) . There is also an implied
43 surrender of sovereign immunity pursuant to 28 U.S.C. §1603(b)(3) because a “citizen”, which is what the corporation is that you represent, cannot be a “foreign state” or “foreign sovereign” under the Foreign Sovereign Immunities Act, 28 U.S.C. Chapter 97.

6. All privileged activities are usually licensed by the government. The application of the license causes a surrender of constitutional rights.

“And here a thought suggests itself. As the Meadors, subsequently to the passage of this act of July 20, 1868, applied for and obtained from the government a license or permit to deal in manufactured tobacco, snuff and cigars, I am inclined to be of the opinion that they are, by this their own voluntary act, precluded from assailing the constitutionality of this law, or otherwise controverting it. For the granting of a license or permit—the yielding of a particular privilege—and its acceptance by the Meadors, was a contract, in which it was implied that the provisions of the statute which governed, or in any way affected their business, and all other statutes previously passed, which were in pari materia with those provisions, should be recognized and obeyed by them. When the Meadors sought and accepted the privilege, the law was before them. And can they now impugn its constitutionality or refuse to obey its provisions and stipulations, and so exempt themselves from the consequences of their own acts?”

[In re Meador, 1 Abb.U.S. 317, 16 F.Cas. 1294, D.C.Ga. (1869)]

7. The Social Security Number is the “de facto” license number which is used to track and control all those who voluntarily engage in public franchises and “public rights”.

7.1. The number is “de facto” rather than “de jure” because Congress cannot lawfully license any trade or business, including a “public office” in a state of the Union, by the admission of no less than the U.S. Supreme Court:

“Thus, Congress having power to regulate commerce with foreign nations, and among the several States, and with the Indian tribes, may, without doubt, provide for granting coasting licenses, licenses to pilots, licenses to trade with the Indians, and any other licenses necessary or proper for the exercise of that great and extensive power; and the same observation is applicable to every other power of Congress, to the exercise of which the granting of licenses may be incident. All such licenses confer authority, and give rights to the licensee.

But very different considerations apply to the internal commerce or domestic trade of the States. Over this commerce and trade Congress has no power of regulation nor any direct control. This power belongs exclusively to the States. No interference by Congress with the business of citizens transacted within a State is warranted by the Constitution, except such as is strictly incidental to the exercise of powers clearly granted to the legislature. The power to authorize a business within a State is plainly repugnant to the exclusive power of the State over the same subject. It is true that the power of Congress to tax is a very extensive power. It is given in the Constitution, with only one exception and only two qualifications. Congress cannot tax exports, and it must impose direct taxes by the rule of apportionment, and indirect taxes by the rule of uniformity. Thus limited, and thus only, it reaches every subject, and may be exercised at discretion. But, it reaches only existing subjects. Congress cannot authorize a trade or business within a State in order to tax it.”

7.2. If you don’t want to be in a “privileged” state and suffer the legal disabilities of accepting the privilege, then you CANNOT have or use Social Security Numbers.

8. Those participating in the “benefits” of the franchise have implicitly surrendered the right to challenge any encroachments against their “private rights” or “constitutional rights” that result from said participation:

The Court developed, for its own governance in the cases confessedly within its jurisdiction, a series of rules under which it has avoided passing upon a large part of all the constitutional questions pressed upon it for decision. They are:

9. Use of a Social Security Number constitutes prima facie consent to engage in the franchise. Use of this number constitutes prima facie evidence of implied consent because:

9.1. It is a crime to compel use or disclosure of Social Security Numbers. 42 U.S.C. §408.

9.2. You can withdraw from the franchise lawfully at any time if you don't want to participate. See SSA Form 521. See:

Resignation of Compelled Social Security Trustee, Form #06.002

9.3. If the government uses the SSN trustee licenses number to communicate with you and you don't object or correct them, then you once again consented to their jurisdiction to administer the program. See:

Wrong Party Notice, Form #07.105
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

10. The Social Security Number is property of the government and NOT the person using it. 20 C.F.R. §422.103(d).
- 10.1. The Social Security card confirms this, which says: "Property of the Social Security Administration and must be returned upon request.
- 10.2. Anything the Social Security Number is attached to becomes "private property" voluntarily donated to a "public use" to procure the benefits of the "public right" or franchise. Only "public officers" on official business may have public property in their possession such as the Social Security Number.

We will now further analyze items 1 and 2 above by giving you an example of how partaking of a franchise creates agency and constitutes a "trust" or "public trust". The following supreme Court ruling proves that a corporate railroad is a government franchise which makes the corporation into a "cestuis que trust", the officers into "public officers" and "trustees" of the United States Government through the operation of private law, which is the corporate charter.

The proposition is that the United States, as the grantor of the franchises of the company, the author of its charter, and the donor of lands, rights, and privileges of immense value, and as parens patriae, is a trustee, invested with power to enforce the proper use of the property and franchises granted for the benefit of the public.

The legislative power of Congress over this subject has already been considered, and need not be further alluded to. The trust here relied on is one which is supposed to grow out of the relations of the corporation to the government, which, without any aid from legislation, are cognizable in the ordinary courts of equity.

It must be confessed that, with every desire to find some clear and well-defined statement of the foundation for relief under this head of jurisdiction, and after a very careful examination of the authorities cited, the nature of this claim of right remains exceedingly vague. Nearly all the cases- we may almost venture to say all of them- fall under two heads:--

1. Where municipal, charitable, religious, or eleemosynary corporations, public in their character, had abused their franchises, perverted the purpose of their organization, or misappropriated their funds, and as they, from the nature of their corporate functions, were more or less under government supervision, the Attorney-General proceeded against them to obtain correction of the abuse; or,

*2. Where private corporations, chartered for definite and limited purposes, had exceeded their powers, and were restrained 618 or enjoined in the same manner from the further violation of the limitation to which their powers were subject.

The doctrine in this respect is well condensed in the opinion in The People v. Ingersoll, recently decided by the Court of Appeals of New York, 58 N.Y. 1. 'If,' says the court, 'the property of a corporation be illegally interfered with by corporation officers and agents or others, the remedy is by action at the suit of the corporation, and not of the Attorney-General. Decisions are cited from the reports of this country and of this State, entitled to consideration and respect, affirming to some extent the doctrine of the English courts, and applying it to like cases as they have arisen here. But in none has the doctrine been extended beyond the principles of the English cases; and, aside from the jurisdiction of courts of equity over trusts of property for public uses and over the trustees, either corporate or official, the courts have only interfered at the instance of the Attorney-General to prevent and prohibit some official wrong by municipal corporations or public officers, and the exercise of usurped or the abuse of actual powers.' p. 16.

37 To bring the present case within the rule governing the exercise of the equity powers of the court, it is strongly urged that the company belongs to the class first described.*

The duties imposed upon it by the law of its creation, the loan of money and the donation of lands made to it by the United States, its obligation to carry for the government, and the great purpose of Congress in opening a highway for public use and the postal service between the widely separated States of the Union, are relied on as establishing this proposition.

But in answer to this it must be said that, after all, it is but a railroad company, with the ordinary powers of such corporations. Under its contract with the government, the latter has taken good care of itself; and its

1 rights may be judicially enforced without the aid of this trust relation. They may be aided by the general
2 legislative powers of Congress, and by those reserved in the charter, which we have specifically quoted.

3 The statute which conferred the benefits on this company, the loan of money, the grant of lands, and the right of
4 way, did the same for other corporations already in existence under State or territorial charters. Has the United
5 States the right *619 to assert a trust in the Federal government which would authorize a suit like this by the 6 Attorney-General against the Kansas Pacific Railway Company, the Central Pacific Railroad Company, and 7 other companies in a similar position?

8 If the United States is a trustee, there must be cestuis que trust. There cannot be the one without the other,
9 and the trustee cannot be a trustee for himself alone. A trust does not exist when the legal right and the use
10 are in the same party, and there are no ulterior trusts.

11 Who are the cestuis que trust for whose benefit this suit is brought? If they be the defrauded stockholders, we 12 have already shown that they are capable of asserting their own rights; that no provision is made for securing 13 them in this suit should it be successful, and that the statute indicates no such purpose.

14 If the trust concerned relates to the rights of the public in the use of the road, no wrong is alleged capable of 15 redress in this suit, or which requires such a suit for redress.

16 Railroad Company v. Peniston (18 Wall. 5) shows that the company is not a mere creature of the United States,
17 but that while it owes duties to the government, the performance of which may, in a proper case, be enforced, it
18 is still a private corporation, the same as other railroad companies, and, like them, subject to the laws of 19 taxation and the other laws of the States in which the road lies, so far as they do not destroy its usefulness as an 20 instrument for government purposes.

21 We are not prepared to say that there are no trusts which the United States may not enforce in a court of 22 equity against this company. When such a trust is shown, it will be time enough to recognize it. But we are of 23 opinion that there is none set forth in this bill which, under the statute authorizing the present suit, can be 24 enforced in the Circuit Court.

25 38 There are many matters alleged in the bill in this case, and many points ably presented in argument,
26 which have received our careful attention, but of which we can take no special notice in this opinion. We have 27 devoted so much space to the more important matters, that we can only say that, under the view which we take 28 of the scope of the enabling statute, they furnish no ground for relief in this suit.

29 *620 The liberal manner in which the government has aided this company in money and lands is much urged
30 upon us as a reason why the rights of the United States should be liberally construed. This matter is fully 31 considered in the opinion of the court already cited, in United States v. Union Pacific Railroad Co. (supra), in 32 which it is shown that it was a wise liberality for which the government has received all the advantages for 33 which it bargained, and more than it expected. In the feeble infancy of this child of its creation, when its life
34 and usefulness were very uncertain, the government, fully alive to its importance, did all that it could to 35 strengthen, support, and sustain it. Since it has grown to a vigorous manhood, it may not have displayed the 36 gratitude which so much care called for. If this be so, it is but another instance of the absence of human 37 affections which is said to characterize all corporations. It must, however, be admitted that it has fulfilled the 38 purpose of its creation and realized the hopes which were then cherished, and that the government has found
39 it a useful agent, enabling it to save vast sums of money in the transportation of troops, mails, and supplies,
40 and in the use of the telegraph.

41 A court of justice is called on to inquire not into the balance of benefits and favors on each side of this 42 controversy, but into the rights of the parties as established by law, as found in their contracts, as recognized by 43 the settled principles of equity, and to decide accordingly. Governed by this rule, and by the intention of the 44 legislature in passing the act under which this suit is brought, we concur with the Circuit Court in holding that 45 no case for relief is made by the bill.

46 [U.S. v. Union Pac. R. Co., 98 U.S. 569 (1878)]

47 Notice that the government, in relation to the franchisee, is referred to by the Supreme Court as a “parens patriae”. This 48 describes the role of the government as protector over persons with a legal disability. That disability, in fact, consists 49 mainly of the obligations associated with a “public office” in the U.S. Government. By partaking of a “public right” or
50 “statutory right” or “privilege”, you are abdicating responsibility over your life, admitting that you can’t govern or support
51 yourself, and therefore transferring your own person, property, and labor to another sovereign, who then exercises a legal 52 “guardianship” as a bloated socialist government. Quite revealing!:

53 PARENS PATRIAE. Father of his country; parent of the country. In England, the king. In the United States, the 54 state, as a sovereign-referring to the sovereign power of guardianship over persons under disability; In re
55 Turner, 94 Kan. 115, 145 P. 871, 872, Ann.Cas.1916E, 1022; such as minors, and insane and incompetent
56 persons; McIntosh v. Dill, 86 Okl. 1, 205 P. 917, 925.

Those who nominate a “parens patriae” to govern their lives by engaging in statutory “public rights” and franchises can, at the whim of their new master, be left entirely without remedy in any court of law. Below is the proof:

These general rules are well settled: (1) That the United States, when it creates rights in individuals against itself, is under no obligation to provide a remedy through the courts. United States ex rel. Dunlap v. Black, 128 U.S. 40, 9 Sup.Ct. 12, 32 L.Ed. 354; Ex parte Atocha, 17 Wall. 439, 21 L.Ed. 696; Gordon v. United States, 7 Wall. 188, 195, 19 L.Ed. 35; De Groot v. United States, 5 Wall. 419, 431, 433, 18 L.Ed. 700; Comegys v. Vasse, 1 Pet. 193, 212, 7 L.Ed. 108. (2) That where a statute creates a right and provides a special remedy, that remedy is exclusive. Wilder Manufacturing Co. v. Corn Products Co., 236 U.S. 165, 174, 175, 35 Sup.Ct. 398, 59 L.Ed. 520, Ann. Cas. 1916A, 118; Arnson v. Murphy, 109 U.S. 238, 3 Sup.Ct. 184, 27 L.Ed. 920; Barnet v. National Bank, 98 U. S. 555, 558, 25 L.Ed. 212; Farmers' & Mechanics' National Bank v. Dearing, 91 U. S. 29, 35, 23 L.Ed. 196. Still the fact that the right and the remedy are thus intertwined might not, if the provision stood alone, require us to hold that the remedy expressly given excludes a right of review by the Court of Claims, where the decision of the special tribunal involved no disputed question of fact and the denial of compensation was rested wholly upon the construction of the act. See Medbury v. United States, 173 U.S. 492, 198, 19 Sup.Ct. 503, 43 L.Ed. 779; Parish v. MacVeagh, 214 U. S. 124, 29 Sup.Ct. 556, 53 L.Ed. 936; McLean v. United States, 226 U. S. 374, 33 Sup.Ct. 122, 57 L.Ed. 260; United States v. Laughlin (No. 200), 249 U. S. 440, 39 Sup.Ct. 340, 63 L.Ed. 696, decided April 14, 1919. But here Congress has provided:

'That any claim which shall be presented and acted on under authority of this act shall be held as finally determined, and shall never thereafter be reopened or considered.'

*These words express clearly the intention to confer upon the Treasury Department exclusive jurisdiction and to make its decision final. The case of United States v. Harmon, 147 U. S. 268, 13 Sup.Ct. 327, 37 L.Ed. 164, strongly relied upon by claimants, has no application. Compare D. M. Ferry & Co. v. United States, 85 Fed. 550, 557, 29 C.C.A. 345.*

*In the Babcock Case claimant insists also that section 3482 of the Revised Statutes (Comp. St. § 6390), as amended by Act of June 22, *332 1874, c. 395, 18 Stat. 193 (Comp. St. §§ 6391, 6392) affords a basis for the recovery. That section provided for reimbursement for horses lost in the military service, among other things 'in consequence of the United States failing to supply sufficient forage.' The 1874 amendment provided for reimbursement in any case 'where the loss resulted from any exigency or necessity of the military service, unless it was caused by the fault or negligence of such officers or enlisted men.' Even if these statutes were applicable to facts like those presented here, there could be no recovery; because under Act Jan. 9, 1883, c. 15, 22 Stat. 401, and Act Aug. 13, 1888, c. 868, 25 Stat. 437, the right to present claims under section 3482 of the Revised Statutes as amended finally expired in 1891. See Griffis v. United States, 52 Ct.Cl. 1, 170.*

The Court of Claims was without jurisdiction in either case, and the judgments are Reversed. [U.S. v. Babcock, 250 U.S. 328, 39 S.Ct. 464 (1919)]

8.7 How to avoid franchises and public rights

Therefore, those wishing to retain their God-given “private rights” and not surrender them to procure a “privilege” should:

1. Demand that any court hearing a matter involving them and the opposing parties MAY NOT cite any provision of the franchise agreement, such as the Social Security Act or Internal Revenue Code, Subtitle A, against them without FIRST satisfying the burden of proof that you are subject to the agreement as a “taxpayer”. See:

Government Burden of Proof, Form #05.025
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

2. Insist that all disputes they litigate in federal courts MUST be heard by Article III judges in Article III courts. This means that the Court’s jurisdiction must be challenged and that it MUST produce the statute from the Statutes at Large which confers Article III powers upon the court. We have searched every enactment of Congress from the Statutes at Large and determined that NO United States District Court has Article III powers. See:

What Happened to Justice?, Form #06.012
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

3. Avoid engaging in franchises and “public rights” at all costs.
4. Not generate any evidence that might connect you to the franchise. For instance, NEVER:
 - 4.1. Use a federal identifying number when corresponding with the government.
 - 4.2. Open financial accounts with SSN’s or as a “U.S. person”. Instead, use the procedures below:

About IRS Form W-8BEN, Form #04.202
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

4.3. Submit IRS Form W-4 when you go to work. It's the WRONG form. See:

Federal and State Tax Withholding Options for Private Employers, Form #04.101
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

4.4. Submit IRS Form 1040, which is the WRONG form. Everything that goes on this form is "trade or business" earnings. See:

The "Trade or Business" Scam, Form #05.001
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

4.5. Sign up for Social Security using form SS-5. If you did this, you should quit using the instructions below:

Resignation of Compelled Social Security Trustee, Form #06.002
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

5. Promptly rebut all evidence generated by third parties which might connect you with a franchise, such as all IRS information returns, which are usually false because most people are NOT engaged in a "public office" or "trade or business". See the following resources on how to rebut information returns that connect you to The "Trade or Business" franchise pursuant to 26 U.S.C. §6041 or which are useful in rebutting tax collection notices based on these forms of FALSE hearsay evidence:

5.1. Rebut all uses of federal identifying numbers on any government correspondence you receive. See:

5.6. Correcting Erroneous IRS Form W-2, Form #04.006

<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

6. Vociferously oppose any attempts to "presume" that they are engaged in franchises by any government employee. All such presumptions which might prejudice constitutionally guaranteed rights are an unlawful violation of due process of law. See:

Presumption: Chief Weapon for Unlawfully Enlarging Federal Jurisdiction, Form #05.017
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

For instance, if someone cites any provision of the I.R.C. against you, which is private law that only pertains to those engaged in The "Trade or Business" franchise, then you should insist that they meet the burden of proving that you are a "taxpayer" who is subject BEFORE they may cite or enforce any of its provisions against you. See:

Who are "Taxpayers" and Who Needs a "Taxpayer Identification Number"?, Form #05.013

9 How to tell when the government is exceeding its jurisdiction during litigation

Now that we thoroughly understand federal jurisdiction, where it comes from, and all the rules for choice of law during federal litigation, the last important subject we must discuss to properly prepare you for your own battles in federal court is to document all of the illegal, dishonest, and underhanded techniques that federal judges and U.S. attorneys will use to prejudice your rights as a sovereign. These techniques include:

1. Refusing to enter proof of jurisdiction on the record when jurisdiction is challenged. Whenever you challenge jurisdiction, proof of jurisdiction MUST be entered on the record by the party who initiated the suit or the court or both. If you challenge jurisdiction using the content of this document and either the Plaintiff or the Court or both are

1 silent in response or say they won't entertain such a challenge, then they are involved in a criminal conspiracy against
2 your rights in violation of 18 U.S.C. §241 and 42 U.S.C. §1983.

3 "A court lacking diversity jurisdiction cannot render judgment but must dismiss the cause at any stage of the 4 proceedings in which it becomes apparent that jurisdiction is lacking. 28 U.S.C.A. §1332."

5 "Party invoking jurisdiction of the court has duty to establish that federal jurisdiction does not exist. 28
6 U.S.C.A. §§1332, 1332(c)."

7 "There is a presumption against existence of federal jurisdiction; thus, party invoking federal court's
8 jurisdiction bears the burden of proof. 28 U.S.C.A. §§1332, 1332(c); Fed.Rules Civ. Proc. rule 12(h)(3), 28
9 U.S.C.A."

10 "If parties do not raise question of lack of jurisdiction, it is the duty of the federal court to determine the manner
11 sua sponte. 28 U.S.C.A. §1332."

12 "Lack of jurisdiction cannot be waived and jurisdiction cannot be conferred upon a federal court by consent,
13 inaction, or stipulation. 28 U.S.C.A. §1332."

14 "Although defendant did not present evidence to support dismissal for lack of jurisdiction, burden rested with 15 plaintiffs to prove affirmatively that jurisdiction did exist. 28 U.S.C.A. §1332". Basso v. Utah Power and Light

16 Company, 495 F.2d. 906 (1974)

19 2. Refusing to acknowledge that the thing being regulated constitutes a "franchise" or an "excise tax":

20 2.1. If they acknowledged the origins of their jurisdiction as a franchise or an "excise tax", the first logical question
21 out of your mouth as a litigant would be: "Where is the application or license that I completed, signed, and 22 voluntarily submitted to you which gave rise to this franchise?". This would shift the burden of proof to them to
23 produce consent to the franchise, and since they know they can't do that, they avoid the question entirely at all
24 costs because it would shut down the entire income tax system. Consequently, they typically will refuse to make 25 any declaratory judgments relating to the nature of the franchise as either an "excise tax", a "direct tax", or an 26 "indirect excise tax" and may even feign ignorance on the subject, even though they know the answer to the 27 question. This SCAM is exposed in the Great IRS Hoax, Form #11.302, Section 3.17.1, which shows that there is 28 wide disparity and disagreement between all the federal circuit courts about whether the federal income tax is an 29 "excise tax" or a "direct tax". See:

30 <http://famguardian.org/Publications/GreatIRSHoax/GreatIRSHoax.htm>

31 2.2. The IRS pulls the same concealment SCAM as the courts to in regard to the nature of Internal Revenue Code,
32 Subtitle A as an excise tax upon the privilege called a "trade or business". This SCAM is exhaustively
33 documented in the memorandum of law below:

34 The "Trade or Business" Scam, Form #05.001

35 <http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

36 3. If the subject is a "tax", refusing to acknowledge the voluntary nature of the tax for "nontaxpayers" and refusing to 37 even acknowledge the existence of "nontaxpayers": The following legal authorities exhaustively prove that Internal 38 Revenue Code, Subtitle A is voluntary for "nontaxpayers":

43 3.3. Why Domicile and Becoming a "Taxpayer" Require Your Consent, Form #05.002
44 <http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

45 4. Violating/bending the rules of evidence by admitting essentially hearsay evidence into evidence that you were engaged
46 in a federal franchise. The Hearsay Rule, Federal Rule of Evidence 802 excludes anything as evidence that is not 47 authenticated with a perjury oath. 26 U.S.C. §6065 also requires that every document produced under the authority of 48 the Internal Revenue Code must be signed under penalty of perjury, which includes information returns. For instance:

49 4.1. Admitting hearsay "information returns" into evidence that are unsigned and therefore inadmissible. Information
50 returns include forms such as IRS Forms W-2, 1042-s, 1098, 1099, and 8300.

51 4.2. Admitting IRS assessments and computer printouts into evidence that are not signed under penalty of perjury by an "assessment officer" as required by 26 U.S.C. §6065.

5. Citing statutes against persons who do not satisfy the definition of "person" within the code cited. For instance:

5.1. Enforcing I.R.C. penalties against someone who does not satisfy the definition of “person” found in 26 U.S.C. §6671(b).

TITLE 26 > Subtitle F > CHAPTER 68 > Subchapter B > PART I > § 6671
§ 6671. Rules for application of assessable penalties

(b) Person defined

The term “person”, as used in this subchapter, includes an officer or employee of a corporation, or a member or employee of a partnership, who as such officer, employee, or member is under a duty to perform the act in respect of which the violation occurs.

5.2. Criminally enforcing the I.R.C. against someone who does not fit the description of “person” found in 26 U.S.C. §7343.

§ 7343. Definition of term “person”

*The term “person” as used in this chapter [Chapter 75] includes an officer or employee of a corporation, or a member or employee of a partnership, who as such officer, employee, or member is under a duty to perform the act in respect of which the violation occurs

All of the above “persons” are “public officers” who work for the U.S. government in a representative capacity as “officers of a corporation”. The “corporation” is the “United States”, pursuant to 28 U.S.C. §3002\(15\)\(A\). The “duty to perform” they are talking about is the duty created by their oath as a “public officer”. There can be no other source of said duty, because there is no statute making the average American domiciled in a state of the Union “liable” to withhold or pay federal income taxes. Usually, the only defense the government can come up against when challenged with the above definitions in a tax prosecution is to point to the word “includes” and to imply that the definition can include anything they subjectively want to include in it. This is an abuse of the rules of statutory construction that is easily defeated. This type of legal abuse as well as techniques for easily defeating it are found below:

Legal Deception, Propaganda, and Fraud, Form #05.014
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

6. Refusing to properly invoke diversity jurisdiction:

- 6.1. A party domiciled either in a foreign country or a state of the Union must invoke CONSTITUTIONAL diversity jurisdiction pursuant to United States Constitution, Article III, Section 2 but NOT STATUTORY diversity pursuant to 28 U.S.C. §1332.
 - 6.2. The “State” mentioned in the Constitution and the “State” defined in 28 U.S.C. §1332(d) are NOT the same, and therefore CONSTITUTIONAL diversity and STATUTORY diversity are mutually exclusive types of diversity.
 - 6.3. Typically, most federal courts will falsely and fraudulently presume that these two types of diversity are the same.
7. Refusing to acknowledge your status as a nonresident party. For instance, if your administrative record says you are a “nonresident alien”, refusing to acknowledge all the benefits of being a nonresident alien, such as:
- 7.1. No “gross income” if not engaged in a “trade or business”. 26 C.F.R. §1.872-2(f).
 - 7.2. Not within any internal revenue district and therefore local IRS offices may not investigate your liability or used any evidence gathered outside of an internal revenue district. 26 U.S.C. §7601.
 - 7.3. No requirement to have or use Social Security Numbers if not engaged in a “trade or business”. 31 C.F.R. §103.34(a)(3)(x).
 - 7.4. Not within any United States Judicial District and therefore not subject to the jurisdiction of any federal district or circuit court. Federal district courts are Article IV legislative tribunals that are part of the Executive rather than Judicial branch of the government. They have jurisdiction only over federal territory, property, or franchises within the exterior limits of the district pursuant to the United States Constitution, Article 4, Section 3, Clause 2. See:

What Happened to Justice?, Form #06.012
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

8. Refusing to acknowledge your status as a person not in receipt of the franchise being litigated. For instance:

- 8.1. U.S. attorney or judge refusing their obligation to acknowledge that you are a “nontaxpayer” against whom no provision of the Internal Revenue Code may be cited or enforced.
- 8.2. U.S. attorney or judge refusing their obligation to produce evidence of consent to the franchise on the record when jurisdiction is challenged. See:

Requirement for Consent, Form #05.003
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

9. Directly citing federal statutory law against you without ALSO producing implementing regulations. A person domiciled in a state of the Union is protected by the United States Constitution. Consequently, due process requires that he must be given “reasonable notice” by publication in the Federal Register of law he might become the target of enforcement for. See 44 U.S.C. §1505(a) and 5 U.S.C. §553(a). U.S. attorney or judge may not therefore lawfully cite any provision from the I.R.C. directly against a person domiciled in a state of the Union who is not engaged in the franchise without ALSO producing an implementing regulation published in the Federal Register. Most enforcement provisions of the Internal Revenue Code do not have implementing regulations, because it only pertains to those engaged in a franchise and therefore who effectively become “federal instrumentalities” and “public officers”. See:

IRS Due Process Meeting Handout, Form #03.008
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

10. Refusing to apply the mandatory requirements of the Minimum Contacts Doctrine to your circumstances as a nonresident party. The Minimum Contacts Doctrine requires that when courts wish to assert jurisdiction over nonresident parties, they must satisfy ALL of the following requirements (see Yahoo! Inc. v. La. Ligue Contre Le Racisme Et L'Antisemitisme, 433 F.3d. 1199 (9th Cir. 01/12/2006) earlier):

10.1. The non-resident defendant must purposefully direct his activities or consummate some transaction with the forum or resident thereof; or perform some act by which he purposefully avails himself of the privilege of conducting activities in the forum, thereby invoking the benefits and protections of its laws

10.2. the claim must be one which arises out of or relates to the defendant's forum-related activities; and

10.3. the exercise of jurisdiction must comport with fair play and substantial justice, i.e. it must be reasonable.

11. Citing case law that pertains to persons who are not similarly situated to you. For instance:

11.1. Citing case law that relates to a person found to be a “taxpayer” without proving ON THE RECORD that you are a “taxpayer” engaged in the franchise FIRST.

11.2. Citing federal case law against a person domiciled in a state of the Union who is not protected by federal law. The only way federal law can lawfully be cited against a person not domiciled on federal territory is if they are engaged in a federal franchise or are abroad (not within any state of the Union).

12. Making silent and prejudicial presumptions and refusing to justify defend the basis for those presumptions. All presumptions which prejudice constitutionally guaranteed rights are unconstitutional. See

Presumption: Chief Weapon for Unlawfully Enlarging Federal Jurisdiction, Form #05.017
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

For example:

- 12.1. That you are engaged in a “trade or business”. See:

The “Trade or Business” Scam, Form #05.001
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

- 12.2. That you are a statutory “U.S. citizen” pursuant to 8 U.S.C. §1401. People born within and domiciled within states of the Union are non-resident non-persons under federal law rather than “citizens”. They are “citizens” within the meaning of the Constitution, but not within the meaning of federal statutory law. See:

Why You are a “national”, “state national”, and Constitutional but not Statutory Citizen, Form #05.006
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

- 12.3. That you are a “resident” (alien) pursuant to 26 U.S.C. §7701(b)(1)(A). The only type of “resident” defined in the I.R.C. is a “resident alien”, and you aren’t an “alien” if you were born in any of the 50 states.

- 12.4. That you are acting as a “public officer” acting in a fiduciary capacity as a “transferee” over federal payments pursuant to 26 U.S.C. §6903. This is simply false if you terminated participation in the Social Security scam. See:

Resignation of Compelled Social Security Trustee, Form #06.002

10 Strategy for Effectively Challenging Federal Jurisdiction

The following subsections deal with how to successfully challenge federal jurisdiction. For a simple slide show summarizing these techniques, see:

Challenging Federal Jurisdiction Course, Form #12.010
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

10.1 Summary of approach

Challenges to federal jurisdiction to enforce a statute may be made using the following effective strategy:

1. The U.S. Supreme Court has held that the ability to regulate private conduct is repugnant to the Constitution, which means unconstitutional.

"The power to "legislate generally upon" life, liberty, and property, as opposed to the "power to provide modes of redress" against offensive state action, was "repugnant" to the Constitution. Id., at 15. See also United States v. Reese, 92 U.S. 214, 218 (1876); United States v. Harris, 106 U.S. 629, 639 (1883); James v. Bowman, 190 U.S. 127, 139 (1903). Although the specific holdings of these early cases might have been superseded or modified, see, e.g., Heart of Atlanta Motel, Inc. v. United States, 379 U.S. 241 (1964); United States v. Guest, 383 U.S. 745 (1966), their treatment of Congress' §5 power as corrective or preventive, not definitional, has not been questioned."
[City of Boerne v. Flores, Archbishop of San Antonio, 521 U.S. 507 (1997)]

Why? Because it's involuntary servitude in violation of the Thirteenth Amendment to impose any duty upon a private human being beyond that of simply avoiding harming the equal rights of others.

"What more is necessary to make us a happy and a prosperous people? Still one thing more, fellow citizens--a wise and frugal Government, which shall restrain men from injuring one another, shall leave them otherwise free to regulate their own pursuits of industry and improvement, and shall not take from the mouth of labor the bread it has earned. This is the sum of good government, and this is necessary to close the circle of our felicities."
[Thomas Jefferson: 1st Inaugural, 1801]

The purpose of all law is therefore to protect private rights by keeping what is private and what is public completely separate from each other and by keeping private individuals from injuring each other. Therefore:

- 1.1. Any government official who asserts the right to impose a duty of any kind upon you or enforce civil law against you has a burden of showing that you are consensually and lawfully engaged in public rather than private conduct.
- 1.2. By "public conduct", we mean a "public office" within the government. Example: All income taxes are excise taxes imposed upon the public office franchises within the U.S. government. Income taxes cannot be enforced against those not lawfully engaged in a public office in the specific case they are authorized to serve in that office, which 4 U.S.C. §72 says is ONLY the District of Columbia and NOT elsewhere. All franchises, in fact, require those so engaged to be public officers BEFORE they consent to engage in the activity and the application for the license does not create any new public offices.
- 1.3. Any evidence that might connect you to a public office should be rebutted in order to prove that you weren't lawfully or consensually engaged in a franchise or public office. This includes:
 - 1.3.1. Showing that you weren't domiciled on federal territory at the time and therefore cannot either be offered or consent to participate in any federal franchise because your rights are unalienable, meaning they can't be sold or transferred or bargained away through any commercial process in relation to the government, including a franchise.

"We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable Rights, that among these are Life, Liberty and the pursuit of Happiness.--That to secure these rights, Governments are instituted among Men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed, -"
[Declaration of Independence]

"Unalienable. Inalienable; incapable of being aliened, that is, sold and transferred."
[Black's Law Dictionary, Fourth Edition, p. 1693]

- 1.3.2. Information returns such as IRS Forms W-2, 1042-s, 1098, and 1099. See:

Correcting Erroneous Information Returns, Form #04.001
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

- 1.3.3. Identifying numbers. If you were not domiciled on federal territory at the time the number was used and were not engaged in a specifically identified franchise, then the use of the number is unlawful and fraudulent. See:

Why It is Illegal for Me to Request or Use a "Taxpayer Identification Number", Form #04.205
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

1 1.4. If you want to know what the legal qualifications are for serving in a public office, they are found below:

The "Trade or Business" Scam, Form #05.001, Section 10.1: Legal Requirements for Occupying a Public Office
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

2 2. If you were not physically present on federal territory at the time the crime, offense, or injury occurred, then:

3 2.1. Subject matter jurisdiction is the only type of jurisdiction that may be exercised by the court.

4 2.2. The matter involves extraterritorial jurisdiction.

5 2.3. In order to prove subject matter jurisdiction, the government as moving party must produce evidence to consent to 6 a contract or franchise in writing.

7 3. If the government is the moving party in the action asserting an obligation or duty on your part, then they have the 8 burden of proving their claim. Your job is to:

9 3.1. Make the burden of proof they must meet so high that their case must be dismissed for lack of jurisdiction.

10 3.2. Establish that all statutory law is prima facie territorial.

11 3.3. Force them to meet the burden of proving the lawful basis by which they are acting extraterritorially in a
12 legislatively foreign jurisdiction. There are ONLY two sources of extraterritorial jurisdiction under the common
13 law: Debt and contract. They must therefore PROVE that one of these two things apply in every civil 14 enforcement case and that you EXPRESSLY CONSENTED to the debt or contract.

15 Debitum et contractus non sunt nullius loci.

16 Debt and contract [franchise agreement, in this case] are of no particular place.

17 Locus contractus regit actum.

18 The place of the contract [franchise agreement, in this case] governs the act.

19 [Bouvier's Maxims of Law, 1856;

20 SOURCE: <http://famguardian.org/Publications/BouvierMaximsOfLaw/BouviereMaxims.htm>]

22 4. You must be continually aware that the only weapon of enslavement and injustice available to government attorneys
23 and judges are the abuse of "words of art" to deceive you and misapply the law. They will abuse these words in order
24 to victimize you with invisible presumptions about your status that, if left unchallenged or unclarified, will work a
25 FRAUD upon you.

26 4.1. Study all the "words of art" they will be using or are using with the following resource:

Sovereignty Forms and Instructions Online, Form #10.004, Cites by Topic

<http://famguardian.org/TaxFreedom/FormsInstr-Cites.htm>

27 4.2. Every geographical term you expect people to use in the case should be carefully defined BEFORE the conflict
28 begins. The best method for doing this is to attach the following to your pleadings:

Rules of Presumption and Statutory Interpretation, Litigation Tool #01.006

<http://sedm.org/Litigation/LitIndex.htm>

29 5. Whenever you file a pleading in any case, you should invoke the protections of Fed.Rul.Civ.P. 8(b)(6), wherein a
30 failure to deny by the opposing party constitutes an admission of all statements made under penalty of perjury before
31 the court. Below is language to that effect which appears in the Federal Pleading/Motion/Petition Attachment,
32 Litigation Tool #01.002:

33 Submitter/movant petitions for the following of this Court in addition to those things mentioned in the attached
34 pleading, motion, or petition:

35 [. . .]

36 3. That the Court and/or the opposing party remain silent on all issues raised in this pleading which the Court
37 concur and agrees entirely with. Any facts or statements or admissions included in this pleading which are not
38 denied or rebutted by either the Court or the opposing party with supporting evidence and under penalty of 39 perjury shall therefore constitute an Admission to the truthfulness of each statement or conclusion as required
40 by Federal Rule of Civil Procedure Rule 8\(b\)\(6\).

41 [Federal Pleading/Motion/Petition Attachment, Litigation Tool #01.002]

42 Most of your pleadings should contain affidavits of Material Fact that call for a denial by the opposing party. The next
43 pleading you file in each action AFTER the submission of the Affidavit of Material Facts should contain a Verified
44 Affidavit of Default listing all facts admitted to by the opposing party because of a failure to deny.

45 6. The majority of cases brought in federal court involve government franchises of one kind or another, such as:

46 6.1. Income tax.

47 6.2. Medicare.

48 6.3. Social Security.

- 1 6.4. Unemployment Compensation.
- 2 7. Congress cannot lawfully license or establish a franchise within any state of the Union or offer franchises to those
- 3 domiciled within the exclusive jurisdiction of a state of the Union. Therefore:
- 4 7.1. You need to hold their feet to the fire as to which of the three “United States” they mean for each use of the word
- 5 and where that definition is found. See Section 3.2 of Litigation Tool #01.006 mentioned above.
- 6 7.2. You need to emphasize that you are not qualified to participate and never have lawfully participated in any
- 7 government franchise. This is accomplished by attaching the following to your first filing in the case:
- Affidavit of Citizenship, Domicile, and Tax Status*, Form #02.001
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>
- 8 7.3. You need to emphasize that you never consented to participate in any government franchise.
- 9 8. Those domiciled on federal territory not protected by the Constitution are the only ones who may lawfully participate
- 10 in federal franchises.
- 11 8.1. These people are called statutory “U.S. citizens” pursuant to 8 U.S.C. §1401 or “resident aliens” pursuant to 26
- 12 U.S.C. §7701(b)(1)(A).
- 13 8.2. Those domiciled in a state of the Union are not statutory “U.S. citizens” pursuant to 8 U.S.C. §1401 or “resident
- 14 aliens” pursuant to 26 U.S.C. §7701(b)(1)(A), but rather statutory “non-resident non-persons”, and transient
- 15 foreigners. See:
- Why You are a “national”, “state national”, and Constitutional but not Statutory Citizen*, Form #05.006
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>
- 16 9. You should emphasize that offering or enforcing franchises to those domiciled in a state of the Union is a violation of
- 17 the separation of powers doctrine and therefore a violation of the Constitution. See:
- Government Conspiracy to Destroy the Separation of Powers*, Form #05.023, Section 10.5
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>
- 18 10. It is very important to go to great pains to establish verified evidence in the record that you are not domiciled and never
- 19 have been domiciled in the statutory but not constitutional “United States” and that you are not a lawful participant in
- 20 any government franchise in order to circumvent any possibility that you will be confused with someone they have
- 21 jurisdiction over. This is done by doing the following:
- 22 10.1. Attaching the following forms to your initial Complaint or Response in the action:
- 23 10.1.1. Federal Pleading/Motion/Petition Attachment, Litigation Tool #01.002
- 24 <http://sedm.org/Litigation/LitIndex.htm>
- 25 10.1.2. Affidavit of Citizenship, Domicile, and Tax Status, Form #02.001
- 26 <http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>
- 27 10.2. Using the following as a guide in responding to disputes by the government over your citizenship:
- 28 10.2.1. Flawed Tax Arguments to Avoid, Form #08.004, Section 8.1
- 29 <http://sedm.org/Litigation/LitIndex.htm>
- 30 10.2.2. Why You are a “national”, “state national”, and Constitutional but not Statutory Citizen, Form #05.006
- 31 <http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>
- 32 10.3. Using the following form when deposed and in all responses to legal discovery
- Citizenship, Domicile, and Tax Status Options*, Form #10.003
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>
- 33 11. You should insist on equal protection of the law:
- 34 11.1. When you want to sue the government, they will insist on sovereign immunity and that you produce a statute
- 35 waiving sovereign immunity in order to have jurisdiction to sue them.
- 36 11.2. You should insist on the same sovereign immunity in relation to them, which must take the form of written
- 37 consent to be sued conveyed in the form that you and not they specify. In the case of Members, that consent must
- 38 be in a writing signed by BOTH you AND the government where all rights conveyed are described on the
- 39 application itself, and where you had a domicile on federal territory at the time you applied. Sections 4 through
- 40 4.3 of the following document establish this criteria for Members, and use of this document is mandatory for all
- 41 Members as part of the free Path to Freedom process:
- Legal Notice of Change in Domicile/Citizenship Records and Divorce from the United States*, Form #10.001
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>
- 42 12. The government’s waiver of sovereign immunity comes from the following sources:
- 43 12.1. Whenever they are acting extraterritorially, they are acting as the equivalent of “private persons” in equity, and
- 44 especially if they are engaging in otherwise private business activity such as “social insurance”.
- 45 12.2. The source of the waiver of sovereign immunity is the Foreign Sovereign Immunities Act, 28 U.S.C. Chapter 97
- 46 and the law of nations, which makes all nations equal.

1 12.3. The fact that the states of the Union are “nations” under the law of nations insofar as civil and criminal
2 jurisdiction within their exclusive jurisdiction.

3 “The States between each other are sovereign and independent. They are distinct and separate sovereignties,
4 except so far as they have parted with some of the attributes of sovereignty by the Constitution. They continue
5 to be nations, with all their rights, and under all their national obligations, and with all the rights of nations
6 in every particular; except in the surrender by each to the common purposes and objects of the Union, under
7 the Constitution. The rights of each State, when not so yielded up, remain absolute.”
8 Bank of Augusta v. Earle, [38 U.S. \(13 Pet.\) 519; 10 L.Ed. 274 (1839)]

9 12.4. The fact that when the federal government or its agent tries to offer commercial franchises in legislatively foreign
10 states, they waive their sovereign immunity and agreed to be sued in state court as PRIVATE actors.

11 *See also Clearfield Trust Co. v. United States, 318 U.S. 363, 369 (1943) (“The United States does business on 12 business terms”) (quoting United States v. National Exchange Bank of Baltimore, 270 U.S. 527, 534 (1926)); 13 Perry v. United States, supra at 352 (1935) (“When the United States, with constitutional authority, makes 14 contracts, it has rights and incurs responsibilities similar to those of individuals who are parties to such 15 instruments. There is no difference . . . except that the United States cannot be sued without its consent”)
16 *(citation omitted); United States v. Bostwick, 94 U.S. 53, 66 (1877) (“The United States, when they contract
17 with their citizens, are controlled by the same laws that govern the citizen in that behalf”); Cooke v. United 18 States, 91 U.S. 389, 398 (1875) (explaining that when the United States “comes down from its position of 19 sovereignty, and enters the domain of commerce, it submits itself to the same laws that govern individuals 20 there”).

21 *See Jones, 1 Cl.Ct. at 85 (“Wherever the public and private acts of the government seem to commingle, a
22 citizen or corporate body must by supposition be substituted in its place, and then the question be determined
23 whether the action will lie against the supposed defendant”); O’Neill v. United States, 231 Ct.Cl. 823, 826 24 (1982) (sovereign acts doctrine applies where, “[w]here [the] contracts exclusively between private parties, the
25 party hurt by such governing action could not claim compensation from the other party for the governing
26 action”). The dissent ignores these statements (including the statement from Jones, from which case Horowitz 27 drew its reasoning literally verbatim), when it says, post at 931, that the sovereign acts cases do not emphasize 28 the need to treat the government-as-contractor the same as a private party.
29 [United States v. Winstar Corp. 518 U.S. 839 (1996)]

30 13. The following section describes how establish evidence on the record of the case that will make it impossible for the 31 government to prove that they have jurisdiction in a federal income tax case involving those domiciled within the 32 exclusive jurisdiction of a state of the Union.

33 10.2 Specific facts to be established on the record of the proceeding

34 The following facts should be established on the record of any proceeding against the federal government or any of its 35 actors in which any statutory right or interest is being enforced:

- 36 1. That it is “repugnant to the constitution” to regulate or interfere with the exercise of EXCLUSIVELY PRIVATE rights.
- 37 2. That you are acting in an EXCLUSIVELY PRIVATE capacity.
- 38 3. That the only thing governments can lawfully regulate or tax civilly is the exercise of PUBLIC RIGHTS by PUBLIC 39 OFFICERS.
- 40 4. That it is a crime to impersonate a public officer per 18 U.S.C. §912.
- 41 5. That you cannot “elect” yourself into a public office by simply filling out a tax form.
- 42 6. That all franchisees are public officers within the Executive Branch of the government.
- 43 7. That it is a criminal conflict of interest for any franchise judge to ALSO hear constitutional issues per 18 U.S.C. §208.
- 44 8. What is the nature of the “right” being enforced by the government as moving party? Is it a:
45 8.1. PUBLIC right created by congress?
46 8.2. PRIVATE or NATURAL right recognized by the Constitution and/or the Bill of Rights?
- 47 9. What branch of the government is the court hearing the case within. Is it a:
48 9.1. LEGISLATIVE franchise court in the EXECUTIVE Branch proceeding under Article 4, Section 3, Clause 2 of 49 the Constitution...or
50 9.2. CONSTITUTIONAL court within the JUDICIAL branch proceeding under Article III of the Constitution?
- 51 10. That it is a CRIME to enter a plea in a tax case as a NONTAXPAYER. A NONTAXPAYER cannot enter a plea
52 without criminally impersonating the public officer who is the ONLY lawful subject of the Internal Revenue Code per
53 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(14).

- 1 11. That any attempt to confuse PUBLIC rights with PRIVATE rights by abusing “words of art” or expanding their 2 meaning beyond the clear meaning of the statutes constitutes the equivalent of “purposeful availment” by the national
3 government in a legislatively but not constitutionally foreign jurisdiction and which produces a waiver of sovereign
4 immunity under the Foreign Sovereign Immunities Act, 28 U.S.C. Chapter 97 and the Longarm Statutes of the state 5 you are within.
6 12. The SPECIFIC and EXACT provision by which your EXCLUSIVELY PRIVATE rights and PRIVATE property were 7 consensually converted to PUBLIC RIGHTS and PUBLIC PROPERTY:

8 “Men are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable rights, - 'life, liberty, and the pursuit of 9 happiness;’ and to 'secure,' not grant or create, these rights, governments are instituted. That property [or 10 income] which a man has honestly acquired he retains full control of, subject to these limitations:

11 [1] First, that he shall not use it to his neighbor's injury, and that does not mean that he 12 must use it for his neighbor's benefit [e.g. SOCIAL SECURITY,
13 Medicare, and every other public “benefit”];

14 [2] second, that if he devotes it to a public use, he gives to the public a right to control that use; and

15 [3] third, that whenever the public needs require, the public may take it upon payment of due 16 compensation.”

17 Budd v. People of State of New York, [143 U.S. 517 (1892)]

18 The above rules are summarized below:
19

Table 3: Rules for converting private property to a public use or a public office

#	Description	Requires consent of owner to be taken from owner?
1	The owner of property justly acquired enjoys full and exclusive use and control over the property. This right includes the right to exclude government uses or ownership of said property.	Yes
2	He may not use the property to injure the equal rights of his neighbor. For instance, when you murder someone, the government can take your liberty and labor from you by putting you in jail or your life from you by instituting the death penalty against you. Both your life and your labor are “property”. Therefore, the basis for the “taking” was violation of the equal rights of a fellow sovereign “neighbor”.	No
3	He cannot be compelled or required to use it to “benefit” his neighbor. That means he cannot be compelled to donate the property to any franchise that would “benefit” his neighbor such as Social Security, Medicare, etc.	Yes
4	If he donates it to a public use, he gives the public the right to control that use.	Yes
5	Whenever the public needs require, the public may take it without his consent upon payment of due compensation. E.g. “eminent domain”.	No

12.1. The following two methods are the ONLY methods involving consent of the owner that may be LAWFULLY employed to convert PRIVATE property into PUBLIC property. Anything else is unlawful and THEFT:

12.1.1.

12.1.2. DIRECT CONVERSION: Owner donates the property by conveying title or possession to the government.⁵⁶

12.1.3. INDIRECT CONVERSION: Owner assumes a PUBLIC status as a PUBLIC officer in the HOLDING of title to the property.⁵⁷ All such statuses and the rights that attach to it are creations and property of the government, the use of which is a privilege. The status and all PUBLIC RIGHTS that attach to it conveys a “benefit” for which the status user must pay an excise tax. The tax acts as a rental or use fee for the status, which is government property.

12.2. You and ONLY you can authorize your private property to be donated to a public use, public purpose, and public office. No third party can lawfully convert or donate your private property to a public use, public purpose, or public office without your knowledge and express consent. If they do, they are guilty of theft and conversion, and especially if they are acting in a quasi-governmental capacity as a “withholding agent” as defined in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(16).

12.2.1. A withholding agent cannot file an information return connecting your earnings to a “trade or business” without you actually occupying a “public office” in the government BEFORE you filled out any tax form.

12.2.2. A withholding agent cannot file IRS Form W-2 against your earnings if you didn’t sign an IRS Form W-4 contract and thereby consent to donate your private property to a public office in the U.S. government and therefore a “public use”.

12.2.3. That donation process is accomplished by your own voluntary self-assessment and ONLY by that method. Before such a self-assessment, you are a “nontaxpayer” and a private person. After the assessment, you become a “taxpayer” and a public officer in the government engaged in the “trade or business” franchise.

12.2.4. In order to have an income tax liability, you must complete, sign, and “file” an income tax return and thereby assess yourself:

“Our system of taxation is based upon voluntary assessment and payment, not distraint.”

⁵⁶ An example of direct conversion would be the process of “registering” a vehicle with the Department of Motor Vehicles in your state. The act of registration constitutes consent by original ABSOLUTE owner to change the ownership of the property from ABSOLUTE to QUALIFIED and to convey legal title to the state and qualified title to himself.

⁵⁷ An example of a PUBLIC status is statutory “taxpayer” (public office called “trade or business”), statutory “citizen”, statutory “driver” (vehicle), statutory voter (registered voters are public officers).

[Flora v. U.S., 362 U.S. 145 (1960)]

By assessing yourself, you implicitly give your consent to allow the public the right to control that use of the formerly PRIVATE property donated to a public use.

12.3. A THEFT of property has occurred on behalf of the government if it attempts to do any of the following:

12.3.1. Circumvents any of the above rules.

12.3.2. Blurs, confuses, or obfuscates the distinction between PRIVATE property and PUBLIC property.

12.3.3. Refuses to identify EXACTLY which of the mechanisms identified in item 10 above was employed in

EACH specific case where it:

12.3.3.1. Asserts a right to regulate the use of private property.

12.3.3.2. Asserts a right to convert the character of property from PRIVATE to PUBLIC.

12.3.3.3. Asserts a right to TAX what you THOUGHT was PRIVATE property.

11 Techniques for Combatting Government Verbiage and Presumption When Litigating Against the Government⁵⁸

As we said in the Introduction of this document, the most prevalent method for unlawfully enlarging government jurisdiction and advancing the government flawed tax arguments described starting in Form #08.004, Section 8 are presumptions, equivocation, and verbiage using "words of art". The following subsections contain verbiage that we recommend including in any Memorandum of Law you file in any especially federal court during litigation involving taxation in order to prevent being victimized by such abuses. The language assumes that you are litigating against the government. The last of the three subsections derives from the following free memorandum of law, Section 3.9:

11.1 Rebuttal of Those who Fraudulently Challenge or Try to Expand the Statutory Definitions in this Document

The main purpose of law is to limit government power. The foundation of what it means to have a "society of law and not men" is law that limits government powers. We cover this in Legal Deception, Propaganda, and Fraud, Form #05.014, Section 5. Government cannot have limited powers without DEFINITIONS in the written law that are limiting and which define and declare ALL THINGS that are included and implicitly exclude all things not expressly identified. The rules of statutory construction and interpretation recognize this critical function of law with the following maxims:

"Expressio unius est exclusio alterius. A maxim of statutory interpretation meaning that the expression of one thing is the exclusion of another. Burgin v. Forbes, 293 Ky. 456, 169 S.W.2d. 321, 325; Newblock v. Bowles, 170 Okl. 487, 40 P.2d. 1097, 1100. Mention of one thing implies exclusion of another. When certain persons or things are specified in a law, contract, or will, an intention to exclude all others from its operation may be inferred. Under this maxim, if statute specifies one exception to a general rule or assumes to specify the effects of a certain provision, other exceptions or effects are excluded."
[Black's Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, p. 581]

"When a statute includes an explicit definition, we must follow that definition, even if it varies from that term's ordinary meaning. Meese v. Keene, 481 U.S. 465, 484-485 (1987) ("It is axiomatic that the statutory definition of the term excludes unstated meanings of that term"); Colautti v. Franklin, 439 U.S. at 392-393, n. 10 ("As a rule, a definition which declares what a term "means" . . . excludes any meaning that is not stated"); Western Union Telegraph Co. v. Lenroot, 323 U.S. 490, 502 (1945); Fox v. Standard Oil Co. of N.J., 294 U.S. 87, 95-96 (1935) (Cardozo, J.); see also 2A N. Singer, Sutherland on Statutes and Statutory Construction § 47.07, p. 152, and n. 10 (5th ed. 1992) (collecting cases). That is to say, the statute, read "as a whole," post at

1 998 [530 U.S. 943] (THOMAS, J., dissenting), leads the reader to a definition. That definition does not include
2 the Attorney General's restriction -- "the child up to the head." Its words, "substantial portion," indicate the
3 contrary."
4 [Stenberg v. Carhart, 530 U.S. 914 \(2000\)]

5 The ability to define terms or ADD to the EXISTING statutory definition of terms is a LEGISLATIVE function that can
6 lawfully and constitutionally be exercised ONLY by the Legislative Branch of the government. The power to define or 7 expand the definition of statutory terms:

- 8 1. CANNOT lawfully be exercised by either a judge or a government prosecutor or the Internal Revenue Service.
- 9 2. CANNOT be exercised by making PRESUMPTIONS about what a term means or by enforcing the COMMON
10 meaning of the term that is already defined in a statute. See [Presumption: Chief Weapon for Unlawfully Enlarging
11 Federal Jurisdiction, Form #05.017](#):

12 *"It is apparent,' this court said in the Bailey Case (219 U.S. 239 , 31 S.Ct. 145, 151) 'that a constitutional
13 prohibition cannot be transgressed indirectly by the creation of a statutory presumption any more than it
14 can be violated by direct enactment. The power to create presumptions is not a means of escape from 15 constitutional restrictions."*
16 [Heiner v. Donnan, 285 U.S. 312 \(1932\)]

17
18 *A presumption is an assumption of fact that the law requires to be made from another fact or group of facts
19 found or otherwise established in the action. A presumption is not evidence. A presumption is either
20 conclusive or rebuttable. Every rebuttable presumption is either (a) a presumption affecting the burden of 21 producing evidence or (b) a presumption affecting the burden of proof. Calif.Evid.Code, §600.*

22 *In all civil actions and proceedings not otherwise provided for by Act of Congress or by the Federal Rules of 23 Evidence, a presumption imposes on the party against whom it is directed the burden of going forward with 24 evidence to rebut or meet the presumption, but does not shift to such party the burden of proof in the sense of 25 the risk of nonpersuasion, which remains throughout the trial upon the party on whom it was originally cast.
26 Federal Evidence Rule 301.*

27 *See also Disputable presumption; inference; Juris et de jure; Presumptive evidence; Prima facie; Raise a 28 presumption.
29 [Black's Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, p. 1185]*

- 30 3. Unlawfully and unconstitutionally violates the separation of powers when it IS exercised by a judge or government 31 prosecutor. See Government Conspiracy to Destroy the Separation of Powers, Form #05.023.
- 32 4. Produces the following consequences when it IS exercised by a judge or government prosecutor or administrative 33 agency. The statement below was written by the man who DESIGNED our three branch system of government. He 34 also described in his design how it can be subverted, and corrupt government actors have implemented his 35 techniques for subversion to unlawfully and unconstitutionally expand their power:

36 *"When the legislative and executive powers are united in the same person, or in the same body of
37 magistrates, there can be no liberty; because apprehensions may arise, lest the same monarch or senate
38 should enact tyrannical laws, to execute them in a tyrannical manner.*

39 *Again, there is no liberty, if the judiciary power be not separated from the legislative and executive. Were it
40 joined with the legislative, the life and liberty of the subject would be exposed to arbitrary control; for the judge
41 would be then the legislator. Were it joined to the executive power, the judge might behave with violence and 42 oppression [sound familiar?].*

43 *There would be an end of everything, were the same man or the same body, whether of the nobles or of the
44 people, to exercise those three powers, that of enacting laws, that of executing the public resolutions, and of 45 trying the causes of individuals."*

46 [. . .]

47 *In what a situation must the poor subject be in those republics! The same body of magistrates are possessed,
48 as executors of the laws, of the whole power they have given themselves in quality of legislators. They may
49 plunder the state by their general determinations; and as they have likewise the judiciary power in their
50 hands, every private citizen may be ruined by their particular decisions."*

2 SOURCE: http://famguardian.org/Publications/SpiritOfLaws/sol_11.htm]

3 Any judge, prosecutor, or clerk in an administrative agency who tries to EXPAND or ADD to statutory definitions is
4 violating all the above. Likewise, anyone who tries to QUOTE a judicial opinion that adds to a statutory definition is
5 violating the separation of powers, usurping authority, and STEALING your property and rights. It is absolutely
6 POINTLESS and an act of ANARCHY, lawlessness, and a usurpation to try to add to statutory definitions.

7 The most prevalent means to UNLAWFULLY and UNCONSTITUTIONALLY add to statutory definitions is through the 8 abuse of the words "includes" or "including". That tactic is thoroughly described and rebutted in:

9 Government falsely accuses sovereignty advocates of practicing anarchy, but THEY, by trying to unlawfully expand
10 statutory definitions through either the abuse of the word "includes" or through PRESUMPTION, are the REAL anarchists.

21 prove that you are subject to it. Such franchises include but are not limited to:
- 22 2.1. 26 U.S.C.: Internal Revenue Code.
23 2.2. 42 U.S.C.: Social Security Act, Medicare, and Unemployment insurance

26 11.3 Using the Overbreadth Doctrine to attack vague or undefined statutes or terms or attempts 27 to compel you to fill out government forms a certain way or punish you for language you 28 accurately used on the form

29 The Overbreadth Doctrine of the U.S. Supreme Court was invented to prevent the chilling effect upon the First Amendment
30 rights of litigants caused by statutes that are vague or which use undefined words or government enforcement actions that 31 enjoin any kind of speech, including specific types of speech on government forms or even tax forms. For instance, it is 32 used to attack:

- 33 1. Definitions of key terms in statutes so as to include PRIVATE people or PRIVATE property. The ability to regulate 34 PRIVATE rights and PRIVATE property is repugnant to the Constitution and therefore, Congress cannot define terms
35 to include anything PRIVATE. See:
- | |
|---|
| Enumeration of Inalienable (PRIVATE) Rights, Form #10.002
https://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm |
|---|
- 36 2. The validity of all legislation that administratively or financially penalizes specific types of truthful speech, including 37 on government forms.
- 38 3. Attempts by judges and IRS to call you "frivolous" without providing court admissible evidence from a neutral third
39 party that PROVES that the speech they seek to penalize you for as "frivolous" satisfies the definition of "frivolous".
40 A judge cannot practice law by being the judge, jury, and executioner without jury oversight in sanctioning litigants for 41 being frivolous and yet refusing to even prove their case. See:

Responding to "Frivolous" Penalties and Accusations, Form #05.027

<https://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

- 1 4. Attempts by the IRS to penalize you for truthfully claiming under penalty of perjury that you are any of the following
2 on government forms, in court, or at an IRS audit:
 - 3 4.1. A statutory "nonresident" or "non-resident non-person".
 - 4 4.2. A statutory "nontaxpayer".
 - 5 4.3. Not a statutory "employee".
 - 6 4.4. Not a statutory "employer".
 - 7 4.5. Not in the statutory "United States" (federal zone).
 - 8 4.6. Not in the CORPORATION "United States" (28 U.S.C. §3002(15)(A)) as a legal person and a public officer.All such attempts constitute criminal witness tampering if authenticated with a perjury statement.
- 9 5. Attempts by the IRS to ignore correspondence or custom or amended forms you submit claiming to be a nontaxpayer
10 because they refuse to offer "nontaxpayer" or "non-resident non-person" status forms or status blocks on existing
11 forms. When they ignore such correspondence, they usually will try long after receiving such forms from you to say
12 that they either didn't receive your correspondence or try to penalize you for truthfully claiming to be a "non-resident
13 non-person" and a "nontaxpayer". This also constitutes criminal witness tampering and violates the overbreadth 14 doctrine.
- 15 6. Attempts by the IRS to penalize you for defining terms on government forms so as to place you outside of their 16 territorial or enforcement jurisdiction. See:
17

Why Penalties are Illegal for Anything But Government Franchisees, Employees, Contractors, and Agents, Form #05.010

<https://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

18 It is important to note that the Overbreadth Doctrine:

- 19 1. Only applies to those protected by the Constitution and the First Amendment. That means people standing on land
20 within a constitutional state at the time of the injury. The constitution attaches to LAND, and not the status of the 21 people ON the land. ⁵⁹
- 22 2. Does NOT apply to fictions of law or statutory franchisee creations of Congress such as "taxpayers", all of which are 23 public offices in the national government. Such fictions and franchisee offices have ONLY the privileges that 24 Congress chooses by statute to convey to them. See:

Why Statutory Civil Law is Law for Government and Not Private Persons, Form #05.037

<https://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

- 25 3. Can be employed by those who are protected by the Constitution but were compelled under duress to declare 26 themselves "taxpayers" under threat of administrative penalty if they DO NOT.
- 27 4. Cannot be employed by those who readily admit they are statutory "taxpayers", "persons", "individuals", or those who 28 describe themselves as such on government forms. Submitting a duress statement signed under penalty of perjury in 29 your court pleadings is MANDATORY BEFORE undertaking an Overbreadth Action for those whose administrative 30 record reflects the false notion that they are "taxpayers", "individuals", "persons", etc. A failure to do so will result in 31 them rightfully being penalized as "frivolous". For an example of such a duress statement in a tax context, see:

Affidavit of Duress: Illegal Tax Enforcement by De Facto Officers, Form #02.005

<https://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

- 32 5. Can be successfully employed even among those who cannot personally demonstrate an injury. This makes it different 33 from most common law actions and adds a LOT of flexibility and coverage to many more situations than usual.
- 34 6. Applies to ALL First Amendment activity, including not only speech but the exercise of your First Amendment right to 35 both politically and CIVILLY DISASSOCIATE with anyone and everyone and to be protect ONLY by the CRIMINAL
36 and CONSTITUTIONAL law and not any civil statutes. In fact, the means by which you associate or disassociate with 37 any political entity are the civil statuses that you connect yourself with VOLUNTARILY on government forms. A
38 REFUSAL or FAILURE to associate with any political group and thereby become a "non-resident non-person" or 39 "nontaxpayer" is, in fact, an act of DISASSOCIATION protected by the First Amendment and the Overbreadth
40 Doctrine. See:

Your Exclusive Right to Declare or Establish Your Civil Status, Form #13.008

<https://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

⁵⁹ "It is locality that is determinative of the application of the Constitution, in such matters as judicial procedure, and not the status of the people who live in it." [Balzac v. Porto Rico, 258 U.S. 298 (1922)]

1 The following subsections deal with the employment of this doctrine. They derive from the American Jurisprudence 2d,
2 16A Am.Jur.2d, Constitutional Law, Sections 409 through 414 (1999).

3 11.3.1 Validity of legislation, in general

4 In determining the validity of legislation where a violation of protected First Amendment freedoms has been alleged, a
5 comprehensive review of the entire record is important to assure that no intrusion upon them has occurred. 13 Moreover,
6 in appraising a statute's inhibitory effect upon First Amendment rights, the United States Supreme Court will not hesitate to
7 take into account the possible applications of the statute in other factual contexts besides the one being specifically
8 considered. 14 In this connection, it has been held that the limit placed upon the power of the states by the Fourteenth
9 Amendment is not narrower than that placed upon the national government by the First Amendment, 15 but, by the same
10 token, it has also been held that stricter scrutiny of validity should not be exercised in instances of a national statute under
11 the First Amendment than in those of a state statute under the Fourteenth Amendment. 16 Decisions of the United States
12 Supreme Court as to whether a congressional act contravenes the First Amendment are authoritative when a state court
13 considers whether a state enactment contravenes the Fourteenth Amendment. 17

14 Courts will not assume in advance that Congress will pass legislation in violation of the First Amendment, and will 15 presume, until the contrary appears, that Congress will fulfill its obligation to defend and preserve the Constitution. 18

30 L.Ed. 434 (1948).

31 11.3.2 Vagueness of legislation

32 The vagueness of a content-based regulation of speech raises special First Amendment concerns because of its obvious
33 chilling effect on free speech. 19 Thus, reasonable certainty in statutes is more essential than usual when vagueness might
34 induce individuals to forgo their First Amendment rights for fear of violating an unclear law. 20

35 While a statute punishing verbal acts, carefully drawn so as not unduly to impair liberty of expression, is not too vague for a
36 criminal law, 21 a statute which, upon its face, and as authoritatively construed, is so vague as to permit the punishment of 37 the fair use of the opportunity of free political discussion is repugnant to the guarantee of liberty contained in the 38 Fourteenth Amendment. 22 Vague laws in any area suffer a constitutional infirmity, but when First Amendment rights are 39 involved, the United States Supreme Court looks even more closely lest, under the guise of regulating conduct that is 40 reachable by the police power, a First Amendment freedom suffers; such a law must be narrowly drawn to prevent the 41 supposed evil. 23 Because First Amendment freedoms need breathing space to survive, the government may regulate in
42 the area only with narrow specificity. 24 Stricter standards of permissible statutory vagueness may be applied to a statute
43 having a potentially inhibiting effect on speech; 25 precision of regulation must be the touchstone in an area so closely

1 involving our most precious freedoms. 26 And since standards of permissible statutory vagueness are strict in the area of
2 free expression, the United States Supreme Court will not assume that an ambiguous line between permitted and prohibited
3 activities curtails constitutionally protected activity as little as possible, or that in subsequent enforcement of the statute,
4 ambiguities will be resolved in favor of adequate protection of First Amendment rights. 27

5 " Observation: Although the Supreme Court has held that the application of the overbreadth doctrine 28 is inappropriate in
6 commercial speech cases, 29 it has not limited the reach of the vagueness doctrine in the same way. 30

7 11.3.3 Overbreadth of legislation; generally

8 "Overbreadth" is a judicially created doctrine designed to prevent the chilling of protected expression. 31 The 9 doctrine of overbreadth derives from the recognition that an unconstitutional restriction of expression may deter protected
10 speech by parties not before the court and thereby escape judicial review. 32 Numerous decisions have dealt with the 11 question whether legislation 33 is invalid, upon its face or as applied, because due to its overbreadth, it infringes upon 12 First Amendment rights, that is, the rights of free speech and press, of freedom of religion, of peaceful assembly and 13 association, and of petitioning the government for a redress of grievances.

14 The doctrine of overbreadth is of relatively recent origin. 34 Claims of facial overbreadth have been entertained in cases:
15 (1) involving statutes which, by their terms, seek to regulate "only spoken words," in such cases it being the judgment of
16 the court that the possible harm to society in permitting some unprotected speech to go unpunished is outweighed by the
17 possibility that protected speech of others may be muted and perceived grievances left to fester because of the possible
18 inhibitory effect of overly broad statutes; (2) where the court thought that rights of association were ensnared in statutes
19 which, by their broad sweep, might result in burdening innocent associations; and (3) where statutes, by their terms, purport
20 to regulate the time, place, and manner of expressive or communicative conduct and such conduct has required official
21 approval under laws that delegated standardless discretionary power to local functionaries, resulting in virtually
22 unreviewable prior restraints on First Amendment rights. 35

23 " Practice guide: In order to prevail on a facial attack on the constitutionality of a statute on grounds of overbreadth, the 24 challenger must show either that every application of the statute creates an impermissible risk of suppression of ideas, or 25 that the statute is "substantially" overbroad, which requires the court to find a realistic danger that the statute itself will
26 significantly compromise recognized First Amendment protections of parties not before the court. 36

27 The distinction between the doctrine of overbreadth and the doctrine of vagueness 37 is that the overbreadth doctrine is
28 applicable primarily in the First Amendment area 38 and may render void legislation which is lacking neither in clarity
29 nor precision, 39 whereas the vagueness doctrine is based on the due process clauses of the Fifth and Fourteenth
30 Amendments 40 and is applicable solely to legislation which is lacking in clarity and precision. 41

31 " Observation: However, in some cases, legislation has been struck down on the grounds of both overbreadth and
32 vagueness, 42 and the Supreme Court has not always made a clear distinction between the two doctrines. 43

33 While in general there is no such thing as a First Amendment challenge for "underbreadth," that is, an underinclusiveness of 34 the law, as evidenced by the failure of government to regulate other, similar activity, such a circumstance may, in some rare
35 cases, give rise to the conclusion that the government has in fact made an impermissible distinction on the basis of the 36 content of regulated speech. 44

10 11.3.4 Procedural aspects of doctrine

11 The general rule governing the standing of a party to challenge the constitutionality of legislation is that a litigant to whom 12 a statute may constitutionally be applied will not be heard to challenge the statute on the ground that it may conceivably be
13 applied unconstitutionally to others in situations not before the court. A closely related principle is that constitutional rights
14 are personal and may not be asserted vicariously. However, the Supreme Court has recognized some limited exceptions to 15 this rule in the presence of the most "weighty countervailing policies." 45

16 One of these modifications or exceptions has been carved out by the Supreme Court in the area of the First Amendment,
17 where the court, altering its traditional rules of standing, permits attacks on overly broad statutes without requiring that the
18 person making the attack demonstrate that his or her own conduct cannot be regulated by a statute drawn with the requisite
19 narrow specificity. 46 A defendant's standing to challenge a statute on First Amendment grounds as facially overbroad has 20 been held not to depend upon whether his or her own activity is shown to be constitutionally privileged. 47 In other words,
21 although a statute or ordinance is not vague, overbroad, or otherwise invalid as applied to conduct charged against a
22 particular defendant, he or she is permitted by the court to raise its unconstitutional vagueness or overbreadth as applied to
23 other persons in situations not before the court. 48 The same rule applies to corporations and other entities. 49 However,
24 a litigant has no standing to attack legislation on overbreadth grounds, where he or she does not claim a specific present
25 subjective harm or a threat of specific future harm, or where the alleged overbreadth is not substantial. 50 Also, the 26 overbreadth exception to the general rule of standing has less weight in the military than in the civilian context, 51 and has
27 ordinarily not been applied by the Supreme Court to litigation in areas other than those relating to the First Amendment. 52

28 In addition, the doctrine of abstention—under which, as a general proposition, a federal court, confronted with issues of 29 constitutional dimension which implicate or depend upon unsettled questions of state law, should abstain and stay its 30 proceedings until those state law questions are definitely resolved by the state courts 53 —has been held inapplicable where 31 a clear and precise state statute, not susceptible to a narrowing construction by the state courts, is challenged on the grounds
32 of overbreadth. 54

11.3.5 Substantive aspects of doctrine

The Supreme Court's departure from traditional rules of standing in the First Amendment area, discussed in the preceding section, has been held by the Court also to have consequences in deciding an overbreadth case on its merits. The Supreme Court has ruled that if a law is found deficient because of overbreadth as applied to others, it may not be applied to the particular litigant either, until and unless a satisfactorily limiting construction is placed on the legislation. 55 In addition, the Supreme Court has stated the following general rules for determining whether a statute is overbroad or not:

1. legislation is unconstitutionally overbroad where it is susceptible of application to conduct protected by the First Amendment 56
2. a challenge of overbreadth is based on the ground that legislation, even if lacking neither clarity nor precision, offends the constitutional principle that a governmental purpose to control or prevent activities constitutionally subject to state regulation may not be achieved by means which sweep unnecessarily broadly and thereby invade the area of freedom protected by the First Amendment 57
3. where conduct and not mere speech is involved, the overbreadth must not only be real, but substantial as well, judged in relation to the challenged statute's plainly legitimate sweep 58
4. the breadth of legislative abridgement of First Amendment rights must be viewed in the light of less drastic or narrower means for achieving the same basic purpose 59
5. where statutes have an overbroad sweep, just as where they are vague, the hazard of loss or substantial impairment of the precious First Amendment rights may be critical, since those persons covered by the statutes are bound to limit their behavior to that which is unquestionably safe. 60

“ Observation: An important factor considered by the Supreme Court in determining the overbreadth of legislation is the Court's balancing of the governmental interests involved against First Amendment rights. 61

Where First Amendment freedoms are at stake, precision of drafting and clarity of purpose of regulating legislation are essential. 62 While the government may regulate the content of constitutionally protected speech in order to promote a compelling interest, it must choose the least restrictive means to further the articulated interest. 63

In public places considered to be public forums, the government's ability to permissibly restrict expressive conduct is very limited. The government may enforce reasonable time, place, and manner regulations as long as the restrictions are content-neutral, are narrowly tailored to serve a significant governmental interest, and leave open ample alternative channels of communication. Additional restrictions, such as an absolute prohibition on a particular type of expression, will be upheld only if narrowly drawn to accomplish a compelling governmental interest. 64 Thus, the consequence of the Court's departure from traditional rules of standing in the First Amendment area is that any enforcement of a statute challenged on the ground of overbreadth is totally forbidden, until and unless a limiting construction or partial invalidation so narrows it as to remove the seeming threat or deterrents to the constitutionally protected expression. 65 Obviously, for this rule to apply, the legislation must be susceptible of a narrowing construction in the first place. 66

The application of the overbreadth doctrine has been held by the Supreme Court to be limited to freedoms guaranteed by the Bill of Rights. 67 On the other hand, there are cases in which legislation occasionally has been held to be overbroad and hence to violate provisions of the Federal Constitution other than the freedoms guaranteed by the Bill of Rights. 68

“ Caution: The overbreadth doctrine does not apply to commercial speech. 69

The Supreme Court has observed that declaring a statute facially unconstitutional because of overbreadth "is, manifestly, strong medicine," and that such a declaration has been employed by the Court sparingly and only as a last resort. 70 In regard to the overbreadth doctrine, a declaration of facial invalidity of legislation has been held inappropriate where: (1) there are a substantial number of situations to which the legislation might be validly applied; 71 (2) the legislation covers a whole range of easily identifiable and constitutionally proscribable conduct; 72 or (3) the legislation is susceptible of a narrowing construction. 73

1 In determining whether legislation which violates the First Amendment on the ground of overbreadth may be saved from
2 invalidity by a narrowing construction, the Supreme Court has made a distinction, based on a general rule, not limited to the 3 overbreadth doctrine, between the scope of its review of federal and of state statutes. This general rule is to the effect that
4 the Supreme Court lacks jurisdiction to authoritatively construe state legislation so as to avoid constitutional issues, but has
5 the power to give a federal statute such authoritative construction. 74 The Court has also ruled that only the state courts
6 can supply the requisite narrowing construction, since the Supreme Court lacks jurisdiction to authoritatively construe state
7 legislation. 75 The Court, on the other hand, has observed that although its interpretation of a state statute is obviously not
8 binding on state authorities, a federal court still must determine what a state statute means before it can judge its facial
9 constitutionality. 76 Where possible, the Court gives federal legislation a narrowing construction, 77 whereas the 10 determination of the issue of overbreadth of state legislation depends upon whether a state court has given the legislation in
11 question a properly narrowing construction. 78 In many cases, an overbreadth challenge to state legislation has been
12 rejected by the Supreme Court on the ground that the state courts had given such legislation a narrowing construction. 79
13 On the other hand, in other cases state legislation has been held invalid on the ground of overbreadth since the state court's
14 construction of such legislation did not properly narrow its scope. 80

30 A state statute providing for enhancement of a defendant's sentence whenever he intentionally selects his victim based on 31 the victim's race is not unconstitutionally overbroad because of its possible chilling effect on free speech; the possibility
32 that the statute might lead a citizen to suppress his unpopular bigoted opinions, out of fear that these opinions might later be 33 offered against him to enhance his sentence if he later commits an offense covered by the statute, is too speculative to 34 support an overbreadth claim. Wisconsin v. Mitchell, 508 U.S. 476, 113 S.Ct. 2194, 124 L.Ed.2d. 436, 21 Media L. Rep.

21 The government may impose reasonable restrictions on the time, place, or manner as to the exercise of protected speech,

41 While a demonstrably overbroad statute or ordinance may deter the legitimate exercise of First Amendment rights,
42 nevertheless, when considering a facial challenge it is necessary to proceed with caution and restraint, since invalidation
43 may result in unnecessary interference with a state regulatory program; in accommodating these competing interests a state

1 statute should not be deemed facially invalid unless it is not readily subject to a narrowing construction by the courts.

10 11.4 Preventing the enforcement of perjury statements and ALL civil franchises against you in 11 court

12 All franchises are LOANS rather than GIFTS of money, property, or services. That's what a "privilege" is: a loan of 13 government property WITH conditions. Perjury statements on government forms that you signed are the main method
14 abused by the government to establish franchises and to "selectively enforce" against those who don't want to participate
15 in, subsidize, or permit the enforcement of government franchises against them. It is very important to understand how to 16 prevent these abuses and that is the focus of this section.

17 Criminal perjury at the federal level is enforced under the authority of 18 U.S.C. §§1001, 1542, and 1621. Criminal perjury
18 is very difficult to prosecute and infrequently prosecuted because like other crimes, they require the government to prove 19 mens rea. Mens rea in the context of criminal perjury requires them to prove that:

- 20 1. You KNEW the statement contained a factual falsehood.
- 21 2. That falsehood would or did result in a direct, quantifiable injury to a specific person. In other words, the falsehood
22 was "material" to an injury:

23 MATERIAL. Important; more or less necessary; having influence or effect; going to the merits; having to do
24 with matter, as distinguished from form.

25 Representation relating to matter which is so substantial and important as to influence party to whom made is 26 "material." McGuire v. Gunn, 133 Kan. 422, 300 P. 654, 656. Any misrepresentation bringing about issuance
27 of policy on reduced premium rate is "material." Brooks Transp. Co. v. Merchants' Mut. Casualty Co., 6
28 W.W.Harr. 40, 171 A. 207.
29 [Black's Law Dictionary, Fourth Edition, p. 1128]

30 MATERIAL EVIDENCE. Such as is relevant and goes to the substantial matters in dispute, or has a legitimate
31 and effective influence or bearing on the decision of the case. Porter v. Valentine, 18 Misc. 213, 41 N.Y.S. 507;
32 Connecticut Fire Ins. Co. of Hartford, Conn., v. George, 52 Okl. 432, 153 P. 116, 119. "Materiality," with 33 reference to evidence does not have the same signification as "relevancy." Pangburn v. State, Tex.Cr.App., 56
34 S.W. 72, 73.
35 [Black's Law Dictionary, Fourth Edition, p. 1128]

- 36 3. The injured party was physically on territory under the exclusive jurisdiction of the national government, meaning 37 federal territory. All law is prima facie territorial.

38 In order to establish the above elements of a valid claim of criminal perjury in the context of a government civil statutory
39 franchise, the government must FIRST have provided commercial money, property, or services to the recipient that they
40 were typically NOT eligible for, and the perjury by the recipient was intended to falsely establish that they WERE eligible.
41 Otherwise, there could be no "damages" that could be recovered and the government would have no "standing" to sue.
42 Lack of standing under Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 12(b)(6) is the most frequently cited authority for dismissing such a
43 case.

44 Rule 12. Defenses and Objections: When and How Presented; Motion for Judgment on the Pleadings;
45 Consolidating Motions; Waiving Defenses; Pretrial Hearing

1 (b) How to Present Defenses.

2 Every defense to a claim for relief in any pleading must be asserted in the responsive pleading if one is 3 required. But a party may assert the following defenses by motion:

- 4 (1) lack of subject-matter jurisdiction;
5 (2) lack of personal jurisdiction;
6 (3) improper venue;
7 (4) insufficient process;
8 (5) insufficient service of process;
9 (6) failure to state a claim upon which relief can be granted; and
10 (7) failure to join a party under Rule 19.

11 A motion asserting any of these defenses must be made before pleading if a responsive pleading is allowed. If
12 a pleading sets out a claim for relief that does not require a responsive pleading, an opposing party may 13 assert at trial any defense to that claim. No defense or objection is waived by joining it with one or more other 14 defenses or objections in a responsive pleading or in a motion.

16 Therefore, in order to PREVENT or DEFEAT criminal perjury under a civil statutory franchise enforcement proceeding,
17 the defendant needs to do use the following:

- 18 1. Define all critical terms on every government form when submitted.
19 1.1. This is already done for those who are compliant members in the following mandatory submissions they sent to 20 the government when joining:
21 1.1.1. Legal Notice of Change in Domicile/Citizenship Records and Divorce from the United States, Form #10.001
22 <http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>
23 1.1.2. Resignation of Compelled Social Security Trustee, Form #06.002
24 <http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>
25 1.2. If you haven't sent in the above forms, you can use the following primary attachments for individual applications:
26 1.2.1. Affidavit of Citizenship, Domicile, and Tax Status, Form #02.001
27 <http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>
28 1.2.2. Tax Form Attachment, Form #04.201
29 <http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>
30 2. If the form was already submitted without definitions, mail in an addendum after the fact using the forms mentioned in 31 the previous step 1.
32 3. In the definition, state that:
33 3.1. The terms are EXCLUDE all STATUTORY contexts and include ONLY YOUR definitions or, if you didn't 34 define it, the ORDINARY/PRIVATE meaning.
35 3.2. The application is a request for a RETURN of funds ALREADY paid to the government and loaned temporarily
36 to them WITH CONDITIONS AND COVENANTS ATTACHED. Those CONDITIONS AND COVENANTS 37 are documented in:
38

Injury Defense Franchise and Agreement , Form #06.027 http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm

39 3.3. The government is not returning property that it OWNS, but rather property it is holding as a custodian that is and 40 always WAS owned by the recipient.
41 3.4. The money, property, or services provided by you were not paid as a "tax" as that term is statutorily defined, but 42 rather a LOAN from you to them.
43 3.5. Any government form or application containing the alleged perjury statement is rendered FALSE,
44 FRAUDULENT, AND/OR PERJURIOUS BY THE GOVERNMENT RECIPIENT if the attachment or changes
45 to it containing the covenant and/or definitions is either redacted or removed.
46 3.6. The above approach is an implementation of your First Amendment right to practice your religion. God
47 commands believers to owe nothing to no one and to be a LENDER but not a BORROWER to all "nations". By 48 "nations" He can only mean "governments". See Romans 13:8, Deut. 15:6, and Deut. 28:12.

48 REMEMBER, as we say in our Path to Freedom, Form #09.015, Section 5.7:

49 "He who writes the rules OR the definitions ALWAYS WINS!"

1 The above tactic is PRECISELY HOW the government, in fact, ensures that IT wins against the public, and therefore YOU
2 must emulate their behavior. Furthermore, under the concept of equal protection and equal treatment, the government
3 MUST allow you to do so. Otherwise, they have implemented the equivalent of a civil religion in which THEY are the 4 pagan “god” being worshipped. That religion is exhaustively described in Socialism: The New American Civil Religion,
5 Form #05.016.

6 Using the above tactic makes it literally impossible for the government to prosecute any franchise or tax crime against you.
7 It also forces the government to fight against itself and disprove its own enforcement authority. After all, if they want to 8 claim that YOU can’t do it, then indirectly neither can THEY under the concept of equal protection and equal treatment.
9 This is the Sun Tzu approach: Use your enemy’s greatest strength against them! You are using your OWN franchises to 10 fight THEIR franchises, and recruiting them to YOUR franchises by EXACTLY the same method as they are recruiting
11 you! All franchises are LOANS rather than GIFTS or PAYMENTS of property. As long as you never give up ownership
12 of your PRIVATE property and everything you give them remains YOURS loaned with CONDITIONS, then you remain
13 the Merchant, they remain the Buyer, and you can NEVER owe them ANYTHING.

14 “Owe no one anything except to love one another, for he who loves another has fulfilled the law.”
15 [Romans 13:8, Bible, NKJV]

16 “For the Lord your God will bless you just as He promised you; you shall lend to many nations, but you shall 17 not borrow; you shall reign over many nations, but they shall not reign over you.”
18 [Deut. 15:6, Bible, NKJV]

19 “The Lord will open to you His good treasure, the heavens, to give the rain to your land in its season, and to 20 bless all the work of your hand. You shall lend to many nations, but you shall not borrow.”
21 [Deut. 28:12, Bible, NKJV]

22 The above scriptures are COMMANDMENTS direct from God. They are therefore a religious practice protected by the 23 First Amendment. Any attempt to actively interfere with the above religious practice is a violation of the First Amendment
24 AND possibly even a crime.

25 Some in the government might claim that this is an “unfair” tactic, but in fact, if it is UNFAIR, it is EQUALLY unfair for 26 the government to use it! And if they can’t use it, they can’t offer or enforce ANY franchise, including the ENTIRE civil 27 code, against anyone, because that is what it is BASED on! See:

34 11.5 Legal Constraints Upon the Meaning and Interpretation of All “Terms” Used by All 35 Parties Throughout All Pleadings, Motions, and Orders Filed in This Proceeding

36 In the interests of justice, and to prevent abusive verbicide using “words of art” by government opponent and the court, the 37 following subsections hereby conclusively establish the rules for construction and interpretation of legal “terms” and 38 definitions, and the meaning of such terms when the specific and inclusive definition is NOT provided by the speaker.
39 These presumptions shall apply to ALL FUTURE PLEADINGS throughout this FRAUDULENT action by the 40 government. The intent and spirit of these prescriptions is motivated by the Founding Fathers themselves and other famous 41 personalities, who said of this MOST IMPORTANT subject the following:

Federal Jurisdiction

Copyright Sovereignty Education and Defense Ministry, <http://sedm.org>
Form 05.018, Rev. 10-30-2014

1 "It has been frequently remarked, with great propriety, that a voluminous code of laws is one of the
2 inconveniences necessarily connected with the advantages of a free government. To avoid an arbitrary
3 discretion in the courts, it is indispensable that they should be bound down by strict rules [of statutory 4 construction and interpretation] and precedents, which serve to define and point out their duty in every
5 particular case that comes before them; and it will readily be conceived from the variety of controversies
6 which grow out of the folly and wickedness of mankind, that the records of those precedents must unavoidably
7 swell to a very considerable bulk, and must demand long and laborious study to acquire a competent knowledge
8 of them."
9 [Federalist Paper No. 78, Alexander Hamilton]

10
11 "Judicial verbicide is calculated to convert the Constitution into a worthless scrap of paper and to replace our 12 government of laws with a judicial oligarchy."
13 [Senator Sam Ervin, during Watergate hearing]

14
15 "When words lose their meaning, people will lose their liberty."
16 [Confucius, 500 B.C.]

17
18 "Every nation, consequently, whose affairs betray a want of wisdom and stability, may calculate on every loss
19 which can be sustained from the more systematic policy of their wiser neighbors. But the best instruction on this
20 subject is unhappily conveyed to America by the example of her own situation. She finds that she is held in no
21 respect by her friends; that she is the derision of her enemies; and that she is a prey to every nation which 22 has an interest in speculating on her fluctuating councils and embarrassed affairs.

23
24 The internal effects of a mutable policy are still more calamitous. It poisons the blessing of liberty itself. It will
25 be of little avail to the people, that the laws are made by men of their own choice, if the laws be so
26 voluminous that they cannot be read, or so incoherent that they cannot be understood; if they be repealed or 27 revised before they are promulgated, or undergo such incessant changes that no man, who knows what the 28 law is to-day, can guess what it will be to-morrow. Law is defined to be a rule of action; but how can that be 29 a rule, which is little known, and less fixed?

30
31 Another effect of public instability is the unreasonable advantage it gives to the sagacious, the enterprising,
32 and the moneyed few over the industrious and uniformed mass of the people. Every new regulation
33 concerning commerce or revenue, or in any way affecting the value of the different species of property, presents
34 a new harvest to those who watch the change, and can trace its consequences; a harvest, reared not by 35 themselves, but by the toils and cares of the great body of their fellow-citizens. This is a state of things in which it may be said with some truth that laws are made for [benefit of] the FEW, not for the MANY."
[Federalist Paper No. 62, James Madison]

36 11.6 Rules of Statutory Construction and Interpretation

37 For the purpose of all "terms" used by the government, myself, and the Court, the following rules of statutory construction 38 and interpretation shall apply.

- 39 1. The law should be given it's plain meaning wherever possible.
40 2. Statutes must be interpreted so as to be entirely harmonious with all law as a whole. The pursuit of this harmony is 41 often the best method of determining the meaning of specific words or provisions which might otherwise appear
42 ambiguous:

43 It is, of course, true that statutory construction "is a holistic endeavor" and that the meaning of a provision is 44 "clarified by the remainder of the statutory scheme ... [when] only one of the permissible meanings produces a
45 substantive effect that is compatible with the rest of the law." United Sav. Assn. of Tex. v. Timbers of Inwood
46 Forest Associates, Ltd., 484 U.S. 365, 371, 108 S.Ct. 626, 98 L.Ed.2d. 740 \(1988\).
47 [U.S. v. Cleveland Indians Baseball Co., 532 U.S. 200, 121 S.Ct. 1433 (2001)]

- 48 3. Every word within a statute is there for a purpose and should be given its due significance.

49 "This fact only underscores our duty to refrain from reading a phrase into the statute when Congress has left it
50 out." "[W]here Congress includes particular language in one section of a statute but omits it in another ..., it is 51 generally presumed that Congress acts intentionally and purposely in the disparate inclusion or exclusion."

4. All laws are to be interpreted consistent with the legislative intent for which they were originally enacted, as revealed in the Congressional Record prior to the passage. The passage of no amount of time can change the original legislative intent of a law.

"Courts should construe laws in Harmony with the legislative intent and seek to carry out legislative purpose. With respect to the tax provisions under consideration, there is no uncertainty as to the legislative purpose to tax post-1913 corporate earnings. We must not give effect to any contrivance which would defeat a tax Congress plainly intended to impose."
Foster v. U.S., [303 U.S. 118 (1938)]

"We are bound to interpret the Constitution in the light of the law as it existed at the time it was adopted."
Mattox v. U.S., [156 U.S. 237 (1938)]

5. Presumption may not be used in determining the meaning of a statute. Doing otherwise is a violation of due process and a religious sin under Numbers 15:30 (Bible). A person reading a statute cannot be required by statute or by "judge made law" to read anything into a Title of the U.S. Code that is not expressly spelled out. See:

Presumption: Chief Weapon for Unlawfully Enlarging Federal Jurisdiction, Form #05.017
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

6. The proper audience to turn to in order to deduce the meaning of a statute are the persons who are the subject of the law, and not a judge. Laws are supposed to be understandable by the common man because the common man is the proper subject of most laws. Judges are NOT common men.

"It is a basic principle of due process that an enactment [435 U.S. 982 , 986] is void for vagueness if its prohibitions are not clearly defined. Vague laws offend several important values. First, because we assume that man is free to steer between lawful and unlawful conduct, we insist that laws give the person of ordinary intelligence a reasonable opportunity to know what is prohibited, so that he may act accordingly. Vague laws may trap the innocent by not providing fair warning. Second, if arbitrary and discriminatory enforcement is to be prevented, laws must provide explicit standards for those who apply them. A vague law impermissibly delegates basic policy matters to policemen, judges, and juries for resolution on an ad hoc and subjective basis, with the attendant dangers of arbitrary and discriminatory application."
Grayned v. City of Rockford, [408 U.S. 104, 108 (1972)]

". . .whether right or wrong, the premise underlying the constitutional method for determining guilt or innocence in federal courts is that laymen are better than specialists to perform this task."
United States ex rel. Toth v. Quarles, [350 U.S. 11, 18 (1955)]

7. If a word is not statutorily defined, then the courts are bound to start with the common law meaning of the term.

"Absent contrary direction from Congress, we begin our interpretation of statutory language with the general presumption that a statutory term has its common law meaning. See Taylor v. United States, 495 U.S. 575, 592 (1990); Morissette v. United States, 342 U.S. 246, 263 (1952)."
[Scheidler v. National Organization for Women, 537 U.S. 393 (2003)]

8. The purpose for defining a word within a statute is so that its ordinary (dictionary) meaning is not implied or assumed by the reader. A "definition" by its terms excludes non-essential elements by mentioning only those things to which it shall apply.

"Define. To explain or state the exact meaning of words and phrases; to state explicitly; to limit; to determine essential qualities of; to determine the precise signification of; to settle; to establish or prescribe authoritatively; to make clear. (Cite omitted)"

"To "define" with respect to space, means to set or establish its boundaries authoritatively; to mark the limits of; to determine with precision or exhibit clearly the boundaries of; to determine the end or limit; to fix or establish the limits. It is the equivalent to declare, fix or establish."
[Black's Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, p. 422]

"Definition. A description of a thing by its properties; an explanation of the meaning of a word or term. The process of stating the exact meaning of a word by means of other words. Such a description of the thing defined, including all essential elements and excluding all nonessential, as to distinguish it from all other things and classes."
[Black's Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, p. 423]

1 9. When a term is defined within a statute, that definition is provided usually to supersede and not enlarge other
2 definitions of the word found elsewhere, such as in other Titles or Codes.

3 "When a statute includes an explicit definition, we must follow that definition, even if it varies from that
4 term's ordinary meaning. Meese v. Keene, 481 U.S. 465, 484-485 (1987) ("It is axiomatic that the statutory
5 definition of the term excludes unstated meanings of that term"); Colautti v. Franklin, 439 U.S. at 392-393, n.

6 10 ("As a rule, a definition which declares what a term "means" . . . excludes any meaning that is not stated");

7 Western Union Telegraph Co. v. Lenroot, 323 U.S. 490, 502 (1945); Fox v. Standard Oil Co. of N.J., 294 U.S.

8 87, 95-96 (1935) (Cardozo, J.); see also 2A N. Singer, Sutherland on Statutes and Statutory Construction §

9 47.07, p. 152, and n. 10 (5th ed. 1992) (collecting cases). That is to say, the statute, read "as a whole," post at

10 998 [530 U.S. 943] (THOMAS, J., dissenting), leads the reader to a definition. That definition does not include

11 the Attorney General's restriction -- "the child up to the head." Its words, "substantial portion," indicate the

12 contrary."

13 [Stenberg v. Carhart, 530 U.S. 914 (2000)]

14 10. It is a violation of due process of law to employ a "statutory presumption", whereby the reader is compelled to guess
15 about precisely what is included in the definition of a word, or whereby all that is included within the meaning of a 16 term defined is not described SOMEWHERE within the body of law or Title in question.

17 The Schlesinger Case has since been applied many times by the lower federal courts, by the Board of Tax
18 Appeals, and by state courts,⁶⁰ and none of them seem to have been 361 at any loss to understand the basis
19 of the decision, namely, that a statute which imposes a tax upon an assumption of fact which the taxpayer is 20 forbidden to controvert is so arbitrary and unreasonable that it cannot stand under the Fourteenth

22 [. . .]

23 A rebuttable presumption clearly is a rule of evidence which has the effect of shifting the burden of proof,
24 Mobile, J. & K. C. R. Co. v. Turnipseed, 219 U.S. 35, 43, 31 S.Ct. 136, 32 L.R.A. (N. S.) 226, Ann. Cas. 1912A,

25 463; and it is hard to see how a statutory rebuttable presumptions is turned from a rule of evidence into a
26 rule of substantive law as the result of a later statute making it conclusive. In both cases it is a substitute for 27 proof; in the one open to challenge and disproof, and in the other conclusive. However, whether the latter
28 presumption be treated as a rule of evidence or of substantive law, it constitutes an attempt, by legislative fiat,
29 to enact into existence a fact which here does not, and cannot be made to, exist in actuality, and the result is 30 the same, unless we are ready to overrule the Schlesinger Case, as we are not; for that case dealt with a
31 conclusive presumption, and the court held it invalid without regard to the question of its technical 32 characterization. This court has held more than once that a statute creating a presumption which operates to 33 deny a fair opportunity to rebut it violates the due process clause of the Fourteenth Amendment. For 34 example, Bailey v. Alabama, 219 U.S. 219, 238, et seq., 31 S.Ct. 145; Manley v. Georgia, 279 U.S. 1, 5-6, 49

35 S.Ct. 215.

36 'It is apparent,' this court said in the Bailey Case (219 U.S. 239, 31 S.Ct. 145, 151) 'that a constitutional

37 prohibition cannot be transgressed indirectly by the creation of a statutory presumption any more than it can

38 be violated by direct enactment. The power to create presumptions is not a means of escape from

39 constitutional restrictions.'

40 [Heiner v. Donnan, 285 U.S. 312 (1932)]

41 The implications of this rule are that the following definition cannot imply the common definition of a term IN

42 ADDITION TO the statutory definition, or else it is compelling a presumption, engaging in statutory presumptions,

43 and violating due process of law:

44 26 U.S.C. Sec. 7701(c) INCLUDES AND INCLUDING.

45 The terms 'include' and 'including' when used in a definition contained in this title shall not be deemed to 46 exclude other things otherwise within the meaning of the term defined."

47 11. Expressio Unius est Exclusio Alterius Rule: The term "includes" is a term of limitation and not enlargement in most 48 cases. Where it is used, it prescribes all of the things or classes of things to which the statute pertains. All other 49 possible objects of the statute are thereby excluded, by implication.

⁶⁰ See, for example, Hall v. White (D. C.) 48 F.(2d) 1060; Donnan v. Heiner (D. C.) 48 F.(2d) 1058 (the present case); Guinzburg v. Anderson (D. C.) F. (2d) 592; American Security & Trust Co. et al., Executors, 24 B. T. A. 334; State Tax Commission v. Robinson's Executor, 234 Ky. 415, 28 S.W.(2d) 491 (involving a three-year period).

1 “expressio unius, exclusio alterius”—if one or more items is specifically listed, omitted items are purposely
2 excluded. Becker v. United States, 451 U.S. 1306 (1981)

3 “Expressio unius est exclusio alterius. A maxim of statutory interpretation meaning that the expression of one
4 thing is the exclusion of another. Burgin v. Forbes, 293 Ky. 456, 169 S.W.2d. 321, 325; Newblock v. Bowles,
5 170 Okl. 487, 40 P.2d. 1097, 1100. Mention of one thing implies exclusion of another. When certain persons
6 or things are specified in a law, contract, or will, an intention to exclude all others from its operation may be
7 inferred. Under this maxim, if statute specifies one exception to a general rule or assumes to specify the effects
8 of a certain provision, other exceptions or effects are excluded.”
9 [Black’s Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, p. 581]

- 10 12. When the term “includes” is used as implying enlargement or “in addition to”, it only fulfills that sense when the 11 definitions to which it pertains are scattered across multiple definitions or statutes within an overall body of law. In 12 each instance, such “scattered definitions” must be considered AS A WHOLE to describe all things which are 13 included. The U.S. Supreme Court confirmed this when it said:

14 “That is to say, the statute, read "as a whole," post at 998 [530 U.S. 943] (THOMAS, J., dissenting), leads 15 the reader to a definition. That definition does not include the Attorney General's restriction -- "the child up to 16 the head." Its words, "substantial portion," indicate the contrary.”
17 [Stenberg v. Carhart, 530 U.S. 914 (2000)]

18 An example of the “enlargement” or “in addition to” context of the use of the word “includes” might be as follows,
19 where the numbers on the left are a fictitious statute number :

20 12.1. “110 The term “state” includes a territory or possession of the United States.”

21 12.2. “121 In addition to the definition found in section 110 earlier, the term “state” includes a state of the Union.”

- 22 13. Statutes that do not specifically identify ALL of the things or classes of things or persons to whom they apply are 23 considered “void for vagueness” because they fail to give “reasonable notice” to the reader of all the behaviors that are 24 prohibited and compel readers to make presumptions or to guess at their meaning.

25 “It is a basic principle of due process that an enactment is void for vagueness if its prohibitions are not clearly
26 defined. Vague laws offend several important values. First, because we assume that man is free to steer between 27 lawful and unlawful conduct, we insist that laws give the person of ordinary intelligence a reasonable
28 opportunity to know what is prohibited, so that he may act accordingly. Vague laws may trap the innocent by 29 not providing fair warning. Second, if arbitrary and discriminatory enforcement is to be prevented, laws must 30 provide explicit standards for those who apply them. A vague law impermissibly delegates basic policy matters
31 to policemen, judges, and juries for resolution on an ad hoc and subjective basis, with the attendant dangers
32 of arbitrary and discriminatory application.” (Footnotes omitted.)

33 See al Papachristou v. City of Jacksonville, 405 U.S. 156 (1972); Cline v. Frink Dairy Co., 274 U.S. 445, 47 S.
34 Ct. 681 (1927); Connally v. General Construction Co., 269 U.S. 385 (1926).
35 [Sewell v. Georgia, 435 U.S. 982 (1978)]

- 36 14. Judges may not extend the meaning of words used within a statute, but must resort ONLY to the meaning clearly 37 indicated in the statute itself. That means they may not imply or infer the common definition of a term IN ADDITION
38 to the statutory definition, but must rely ONLY on the things clearly included in the statute itself and nothing else.

39 “It is axiomatic that the statutory definition of the term excludes unstated meanings of that term. Colautti v.
40 Franklin, 439 U.S. 379, 392, and n. 10 (1979). Congress' use of the term "propaganda" in this statute, as indeed
41 in other legislation, has no pejorative connotation.[19] As judges, it is our duty to [481 U.S. 485] construe
42 legislation as it is written, not as it might be read by a layman, or as it might be understood by someone who
43 has not even read it.”
44 [Meese v. Keene, 481 U.S. 465, 484 (1987)]

- 45 15. Citizens [not “taxpayers”, but “citizens”] are presumed to be exempt from taxation unless a clear intent to the contrary 46 is clearly manifested in a positive law taxing statute.

47 “In the interpretation of statutes levying taxes, it is the established rule not to extend their provisions by
48 implication beyond the clear import of the language used, or to enlarge their operations so as to embrace
49 matters not specifically pointed out. In case of doubt they are construed most strongly against the government
50 and in favor of the citizen.”

4 F.2d. 432, 436 (CA8 1993).

- 5 16. Ejusdem Generis Rule: Where general words follow an enumeration of persons or things, by words of a particular and 6 specific meaning, such general words are not to be construed in their widest extent, but are to be held as applying only
7 to persons or things of the same general kind or class as those specifically mentioned

8 "[w]here general words [such as the provisions of 26 U.S.C. §7701(c)] follow specific words in a statutory
9 enumeration, the general words are construed to embrace only objects similar in nature to those objects
10 enumerated by the preceding specific words."
11 [Circuit City Stores v. Adams, 532 U.S. 105, 114-115 (2001)]

12
13 "Under the principle of ejusdem generis, when a general term follows a specific one, the general term should 14 be understood as a reference to subjects akin to the one with specific enumeration."
15 [Norfolk & Western R. Co. v. Train Dispatchers, 499 U.S. 117 (1991)]

17 "Ejusdem generis. Of the same kind, class, or nature. In the construction of laws, wills, and other instruments,
18 the "ejusdem generis rule" is, that where general words follow an enumeration of persons or things, by words
19 of a particular and specific meaning, such general words are not to be construed in their widest extent, but are 20 to be held as applying only to persons or things of the same general kind or class as those specifically
21 mentioned. U.S. v. LaBrecque, D.C. N.J., 419 F.Supp. 430, 432. The rule, however, does not necessarily 22 require that the general provision be limited in its scope to the identical things specifically named. Nor does it
23 apply when the context manifests a contrary intention.

24 Under "ejusdem generis" canon of statutory construction, where general words follow the enumeration of 25 particular classes of things, the general words will be construed as applying only to things of the same general
26 class as those enumerated. Campbell v. Board of Dental Examiners, 53 Cal.App.3d. 283, 125 Cal.Rptr. 694, 27 696."
28 [Black's Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, p. 517]

- 29 17. In all criminal cases, the "Rule of Lenity" requires that where the interpretation of a criminal statute is ambiguous, the 30 ambiguity should be resolved in favor of the defendant and against the government. An ambiguous statute fails to give 31 "reasonable notice" to the reader what conduct is prohibited, and therefore renders the statute unenforceable. The Rule
32 of Lenity may only be applied when there is ambiguity in the meaning of a statute:

33 This expansive construction of § 666(b) is, at the very least, inconsistent with the rule of lenity -- which the 34 Court does not discuss. This principle requires that, to the extent that there is any ambiguity in the term
35 "benefits," we should resolve that ambiguity in favor of the defendant. See United States v. Bass, 404 U.S.
36 336, 347 (1971) ("In various ways over the years, we have stated that, when choice has to be made between
37 two readings of what conduct Congress has made a crime, it is appropriate, before we choose the harsher
38 alternative, to require that Congress should have spoken in language that is clear and definite" (internal 39 quotation marks omitted))."
40 [Fischer v. United States, 529 U.S. 667 (2000)]

41
42 "It is not to be denied that argumentative skill, as was shown at the Bar, could persuasively and not 43 unreasonably reach either of the conflicting constructions. About only one aspect of the problem can one be 44 dogmatic. When Congress has the will it has no difficulty in expressing it - when it has the will, that is, of 45 defining what it desires to make the unit of prosecution and, more particularly, to make each stick in a faggot
46 a single criminal unit. When Congress leaves to the Judiciary the task of imputing to Congress an
47 undeclared will, the ambiguity should be resolved in favor of lenity. And this not out of any sentimental
48 consideration, or for want of sympathy with the purpose of Congress in proscribing evil or antisocial conduct.
49 It may fairly be said to be a presupposition of our law to resolve doubts in the enforcement of a penal code
50 against the imposition of a harsher punishment. This in no wise implies that language used in criminal 51 statutes should not be read with the saving grace of common sense with which other enactments, not cast in 52 technical language, are to be read. Nor does it assume that offenders against the law carefully read the penal 53 [349 U.S. 81, 84] code before they embark on crime. It merely means that if Congress does not fix the 54 punishment for a federal offense clearly and without ambiguity, doubt will be resolved against turning a
55 single transaction into multiple offenses, when we have no more to go on than the present case furnishes."
56 [Bell v. United States, 349 U.S. 81 (1955)]

1 18. When Congress intends, by one of its Acts, to supersede the police powers of a state of the Union, it must do so very 2 clearly.

3 *"If Congress is authorized to act in a field, it should manifest its intention clearly. It will not be presumed that
4 a federal statute was intended to supersede the exercise of the power of the state unless there is a clear
5 manifestation of intention to do so. The exercise of federal supremacy is not lightly to be presumed."
6 Schwartz v. Texas, [344 U.S. 199, 202-203 (1952)]

7 19. There are no exceptions to the above rules. However, there are cases where the "common definition" or "ordinary
8 definition" of a term can and should be applied, but ONLY where a statutory definition is NOT provided that might 9 supersede the ordinary definition. See:

10 19.1. Crane v. Commissioner of Internal Revenue, 331 U.S. 1, 6 (1947) , Malat v. Riddell, 383 U.S. 569, 571 (1966);

11 "[T]he words of statutes--including revenue acts--should be interpreted where possible in their ordinary,
12 everyday senses."
13 [Crane v. Commissioner of Internal Revenue, 331 U.S. 1, 6 (1947), Malat v. Riddell, 383 U.S. 569, 571 (1966)]

14 19.2. Commissioner v. Soliman, 506 U.S. 168, 174 (1993) ;

15 "In interpreting the meaning of the words in a revenue Act, we look to the 'ordinary, everyday senses' of the 16 words."
17 [Commissioner v. Soliman, 506 U.S. 168, 174 (1993)]

18 19.3. Helvering v. Horst, 311 U.S. 112, 118 (1940) ; Old Colony R. Co. v. Commissioner of Internal Revenue, 248
19 U.S. 552, 560 (1932)

20 "Common understanding and experience are the touchstones for the interpretation of the revenue laws."
21 [Hilvering v. Horst, 311 U.S. 112, 118 (1940); Old Colony R. Co. v. Commissioner of Internal Revenue, 248
22 U.S. 552, 560 (1932)]

23 20. We must ALWAYS remember that the fundamental purpose of law is "the definition and limitation of power":

24 "When we consider the nature and theory of our institutions of government, the principles
25 upon which they are supposed to rest, and review the history of their development, we are 26 constrained to conclude that they do not mean to leave room for the play and action of 27 purely personal and arbitrary power. Sovereignty itself is, of course, not subject to law, 28 for it is the author and source of law; but in our system, while sovereign powers are 29 delegated to the agencies of government, sovereignty itself remains with the people, by 30 *whom and for whom all government exists and acts. And the law is the definition and 31 limitation of power."

32 From Marbury v. Madison to the present day, no utterance of this Court has intimated a doubt that in its 33 operation on the people, by whom and for whom it was established, the national government is a government of 34 enumerated powers, the exercise of which is restricted to the use of means appropriate and plainly adapted to 35 constitutional ends, and which are "not prohibited, but consist with the letter and spirit of the Constitution."

36 The powers delegated by the people to their agents are not enlarged by the expansion of the domain within 37 which they are exercised. When the restriction on the exercise of a particular power by a particular agent is 38 ascertained, that is an end of the question.

39 To hold otherwise is to overthrow the basis of our constitutional law, and moreover, in effect, to reassert the 40 proposition that the states, and not the people, created the government.

41 It is again to antagonize Chief Justice Marshall, when he said:

42 The government of the Union, then (whatever may be the influence of this fact on the case),
43 is emphatically and truly a government of the people. In form and in substance, it
44 emanates from them. Its powers are granted by them, and are to be exercised directly on 45 them and for their benefit. This government is acknowledged by all to be one of 46 enumerated powers.

47 [Downes v. Bidwell, 182 U.S. 244 (1901)]

11.7 Presumptions about the Meaning of Terms

My religious beliefs do NOT allow me to “presume” anything, or to encourage or allow others to make presumptions.

“But the person who does anything presumptuously, whether he is native-born or a stranger, that one brings reproach on the Lord, and he shall be cut off from among his people.”
[Numbers 15:30, Bible, NKJV]

Consonant with the above, I have a mandate from my God to define all the words that I use and that anyone else might use against me. The following table provides default definitions for all key “words of art” that both the Government opponent and the Court are likely to use in order to destroy and undermine my rights throughout this proceeding.

11.7.1 Meaning of specific terms

This section is a defense against the following fraudulent tactics by those in government:

1 The definitions in this section are MANDATORY in any interaction between either the government or any of its agents or
2 officers and any agent or member of this ministry. The reasons why this MUST be the case are described in:

Path to Freedom, Form #09.015, Sections 5.3 through 5.8
<https://sedm.org/Forms/09-Procs/PathToFreedom.pdf>

3 4 11.7.1.1 Human

5 The word "human" means a man or woman above the age of majority, which we regard as 18 years of age. Anyone below
6 the age of 18 is considered a "child" rather than a "human".

7 11.7.1.2 "Should", "Shall", "Must", "We Recommend"

8 All use of the words "should", "shall", "must", or "we recommend" on this website or in any of the interactions of this
9 ministry with the public shall mean "may at your choice and discretion". This is similar to the government's use of the 10 same words. See Legal Deception, Propaganda, and Fraud, Form #05.014, Sections 12.4.13, 12.4.17, 12.4.19, and 12.4.26
11 for further details.

12 11.7.1.3 Private

13 The word "private" when it appears in front of other entity names such as "person", "individual", "business", "employee", 14 "employer", etc. shall imply that the entity is:

- 15 1. In possession of absolute, exclusive ownership and control over their own labor, body, and all their property. In Roman 16 Law this was called "dominium".
- 17 2. On an EQUAL rather than inferior relationship to government in court. This means that they have no obligations to any 18 government OTHER than possibly the duty to serve on jury and vote upon voluntary acceptance of the obligations of 19 the civil status of "citizen" (and the DOMICILE that creates it). Otherwise, they are entirely free and unregulated
20 unless and until they INJURE the equal rights of another under the common law.
- 21 3. A "nonresident" in relation to the state and federal government.
- 22 4. Not a PUBLIC entity defined within any state or federal statutory law. This includes but is not limited to statutory 23 "person", "individual", "taxpayer", "driver", "spouse" under any civil statute or franchise.
- 24 5. Not engaged in a public office, "trade or business" (per 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(26)). Such offices include but are not 25 limited to statutory "person", "individual", "taxpayer", "driver", "spouse" under any civil statute or franchise.

26 "PRIVATE PERSON. An individual who is not the incumbent of an office."
27 [Black's Law Dictionary, Fourth Edition, p. 1359]

- 28 6. Not consenting to contract with or acquire any public status, public privilege, or public right under any state or federal 29 franchise. For instance, the phrase "private employee" means a common law worker that is NOT the statutory 30 "employee" defined within 26 U.S.C. §3401(c) or 26 C.F.R. §301.3401(c)-1 or any other federal or state law or statute.
- 31 7. Not sharing ownership or control of their body or property with anyone, and especially a government. In other words:
32 7.1. Ownership is not "qualified" but "absolute".
33 7.2. There are no moieties between them and the government.
34 7.3. The government has no usufructs over any of their property.
- 35 8. Not subject to civil enforcement or regulation of any kind, except AFTER an injury to the equal rights of others has 36 occurred. Preventive rather than corrective regulation is an unlawful taking of property according to the Fifth 37 Amendment takings clause.
- 38 9. Not "privileged" or party to a franchise of any kind:

39 "PRIVILEGE. "A right, power, franchise, or immunity held by a person or class, against or beyond the 40 course of the law. [. . .] That which releases one from the performance of a duty or obligation, or exempts one
41 from a liability which he would otherwise be required to perform, or sustain in common [common law] with 42 all other persons. State v. Grosnickle, 189 Wis. 17, 206 N.W. 895, 896. A peculiar advantage, exemption, or
44 [Black's Law Dictionary, Fourth Edition, pp. 1359-1360]

5 individuals, as a public office. Corporations, or bodies politic are the most usual franchises known to our*

7 information will lie in many cases growing out of these grants, especially where corporations are concerned, as 8 by the statute of 9 Anne, ch. 20, and in which the public have an interest. In 1 Strange R. (The King v. Sir franchise of the crown has been invaded.

10
11 If this is so--if in England a privilege existing in a subject, which the king alone could grant, constitutes it a

[People v. Ridgley, 21 Ill. 65, 1859 WL 6687, 11 Peck 65 (Ill., 1859)]

- 14 10. The equivalent to a common law or Constitutional "person" who retains all of their common law and Constitutional protections 15 and waives none.

16 "The words "privileges" and "immunities," like the greater part of the legal phraseology of this country, have
17 been carried over from the law of Great Britain, and recur constantly either as such or in equivalent
18 expressions from the time of Magna Charta. For all practical purposes they are synonymous in meaning, and

29 Every attempt by anyone in government to alienate rights that the Declaration of Independence says are UNALIENABLE
30 shall also be treated as "PRIVATE BUSINESS ACTIVITY" that cannot be protected by sovereign, official, or judicial
31 immunity. So called "government" cannot make a profitable business or franchise out of alienating inalienable rights
32 without ceasing to be a classical/de jure government and instead becoming in effect an economic terrorist and de facto
33 government in violation of Article 4, Section 4.

34 "No servant [or government or biological person] can serve two masters; for either he will hate the one and
35 *love the other, or else he will be loyal to the one and despise the other. You cannot serve God and mammon
36 [government]."
37 [Luke 16:13, Bible, NKJV]

38 11.7.1.4 Government

39 The term "government" is defined to include that group of people dedicated to the protection of purely and exclusively
40 PRIVATE RIGHTS and PRIVATE PROPERTY that are absolutely and exclusively owned by a truly free and sovereign
41 human being who is EQUAL to the government in the eyes of the law per the Declaration of Independence. It excludes the 42 protection of PUBLIC rights or PUBLIC privileges \(franchises, Form #05.030\) and collective rights \(Form #12.024\)
43 because of the tendency to subordinate PRIVATE rights to PUBLIC rights due to the CRIMINAL conflict of financial
44 interest on the part of those in the alleged "government" (18 U.S.C. §208, 28 U.S.C. §§144, and 455). See Separation
45 Between Public and Private Course, Form #12.025 for the distinctions between PUBLIC and PRIVATE.

46 "As expressed otherwise, the powers delegated to a public officer are held in trust for the people and are to be
47 exercised in behalf of the government or of all citizens who may need the intervention of the officer. [1]
48 Furthermore, the view has been expressed that all public officers, within whatever branch and whatever level
49 of government, and whatever be their private vocations, are trustees of the people, and accordingly labor
50 under every disability and prohibition imposed by law upon trustees relative to the making of personal
51 financial gain from a discharge of their trusts. [2] That is, a public officer occupies a fiduciary relationship
52 to the political entity on whose behalf he or she serves. [3] and owes a fiduciary duty to the public. [4] It
53 has been said that the fiduciary responsibilities of a public officer cannot be less than those of a private
54 individual. Furthermore, it has been stated that any enterprise undertaken by the public official which

1 tends to weaken public confidence and undermine the sense of security for individual [PRIVATE] rights is
2 against public policy. [5]"

23 Anything done CIVILLY for the benefit of those working IN the government at the involuntary, enforced, coerced, or
24 compelled \(Form #05.003\) expense of PRIVATE free humans is classified as DE FACTO \(Form #05.043\), non-
25 governmental, PRIVATE business activity beyond the core purpose of government that cannot and should not be protected
26 by official, judicial, or sovereign immunity. Click here \(Form #11.401\) for a detailed exposition of ALL of the illegal
27 methods of enforcement (Form #05.032) and duress \(Form #02.005\). "Duress" as used here INCLUDES:

- 28 1. Any type of LEGAL DECEPTION, Form #05.014.
- 29 2. Every attempt to insulate government workers from responsibility or accountability for their false or misleading
30 statements (Form #05.014 and Form #12.021 Video 4), forms, or publications (Form #05.007 and Form #12.023).
- 31 3. Every attempt to offer or enforce civil franchise statutes against anyone OTHER than public officers ALREADY in the 32 government. Civil franchises cannot and should not be used to CREATE new public offices, but to add duties to 33 EXISTING public officers who are ALREADY lawfully elected or appointed.. See Form #05.030.
- 34 4. Every attempt to commit identity theft by legally kidnapping CONSTITUTIONAL state domiciled parties onto federal 35 territory or into the "United States" federal corporation as public officers. Form #05.046.
- 36 5. Every attempt to offer or enforce any kind of franchise within a CONSTITUTIONAL state. See Form #05.030.
- 37 6. Every attempt to entice people to give up an inalienable CONSTITUTIONAL right in exchange for a franchise 38 privilege. See Form #05.030.
- 39 7. Every attempt to use the police to enforce civil franchises or civil penalties. Police power can be lawfully used ONLY 40 to enforce the criminal law. Any other use, and especially for revenue collection, is akin to sticking people up at 41 gunpoint. See Form #12.022.
- 42 8. Every attempt at CIVIL asset forfeiture to police in the conduct of CRIMINAL enforcement. This merely creates a 43 criminal conflict of interest in police and makes them into CIVIL revenue collectors who seek primarily their own
44 enrichment. See Form #12.022.
- 45 9. Every attempt to compel or penalize anyone to declare a specific civil status on a government form that is signed under 46 penalty of perjury. That is criminal witness tampering and the IRS does it all the time.
- 47 10. Every attempt to call something voluntary and yet to refuse to offer forms and procedures to unvolunteer. This is 48 criminal FRAUD. Congressmen call income taxes voluntary all the time but the IRS refuses to even recognize or help
49 anyone who is a "nontaxpayer". See Exhibit #05.051.

1 All of the above instances of duress place personal interest in direct conflict with obedience to REAL law, Form #05.048.
2 They are the main source of government corruption \(Form #11.401\) in the present de facto system \(Form #05.043\). The
3 only type of enforcement by a DE JURE government that can or should be compelled and lawful is CRIMINAL or
4 COMMON LAW enforcement where a SPECIFIC private human has been injured, not CIVIL statutory enforcement \(a
5 franchise, Form #05.030\). Under the State Action Doctrine of the U.S. Supreme Court, everyone who is the target of CIVIL
6 enforcement is, by definition a public officer or agent in the government and Christians are forbidden by the Bible from 7 becoming such public officers. Form #13.007.

8 Every type of DE JURE CIVIL governmental service or regulation MUST be voluntary and ALL must be offered the right
9 to NOT participate on every governmental form that administers such a CIVIL program. It shall mandatorily, publicly, and 10 NOTORIOUSLY be enforced and prosecuted as a crime NOT to offer the right to NOT PARTICIPATE in any CIVIL
11 STATUTORY activity of government or to call a service "VOLUNTARY" but actively interfere with and/or persecute
12 those who REFUSE to volunteer or INSIST on unvolunteering. All statements by any Government Actor or government
13 form or publication relating to the right to volunteer shall be treated as statements under penalty of perjury for which the 14 head of the governmental department shall be held PERSONALLY liable if false. EVERY CIVIL "benefit" or activity
15 offered by any government MUST identify at the beginning of every law creating the program that the program is 16 VOLUNTARY and HOW specifically to UNVOLUNTEER or quit the program. Any violation of these rules makes the 17 activity NON-GOVERNMENTAL in nature AND makes those offering the program into a DE FACTO government \(Form
18 #05.043\). The Declaration of Independence says that all "just powers" of government derive from the CONSENT of those 19 governed. Any attempt to CIVILLY enforce MUST be preceded by an explicit written attempt to procure consent, to not 20 punish those who DO NOT consent, and to not PRESUME consent by virtue of even submitting a government form that
21 does not IDENTIFY that submission of the form is an IMPLIED act of consent \(Form #05.003\). This ensures "justice" in a
22 constitutional sense, which is legally defined as "the right to be left alone". For the purposes of this website, those who do
23 not consent to ANYTHING civil are referred to as "non-resident non-persons" \(Form #05.020\). An example of such a
24 human would be a devout Christian who is acting in complete obedience to the word of God in all their interactions with 25 anyone and everyone in government. Any attempt by a PRIVATE human to consent to any CIVIL STATUTORY offering
26 by any government \(a franchise, Form #05.030\) is a violation of their delegation of authority order from God \(Form
27 #13.007\) that places them OUTSIDE the protection of God under the Bible.

28 Under this legal definition of "government" the IDEAL and DE JURE government is one that:

- 29 1. The States cannot offer THEIR taxable franchises within federal territory and the FEDERAL government may not 30 establish taxable franchises within the territorial borders of the states. This limitation was acknowledged by the U.S.
31 Supreme Court in the License Tax Cases, 72 U.S. 462 \(1866\) and continues to this day but is 32 UNCONSTITUTIONALLY ignored more by fiat and practice than by law.
- 33 2. Has the administrative burden of proof IN WRITING to prove to a common law jury of your peers that you
34 CONSENTED in writing to the CIVIL service or offering before they may COMMENCE administrative enforcement
35 of any kind against you. Such administrative enforcement includes, but is not limited to administrative liens,
36 administrative levies, administrative summons, or contacting third parties about you. This ensures that you CANNOT
37 become the unlawful victim of a USUALLY FALSE PRESUMPTION \(Form #05.017\) about your CIVIL STATUS
38 \(Form #13.008\) that ultimately leads to CRIMINAL IDENTITY THEFT \(Form #05.046\). The decision maker on 39 whether you have CONSENTED should NOT be anyone in the AGENCY that administers the service or benefit and 40 should NEVER be ADMINISTRATIVE. It should be JUDICIAL.
- 41 3. Judges making decisions about the payment of any CIVIL SERVICE fee may NOT participate in ANY of the 42 programs they are deciding on and may NOT be "taxpayers" under the I.R.C. Subtitle A Income tax. This creates a
43 criminal financial conflict of interest that denies due process to all those who are targeted for enforcement. This sort of 44 corruption was abused to unlawfully expand the income tax and the Social Security program OUTSIDE of their lawful
45 territorial extent \(Form #05.018\). See Lucas v. Earl, 281 U.S. 111 \(1930\), O'Malley v. Woodrough, 307 U.S. 277
46 \(1939\) and later in Hatter v. U.S., 532 U.S. 557 \(2001\).
- 47 4. EVERY CIVIL service offered by any government MUST be subject to choice and competition, in order to ensure 48 accountability and efficiency in delivering the service. This INCLUDES the minting of substance based currency. The 49 government should NOT have a monopoly on ANY service, including money or even the postal service. All such 50 monopolies are inevitably abused to institute duress and destroy the autonomy and sovereignty and EQUALTY of 51 everyone else.
- 52 5. CANNOT "bundle" any service with any other in order to FORCE you to buy MORE services than you want.
53 Bundling removes choice and autonomy and constitutes biblical "usury". For instance, it CANNOT:

1. Use "driver licensing" to FORCE people to sign up for Social Security by forcing them to provide a "franchise license number" called an SSN or TIN in order to procure the PRIVILEGE of "driving", meaning using the commercial roadways FOR HIRE and at a profit.
2. Revoke driver licenses as a method of enforcing ANY OTHER franchise or commercial obligation, including but not limited to child support, taxes, etc.
3. Use funds from ONE program to "prop up" or support another. For instance, they cannot use Social Security as a way to recruit "taxpayers" of other services or the income tax. This ensures that EVERY PROGRAM stands on its own two feet and ensures that those paying for one program do not have to subsidize failing OTHER programs that are not self-supporting. It also ensures that the government MUST follow the SAME free market rules that every other business must follow for any of the CIVIL services it competes with other businesses to deliver.
4. Piggyback STATE income taxes onto FEDERAL income taxes, make the FEDERAL government the tax collector for STATE TAXES, or the STATES into tax collectors for the FEDERAL government.
6. Can lawfully enforce the CRIMINAL laws without your express consent.
7. Can lawfully COMPEL you to pay for BASIC SERVICES of the courts, jails, military, and ROADS and NO OTHERS. EVERYONE pays the same EQUAL amount for these services.
8. Sends you an ITEMIZED annual bill for CIVIL services that you have contracted in writing to procure. That bill should include a signed copy of your consent for EACH individual CIVIL service or "social insurance". Such "social services" include anything that costs the government money to provide BEYOND the BASIC SERVICES, such as health insurance, health care, Social Security, Medicare, etc.
9. If you do not pay the ITEMIZED annual bill for the services you EXPRESSLY consented to, the government should have the right to collect ITS obligations the SAME way as any OTHER PRIVATE human. That means they can administratively lien your real or personal property, but ONLY if YOU can do the same thing to THEM for services or property THEY have procured from you either voluntarily or involuntarily. Otherwise, they must go to court IN EQUITY to collect, and MUST produce evidence of consent to EACH service they seek payment or collection for. In other words, they have to follow the SAME rules as every private human for the collection of CIVIL obligations that are in default. Otherwise, they have superior or supernatural powers and become a pagan deity and you become the compelled WORSHIPPER of that pagan deity. See Socialism: The New American Civil Religion, Form #05.016 for details on all the BAD things that happen by turning government into such a CIVIL RELIGION.

Jesus described the above de jure government as follows. He is implying that Christians cannot consent to any government that rules from above or has superior or supernatural powers in relation to biological humans. In other words, the government Christians adopt or participate in or subsidize CANNOT function as a religion as described in Socialism: The New American Civil Religion, Form #05.016:

"You know that the rulers of the Gentiles [unbelievers] lord it over them [govern from ABOVE as pagan idols], and those who are great exercise authority over them [supernatural powers that are the object of idol worship]. Yet it shall not be so among you; but whoever desires to become great among you, let him be your servant [serve the sovereign people from BELOW rather than rule from above]. And whoever desires to be first among you, let him be your slave—just as the Son of Man did not come to be served, but to serve, and to give His life a ransom for many."
 [Matt. 20:25-28, Bible, NKJV]

11.7.1.5 Civil Status

The term "civil status" describes the process by which human beings become "persons" under civil statutory law. It is what the courts call a "res" which gives them civil control over you under one of three different systems of civil law. Civil status is VERY important, because it is the source of civil statutory jurisdiction of courts over you and their right to "personal jurisdiction" over you. It also describes how your actions affect "choice of law" and your "status" in any court cases you bring. Human beings who are "sovereign" in fact:

1. Have no "civil status" under statutory law.
2. Only have a "civil status" under the constitution and the common law.

- 1 3. Are not party to the “social compact”, but “foreigners” among citizens. The Law of Nations, Book 1, Section 213 calls
- 2 them “inhabitants”.
- 3 4. Are not privileged “aliens”.
- 4 5. Participate in NO government franchises or privileges, but instead reserve all their PRIVATE, UNALIENABLE rights
- 5 (Form #12.038) and thereby remain exclusively private. See Form #05.030.

- 7 7. Understand the distinctions between PUBLIC and PRIVATE and maintain absolute separation between the two in all
- 8 their interactions with any so-called “government”. They ensure that all of their property remains absolutely owned and 18 You cannot have a “civil status” under the laws of a place WITHOUT at least one of the following conditions:

- 19 1. A physical presence in that place. The status would be under the COMMON law. Common law is based on physical
- 20 location of people on land rather than their statutory status.
- 21 2. CONSENSUALLY doing business in that place. The status would be under the common law. See the Foreign
- 22 Sovereign Immunities Act, 28 U.S.C. Chapter 97 and International Shoe Co. v. Washington, 326 U.S. 310 (1945).
- 23 3. A domicile in that place. This would be a status under the civil statutes of that place. See Federal Rule of Civil
- 24 Procedure 17(a).
- 25 4. CONSENSUALLY representing an artificial entity (a legal fiction) that has a domicile in that place. This would be a
- 26 status under the civil statutes of that place. See Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 17(b).
- 27 5. Consenting to a civil status under the laws of that place. Anything done consensually cannot form the basis for an
- 28 injury in a court of law. Such consent is usually manifested by filling out a government form identifying yourself with
- 29 a specific statutory status, such as a W-4, 1040, driver license application, etc. This is covered in:

Federal Jurisdiction

Copyright Sovereignty Education and Defense Ministry, <http://sedm.org>
Form 05.018, Rev. 10-30-2014

1 The term "civil service" or "civil service fee" relates to any and all activities of "government" OTHER than:

- 2 1. Police.
- 3 2. Military.
- 4 3. Jails.
- 5 4. Criminal court.
- 6 5. Common law court.

7 "civil service" and "civil service fee" includes any attempt or act to:

- 8 1. Establish or enforce a domicile \(Form #05.002\)
- 9 2. Procure consent \(Form #05.003\) of any kind to alienate rights that are supposed to be INALIENABLE per the 10 Declaration of Independence.
- 11 3. PRESUME consent \(Form #05.003\) to surrender INALIENABLE PRIVATE RIGHTS by virtue of submitting, 12 accepting, or receiving any application for a government benefit, license, or franchise. See Form #12.023.
- 13 4. Convert PRIVATE property or PRIVATE rights to PUBLIC property, PUBLIC offices, or excise taxable franchises.
14 See Form #12.025. Government's FIRST and most important duty is to at all times maintain TOTAL separation
15 between PRIVATE and PUBLIC and NEVER to allow them to convert one to another. Every attempt to convert one to 16 the other represents a criminal financial conflict of interest that turns the PUBLIC trust into a SHAM trust.
- 17 5. Offer or enforce the civil statutory code.
- 18 6. Offer or enforce civil franchises \(see Form #05.030\)

19 11.7.1.7 Common Law

20 The term "common law" means procedures and policies used in constitutional courts in the JUDICIAL branch to provide 21 protection for absolutely owned, constitutionally protected PRIVATE RIGHTS and PRIVATE PROPERTY of a human 22 being who has accepted no franchises or privileges and therefore who is not subject to civil statutes, not domiciled in the 23 forum, and who reserves all rights. These procedures may not be exercised in "legislative franchise courts" in the 24 LEGISLATIVE or EXECUTIVE Branch which manage and adjudicate disputes over federal property, franchises,
25 privileges, and "benefits". In the words of the U.S. Supreme Court, these organic rights are "self-executing" and not
26 government created or owned. They may therefore NOT be limited, restrained, taxed, or regulated by statute:

27 The design of the Fourteenth Amendment has proved significant also in maintaining the traditional separation
28 *of powers 524*524 between Congress and the Judiciary. The first eight Amendments to the Constitution set
29 forth self-executing prohibitions on governmental action, and this Court has had primary authority
30 to interpret those prohibitions. The Bingham draft, some thought, departed from that tradition by vesting*
31 in Congress primary power to interpret and elaborate on the meaning of the new Amendment through 32 legislation. Under it, "Congress, and not the courts, was to judge whether or not any of the privileges or 33 immunities were not secured to citizens in the several States." Flack, supra, at 64. While this separation-of-
34 powers aspect did not occasion the widespread resistance which was caused by the proposal's threat to the 35 federal balance, it nonetheless attracted the attention of various Members. See Cong. Globe, 39th Cong., 1st
36 Sess., at 1064 (statement of Rep. Hale) (noting that Bill of Rights, unlike the Bingham proposal, "provide[s]
37 safeguards to be enforced by the courts, and not to be exercised by the Legislature"); id., at App. 133
38 (statement of Rep. Rogers) (prior to Bingham proposal it "was left entirely for the courts . . . to enforce the 39 privileges and immunities of the citizens"). As enacted, the Fourteenth Amendment confers substantive rights
40 *against the States which, like the provisions of the Bill of Rights, are self-executing. Cf. South Carolina v.
41 Katzenbach, 383 U. S., at 325 (discussing Fifteenth Amendment). The power to interpret the Constitution in a
42 case or controversy remains in the Judiciary.
43 [City of Boerne v. Flores, 521 U.S. 507 (1997)]*

44 It is the duty of all CONSTITUTIONAL courts in the JUDICIAL branch to provide remedy for the protection of such rights
45 when violated, even if there is no statute authorizing a remedy. This is a consequence of the oath that all judges IN 46 CONSTITUTIONAL COURTS take to "support and defend the constitution against all enemies, foreign and domestic",
47 whether state or federal. Franchise judges in the LEGISLATIVE or EXECUTIVE branch don't have to take this oath and 48 often ACTIVELY INTERFERE with any attempt by private litigants to invoke or enforce constitutional rights. That sort of 49 behavior would be TREASON in a CONSTITUTIONAL court. Franchise courts act in essence as binding arbitration
50 boards for people in temporary possession, custody, or control of absolutely owned government property which is 51 dispensed with legal strings attached called "franchises". These courts preside by the CONSENT of those who accept the 52 property or "benefit" that the franchise court is charged with managing, such as "licenses", "permits", or government
53 "benefits". Examples of "legislative franchise courts" include:

1. Traffic court.
2. Family court.
3. Tax Court (see 26 U.S.C. §7441).

For a detailed exposition of exactly how government franchises and franchise courts operate, see:

Government Instituted Slavery Using Franchises, Form #05.030
<https://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

Rights are property and protecting and enforcing them is an action to protect PRIVATE property in the case of CONSTITUTIONAL rights recognized but not created by the Bill of Rights. In providing judicial remedy absent statutes, the courts in effect are DEFINING the common law, because statutes CANNOT define or limit such rights:

"Under basic rules of construction, statutory laws enacted by legislative bodies cannot impair rights given under a constitution. 194 B.R. at 925. "
[In re Young, 235 B.R. 666 (Bankr.M.D.Fla., 1999)]

"The very purpose of a Bill of Rights was to withdraw certain subjects from the vicissitudes of political controversy, to place them beyond the reach of majorities [within juries] and officials [and CIVIL STATUTES, Form #05.037] and to establish them as legal principles to be applied by the courts [using the COMMON LAW rather than CIVIL STATUTES, Form #05.037]. One's right to life, liberty, and property, to free speech, a free press, freedom of worship and assembly, and other fundamental rights may not be submitted to vote [of a JURY OR an ELECTOR]; they depend on the outcome of no elections."
https://scholar.google.com/scholar_case?case=8030119134463419441*]*

Based on the above, anything licensed, taxed, requiring a "permit", denied (the essence of ownership is the right to exclude and control the use of), or regulated by civil statute or which may be voted on by a jury or an elector or which is created or enforced by statute is NOT a CONSTITUTIONAL or a PRIVATE right and is not the proper subject of the common law. Further, anyone who tries to convince you that there IS no such thing as the common law in the context of CONSTITUTIONAL rights, or that common law proceedings can and do involve STATUTORY remedies is engaging in a conspiracy to DESTROY all of your private rights and private property. This is proven in:

Why Statutory Civil Law is Law for Government and Not Private Persons, Form #05.037
<https://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

A failure or refusal by a judge in the judicial department to provide CONSTITUTIONAL remedy for absolutely owned PRIVATE property or PRIVATE rights is therefore, in fact and in deed:

1. An attempt to accomplish the OPPOSITE purpose for why government was created, which was to protect PRIVATE property and PRIVATE rights.
2. An attempt to denigrate, demoralize, oppress, and enslave (Thirteenth Amendment) litigants before them who are litigating against any government for a violation of those rights.
3. An attempt to maliciously abuse legal process to institute peonage and slavery in violation of 18 U.S.C. §1589.
4. A selective REPEAL of a portion of the CONSTITUTIONAL common law.
5. A selective REPEAL of the portion of the Bill of Rights that forms the STANDING of the party to sue in court.
6. A violation of the judicial oath to support and defend the Constitution against all enemies, foreign and domestic.
7. Treason punishable by death under 18 U.S.C. §2381.
8. A violation of the Separation of Powers Doctrine, because by SELECTIVELY REPEALING a portion of the constitution or constitutional common law, they in effect are acting in a "legislative capacity" as a member of the Legislative or Executive Branch, not as judges.⁶¹
9. Destroying ANY and ALL possibility of freedom or liberty itself, according to the man who DESIGNED the three-branch system of Republic Government and Separation of Powers:

⁶¹ See: Government Conspiracy to Destroy the Separation of Powers, Form #05.023; <https://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>.

1 "When the legislative and executive powers are united in the same person, or in the same body of
2 magistrates, there can be no liberty; because apprehensions may arise, lest the same monarch or senate
3 should enact tyrannical laws, to execute them in a tyrannical manner.

4 Again, there is no liberty, if the judiciary power be not separated from the legislative and executive. Were it
5 joined with the legislative, the life and liberty of the subject would be exposed to arbitrary control; for the judge
6 would be then the legislator. Were it joined to the executive power, the judge might behave with violence and
7 oppression [sound familiar?].

8 There would be an end of everything, were the same man or the same body, whether of the nobles or of the 9 people, to exercise those three powers, that of enacting laws, that of executing the public resolutions, and of 10 trying the causes of individuals."

11 [. . .]

12 In what a situation must the poor subject be in those republics! The same body of magistrates are possessed,
13 as executors of the laws, of the whole power they have given themselves in quality of legislators. They may
14 plunder the state by their general determinations; and as they have likewise the judiciary power in their
15 hands, every private citizen may be ruined by their particular decisions."
16 [The Spirit of Laws, Charles de Montesquieu, 1758, Book XI, Section 6;
17 SOURCE: http://famguardian.org/Publications/SpiritOfLaws/sol_11.htm]

18 Further, Congress can only regulate or tax PRIVILEGES or PUBLIC rights that it created by statute, not PRIVATE rights
19 recognized but not created by the Constitution.

20 Although Crowell and Raddatz do not explicitly distinguish between rights created by Congress [PUBLIC
21 RIGHTS] and other [PRIVATE] rights, such a distinction underlies in part Crowell's and Raddatz'
22 recognition of a critical difference between rights created by federal statute and rights recognized by the 23 Constitution. Moreover, such a distinction seems to us to be necessary in light of the delicate
24 accommodations required by the principle of separation of powers reflected in Art. III. The constitutional
25 system of checks and balances is designed to guard against "encroachment or aggrandizement" by Congress
26 at the expense of the other branches of government. Buckley v. Valeo, 424 U.S., at 122, 96 S.Ct., at 683. But 27 when Congress creates a statutory right [a "privilege" or "public right" in this case, such as a "trade or 28 business"], it clearly has the discretion, in defining that right, to create presumptions, or assign burdens of 29 proof, or prescribe remedies; it may also provide that persons seeking to vindicate that right must do so
30 before particularized tribunals created to perform the specialized adjudicative tasks related to that right.
31 FN35 Such provisions do, in a sense, affect the exercise of judicial power, but they are also incidental to 32 Congress' power to define the right that it has created. No comparable justification exists, however, when the 33 right being adjudicated is not of congressional creation. In such a situation, substantial inroads into 34 functions that have traditionally been performed by the Judiciary cannot be characterized merely as 35 incidental extensions of Congress' power to define rights that it has created. Rather, such inroads suggest
36 unwarranted encroachments upon the judicial power of the United States, which our Constitution reserves
37 for Art. III courts.

41 The basic rules of the common law are documented in the following exemplary books published near the turn of the 42 Twentieth Century and many others, and thus are WRITTEN. These rules have not been REPEALED, but rather fallen out

In addition to the above generally accepted rules, those owning the PRIVATE property protected by the common law may ADD to these rules with their own set of rules that form the conditions of the temporary use, benefit, or control of the property so granted and protected to the person SUBJECT to those rules. We call these the Grant Rules.

Grant Rules are CIVIL rules implemented as a contract or agreement between the GRANTOR and the GRANTEE for temporarily using, controlling, or benefitting from that property. In the case of government, these rules regulating government property cannot be and are not implemented with CRIMINAL statutes. They are only implemented by CIVIL statutes. They are enforced against those who consent to those RULES by temporarily accepting or exercising custody, benefit, or control over the property in question. These rules behave, in essence, as a franchise or an excise. The OBLIGATIONS against the GRANTOR associated with the use of the granted property are the “consideration” provided by the GRANTOR and the consideration they receive in return are the temporary “RIGHTS” they exercise over the granted property. All franchises are based on “grants” of property with legal strings or conditions attached and ANYONE can grant or participate in such a franchise or use such a franchise AGAINST a government to defend themselves against GOVERNMENT unlawfully offering or enforcing THEIR franchises:

“The State in such cases exercises no greater right than an individual may exercise over the use of his own property when leased or loaned to others. The conditions upon which the privilege shall be enjoyed being stated or implied in the legislation authorizing its grant, no right is, of course, impaired by their enforcement. The recipient of the privilege, in effect, stipulates to comply with the conditions. It matters not how limited the privilege conferred, its acceptance implies an assent to the regulation of its use and the compensation for it.”
[Munn v. Illinois, 94 U.S. 113 (1876)]

An example of the use of such rules by the government against the private rights and private property is found below:

“We have repeatedly held that the Federal Government may impose appropriate conditions on the use of federal property or privileges [franchises, Form #05.030] and may require that state instrumentalities comply with conditions [obligations, Form #12.040] that are reasonably related to the federal interest in particular national projects or programs. See, e. g., Ivanhoe Irrigation Dist. v. McCracken, 357 U.S. 275, 294 -296 (1958); Oklahoma v. Civil Service Comm’n, 330 U.S. 127, 142 -144 (1947); United States v. San Francisco, 310 U.S. 16 (1940); cf. National League of Cities v. Usery, 426 U.S. 833, 853 (1976); Fry v. United States, 421 U.S. 542 (1975). A requirement that States, like all other users, pay a portion of the costs of the benefits [Form #05.040] they enjoy from federal programs is surely permissible [meaning CONSTITUTIONAL] since it is closely related to the [435 U.S. 444, 462] federal interest in recovering costs from those who benefit and since it effects no greater interference with state sovereignty than do the restrictions which this Court has approved.”
[Massachusetts v. United States, 435 U.S. 444 (1978);

Under the concept of equal protection and equal treatment, WE TOO have an EQUAL right, recognized above by the U.S. Supreme Court in Munn v. Illinois, to attach conditions to the use or benefit or control of our property by any and all others, INCLUDING governments. To suggest otherwise is to impute or enforce superior or supernatural powers to a government and institute a civil religion in violation of the First Amendment. ALL ARE EQUAL in a free society. You are equal to the government, as President Obama implied in his First Inauguration Speech, as we prove below:

Foundations of Freedom Course, Form #12.021, Video 1: Introduction
<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=ikf7CcT2I8I>

If you are not equal to the government and cannot use YOUR absolutely owned PRIVATE property to control THEM, then they can’t use THEIR property to control you through civil franchises or statutes either. For more on the abuse of franchises by government to oppress people they are supposed to be helping, and how to use them to DEFEND yourself against such abuses, see:

1. Government Franchises Course, Form #12.012
<https://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

<https://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

1 Anyone who asserts that the GOVERNMENT is the only one who can absolutely own property or that government
2 SHARES ownership or control of ALL property is indirectly advocating all of the following:

- 3 1. A violation of the main reason for creating government, which is the protection of PRIVATE rights and PRIVATE 4 property.
- 5 2. The establishment of a state sponsored religion in violation of the First Amendment, because the government can use
6 their control over ALL property to control ANYTHING and ANYONE. See:

Socialism: The New American Civil Religion, Form #05.016

<https://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

- 7 3. A violation of the Thirteenth Amendment, because there is no way to avoid the rules associated with buying or using 8 ANY TYPE OF PROPERTY.
- 9 4. The establishment of socialism, which is government ownership or at least control over ALL property:

10 “Socialism n (1839) 1: any of various economic and political theories advocating collective or governmental 11 ownership and administration of the means of production and distribution of goods 2 a: a system of society or

20 11.7.1.8 Law

21 The term "law" as used on this site is constrained by the following requirements:

- 22 1. It must apply equally to ALL. It cannot compel INEQUALITY of treatment between any man or class of men. See 23 Form #05.033.
- 24 2. It cannot do collectively what people individually cannot NATURALLY do. In other words, in the words of Frederic
25 Bastiat, it aggregates the individual right of self-defense into a collective body so that it can be delegated. A single 26 human CANNOT delegate a right he does not individually ALSO possess, which indirectly implies that no GROUP of 27 men called “government” can have any more COLLECTIVE rights under the collective entity rule than a single human 28 being. See the following for a video on the subject.

Philosophy of Liberty, SEDM

<https://sedm.org/liberty-university/liberty-university-2-2-philosophy-of-liberty/>

- 29 3. It cannot punish a citizen for an innocent action that was not a crime or not demonstrated to produce measurable harm.
30 The ability to PROVE such harm with evidence in court is called “standing”.
- 31 4. It cannot compel the redistribution of wealth between two private parties. This is ESPECIALLY true if it is called a 32 “tax”.
- 33 5. It cannot interfere with or impair the right of contracts between PRIVATE parties. That means it cannot compel
34 income tax withholding unless one or more of the parties to the withholding are ALREADY public officers in the
35 government.
- 36 6. It cannot interfere with the use or enjoyment or CONTROL over private property, so long as the use injures no one.
37 Implicit in this requirement is that it cannot FAIL to recognize the right of private property or force the owner to 38 donate it to a PUBLIC USE or PUBLIC PURPOSE. In the common law, such an interference is called a “trespass”.
- 39 7. The rights it conveys must attach to LAND rather than the CIVIL STATUS (e.g. “taxpayer”, “citizen”, “resident”, etc.)
40 of the people ON that land. One can be ON land within a PHYSICAL state WITHOUT being legally “WITHIN” that 41 state (a corporation) as an officer of the government or corporation \(Form #05.042\) called a “citizen” or “resident”.
42 See:
43 7.1. Your Exclusive Right to Declare or Establish Your Civil Status, Form #13.008.
44 <https://sedm.org/Forms/13-SelfFamilyChurchGovnce/RightToDeclStatus.pdf>

1 7.2. Foundations of Freedom Course, Form #12.021, Video 4 covers how LAND and STATUS are deliberately
2 confused through equivocation in order to KIDNAP people's identity \(Form #05.046\) and transport it illegally to
3 federal territory.

4 (“It is locality that is determinative of the application of the Constitution, in such matters as judicial procedure,
5 and not the status of the people who live in it.” [Balzac v. Porto Rico, 258 U.S. 298 (1922)])

6 https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=hPwMfa_oD-w

- 7 8. It must provide a remedy AFTER an injury occurs. It may not PREVENT injuries before they occur. Anything that 8 operates in a PREVENTIVE rather than CORRECTIVE mode is a franchise. There is no standing in a REAL court to 9 sue WITHOUT first demonstrating such an injury to the PRIVATE or NATURAL rights of the Plaintiff or VICTIM.
10 9. It cannot acquire the “force of law” from the consent of those it is enforced against. In other words, it cannot be an 11 agreement or contract. All franchises and licensing, by the way, are types of contracts.
12 10. It does not include compacts or contracts between private people and governments. Rights that are INALIENABLE
13 cannot be contracted away, even WITH consent. See Form #05.003.
14 11. It cannot, at any time, be called “voluntary”. Congress and even the U.S. Supreme Court call the IRC Subtitle A 15 “income tax” voluntary. See Exhibits #05.025 and #05.051.
16 12. It does not include franchises, licenses, or civil statutory codes, all of which derive ALL of their force of law from your 17 consent in choosing a civil domicile \(Form #05.002\).

18 The above criteria derives from What is “law”?, Form #05.048, Section 16. Any violation of the above rules is what the 19 Bible calls “devises evil by law” in Psalm 94:20-23 as indicated above.

20 Roman statesman Cicero defined law as follows:

21 “True Law is right reason in agreement with Nature, it is of universal application, unchanging and everlasting; it
22 summons to duty by its commands and averts from wrong-doing by its prohibitions. And it does not lay its 23 commands or prohibitions upon good men in vain, although neither have any effect upon the wicked. It is a sin
24 to try to alter this law, nor is it allowable to try to repeal a part of it, and it is impossible to abolish it entirely.
25 We cannot be freed from its obligations by Senate or People, and we need not look outside ourselves for an
26 expounder or interpreter of it. And there will not be different laws at Rome or at Athens, or different laws now
27 and in the future, but one eternal and unchangeable law will be valid for all times and all nations, and there will 28 be one master and one rule, that is God, for He is the author of this law, its promulgator, and its enforcing 29 judge.”

30 [Marcus Tullius Cicero, 106-43 B.C.]

31 “Power and law are not synonymous. In truth, they are frequently in opposition and irreconcilable. There is 32 God's Law from which all equitable laws of man emerge and by which men must live if they are not to die in 33 oppression, chaos and despair. Divorced from God's eternal and immutable Law, established before the 34 founding of the suns, man's power is evil no matter the noble words with which it is employed or the motives
35 urged when enforcing it. Men of good will, mindful therefore of the Law laid down by God, will oppose 36 governments whose rule is by men, and if they wish to survive as a nation they will destroy the [de facto]
37 government which attempts to adjudicate by the whim of venal judges.”

38 [Marcus Tullius Cicero, 106-43 B.C.]

39 “Law” is defined to EXCLUDE any and all civil statutory codes, franchises, or privileges in relation to any and all
40 governments and to include ONLY the COMMON law, the CONSTITUTION (if trespassing Government Actors ONLY 41 are involved), and the CRIMINAL law.

35 "What, then, is [\[civil\] legislation](#)? It is an [assumption \[presumption\]](#) by one man, or body of men, of absolute,
36 irresponsible dominion because of abuse of [sovereign immunity and the act of "CONSENT" by calling yourself
37 a "citizen"] over all other men whom they call subject to their power. It is the assumption by one man, or body
38 of men, of a right to subject all other men to their will and their service. It is the assumption by one man, or 39 body of men, of a right to abolish outright all the natural rights, all the natural liberty of all other men; to make
40 all other men their slaves; to arbitrarily dictate to all other men what they may, and may not, do; what they may,
41 and may not, have; what they may, and may not, be. It is, in short, the assumption of a right to banish the 42 principle of human rights, the principle of justice itself, from off the earth, and set up their own personal will 43 [society of men and not law], pleasure, and interest in its place. All this, and nothing less, is involved in the very

48 The above methods of REMOVING the protections of the common law and the constitution from the INALIENABLE
49 rights [rights that CANNOT lawfully be given away, even WITH consent] that are protected by them has been described by 50 the U.S. Congress as the ESSENCE of communism itself! This is especially true when you add games with legal words of 51 art to remove even the STATUTORY limitations upon the conduct of the government. See Legal Deception, Propaganda,
52 and Fraud, Form #05.014.

3 The Congress finds and declares that the Communist Party of the United States [consisting of the IRS, DOJ,
4 and a corrupted federal judiciary], although purportedly a political party, is in fact an instrumentality of a
5 conspiracy to overthrow the [de jure] Government of the United States [and replace it with a de facto
6 government ruled by the judiciary]. It constitutes an authoritarian dictatorship [IRS, DOJ, and corrupted
7 federal judiciary in collusion] within a [constitutional] republic, demanding for itself the rights and
8 [FRANCHISE] privileges [including immunity from prosecution for their wrongdoing in violation of Article 1,
9 Section 9, Clause 8 of the Constitution] accorded to political parties, but denying to all others the liberties [Bill
10 of Rights] guaranteed by the Constitution [Form #10.002]. Unlike political parties, which evolve their policies
11 and programs through public means, by the reconciliation of a wide variety of individual views, and submit 12 those policies and programs to the electorate at large for approval or disapproval, the policies and programs of 13 the Communist Party are secretly [by corrupt judges and the IRS in complete disregard of, Form #05.014, the 14 tax franchise "codes", Form #05.001] prescribed for it by the foreign leaders of the world Communist
15 movement [the IRS and Federal Reserve]. Its members [the Congress, which was terrorized to do IRS bidding
16 by the framing of Congressman Traficant] have no part in determining its goals, and are not permitted to 17 voice dissent to party objectives. Unlike members of political parties, members of the Communist Party are 18 recruited for indoctrination [in the public FOOL system by homosexuals, liberals, and socialists] with respect
19 to its objectives and methods, and are organized, instructed, and disciplined [by the IRS and a corrupted
20 judiciary] to carry into action slavishly the assignments given them by their hierarchical chieftains. Unlike 21 political parties, the Communist Party [thanks to a corrupted federal judiciary] acknowledges no
22 constitutional or statutory limitations upon its conduct or upon that of its members [ANARCHISTS!, Form
23 #08.020]. The Communist Party is relatively small numerically, and gives scant indication of capacity ever to 24 attain its ends by lawful political means. The peril inherent in its operation arises not from its numbers, but 25 from its failure to acknowledge any limitation as to the nature of its activities, and its dedication to the 26 proposition that the present constitutional Government of the United States ultimately must be brought to 27 ruin by any available means, including resort to force and violence [or using income taxes]. Holding that
28 doctrine, its role as the agency of a hostile foreign power [the Federal Reserve and the American Bar
29 Association (ABA)] renders its existence a clear present and continuing danger to the security of the United
30 States. It is the means whereby individuals are seduced [illegally KIDNAPPED via identity theft!, Form
31 #05.046] into the service of the world Communist movement [using FALSE information returns and other
32 PERJURIOUS government forms, Form #04.001], trained to do its bidding [by FALSE government
33 publications and statements that the government is not accountable for the accuracy of, Form #05.007], and 34 directed and controlled [using FRANCHISES illegally enforced upon NONRESIDENTS, Form #05.030] in 35 the conspiratorial performance of their revolutionary services. Therefore, the Communist Party should be 36 outlawed

37 The above corruption of our Constitutional Republic by the unconstitutional abuse of franchises, the violation of the rules
38 of statutory construction, and interference with common law remedies was described by the U.S. Supreme Court as follows:

39 "These are words of weighty import. They involve consequences of the most momentous character. I take
40 leave to say that if the principles thus announced should ever receive the sanction of a majority of this court,
41 a radical and mischievous change in our system of government will be the result. We will, in that event, pass
42 from the era of constitutional liberty guarded and protected by a written constitution into an era of legislative
43 absolutism.

44 Although from the foundation of the Government this court has held steadily to the view that the Government of
45 the United States was one of enumerated powers, and that no one of its branches, nor all of its branches
46 combined, could constitutionally exercise powers not granted, or which were not necessarily implied from those
47 expressly granted, Martin v. Hunter, 1 Wheat. 304, 326, 331, we are now informed that Congress possesses
48 powers outside of the Constitution, and may deal with new territory, 380*380 acquired by treaty or conquest,
49 in the same manner as other nations have been accustomed to act with respect to territories acquired by
50 them. In my opinion, Congress has no existence and can exercise no authority outside of the Constitution.
51 Still less is it true that Congress can deal with new territories just as other nations have done or may do with
52 their new territories. This nation is under the control of a written constitution, the supreme law of the land
53 and the only source of the powers which our Government, or any branch or officer of it, may exert at any
54 time or at any place. Monarchical and despotic governments, unrestrained by written constitutions, may do
55 with newly acquired territories what this Government may not do consistently with our fundamental law. To
56 say otherwise is to concede that Congress may, by action taken outside of the Constitution, engraft upon our
57 republican institutions a colonial system such as exists under monarchical governments. Surely such a result
58 was never contemplated by the fathers of the Constitution. If that instrument had contained a word
59 suggesting the possibility of a result of that character it would never have been adopted by the People of the 60 United States. The idea that this country may acquire territories anywhere upon the earth, by conquest or
61 treaty, and hold them as mere colonies or provinces — the people inhabiting them to enjoy only such rights
62 as Congress chooses to accord to them — is wholly inconsistent with the spirit and genius as well as with the
63 words of the Constitution."

64 [Downes v. Bidwell, 182 U.S. 244 (1901), Justice Harlan, Dissenting]

1 Civil statutory codes, franchises, or privileges are referred to on this website as “private law”, but not “law”. The word
2 “public” precedes all uses of “law” when dealing with acts of government and hence, refers only to COMMON law and
3 CRIMINAL law that applies equally to everyone, regardless of their consent. Involvement in any and all “private law”
4 franchises or privileges offered by any government ALWAYS undermines and threatens sovereignty, autonomy, and
5 equality, turns government into an unconstitutional civil religion, and corrupts even the finest of people. This is explained 6 in:

Government Instituted Slavery Using Franchises, Form #05.030
<https://sedm.org/Forms/05-MemLaw/Franchises.pdf>

7 Any use of the word "law" by any Government Actor directed at us or any member, if not clarified with the words "private"
8 or "public" in front of the word "law" shall constitute:

- 9 1. A criminal attempt and conspiracy to recruit us to be a public officer called a "person", "taxpayer", "citizen", 10 "resident", etc.
- 11 2. A solicitation of illegal bribes called "taxes" to treat us "AS IF" we are a public officer.
- 12 3. A criminal conspiracy to convert PRIVATE rights into PUBLIC rights and to violate the Bill of Rights.

13 The protection of PRIVATE rights mandated by the Bill of Rights BEGINS with and requires:

- 14 1. ALWAYS keeping PRIVATE and PUBLIC rights separated and never mixing them together.
- 15 2. Using unambiguous language about the TYPE of "right" that is being protected: PUBLIC or PRIVATE in every use of 16 the word "right". The way to avoid confusing PUBLIC and PRIVATE RIGHTS is to simply refer to PUBLIC rights as 17 "privileges" and NEVER refer to them as "rights".
- 18 3. Only converting PRIVATE rights to PUBLIC rights with the express written consent of the HUMAN owner.
- 19 4. Limiting the conversion to geographical places where rights are NOT unalienable. This means the conversion occurred
20 either abroad or on government territory not within the exclusive jurisdiction of a Constitutional state. Otherwise, the 21 Declaration of Independence, which is organic law, would be violated.
- 22 5. Keeping the rules for converting PRIVATE to PUBLIC so simple, unambiguous, and clear that a child could 23 understanding them and always referring to these rules in every interaction between the government and those they are 24 charged with protecting.
- 25 6. Ensuring that in every interaction (and ESPECIALLY ENFORCEMENT ACTION) between the government both 26 administratively and in court, that any right the government claims to civilly enforce against, regulate, tax, or burden
27 otherwise PRIVATE property is proven ON THE RECORD IN WRITING to originate from the rules documented in 28 the previous step. This BURDEN OF PROOF must be met both ADMINISTRATIVELY and IN COURT BEFORE
29 any enforcement action may be lawfully attempted by any government. It must be met by an IMPARTIAL decision
30 maker with NO FINANCIAL interest in the outcome and not employed by the government or else a criminal financial 31 conflict of interest will result. In other words, the government has to prove that it is NOT stealing before it can take 32 property, that it is the lawful owner, and expressly HOW it became the lawful owner.
- 33 7. Enforcing the following CONCLUSIVE PRESUMPTION against government jurisdiction to enforce unless and until 34 the above requirements are met:

35 "All rights and property are PRESUMED to be EXCLUSIVELY PRIVATE and beyond the control of 36 government or the CIVIL statutory franchise codes unless and until the government meets the burden of 37 proving, WITH EVIDENCE, on the record of the proceeding that:

38 a. A SPECIFIC formerly PRIVATE owner consented IN WRITING to convert said property to PUBLIC
39 property.

40 b. The owner was either abroad, domiciled on, or at least PRESENT on federal territory NOT protected by the 41 Constitution and therefore had the legal capacity to ALIENATE a Constitutional right or relieve a public
42 servant of the fiduciary obligation to respect and protect the right. Those physically present but not necessarily 43 domiciled in a constitutional but not statutory state protected by the constitution cannot lawfully alienate rights
44 to a real, de jure government, even WITH their consent.

45 c. If the government refuses to meet the above burden of proof, it shall be CONCLUSIVELY PRESUMED to be 46 operating in a PRIVATE, corporate capacity on an EQUAL footing with every other private corporation and 47 which is therefore NOT protected by official, judicial, or sovereign immunity."

5 11.7.1.9 Copyright

6 The words "Copyright" or "Copyright Sovereignty Education and Defense Ministry (SEDM)" used in connection with any 7 of the intellectual property on this site shall mean the following:

- 8 1. Owned by an exclusively private, nonstatutory human and not any artificial entity, "person", "citizen", or "resident"
9 under any civil statutory law.
- 10 2. Protected only under the common law and the constitution and not subject to the statutory civil law, including any tax 11 law.
- 12 3. Not owned by this website or ministry.
- 13 4. Owned by an anonymous third party who we have an agreement with to reuse the materials on this site.
- 14 5. Not owned or controlled by any government per 17 U.S.C. §105. Governments are not allowed to copyright their 15 works. Any attempt to bring this ministry under the control of any government or make it the property of any 16 government therefore results in no copyright being held in the name of the government.

17 The purpose of these copyright restrictions is to ensure that no government can use legal process or tax assessment as a 18 method to censor free speech materials found on this website.

19 11.7.1.10 Franchise

20 The word "franchise" means a grant or rental or lease rather than a gift of specific property with legal strings or 21 "obligations" attached.

22 FRANCHISE. A special privilege conferred by government on individual or corporation, and which does
23 not belong to citizens of country generally of common right. Elliott v. City of Eugene, 135 Or. 108, 294 P.
24 358, 360. In England it is defined to be a royal privilege in the hands of a subject.

25 A "franchise," as used by Blackstone in defining quo warranto, (3 Com. 262 [4th Am. Ed.] 322), had reference
26 to a royal privilege or branch of the king's prerogative subsisting in the hands of the subject, and must arise
27 from the king's grant, or be held by prescription, but today we understand a franchise to be some special
28 privilege conferred by government on an individual, natural or artificial, which is not enjoyed by its citizens in
29 general. State v. Fernandez, 106 Fla. 779, 143 So. 638, 639, 86 A.L.R. 240.

30 In this country a franchise is a privilege or immunity of a public nature, which cannot be legally
31 exercised without legislative grant. To be a corporation is a franchise. The various powers conferred on 32 corporations are franchises. The execution of a policy of insurance by an insurance company [e.g. Social
33 Insurance/Socialist Security], and the issuing a bank note by an incorporated bank [such as a Federal
34 Reserve NOTE], are franchises. People v. Utica Ins. Co., 15 Johns., N.Y., 387, 8 Am.Dec. 243. But it does not
35 embrace the property acquired by the exercise of the franchise. Bridgeport v. New York & N.H. R. Co., 36
36 Conn. 255, 4 Am.Rep. 63. Nor involve interest in land acquired by grantee. Whitbeck v. Funk, 140 Or. 70, 12
37 P.2d 1019, 1020. In a popular sense, the political rights of subjects and citizens are franchises, such as 38 the right of suffrage. etc. Pierce v. Emery, 32 N.H. 484 ; State v. Black Diamond Co., 97 Ohio St. 24, 119
39 N.E. 195, 199, L.R.A. 1918E, 352.

40 Elective Franchise. The right of suffrage: the right or privilege of voting in public elections.

41 Exclusive Franchise. See Exclusive Privilege or Franchise.

1 General and Special. The charter of a corporation is its "general" franchise, while a "special" franchise
2 consists in any rights granted by the public to use property for a public use but-with private profit. Lord v.
3 Equitable Life Assur. Soc., 194 N.Y. 212, 87 N.E. 443, 22 L.R.A. (N.S.) 420.

4 Personal Franchise. A franchise of corporate existence, or one which authorizes the formation and existence of
5 a corporation, is sometimes called a "personal" franchise. as distinguished from a "property" franchise, which
6 authorizes a corporation so formed to apply its property to some particular enterprise or exercise some special
7 privilege in its employment, as, for example, to construct and operate a railroad. See Sandham v. Nye, 9
8 Misc.ReP. 541, 30 N.Y.S. 552.

9 Secondary Franchises. The franchise of corporate existence being sometimes called the "primary" franchise of
10 a corporation, its "secondary" franchises are the special and peculiar rights, privileges, or grants which it may,
11 receive under its charter or from a municipal corporation, such as the right to use the public streets, exact tolls,
12 collect fares, etc. State v. Topeka Water Co., 61 Kan. 547, 60 P. 337; Virginia Canon Toll Road Co. v. People,
13 22 Colo. 429, 45 P. 398 37 L.R.A. 711. The franchises of a corporation are divisible into (1) corporate or
14 general franchises; and (2) "special or secondary franchises. The former is the franchise to exist as a
15 corporation, while the latter are certain rights and privileges conferred upon existing corporations. Gulf
16 Refining Co. v. Cleveland Trust Co., 166 Miss. 759, 108 So. 158, 160.

17 Special Franchisee. See Secondary Franchises, supra.
18 [Black's Law Dictionary, 4th Edition, pp. 786-787]

19 The definition of "privilege" in the definition above means PROPERTY, whether physical or intangible. This loan is often
20 called a "grant" in statutes, as in the case of Social Security in 42 U.S. Code Subchapter I-Grants to the States for Old-Age
21 Assistance. That grant is to federal territories and NOT constitutional states, as demonstrated by the definition of "State"
22 found in 42 U.S.C. §1301\(a\)\(1\). Hence, Social Security cannot be offered in constitutional states, but only federal 23 territories, as proven in Form #06.001.

24 "For here, the state must deposit the proceeds of its taxation in the federal treasury, upon terms which make 25 the deposit suspiciously like a forced loan to be repaid only in accordance with restrictions imposed by 26 federal law. Title IX, §§ 903 (a) (3), 904 (a), (b), (e). All moneys withdrawn from this fund must be used
27 exclusively for the payment of compensation. § 903 (a) (4). And this compensation is to be paid through public
28 employment offices in the state or such other agencies as a federal board may approve. § 903 (a) (1)."
29 [Steward Machine Co. v. Davis, 301 U.S. 548 \(1937\)]

30 In the case of government franchises, property granted or rented can include one or more of the following:

- 31 1. A public right or public privilege granted by a statute that is not found in the Constitution but rather created by the 32 Legislature. This includes remedies provided in franchise courts in the Executive Branch under Article I or Article IV
33 to vindicate such rights. It does not include remedies provided in true Article III courts.

34 "The distinction between public rights and private rights has not been definitively explained in our precedents.
35 Nor is it necessary to do so in the present cases, for it suffices to observe that a matter of public rights must at a
36 minimum arise "between the government and others." Ex parte Bakelite Corp., supra, at 451, 49 S.Ct., at 413.
37 In contrast, "the liability of one individual to another under the law as defined," Crowell v. Benson, supra, at 38 51, 52 S.Ct., at 292, is a matter of private rights. Our precedents clearly establish that only controversies in the 39 former category may be removed from Art. III courts and delegated to legislative courts or administrative 40 agencies for their determination. See Atlas Roofing Co. v. Occupational Safety and Health Review Comm'n, 430
41 U.S. 442, 450, n. 7, 97 S.Ct. 1261, 1266, n. 7, 51 L.Ed.2d. 464 (1977); Crowell v. Benson, supra, 285 U.S.,
42 at 50-51, 52 S.Ct., at 292. See also Katz, Federal Legislative Courts, 43 Harv.L.Rev. 894, 917-918 (1930).FN24
43 Private-rights disputes, on the other hand, lie at the core of the historically recognized judicial power."

44 [. . .]

45 Although Crowell and Raddatz do not explicitly distinguish between rights created by Congress [PUBLIC
46 RIGHTS] and other [PRIVATE] rights, such a distinction underlies in part Crowell's and Raddatz' recognition
47 of a critical difference between rights created by federal statute and rights recognized by the Constitution.
48 Moreover, such a distinction seems to us to be necessary in light of the delicate accommodations required by 49 the principle of separation of powers reflected in Art. III. The constitutional system of checks and balances is 50 designed to guard against "encroachment or aggrandizement" by Congress at the expense of the other
51 branches of government. Buckley v. Valeo, 424 U.S., at 122, 96 S.Ct., at 683. But when Congress creates a 52 statutory right [a "privilege" or "public right" in this case, such as a "trade or business"], it clearly has the 53 discretion, in defining that right, to create presumptions, or assign burdens of proof, or prescribe remedies; it
54 may also provide that persons seeking to vindicate that right must do so before particularized tribunals created
55 to perform the specialized adjudicative tasks related to that right. FN35 Such provisions do, in a sense, affect 56 the exercise of judicial power, but they are also incidental to Congress' power to define the right that it has

1 created. No comparable justification exists, however, when the right being adjudicated is not of congressional
2 creation. In such a situation, substantial inroads into functions that have traditionally been performed by the
3 Judiciary cannot be characterized merely as incidental extensions of Congress' power to define rights that it
4 has created. Rather, such inroads suggest unwarranted encroachments upon the judicial power of the United 5 States, which our Constitution reserves for Art. III courts.
6 [Northern Pipeline Const. Co. v. Marathon Pipe Line Co., 458 U.S. 50, 102 S.Ct. 2858 (1983)]

- 7 2. Any type of privilege, immunity, or exemption granted by a statute to a specific class of people and not to all people
8 generally that is not found in the Constitution. All such statutes are referred to as "special law" or "private law", where 9 the government itself is acting in a private rather than a public capacity on an equal footing with every other private
10 human in equity. The U.S. Supreme court also called such legislation "class legislation" in Pollock v. Farmers' Loan
11 and Trust, 157 U.S. 429 \(1895\) and the ONLY "class" they can be talking about are public officers in the U.S.
12 government and not to all people generally. See the following for proof:

Why Your Government is Either a Thief or You are a "Public Officer" for Income Tax Purposes, Form #05.008
<https://sedm.org/Forms/05-MemLaw/WhyThiefOrPubOfficer.pdf>

13 "special law. One relating to particular persons or things; one made for individual cases or for particular
14 places or districts; one operating upon a selected class, rather than upon the public generally. A private law.
15 A law is "special" when it is different from others of the same general kind or designed for a particular purpose,
16 or limited in range or confined to a prescribed field of action or operation. A "special law" relates to either 17 particular persons, places, or things or to persons, places, or things which, though not particularized, are 18 separated by any method of selection from the whole class to which the law might, but not such legislation, be
19 applied. Utah Farm Bureau Ins. Co. v. Utah Ins. Guaranty Ass'n, Utah, 564 P.2d. 751, 754. A special law
20 applies only to an individual or a number of individuals out of a single class similarly situated and affected, or 21 to a special locality. Board of County Com'rs of Lemhi County v. Swensen, Idaho, 80 Idaho 198, 327 P.2d. 361,
22 362. See also Private bill; Private law. Compare General law; Public law."
23 [Black's Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, pp. 1397-1398]

- 24 3. A statutory "civil status" created and therefore owned by the legislature. This includes statutory "taxpayers", "drivers", 25 "persons", "individuals", etc. All such entities are creations of Congress and public rights which carry obligations when 26 consensually and lawfully exercised. See:

Your Exclusive Right to Declare or Establish Your Civil Status, Form #13.008
<https://sedm.org/Forms/13-SelfFamilyChurchGovnce/RightToDeclStatus.pdf>

- 27 4. A STATUTORY Social Security Card. The regulations at 20 C.F.R. §422.103\(d\) indicates the card is property of the 28 government and must be returned upon request.
29 5. A U.S. passport. The passport indicates that it is property of the government that must be returned upon request.
30 6. A "license", which is legally defined as permission by the state to do something that would otherwise be illegal or even 31 criminal.

32 In legal parlance, such a grant makes the recipient a temporary trustee, and if they violate their trust, the property can be
33 taken back through administrative action or physical seizure and without legal process so long as the conditions of the loan
34 allowed for these methods of enforcement:

35 "How, then, are purely equitable obligations created? For the most part, either by the acts of third persons or 36 by equity alone. But how can one person impose an obligation upon another? By giving property to the latter
37 on the terms of his assuming an obligation in respect to it. At law there are only two means by which the 38 object of the donor could be at all accomplished, consistently with the entire ownership of the property
39 passing to the donee, namely: first, by imposing a real obligation upon the property; secondly, by subjecting
40 the title of the donee to a condition subsequent. The first of these the law does not permit; the second is 41 entirely inadequate. Equity, however, can secure most of the objects of the doner, and yet avoid the mischiefs of 42 real obligations by imposing upon the donee (and upon all persons to whom the property shall afterwards come 43 without value or with notice) a personal obligation with respect to the property; and accordingly this is what 44 equity does. It is in this way that all trusts are created, and all equitable charges made (i.e., equitable 45 hypothecations or liens created) by testators in their wills. In this way, also, most trusts are created by acts
46 inter vivos, except in those cases in which the trustee incurs a legal as well as an equitable obligation. In short,
47 as property is the subject of every equitable obligation, so the owner of property is the only person whose act
48 or acts can be the means of creating an obligation in respect to that property. Moreover, the owner of 49 property can create an obligation in respect to it in only two ways: first, by incurring the obligation himself,
50 in which case he commonly also incurs a legal obligation; secondly, by imposing the obligation upon some 51 third person; and this he does in the way just explained."
52 [Readings on the History and System of the Common Law, Second Edition, Roscoe Pound, 1925, p. 543]
53

1 "When Sir Matthew Hale, and the sages of the law in his day, spoke of property as affected by a public
2 interest, and ceasing from that cause to be juris privati solely, that is, ceasing to be held merely in private
3 right, they referred to

4 [1] property dedicated [DONATED] by the owner to public uses, or

5 [2] to property the use of which was granted by the government [e.g. Social Security Card], or 6 [3] in connection with which special privileges were conferred [licenses].

7 Unless the property was thus dedicated [by one of the above three mechanisms], or some right bestowed by
8 the government was held with the property, either by specific grant or by prescription of so long a time as to 9 imply a grant originally, the property was not affected by any public interest so as to be taken out of the 10 category of property held in private right."

11 [Munn v. Illinois, 94 U.S. 113, 139-140 (1876)]

12 The above authorities imply that a mere act of accepting or using the property in question in effect represents "implied
13 consent" to abide by the conditions associated with the loan, as described in the California Civil Code below:

14 CALIFORNIA CIVIL CODE
15 DIVISION 3. OBLIGATIONS
16 PART 2. CONTRACTS
17 CHAPTER 3. CONSENT
18 Section 1589

19 1589. A voluntary acceptance of the benefit of a transaction is equivalent to a consent to all the obligations
20 arising from it, so far as the facts are known, or ought to be known, to the person accepting.

21 The U.S. Supreme Court further acknowledged the above mechanisms of using grants or loans of government property to 22 create equitable obligations against the recipient of the property as follows. Note that they ALSO imply that YOU can use
23 exactly the same mechanism against the government to impose obligations upon them, if they are trying to acquire your
24 physical property, your services, your labor, your time, or impose any kind of obligation \(Form #12.040\) against you
25 without your express written consent, because all such activities involve efforts to acquire what is usually PRIVATE,
26 absolutely owned property that you can use to control the GOVERNMENT as the lawful owner:

27 "The State in such cases exercises no greater right than an individual may exercise over the use of his own
28 property when leased or loaned to others. The conditions upon which the privilege shall be enjoyed being 29 stated or implied in the legislation authorizing its grant, no right is, of course, impaired by their enforcement.
30 The recipient of the privilege, in effect, stipulates to comply with the conditions. It matters not how limited
31 the privilege conferred, its acceptance implies an assent to the regulation of its use and the compensation for 32 it."

33 [Munn v. Illinois, 94 U.S. 113 (1876)]

34 The injustice \(Form #05.050\), sophistry, and deception \(Form #05.014\) underlying their welfare state system is that:

- 35 1. Governments don't produce anything, but merely transfer wealth between otherwise private people (see Separation 36 Between Public and Private Course, Form #12.025).
- 37 2. The money they are paying you can never be more than what you paid them, and if it is, then they are abusing their 38 taxing powers!

39 To lay, with one hand, the power of the government on the property of the citizen, and with the other to
40 bestow it upon favored individuals to aid private enterprises and build up private fortunes, is none the less a
41 robbery because it is done under the forms of law and is called taxation. This is not legislation. It is a decree
42 under legislative forms.

43 Nor is it taxation. 'A tax,' says Webster's Dictionary, 'is a rate or sum of money assessed on the person or
44 property of a citizen by government for the use of the nation or State.' 'Taxes are burdens or charges
45 imposed by the Legislature upon persons or property to raise money for public purposes.' Cooley, Const.
46 Lim., 479.

47 Coulter, J., in Northern Liberties v. St. John's Church, 13 Pa.St. 104 says, very forcibly, 'I think the common
48 mind has everywhere taken in the understanding that taxes are a public imposition, levied by authority of the
49 government for the purposes of carrying on the government in all its machinery and operations—that they
50 are imposed for a public purpose.' See, also Pray v. Northern Liberties, 31 Pa.St. 69; Matter of Mayor of N.Y.,

1 11 Johns., 77; Camden v. Allen, 2 Dutch., 398; Sharpless v. Mayor, supra; Hanson v. Vernon, 27 Ia., 47;
2 Whiting v. Fond du Lac, supra.”
3 [Loan Association v. Topeka, 20 Wall. 655 (1874)]

- 4 3. If they try to pay you more than you paid them, they must make you into a public officer to do so to avoid the
5 prohibition of the case above. In doing so, they in most cases must illegally establish a public office and in effect use
6 "benefits" to criminally bribe you to illegally impersonate such an office. See The "Trade or Business" Scam, Form
7 #05.001 for details.
- 8 4. Paying you back what was originally your own money and NOTHING more is not a "benefit" or even a loan by them
9 to you. If anything, it is a temporary loan by you to them! And it's an unjust loan because they don't have to pay
10 interest!
- 11 5. Since you are the real lender, then you are the only real party who can make rules against them and not vice versa. See 12 Article 4, Section 3, Clause 2 of the Constitution for where the ability to make those rules comes from.
- 13 6. All franchises are contracts that require mutual consideration and mutual obligation to be enforceable. Since the 14 government isn't contractually obligated to provide the main consideration, which is "benefits" and isn't obligated to 15 provide ANYTHING that is truly economically valuable beyond that, then the "contract" or "compact" is 16 unenforceable against you and can impose no obligations on you based on mere equitable principals of contract law.

17 “We must conclude that a person covered by the Act has not such a right in benefit payments... This is not to
18 say, however, that Congress may exercise its power to modify the statutory scheme free of all constitutional
19 restraint.”

48 11.7.1.11 Frivolous

49 The word "frivolous" as used by the government or on other websites in referring to this website shall mean "correct" and
50 "truthful". Any attempts to call anything on this website incorrect or untruthful must be accompanied by authoritative,

1 court-admissible evidence to support such a conclusion or shall be presumed by the reader to be untrustworthy and
2 untruthful. All such evidence MUST derive EXCLUSIVELY from the consensual civil domicile of the defendant pursuant
3 to Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 17\(b\). Parties subject to this agreement stipulate that any violation of this rule is a
4 malicious prosecution and obstruction of justice in violation of 18 U.S.C. §1589\(a\)\(3\). Click here for details on domicile
5 <https://sedm.org/Forms/05-MemLaw/Domicile.pdf>.

6 11.7.1.12 Federal Income Tax

7 The term "federal income tax", in the context of this website, means the revenue scheme described in Subtitle A of the 8 Internal Revenue Code as applied specifically and only to human beings who are not statutory "persons" or "individuals"
9 under federal law and shall NOT refer to businesses or artificial entities. This website does NOT concern itself with 10 businesses or corporations or artificial entities of any description.

11 11.7.1.13 Tax

12 The term "tax" includes any method to collect revenues to support ONLY the operation of the government. It does NOT 13 include the abuse of taxing power to transfer wealth between ordinary citizens or residents and when it is used for this
14 purpose it is THEFT, not "taxation".

15 "The power to tax is, therefore, the strongest, the most pervading of all powers of government, reaching
16 directly or indirectly to all classes of the people. It was said by Chief Justice Marshall, in the case of 17 McCulloch v. Md., 4 Wheat. 431, that the power to tax is the power to destroy. A striking instance of the truth
18 of the proposition is seen in the fact that the existing tax of ten per cent, imposed by the United States on the 19 *circulation of all other banks than the National Banks, drove out of existence every state bank of circulation
20 within a year or two after its passage. This power can be readily employed against one class of individuals and
21 in favor of another, so as to ruin the one class and give unlimited wealth and prosperity to the other, if there is 22 no implied limitation of the uses for which the power may be exercised.

23 To lay, with one hand, the power of the government on the property of the citizen, and with the other to
24 bestow it upon favored individuals to aid private enterprises and build up private fortunes, is none the less a
25 robbery because it is done under the forms of law and is called taxation. This is not legislation. It is a decree
26 under legislative forms.

27 Nor is it taxation. 'A tax,' says Webster's Dictionary, 'is a rate or sum of money assessed on the person or
28 property of a citizen by government for the use of the nation or State.' 'Taxes are burdens or charges

31 Coulter, J., in Northern Liberties v. St. John's Church, 13 Pa.St. 104 says, very forcibly, 'I think the common

36 Whiting v. Fond du Lac, supra."
37 [\[Loan Association v. Topeka, 20 Wall. 655 \(1874\)\]](#)

39 "A tax, in the general understanding of the term and as used in the constitution, signifies an exaction for the
40 support of the government. The word has never thought to connote the expropriation of money from one group
41 for the benefit of another."
42 [\[U.S. v. Butler, 297 U.S. 1 \(1936\)\]](#)

43 "Tax" includes ONLY impositions upon PUBLIC property or franchises (Form #05.030) and not upon absolutely owned
44 PRIVATE property.

45 1. PRIVATE property must be consensually converted to PUBLIC property before it can be taxed, and the burden of 46 proof rests on the government to prove that it was lawfully converted before it can be subject to tax. See:

Separation Between Public and Private Course, Form #12.025
<https://sedm.org/LibertyU/SeparatingPublicPrivate.pdf>

47 2. The "persons" spoken above are civil statutory PUBLIC "persons" and not PRIVATE humans. See:

1 11.7.1.14 Protection

2 The word "protection" includes only CRIMINAL, constitutional, and common law protection. It excludes every type of
3 government activity, franchise, or program that requires a predicate civil status \(Form #13.008\) to enforce, such as
4 "citizen", "resident", "taxpayer", "spouse", Social Security beneficiary, etc. Every attempt to impose, acquire, or enforce a
5 civil status or to enforce duties upon a civil status NOT related to voting or jury service constitutes the following:

- 6 1. An INJURY and an INJUSTICE \(Form #05.050\).
7 2. Identity Theft \(Form #05.046\).

8 11.7.1.15 Fact

9 The word "fact" means that which is admissible as evidence in a court of law BECAUSE ENACTED LAW makes it
10 admissible AND because the speaker (other than us) INTENDED for it to be factual. It does NOT imply that we allege that 11 it is factual, actionable, or even truthful. Any attempt by any government to make anything published on this website or 12 anything said by members or officers of the ministry FACTUAL or ACTIONABLE in conflict with this disclaimer is 13 hereby declared and stipulated by all members to be FRAUDULENT, PERJURIOUS, and a willful act of international 14 terrorism and organized extortion.

15 11.7.1.16 Statutory

16 The term "statutory" when used as a prefix to any other term, means that the term it precedes pertains only to federal 17 territory, property, PUBLIC rights, or privileges under the exclusive jurisdiction of the national government. Includes NO
18 private property or people.

19 11.7.1.17 Statutory Citizen

20 The term "statutory citizen" is defined on this website to mean every reference to the word "citizen" in every act of 21 congress OTHER than in Title 8. Title 8 acts as a substitute for the Constitution for the purposes of only citizenship within
22 territories and/or possessions OR abroad. Fourteenth Amendment/CONSTITUTIONAL citizenship is NOWHERE
23 described or referenced in in Title 8 of the U.S. Code. Statutes in Title 8 are not necessary to define or authorize citizenship
24 for people in states of the Union:

25 "Finally, this Court is mindful of the years of past practice in which territorial citizenship has been treated as a
26 statutory [PRIVILEGE!], and not a constitutional, right. In the unincorporated territories of Puerto Rico,
27 Guam, the U.S. Virgin Islands, and the Northern Mariana Islands, birthright citizenship was conferred upon
28 their inhabitants by various statutes many years after the United States acquired them. See Amicus Br. at 10-11.
29 If the Citizenship Clause [of the Fourteenth Amendment] guaranteed birthright citizenship in unincorporated
30 territories, these statutes would have been unnecessary. While longstanding practice is not sufficient to* 31 demonstrate constitutionality, such a practice requires special scrutiny before being set aside. See, e.g.,
32 Jackman v. Rosenbaum Co., 260 U.S. 22, 31 (1922) (Holmes, J.) ("If a thing has been practiced for two 33 hundred years by common consent, it will need a strong case for the Fourteenth Amendment to affect it[.]");
34 Waltz v. Tax Comm'n, 397 U.S. 664, 678 (1970) ("It is obviously correct that no one acquires a vested or 35 protected right in violation of the Constitution by long use Yet an unbroken practice . . . is not something to 36 be lightly cast aside.""). And while Congress cannot take away the citizenship of individuals covered by the 37 Citizenship Clause [of the Fourteenth Amendment], it can bestow citizenship upon those not within the 38 Constitution's breadth. See U.S. Const. art. IV, § 3, cl. 2 ("Congress shall have Power to dispose of and make 39 *all needful Rules and Regulations respecting the Territory belonging to the United States[]."); id. At art. I, §
40 8, cl. 4 (Congress may "establish a uniform Rule of Naturalization . . ."). To date, Congress has not seen fit to* 41 bestow birthright citizenship upon American Samoa, and in accordance with the law, this Court must and will 42 respect that choice.16"
43 [\[Tuaua v. U.S.A. 951 F.Supp.2d. 88 \(2013\)\]](#)

44 Note the following in the above:

45 "If the Citizenship Clause of the [Fourteenth Amendment] guaranteed birthright citizenship in unincorporated
46 territories, these statutes would have been unnecessary."

1 All statutory statuses in Title 8 are therefore POLITICAL statuses rather than CIVIL statuses. For the meaning of "civil 2 status", see:

Civil Status (Important!), SEDM
<https://sedm.org/litigation-main/civil-status/>

3 However, the political status imputed in Title 8 ("citizen" and/or "national") is not that mentioned in the Constitution. The
4 constitution does not apply on federal territory with the exception of Article 1, Section 8, Clause 17 except insofar as
5 Congress legislatively allows it to apply. Once it is made to apply, that constitutional provision which is legislatively
6 applied cannot be legislatively revoked, because Constitutional rights cannot be legislatively revoked and are private
7 property.

8 "[T]he Constitution is applicable to territories acquired by purchase or conquest only when and so far as 9 Congress shall so direct"
10 [\[Downes v. Bidwell, 182 U.S. 244, 279 \(1901\)\]](#)

11 All titles of the U.S. Code OTHER than Title 8 and which are CIVIL in nature limit themselves to domiciled parties against 12 whom statutory civil law may lawfully be enforced per Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 17\(b\). The origin of civil statutory 13 enforcement authority is domicile on federal territory or representing an entity or office domiciled there (such as "person").
14 Thus, all such parties must be at least domiciled on federal territory to civilly enforce. And, one can't have a domicile
15 without physical presence there at some point in time. See:

Why Domicile and Becoming a "Taxpayer" Require Your Consent, Form #05.002
<https://sedm.org/Forms/05-MemLaw/Domicile.pdf>

17 11.7.1.18 Constitutional

18 The term "constitutional" when used as a prefix to any other term, means that the term it precedes pertains only to land,
19 property, rights, or privileges under the exclusive jurisdiction of a state of the Union and not within the civil or criminal
20 jurisdiction of the national government.

21 11.7.1.19 Law Practice

22 The terms "law practice" or "practice of law":

- 23 1. Exclude any and all statutory references to said term in any state or federal statute.
- 24 2. Exclude any use of these terms found in any rule of court.
- 25 3. Exclude any litigation in which the party "practicing" is representing either a government instrumentality or acting as 26 an officer for said instrumentality such as a statutory "taxpayer" (under the Internal Revenue Code), "driver" (under the 27 vehicle code), "spouse" (under the family code), or "benefit recipient" (under any entitlement program, including 28 Social Security).
- 29 4. Include litigation involving ONLY the protection of EXCLUSIVELY PRIVATE rights beyond the jurisdiction of any 30 de jure government.

31 11.7.1.20 Sovereign

32 The word "sovereign" when referring to humans or governments means all the following:

- 33 1. A human being and NOT a "government". Only human beings are "sovereign" and only when they are acting in strict 34 obedience to the laws of their religion. All powers of government are delegated from the PEOPLE and are NOT
35 "divine rights". Those powers in turn are only operative when government PREVENTS the conversion of PRIVATE
36 rights into PUBLIC rights. When that goal is avoided or undermined or when law is used to accomplish involuntary
37 conversion, we cease to have a government and instead end up with a private, de facto for profit corporation that has no
38 sovereign immunity and cannot abuse sovereign immunity to protect its criminal thefts from the people.
- 39 2. EQUAL in every respect to any and every government or actor in government. All governments are legal "persons"
40 and under our Constitutional system, ALL "persons" are equal and can only become UNEQUAL in relation to each

1 other WITH their EXPRESS and NOT IMPLIED consent. Since our Constitutional rights are unalienable per the 2 Declaration of Independence, then we can't become unequal in relation to any government, INCLUDING through our 3 consent.

- 4 3. Not superior in any way to any human being within the jurisdiction of the courts of any country.
- 5 4. Possessing the EQUAL right to acquire rights over others by the same mechanisms as the government uses. For 6 instance, if the government encourages the filing of FALSE information returns that essentially "elect" people into
7 public office without their consent, then we have an EQUAL right to elect any and every government or officer within 8 government into our PERSONAL service as our PERSONAL officer without THEIR consent. See:

- 9 5. Subject to the criminal laws of the jurisdiction they are physically situated in, just like everyone else. This provision 10 excludes "quasi-criminal provisions" within civil franchises, such as tax crimes.
- 11 6. The origin of all authority delegated to the government per the Declaration of Independence.
- 12 7. Reserving all rights and delegating NONE to any and every government or Government Actor. U.C.C. 1-308 and its 13 predecessor, U.C.C. 1-207.
- 14 8. Not consenting to any and every civil franchise offered by any government.
- 15 9. Possessing the same sovereign immunity as any government. Hence, like the government, any Government Actor
16 asserting a liability or obligation has the burden of proving on the record of any court proceeding EXPRESS
17 WRITTEN consent to be sued before the obligation becomes enforceable.
- 18 10. Claiming no civil or franchise status under any statutory franchise, including but not limited to "citizen", "resident",
19 "driver" (under the vehicle code), "spouse" (under the family code), "taxpayer" (under the tax code). Any attempt to 20 associate a statutory status and the public rights it represents against a non-consenting party is THEFT and SLAVERY
21 and INJUSTICE.
- 22 11. Acting as a fiduciary, agent, and trustee on behalf of God 24 hours a day, seven days a week as an ambassador of a
23 legislatively foreign jurisdiction and as a public officer of "Heaven, Inc.", a private foreign corporation. God is the 24 ONLY "sovereign" and the source of all sovereignty. We must be acting as His agent and fiduciary before we can 25 exercise any sovereignty at all. Any attempt by so-called "government" to interfere with our ability to act as His 26 fiduciaries is a direct interference with our right to contract and the free exercise of religion. See:

Delegation of Authority Order from God to Christians, Form #13.007

<https://sedm.org/Forms/13-SelfFamilyChurchGovnce/DelOfAuthority.pdf>

- 27 12. Capable of being civilly sued ONLY under the common law and equity and not under any statutory civil law. All 28 statutory civil laws are law for government and public officers, and NOT for private human beings. They are civil 29 franchises that only acquire the "force of law" with the consent of the subject. See:

Why Statutory Civil Law is Law for Government and Not Private Persons, Form #05.037

<https://sedm.org/Forms/05-MemLaw/StatLawGovt.pdf>

- 30 13. Protected from the civil statutory law by the First Amendment requirement for separation of church and state because 31 we Christians are the church and our physical body is the "temple" of the church. See: 1 Cor. 6:19.
- 32 14. Responsible for all the injuries they cause to every other person under equity and common law ONLY, and not under 33 civil statutory law.

34 11.7.1.21 Anarchy

35 The term "anarchy" implies any one or more of the following, and especially as regards so-called "governments". An 36 important goal of this site it to eliminate all such "anarchy":

- 37 1. Are superior in any way to the people they govern UNDER THE LAW.
- 38 2. Are not directly accountable to the people or the law. They prohibit the PEOPLE from criminally prosecuting their 39 own crimes, reserving the right to prosecute to their own fellow criminals. Who polices the police? THE 40 CRIMINALS.
- 41 3. Enact laws that exempt themselves. This is a violation of the Constitutional requirement for equal protection and equal 42 treatment and constitutes an unconstitutional Title of Nobility in violation of Article 1, Section 9, Clause 8 of the 43 United States Constitution.
- 44 4. Only enforce the law against others and NOT themselves, as a way to protect their own criminal activities by 45 persecuting dissidents. This is called "selective enforcement". In the legal field it is also called "professional 46 courtesy". Never kill the goose that lays the STOLEN golden eggs.

- 1 5. Break the laws with impunity. This happens most frequently when corrupt people in government engage in “selective
2 enforcement”, whereby they refuse to prosecute or interfere with the prosecution of anyone in government. The 3 Department of Justice (D.O.J.) or the District Attorney are the most frequent perpetrators of this type of crime.
- 4 6. Are able to choose which laws they want to be subject to, and thus refuse to enforce laws against themselves. The 5 most frequent method for this type of abuse is to assert sovereign, official, or judicial immunity as a defense in order to 6 protect the wrongdoers in government when they are acting outside their delegated authority, or outside what the 7 definitions in the statutes EXPRESSLY allow.
- 8 7. Impute to themselves more rights or methods of acquiring rights than the people themselves have. In other words, who 9 are the object of PAGAN IDOL WORSHIP because they possess “supernatural” powers. By “supernatural”, we mean 10 that which is superior to the “natural”, which is ordinary human beings.
- 11 8. Claim and protect their own sovereign immunity, but refuse to recognize the same EQUAL immunity of the people 12 from whom that power was delegated to begin with. Hypocrites.
- 13 9. Abuse sovereign immunity to exclude either the government or anyone working in the government from being subject
14 to the laws they pass to regulate everyone ELSE’S behavior. In other words, they can choose WHEN they want to be a
15 statutory “person” who is subject, and when they aren’t. Anyone who has this kind of choice will ALWAYS corruptly
16 exclude themselves and include everyone else, and thereby enforce and implement an unconstitutional “Title of 17 Nobility” towards himself. On this subject, the U.S. Supreme Court has held the following:

18 "No man in this country [including legislators of the government as a legal person] is so high that he is 19 above the law. No officer of the law may set that law at defiance with impunity. All the officers of the 20 government, from the highest to the lowest, are creatures of the law and are bound to obey it. It is the only
21 supreme power in our system of government, and every man who by accepting office participates in its functions
22 is only the more strongly bound to submit to that supremacy, and to observe the limitations which it imposes
23 upon the exercise of the authority which it gives," 106 U.S., at 220. "Shall it be said... that the courts cannot 24 give remedy when the Citizen has been deprived of his property by force, his estate seized and converted to the 25 use of the government without any lawful authority, without any process of law, and without any 26 compensation, because the president has ordered it and his officers are in possession? If such be the law of 27 this country, it sanctions a tyranny which has no existence in the monarchies of Europe, nor in any other
28 government which has a just claim to well-regulated liberty and the protection of personal rights," 106 U.S., 29 at 220, 221.

30 [United States v. Lee, 106 U.S. 196, 1 S.Ct. 240 (1882)]

- 31 10. Have a monopoly on anything, INCLUDING “protection”, and who turn that monopoly into a mechanism to force
32 EVERYONE illegally to be treated as uncompensated public officers in exchange for the “privilege” of being able to 33 even exist or earn a living to support oneself.
- 34 11. Can tax and spend any amount or percentage of the people’s earnings over the OBJECTIONS of the people.
- 35 12. Can print, meaning illegally counterfeit, as much money as they want to fund their criminal enterprise, and thus to be 36 completely free from accountability to the people.
- 37 13. Deceive and/or lie to the public with impunity by telling you that you can’t trust anything they say, but force YOU to 38 sign everything under penalty of perjury when you want to talk to them. 26 U.S.C. §6065.

39 In support of the above definition of "anarchy", here is how the U.S. Supreme Court defined it:

40 "Decency, security, and liberty alike demand that government officials shall be subjected to the same rules of 41 conduct that are commands to the citizen. In a government of laws, existence of the government will be 42 imperiled if it fails to observe the law scrupulously. Our government is the potent, the omnipresent teacher.
43 For good or for ill, it teaches the whole people by its example. Crime is contagious. If the government
44 becomes a lawbreaker, it breeds contempt for law; it invites every man to become a law unto himself; it
45 invites anarchy. To declare that in the administration of the criminal law the end justifies the means-to declare
46 that the government may commit crimes in order to secure the conviction of a private criminal-would bring 47 terrible retribution. Against that pernicious doctrine this court should resolutely set its face."
48 [Olmstead v. United States, 277 U.S. 438 (1928)]

49 The above requirements are a consequence of the fact that the foundation of the United States Constitution is EQUAL
50 protection and EQUAL treatment. Any attempt to undermine equal rights and equal protection described above constitutes:

- 51 1. The establishment of a state sponsored religion in violation of the First Amendment and the Religious Freedom
52 Restoration Act, 42 U.S.C. Chapter 21B. That religion is described in: Socialism: The New American Civil Religion,
53 Form #05.016. The object of worship of such a religion is imputing "supernatural powers" to civil rulers and forcing 54 everyone to worship and serve said rulers as "superior beings".

1 2. The establishment of an unconstitutional Title of Nobility in violation of Article 1, Section 9, Clause 8 of the United
2 States Constitution.

3 For court admissible proof that your CIVIL government is the MAIN and most damaging type of anarchist in modern 4 society, both from a legal perspective and a theological perspective, see:

Your Irresponsible, Lawless, and Anarchist Beast Government, Form #05.054
<https://sedm.org/Forms/05-MemLaw/YourIrresponsibleLawlessGov.pdf>

5 11.7.1.22 Political

6 The term "political" as used throughout our website in reference to us or our activities:

- 7 1. Excludes the endorsement of specific candidates for political office.
- 8 2. Excludes any motivation that might result in a revocation of 26 U.S.C. §501(c)(4) status.
- 9 3. Excludes activities of public officers or agents of the government.
- 10 4. Excludes those who are "persons", "individuals", "taxpayers" under any revenue law.
- 11 5. Excludes those with a domicile or residence "in this State", meaning the government.
- 12 6. Includes efforts to educate the public about the law and the legal limits upon the jurisdiction of those in the 13 government.
- 14 7. Includes ONLY EXCLUSIVELY PRIVATE people beyond the civil legislative control of the specific government 15 affected by the policy.
- 16 8. Involves the protection of purely private property and private rights exclusively owned by human beings and not 17 businesses or artificial entities of any description.
- 18 9. Includes activities undertaken ONLY in the fulfillment of purely religious goals as a full time fiduciary of God under
19 the Bible trust indenture.

20 11.7.1.23 Non-citizen national

21 The term "non-citizen national" MEANS a human being born in a constitutional state and domiciled or at least physically
22 present there. These people are described in 8 U.S.C. §1101\(a\)\(21\). They are STATUTORY "non-resident non-persons" as 23 described in Non-Resident Non-Person Position, Form #05.020. It DOES NOT mean or include those who are:

- 24 1. Domiciled either abroad or on federal territory.
- 25 2. Statutory "nationals and citizens of the United States[] at birth" per 8 U.S.C. §1401. These people are born in federal 26 territories exclusively.
- 27 3. Statutory "national but not citizen of the United States[] at birth" per 8 U.S.C. §1408. These people are born in 28 federal possessions such as Puerto Rico.
- 29 4. Statutory "citizens of the United States[]" per 8 U.S.C. §1101\(a\)\(22\)\(A\).
- 30 5. Statutory "national of the United States []" per 8 U.S.C. §1101\(a\)\(22\).

31 11.7.1.24 State national

32 The term "state national" means those who are:

- 33 1. Born in a Constitutional but not Statutory "State" as described in the Fourteenth Amendment or the original 34 constitution.
- 35 2. Standing on land protected by the Constitution and/or the organic law and therefore possessing natural and 36 Constitutional and PRIVATE rights as documented in:

Enumeration of Inalienable Rights, Form #10.002
<https://sedm.org/Forms/10-Emancipation/EnumRights.pdf>

- 37 3. Not claiming any government statutory privilege, immunity, exemption, "benefit", domicile, or civil statutory 38 protection in the context of a specific interaction and reserving all rights per U.C.C. §1.308.
- 39 4. Owing allegiance to THE PEOPLE as individuals and sovereigns occupying the land within the state, and not to 40 the government that serves them under the constitution as the delegation of authority order. "State" in a political sense always refers to PEOPLE occupying land and never to GOVERNMENTS or government corporations. In biblical terms, that allegiance is called "love" and it is commanded by God in Matt. 22:34-40. God NEVER commands Christians to love governments or civil rulers and often tells people to DISOBEY them when they violate the Bible as their delegation of authority order (Form #13.007).

Equivalent to a "non-citizen national of the United States OF AMERICA" or a "free inhabitant" under the Articles of Confederation. EXCLUDES any of the following:

1. STATUTORY "person" under 26 U.S.C. §6671(b) and §7343.
2. Statutory "national and citizen of the United States at birth" as defined in 8 U.S.C. §1401. This is a territorial citizen rather than a state citizen.
3. "citizen of the United States[federal zone]" under 26 U.S.C. §911, 26 U.S.C. §3121(e), or 26 C.F.R. §1.1-1(c).
4. "National but not citizen of the United States at birth" under 8 U.S.C. §1408. This is a person born in a federal possession RATHER than a state of the Union.
5. "U.S.[] non-citizen national" under 8 U.S.C. §1452. This is a person born in a federal possession RATHER than a state of the Union.
6. STATUTORY "U.S. person" as defined in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(30), which is a human being born and domiciled on federal territory not within the exclusive jurisdiction of any Constitutional state.

The term is a SUBSET of the term "American National" as used by the Department of State in 8 U.S.C. §1502 because it:

1. Excludes citizens or nationals within territories or possessions or those born abroad.
2. Includes ONLY those born or naturalized within a constitutional state of the Union.

We make this distinction because we don't want to be in a position of "purposefully availing oneself" of commerce within the exclusive jurisdiction of the national government and thereby make ourselves a target of "selective or UNJUST enforcement". This is also consistent with the SEDM opening page, which says:

*"Our goal is to inspire, empower, motivate, and educate mainly those born or naturalized in the USA (and NOT "U.S.") and who are Members in how to love, honor, obey, glorify, and lift up our Sovereign Lord above every man, king, ruler, government, and Earthly law at a personal and very practical level and in every area of our lives. This is the essence of our religious worship and the essence, according to the Bible, of how we love our God."
[SEDM Website Opening Page; <http://sedm.org>]*

"state" for a foreign national = the country of which that person is a national. "state" for an American national is the United States of America, or just America. "state" is not defined in 8 U.S.C. although "State" is defined in 8 U.S.C. §1101\(a\)\(36\) and they are NOT equivalent. See 8 U.S.C. §1101\(a\)\(21\) for another reference to a "state national". Remember the context of 8 U.S.C. §1101 is immigration and nationality. So when we speak of a state in this context, we are talking about international states. In that context, American nationality (or U.S. nationality) is what we are---nationality of California is meaningless in this context. So to say you are a national of California is to say you are a national of the United States[] OF AMERICA or an American National.

For the purposes of "State", the following definition applies:

State

*As a noun, a people permanently occupying a fixed territory bound together by common habits and custom into one body politic exercising, through the medium of an organized government, independent sovereignty and control over all persons and things within its boundaries, capable of making war and peace and of entering into international relations with other states. The section of territory occupied by one of the United States. The people of a state, in their collective capacity, considered as the party wronged by a criminal deed; the public; as in the title of a case, "The State v. A. B." The circumstances or condition of a being or thing at a given time.
[The Free Dictionary, Farlex; SOURCE: <https://legal-dictionary.thefreedictionary.com/state/>]*

"State national" is NOT a statutory term and is not commonly used by courts of law. Therefore, if you invoke it in government correspondence or in litigation, you should take great care to define it BEFORE invoking it so that you do not invite charges of being "frivolous".

11.7.1.25 “Non-Person” or “Non-Resident Non-Person”

The term "non-person" or "non-resident non-person" (Form #05.020) as used on this site we define to be a human who is all of the following:

1. Not domiciled on federal territory and not representing a corporate or governmental office that is so domiciled under Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 17. See Form #05.002 for details.
2. Not engaged in a public office within any government. This includes the civil office of "person", "individual", "citizen", or "resident". See Form #05.037 and Form #05.042 for court-admissible proof that statutory "persons", "individuals", "citizens", and "residents" are public offices.
3. Not "purposefully or consensually availing themselves" of commerce with any government. Therefore, they do not waive sovereign immunity under the Foreign Sovereign Immunities Act (FSIA), 28 U.S.C. Chapter 97.
4. Obligations and Rights in relation to Governments:
 - 4.1. Waives any and all privileges and immunities of any civil status and all rights or "entitlements" to receive "benefits" or "civil services" from any government. It is a maxim of law that REAL de jure governments (Form #05.043) MUST give you the right to not receive or be eligible to receive "benefits" of any kind. See Form #05.040 for a description of the SCAM of abusing "benefits" to destroy sovereignty. The reason is because they MUST guarantee your right to be self-governing and self-supporting:

Invito beneficium non datur.

No one is obliged to accept a benefit against his consent. Dig. 50, 17, 69. But if he does not dissent he will be considered as assenting. Vide Assent.

Potest quis renunciare pro se, et suis, juri quod pro se introductum est.

A man may relinquish, for himself and his heirs, a right which was introduced for his own benefit. See 1 Bouv. Inst. n. 83.

Quilibet potest renunciare juri pro se inducto.

Any one may renounce a law introduced for his own benefit. To this rule there are some exceptions. See 1 Bouv. Inst. n. 83.

[Bouvier's Maxims of Law, 1856;

SOURCE: <http://famguardian.org/Publications/BouvierMaximsOfLaw/BouviereMaxims.htm>]

- 4.2. Because they are not in receipt of or eligible to receive property or benefits from the government, they owe no CIVIL STATUTORY obligations to that government or any STATUTORY "citizen" or STATUTORY "resident", as "obligations" are described in California Civil Code Section 1428. This means they are not party to any contracts or compacts and have injured NO ONE as injury is defined NOT by statute, but by the common law. See Form #12.040 for further details on the definition of "obligations".
- 4.3. Because they owe no statutory civil obligations, the definition of "justice" REQUIRES that they MUST be left alone by the government. See Form #05.050 for a description of "justice".
5. For the purposes of citizenship on government forms:
 - 5.1. STATUTORY "citizen" and "resident" are PUBLIC OFFICES and fictions of law within the national government and not human beings. Whenever CIVIL STATUTORY obligations (Form #12.040) attach to a civil status (Form #13.008) such as "citizen", "resident", or "person", then the civil or legal status has to be voluntary or else unconstitutional involuntary servitude is the result in violation of the Thirteenth Amendment. President Obama even admitted that "citizen" is a public office in his Farewell Address. See SEDM Exhibit #01.018 for proof. You have a RIGHT to not be an officer of the government WITHOUT even PAY! They even make you PAY for the privilege with income taxation, because the tax is imposed upon STATUTORY "citizen" and "resident" in 26 C.F.R. §1.1-1(a). Who else can institute SLAVERY like that and why can't you do that to THEM if we are all REALLY equal (Form #05.033) as the Constitution requires?
 - 5.2. Does NOT identify as a STATUTORY "citizen" (8 U.S.C. §1401 and 26 C.F.R. §1.1-1(c)), "resident" (alien under 26 U.S.C. §7701(b)(1)(A)), "U.S. citizen" (not defined in any statute), "U.S. resident" (not defined in any statute), or "U.S. person" (26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(30)).
 - 5.3. Identifies themselves as a "national" per 8 U.S.C. §1101(a)(21) and per common law by virtue of birth or naturalization within the CONSTITUTIONAL "United States".
 - 5.4. Is NOT an "alien individual" in 26 C.F.R. §1.1441-1(c)(3)(i) because a "national" under 8 U.S.C. §1101(a)(21) or "U.S. national" under 22 C.F.R. §51.1 owing allegiance to a state of the Union and not the national or federal government. Thus, they are not subject to the presence test under 26 U.S.C. §7701(b) and may not lawfully be kidnapped into exclusive national government jurisdiction as a privileged alien "resident" or have a privileged “residence” (26 C.F.R. §1.871-2\(b\)) within the EITHER the statutory geographical “United States” in 26 U.S.C. §7701\(a\)\(9\) and (a)(10) or "United States*" the COUNTRY in 26 C.F.R. §301.7701\(b\)-1\(c\)\(2\).

5.5. Is legislatively but not constitutionally "foreign" and "alien" to the national government by virtue of not having a domicile (for nationals under 8 U.S.C. §1101\(a\)\(21\)) or "residence" (for "alien individuals" under 26 C.F.R. §1.871-2\(b\)) within the exclusive legislative jurisdiction of the national government. The words "foreign" and "alien" by themselves are NOT defined within the Internal Revenue Code. This is MALICIOUSLY deliberate so as to DECEIVE the American public in states of the Union into FALSELY declaring a domicile or residence within the exclusive jurisdiction of the national government. By using "and subject to ITS jurisdiction" after the word "citizen" in 26 C.F.R. §1.1-1\(c\), the average American in states of the Union is deceived using equivocation into VOLUNTEERING for a civil STATUTORY office under the Secretary of the Treasury called "citizen" and "resident" subject to exclusive national government jurisdiction. The "citizen" in this regulation is NOT the POLITICAL citizen mentioned in the Fourteenth Amendment to the Constitution, but a STATUTORY citizen legislatively created and owned by Congress and thus a PRIVILEGE. Those in states of the Union who have neither a domicile nor residence within the exclusive jurisdiction of the national government and are not "subject to ITS jurisdiction" and who FALSELY CLAIM on a government form \(Form #12.023\) such as a W-9 that they are STATUTORY "U.S. persons" have in practical effect VOLUNTEERED to become privileged STATUTORY "taxpayers" and uncompensated officers of the national government EVERYWHERE IN THE WORLD who are on duty 24 hours a day, 7 days a week per 26 C.F.R. §1.1-1\(a\)! The corrupt, covetous government WANTS this process of volunteering to be invisible in order to VICTIMIZE the Americans into becoming surety to pay off an endless mountain of public debt that there is NO LIMIT on. That's criminal peonage in violation of 18 U.S.C. §1581 if you knew you could unvolunteer and aren't allowed to. It's also criminal human trafficking. You can't UNVOLUNTEER and leave the system until you know HOW you volunteered in the first place. See "Hot Issues: Invisible Consent" for details on how your consent was procured INVISIBLY. That process of volunteering to pay income tax that state nationals don't owe is exhaustively described in: How State Nationals Volunteer to Pay Income Tax, Form #08.024; <https://sedm.org/Forms/08-PolicyDocs/HowYouVolForIncomeTax.pdf>.

6. Earnings originate from outside:

6.1. The STATUTORY "United States" as defined in 26 U.S.C. §7701\(a\)\(9\) and \(a\)\(10\) (federal zone) and

6.2. The U.S. government federal corporation as a privileged legal fiction.

Thus, their earnings are expressly EXCLUDED rather than EXEMPTED from "gross income" under 26 U.S.C. §871 and are a "foreign estate" under 26 U.S.C. §7701\(a\)\(31\). See 26 U.S.C. §872 and 26 C.F.R. §1.872-2\(f\) and 26 C.F.R. §1.871-7\(a\)\(4\) and 26 U.S.C. §861\(a\)\(3\)\(C\)\(i\) for proof.

7. Earnings are expressly EXCLUDED rather than EXEMPTED from STATUTORY "wages" as defined in 26 U.S.C. §3401\(a\) because all services performed outside the STATUTORY "United States" as defined in 26 U.S.C. §7701\(a\)\(9\) and \(a\)\(10\) (federal zone) and the CORPORATION "United States" as a legal fiction. Therefore, not subject to "wage" withholding of any kind for such services per:

7.1. 26 C.F.R. §31.3401\(a\)\(6\)-1\(b\) in the case of income tax.

7.2. 26 C.F.R. §31.3121\(b\)-3\(c\)\(1\) in the case of Social Security.

8. Expressly EXCLUDED rather than EXEMPTED from income tax reporting under:

8.1. 26 C.F.R. §1.1441-1\(b\)\(5\)\(i\).

8.2. 26 C.F.R. §1.1441-1\(e\)\(1\)\(ii\)\(A\)\(1\).

8.3. 26 C.F.R. §1.6041-4\(a\)\(1\).

9. Expressly EXCLUDED rather than EXEMPTED from backup withholding because earnings are not reportable by 26 U.S.C. §3406 and 26 C.F.R. §31.3406\(g\)-1\(e\). Only "reportable payments" are subject to such withholding.

10. Because they are EXCLUDED rather than EXEMPTED from income tax reporting and therefore withholding, they have no "taxable income".

10.1. Only reportable income is taxable.

10.2. There is NO WAY provided within the Internal Revenue Code to make earnings not connected to a statutory "trade or business"/public office \(Form #05.001\) under 26 U.S.C. §6041 reportable.

10.3. The only way to make earnings of a nonresident alien not engaged in the "trade or business" franchise taxable under 26 U.S.C. §871\(a\) is therefore only when the PAYOR is lawfully engaged in a "trade or business" but the PAYEE is not. This situation would have to involve the U.S. government ONLY and not private parties in the states of the Union. The information returns would have to be a Form 1042s. It is a crime under 18 U.S.C. §91 for a private party to occupy a public office or to impersonate a public office, and Congress cannot establish public offices within the exclusive jurisdiction of the states of the Union to tax them, according to the License Tax Cases, 72 U.S. 462, 18 L.Ed. 497, 68 S.Ct. 331 \(1866\).

11. Continue to be a "national of the United States*" (Form #05.006) and not lose their CONSTITUTIONAL citizenship while filing form 1040NR. See 26 U.S.C. §873\(b\)\(3\). They do NOT need to "expatriate" their nationality to file as a

"nonresident alien" and will not satisfy the conditions in 26 U.S.C. §877 (expatriation to avoid tax). Expatriation is loss of NATIONALITY, and NOT loss of STATUTORY "citizen" status under 8 U.S.C. §1401.

12. If they submit the SEDM Form W-8SUB, Form #04.231 to control withholding and revoke their Form W-4, then they:
 - 12.1. Can submit SSA Form 7008 to correct your SSA earnings to zero them out. See SEDM Form #06.042.
 - 12.2. Can use IRS Form 843 to request a full refund or abatement of all FICA and Medicare taxes withheld if the employer or business associate continues to file W-2 forms or withhold against your wishes. See SEDM Form #06.044.
13. Are eligible to replace the SSN with a TEMPORARY Individual Taxpayer Identification Number (ITIN) that expires AUTOMATICALLY every year and is therefore NOT permanent and changes. If you previously applied for an SSN and were ineligible to participate, you can terminate the SSN and replace it with the ITIN. Must file the paper version of IRS Form 1040NR, because there are no electronic online providers that automate the preparation of the form or allow you to attach the forms necessary to submit a complete and accurate return that correctly reflects your status. They are "non-persons" BY VIRTUE of not benefitting from any civil statutory privilege and therefore being "PRIVATE". By "privilege", we mean ANY of the things described in 5 U.S.C. 553\(a\)\(2\):

5 U.S. Code § 553 - Rule making

(a) This section applies, according to the provisions thereof, except to the extent that there is involved—

[. . .]

(2) a matter relating to agency management or personnel or to public property, loans, grants, benefits, or contracts.

The above items all have in common that they are PROPERTY coming under Article 4, Section 3, Clause 2 of the Constitution that is loaned or possessed or granted temporarily to a human being with legal strings attached. Thus, Congress has direct legislative jurisdiction not only over the property itself, but over all those who USE, BENEFIT FROM, or HAVE such property physically in their custody or within their temporary control. We remind the reader that Congress enjoys

1 control over their own property NO MATTER WHERE it physically is, including states of the Union, and that it is the
2 MAIN source of their legislative jurisdiction within the exclusive jurisdiction of Constitutional states of the Union!:

3 United States Constitution
4 Article 4, Section 3, Clause 2

5 The Congress shall have Power to dispose of and make all needful Rules and Regulations respecting the

8
9 "The Constitution permits Congress to dispose of and to make all needful rules and regulations
10 respecting the territory or other property belonging to the United States. This power applies as well to 11 territory belonging to the United States within the States, as beyond them. It comprehends all the public
12 domain, wherever it may be. The argument is, that the power to make 'ALL needful rules and 13 regulations' 'is a power of legislation,' 'a full legislative power;' 'that it includes all subjects of legislation
14 in the territory,' and is without any limitations, except the positive prohibitions which affect all the 15 powers of Congress. Congress may then regulate or prohibit slavery upon the public domain within the new
16 States, and such a prohibition would permanently affect the capacity of a slave, whose master might carry him
17 to it. And why not? Because no power has been conferred on Congress. This is a conclusion universally
18 admitted. But the power to 'make rules and regulations respecting the territory' is not restrained by State
19 lines, nor are there any constitutional prohibitions upon its exercise in the domain of the United States
20 within the States; and whatever rules and regulations respecting territory Congress may constitutionally

22 [Dred Scott v. Sandford, 60 U.S. 393, 509-510 (1856)]

23 By property, we mean all the things listed in 5 U.S.C. §553\(a\)\(2\) such as SSNs (property of the government per 20 C.F.R. 24 §422.103\(d\)), contracts (which are property), physical property, chattel property, "benefits", "offices", civil statuses,
25 privileges, civil statutory remedies, etc. A "public office" is, after all, legally defined as someone in charge of the 26 PROPERTY of the "public",

39 [Black's Law Dictionary, Fourth Edition, p. 1235]

40 Even the public office ITSELF is property of the national government, so those claiming any civil statutory status are 41 claiming a civil office within the government. It is otherwise unconstitutional to regulate private property or private rights.
42 The only way you can surrender your private status is to voluntarily adopt an office or civil status or the "benefits", "rights",
43 or privileges attaching to said office or status, as we prove in:

32 You cannot MIX or comingle PRIVATE property with PUBLIC property without converting the PRIVATE property
33 ownership from absolute to qualified. You must keep them SEPARATE at all times and it is the MAIN and MOST 34 IMPORTANT role of government to maintain that separation. Governments, after all, are created ONLY to protect private 35 property and the FIRST step in that protection is to protect PRIVATE property from being converted to PUBLIC property.
36 For proof, see:

Separation Between Public and Private Course, Form #12.025
<https://sedm.org/LibertyU/SeparatingPublicPrivate.pdf>

37 What Congress is doing is abusing its own property to in effect create "de facto public offices" within the government, in

Challenge to Income Tax Enforcement Authority Within Constitutional States of the Union, Form #05.052

39 This is how we describe the reason why people should avoid privileges and thereby avoid possession, custody, use, or 40 "benefit" of government/public property on the opening page of our site:

41 “People of all races, genders, political beliefs, sexual orientations, and nearly all religions are welcome here.
42 All are treated equally under REAL “law”. The only way to remain truly free and equal under the civil law is to
43 avoid seeking government civil services, benefits, property, special or civil status, exemptions, privileges, or
44 special treatment. All such pursuits of government services or property require individual and lawful consent
45 to a franchise and the surrender of inalienable constitutional rights AND EQUALITY in the process, and should

14 [SEDM Website Opening Page; <http://sedm.org/>]

15 "Non-resident Non-Person" or "non-person" are synonymous with "transient foreigner", "in transitu", and "stateless" (in 16 relation to the national government). We invented this term. The term does not appear in federal statutes because statutes
17 cannot even define things or people who are not subject to them and therefore foreign and sovereign. The term "non-
18 individual" used on this site is equivalent to and a synonym for "non-person" on this site, even though STATUTORY 19 "individuals" are a SUBSET of "persons" within the Internal Revenue Code. Likewise, the term "private human" is also 20 synonymous with "non-person". Hence, a "non-person":

- 21 1. Retains their sovereign immunity. They do not waive it under the Foreign Sovereign Immunities Act, 28 U.S.C.
22 Chapter 97 or the longarm statutes of the state they occupy.
- 23 2. Is protected by the United States Constitution and not federal statutory civil law.
- 24 3. May not have federal statutory civil law cited against them. If they were, a violation of Federal Rule of Civil Procedure
25 17 and a constitutional tort would result if they were physically present on land protected by the United States
26 Constitution within the exterior limits of states of the Union.
- 27 4. Is on an equal footing with the United States government in court. "Persons" would be on an UNEQUAL, INFERIOR, 28 and subservient level if they were subject to federal territorial law.

29 Don't expect vain public servants to willingly admit that there is such a thing as a human "non-person" who satisfies the 30 above criteria because it would undermine their systematic and treasonous plunder and enslavement of people they are
31 supposed to be protecting. However, the U.S. Supreme Court has held that the "right to be left alone" is the purpose of the 32 constitution. Olmstead v. United States, 277 U.S. 438. A so-called "government" that refuses to leave you alone or respect
33 or protect your sovereignty and equality in relation to them is no government at all and has violated the purpose of its 34 creation described in the Declaration of Independence. Furthermore, anyone from the national or state government who 35 refuses to enforce this status, or who imputes or enforces any status OTHER than this status under any law system other 36 than the common law is:

- 37 1. "purposefully availing themselves" of commerce within OUR jurisdiction.
- 38 2. STEALING, where the thing being STOLEN are the public rights associated with the statutory civil "status" they are 39 presuming we have but never expressly consented to have.
- 40 3. Engaging in criminal identity theft, because the civil status is associated with a domicile in a place we are not 41 physically in and do not consent to a civil domicile in.
- 42 4. Consenting to our Member Agreement.
- 43 5. Waiving official, judicial, and sovereign immunity.
- 44 6. Acting in a private and personal capacity beyond the statutory jurisdiction of their government employer.
- 45 7. Compelling us to contract with the state under the civil statutory "social compact".
- 46 8. Interfering with our First Amendment right to freely and civilly DISASSOCIATE with the state.
- 47 9. Engaged in a constitutional tort.

48 If freedom and self-ownership or "ownership" in general means anything at all, it means the right to deny any and all
49 others, including governments, the ability to use or benefit in any way from our body, our exclusively owned private 50 property, and our labor.

51 "We have repeatedly held that, as to property reserved by its owner for private use, "the right to exclude
52 [others is] 'one of the most essential sticks in the bundle of rights that are commonly characterized as property.'

15 11.7.1.26 "Advice" or "legal advice"

16 The term "advice" or "legal advice" means education about tools, facts, remedies, and options for making your own
17 informed choice. It does not include any method of: 1. Transferring liability or responsibility from the person asking to the 18 person responding; 2. Anything that could be classified as "legal advice" or "law practice" as used in any statute or enacted
19 law; 3. Anything that could be classified as factual or a basis for belief or reliance upon the person asked in connection with commercial speech subject to government protection or regulation.

20 11.7.1.27 Socialism

21 The term "socialism" means any attempt by any government to use civil legislation to abolish private property or to convert
22 private property ownership to public property, public rights, or privileges, whether by consent or by theft. "Ownership" and
23 "control" are synonymous for the purpose of this definition. Such property includes land, labor, physical objects, chattel
24 property, or constitutional rights.

25 Examples of the implementation of socialism include the following activities by the government:

26 1. Government Franchises and licensing. See:

Government Instituted Slavery Using Franchises, Form #05.030
<https://sedm.org/Forms/05-MemLaw/Franchises.pdf>

27 2. Civil statutes when enforced against those not consensually serving WITHIN the government. See:

Why Statutory Civil Law is Law for Government and Not Private Persons, Form #05.037

29 4. Income and excise taxation. See:

The "Trade or Business" Scam, Form #05.001

30 5. Extraterritorial civil enforcement under the COLOR, but without the actual AUTHORITY of law. against parties not 31 domiciled within the jurisdiction or venue doing the enforcement. See:

Challenge to Income Tax Enforcement Authority Within Constitutional States of the Union, Form #05.052
<https://sedm.org/Forms/05-Memlaw/ChallengeToIRSEnforcementAuth.pdf>

32 6. Any attempt to change the civil status \(Form #13.008\) of parties situated extraterritorially without the exclusive
33 jurisdiction of the lawmaker with or without their express or implied consent \(Form #05.003\). The result is that they 34 are made to APPEAR as parties domiciled within the civil jurisdiction or venue of the lawmaker. See:

Government Identity Theft, Form #05.046

<https://sedm.org/Forms/05-MemLaw/GovernmentIdentityTheft.pdf>

7. Any attempt to offer a "benefit" or franchise without recognizing or enforcing the right to NOT participate or to quit on any and every form administering the program. Thus, the program is TREATED as mandatory by fiat but in fact is voluntary. This violates the common law maxim that you have a right to refuse a "benefit". See:

Avoiding Traps in Government Forms Course, Form #12.023

<https://sedm.org/LibertyU/AvoidingTrapsGovForms.pdf>

The result of implementing socialism through civil legislation is ultimately to abolish constitutional or common law protections for property, and to replace them with legislatively granted civil privileges that come with obligations and a corresponding surrender of said rights. Below is how we describe this process on the opening page of our website:

"People of all races, genders, political beliefs, sexual orientations, and nearly all religions are welcome here. All are treated equally under REAL "law". The only way to remain truly free and equal under the civil law is to avoid seeking government civil services, benefits, property, special or civil status, exemptions, privileges, or special treatment. All such pursuits of government services or property require individual and lawful consent to a franchise and the surrender of inalienable constitutional rights AND EQUALITY in the process, and should therefore be AVOIDED. The rights and equality given up are the "cost" of procuring the "benefit" or property from the government, in fact. Nothing in life is truly "free". Anyone who claims that such "benefits" or property should be free and cost them nothing is a thief who wants to use the government as a means to STEAL on his or her behalf. All just rights spring from responsibilities/obligations under the laws of a higher power. If that higher power is God, you can be truly and objectively free. If it is government, you are guaranteed to be a slave because they can lawfully set the cost of their property as high as they want as a Merchant under the U.C.C. [SEDM Website Opening Page; <http://sedm.org>]

For the purpose of this definition "socialism" does NOT include "social control over the means of production" as most contemporary reference sources FALSELY identify it. Early dictionaries defined it consistent with our definition but over the years, the word has fairly recently been redefined to REMOVE the mention of abolition of private property from the definition. This was done so that statist would conveniently stop having to APOLOGIZE for government theft through the legislative process. For examples of this phenomenon, see:

Sovereignty Forms and Instructions Online, Form #10.004, Cites by Topic: "socialism"

<https://famguardian.org/TaxFreedom/CitesByTopic/Socialism.htm>

It is important to emphasize here that when you want to stop public opposition to a government activity such as theft or conversion of private property, the easiest way is to redefine terms so that there is no word that accurately refers to the activity that is being opposed. The result is that you have eliminated vocabulary that could describe the thing being opposed, and thus to eliminate the political opposition entirely. This approach, in fact, is the heart of the modern phenomenon of "Identity politics": Control public opinion and public opposition by controlling language.

An important goal of this website is to ELIMINATE all forms of socialism as defined here, and thus to restore the supremacy of individual rights over governmental rights to our political and democratic processes and institutions. For details on the evils of socialism, see:

1. Socialism: The New American Civil Religion, Form #05.016

11.7.1.28 "Grant" or "loan"

1 The term "grant" or "loan", in the context of this website and especially in relation to any type of property or right or to
2 "franchises" generally, means a temporary conveyance or transfer of physical custody or possession of absolutely owned
3 property with legal strings or conditions attached by the grantor in which there are no moities or usufructs over the property
4 held or reserved by the party to whom the property is loaned or temporarily conveyed.

- 5 1. The grantor or lender is the "Merchant" under U.C.C. §2-104(1).
- 6 2. The recipient or borrower of the property conveyed is the "Buyer" under U.C.C. §2-103(1)(a).
- 7 3. The property loaned can include land, physical/chattel property, rights, or privileges.
- 8 4. The legal relation or "privity" created between the grantor and the borrower or recipient is referred to as a "franchise".
9 All franchises are contracts or agreements of one kind or another. Franchises are defined as "a privilege [meaning
10 "property"] in the HANDS of a subject". Receipt of the property by the Buyer, in fact is what MAKES them the 11 "subject"
- 12 5. The regulation of the property is done through the civil statutory code, which assigns both rights and obligations to the 13 Merchant (grantor) and the Buyer.
- 14 6. Upon voluntary acceptance of the property by the Buyer, a civil status is assigned to both the BUYER and the 15 MERCHANT fixing the relations between them under the privity. Such civil statuses might include "citizen", 16 "resident", "person" (under the civil statutory franchise code), "taxpayer" (under the income tax code), "driver" (under 17 the vehicle code), etc.
- 18 7. The CIVIL STATUTORY STATUS assigned to the MERCHANT and the BUYER after the property is accepted
19 constitutes a type of "membership". A "citizen", for instance, is a BUYER of government civil statutory protection
20 franchise services, and also a "MEMBER" of a club called "GOVERNMENT" (a corporation) that delivers said 21 services.
- 22 8. Both CIVIL STATUTORY RIGHTS (PRIVILEGES) and OBLIGATIONS attach to the civil status assigned to the 23 parties and these RIGHTS and OBLIGATIONS are the method of controlling and managing the property until it is 24 "RETURNED" or SURRENDERED by the Buyer to the GRANTOR. The civil statutory OBLIGATIONS assigned to 25 the civil status of the BUYER become corresponding RIGHTS on the part of the MERCHANT/GRANTOR and vice 26 versa.
- 27 9. If the property, benefit, or privilege was never voluntarily accepted, then the OBLIGATIONS that attach to it cannot be 28 enforced against the BUYER by the MERCHANT in court. Under the common law, you have a RIGHT to refuse to 29 accept property, "benefits", etc. in every scenario, even after you applied for them.
- 30 10. In pursuing and accepting the property of the Merchant, the Buyer surrenders ABSOLUTE ownership of a part of his 31 or her otherwise private property and is therefore subject to regulation of him or her self by the Merchant. If the 32 Merchant is a government, then they or their activities in which the granted property are used become and "infected 33 with a public interest" and are subject to civil statutory regulation.

34 The above process, in fact, has been admitted by the U.S. Supreme Court and the California Supreme Court as the "very 35 essence" of CIVIL government:

36 "When one becomes a member of society, he necessarily parts with some rights or privileges which, as an
37 individual not affected by his relations to others, he might retain. HN4 "A body politic," as aptly defined in 38 the preamble of the Constitution of Massachusetts, "is a social compact by which the whole people covenants
39 with each citizen, and each citizen with the whole people, that all shall be governed by certain laws for the 40 common good." This does not confer power upon the whole people to control rights which are purely and 41 exclusively private, Thorpe v. R. & B. Railroad Co., 27 Vt. 143; but it does authorize the establishment of laws
42 requiring each citizen to so conduct himself, and so use his own property, as not unnecessarily to injure
43 another. This is the very essence of government, and has found expression in the maxim sic utere tuo ut
44 alienum non loedas. From this source come the HNS police powers, which, as was said by Mr. Chief Justice
45 Taney in the License Cases, 5 How. 583, "are nothing more or less than the powers of government inherent 46 in every sovereignty, . . . that is to say, . . . the power to govern men and things." Under these powers the 47 government regulates the conduct of its citizens one towards another, and the manner in which each shall 48 use his own property, when such regulation becomes necessary for the public good. In their exercise it has
49 been customary in England from time immemorial, and in this country from its first colonization, to regulate
50 ferries, common carriers, hackmen, bakers, millers, wharfingers, innkeepers, &c., and in so doing to fix a
51 maximum of charge to be made for services rendered, accommodations furnished, and articles sold. To this day,
52 statutes are to be found in many of the States upon some or all these subjects; and we think it has never yet been
53 successfully contended that such legislation came within any of the constitutional prohibitions against 54 interference with private property. With the Fifth Amendment in force, Congress, in 1820, conferred power
55 upon the city of Washington "to regulate . . . the rates of wharfage at private wharves, . . . the sweeping of 56 chimneys, and to fix the rates of fees therefor, . . . and the weight and quality of bread," 3 Stat. 587, sect. 7; and,
57 in 1848, "to make all necessary regulations respecting hackney carriages and the rates of fare of the same, and 58 the rates of hauling by cartmen, wagoners, carmen, and draymen, and the rates of commission of auctioneers," 59 9 id. 224, sect. 2."

1 "From this it is apparent that, down to the time of the adoption of the Fourteenth Amendment, it was not
2 supposed that statutes regulating the use, or even the price of the use, of private property necessarily deprived
3 an owner of his property without due process of law. Under some circumstances they may, but not under all.
4 The amendment does not change the law in this particular: it simply prevents the States from doing that which 5 will operate as such a deprivation."

6 "This brings us to inquire as to the principles upon which this power of regulation rests, in order that we may 7 determine what is within and what without its operative effect. Looking, then, to the common law, from whence
8 came the right which the Constitution protects, we find that when private property is "affected with a public
9 interest, it ceases to be juris privati only." This was said by Lord Chief Justice Hale more than two hundred
10 years ago, in his treatise De Portibus Maris, 1 Harg. Law Tracts, 78, and has been accepted without objection
11 as an essential element in the law of property ever since. Property does become clothed with a public interest
12 when used in a manner to make it of public consequence, and affect the community at large. When, therefore,
13 one devotes his property to a use in which the public has an interest, he, in effect, grants to the public an 14 interest in that use, and must submit to be controlled by the public for the common good, to the extent of the 15 interest he has thus created. He may withdraw his grant by discontinuing the use; but, so long as he maintains 16 the use, he must submit to the control."
17 [Munn v. Illinois, 94 U.S. 113 \(1876\)]

19 " It will be found that from the earliest periods of our history the State laws regulated the privilege of the 20 elective franchise within their respective limits, and that these laws were exactly such as local interests,
21 peculiar conditions, or supposed policy dictated, and that it was never asserted that the exclusion of any class
22 of inhabitants from the privilege of voting amounted to an interference with the privileges of the excluded class
23 as citizens. As was well said by Judge Mills, of the Court of Appeals of Kentucky: "The mistake on the subject
24 arises from not attending to a sensible distinction between political and civil rights. The latter constitute the 25 citizen, while the former are not necessary ingredients. A State may deny all her political rights to an
26 individual, and yet he may be a citizen. The rights of office and suffrage are political purely, and are denied
27 by some or all the States to part of their population, who are still citizens. A citizen, then, is one who owes the 28 Government allegiance, service, and money by way of taxation, and to whom the Government, in turn, grants
29 and guarantees liberty of person and of conscience, the right of acquiring and possessing [PUBLIC, not 30 PRIVATE] property [WHY?, because the CONSTITUTION protects PRIVATE property ONLY, and CIVIL 31 STATUTES protect PUBLIC PROPERTY. You have to SURRENDER some portion of the protections of the 32 CONSTITUTION in order to acquire, use, or "benefit" from PUBLIC property], of marriage and the social 33 relations, of suit and defense, and security of person, estate, and reputation. These, with some others which 34 might be enumerated, being guaranteed and secured by Government, constitute a citizen. To aliens we extend 35 these privileges by courtesy; to others we secure them--to male as well as female--to the infant as well as the 36 person of hoary hairs." (1 Litt. R. 342.)"

- 41 2. The constitutional authority for such grants is Article 4, Section 3, Clause 2 of the U.S. Constitution, which allows 42 Congress to "dispose of and make all needful rules and Regulations respecting the Territory or other property

- 44 3. Those receiving the granted property and the associated privileges essentially waive their constitutional rights under

- 47 4. Individual agencies of the government are created to manage the SPECIFIC property and franchises and privileges

- 8 7. Jurisdiction over government property extends EXTRATERRITORIALY and INTERNATIONALLY, and thus
- 9 grants can occur anywhere in the world and may cross state borders and reach into a Constitutional state of the Union.
- 10 8. There is NO CONSTITUTIONAL AUTHORITY EXPRESSLY GRANTED that allows government to abuse
- 11 government property to CREATE new public offices. This is a usurpation and an invasion of the states in violation of
- 12 Article 4, Section 4 of the Constitution.
- 13 9. This source of jurisdiction is the MAIN source of jurisdiction in the case of the income tax, which is an excise tax and
- 14 a franchise tax upon federal offices legislatively created by Congress but usually implemented ILLEGALLY and
- 15 UNCONSTITUTIONALLY within states of the Union, as described in Challenge to Income Tax Enforcement

20 power; and the same observation is applicable to every other power of Congress, to the exercise of which the

22 But very different considerations apply to the internal commerce or domestic trade of the States. Over this

24 exclusively to the States. No interference by Congress with the business of citizens transacted within a State is

29 must impose direct taxes by the rule of apportionment, and indirect taxes by the rule of uniformity. Thus limited,

32 within a State in order to tax it."

34 God vehemently forbids Christians from participating in any grants or loans of government property and warns Christians
35 that they will be CURSED if they participate. This curse is the STRONGEST and SCARRIEST curse in all the bible:

36 Curses of Disobedience [to God's Laws]

37 "The alien [Washington, D.C. is legislatively "alien" in relation to states of the Union] who is among you 38 shall rise higher and higher above you, and you shall come down lower and lower [malicious destruction of 39 EQUAL PROTECTION and EQUAL TREATMENT by abusing FRANCHISES]. He shall lend to you
40 [Federal Reserve counterfeiting franchise], but you shall not lend to him; he shall be the head, and you shall 41 be the tail.

42 "Moreover all these curses shall come upon you and pursue and overtake you, until you are destroyed,
43 because you did not obey the voice of the Lord your God, to keep His commandments and His statutes which 44 He commanded you. And they shall be upon you for a sign and a wonder, and on your descendants forever.

45 "Because you did not serve [ONLY] the Lord your God with joy and gladness of heart, for the abundance of 46 everything, therefore you shall serve your [covetous thieving lawyer] enemies, whom the Lord will send against
47 you, in hunger, in thirst, in nakedness, and in need of everything; and He will put a yoke of iron [franchise

51 which does not respect the elderly [assassinates them by denying them healthcare through bureaucratic delays

56 they have destroyed you.

1 The reason God forbids becoming and borrower of government property is that the legal relation created by the transaction,
2 being a franchise or contract or agreement, causes conflicts of interest and allegiance and sin.

3 *"The rich rules over the poor,
4 And the borrower is servant to the lender."*
5 [Prov. 22:7, Bible, NKJV]

7 "You shall make no covenant [contract or franchise] with them [foreigners, pagans], nor with their [pagan
8 government] gods [laws or judges]. They shall not dwell in your land [and you shall not dwell in theirs by 9 becoming a "resident" or domiciliary in the process of contracting with them], lest they make you sin against 10 Me [God]. For if you serve their [government] gods [under contract or agreement or franchise], it will surely 11 be a snare to you."
12 [Exodus 23:32-33, Bible, NKJV]

13
14 *"I [God] brought you up from Egypt [slavery] and brought you to the land of which I swore to your fathers;
15 and I said, 'I will never break My covenant with you. And you shall make no covenant [contract or franchise
16 or agreement of ANY kind] with the inhabitants of this [corrupt pagan] land; you shall tear down their 17 [man/government worshipping socialist] altars.' But you have not obeyed Me. Why have you done this?"*

18 "Therefore I also said, 'I will not drive them out before you; but they will become as thorns [terrorists and 19 persecutors] in your side and their gods will be a snare [slavery!] to you.'"

20 *So it was, when the Angel of the LORD spoke these words to all the children of Israel, that the people lifted up
21 their voices and wept.*
22 [Judges 2:1-4, Bible, NKJV]

23 God also says that the only thing that Christians are allowed to be in relation to any and all governments is Merchants.

24 "For the Lord your God will bless you just as He promised you; you shall lend to many nations, but you shall 25 not borrow; you shall reign over many nations, but they shall not reign over you."
26 [Deut. 15:6, Bible, NKJV]

27 "The Lord will open to you His good treasure, the heavens, to give the rain to your land in its season, and to 28 bless all the work of your hand. You shall lend to many nations, but you shall not borrow."
29 [Deut. 28:12, Bible, NKJV]

30 "You shall not charge interest to your brother--interest on money or food or anything that is lent out at 31 interest."
32 [Deut. 23:19, Bible, NKJV]

33 "To a foreigner you may charge interest, but to your brother you shall not charge interest, that the Lord your 34 God may bless you in all to which you set your hand in the land which you are entering to possess."

19 11.7.1.29 Benefit

20 The term "Benefit" means advantage; profit; fruit; gain; interest, and real consideration associated with a specific 21 transaction which conveys a right or property interest to a specific status, class, or group lawfully requesting said "benefit"
22 which:

- 23 1. Is not dispensed by an administrative agency of any state or federal government, but by a private individual.
- 24 2. Does not require the recipient to be an officer, agent, employee, or "personnel" within any government.
- 25 3. Is not called a "tax" or collected by the Internal Revenue Service, but is clearly identified as "private business activity 26 beyond the core purposes of government".
- 27 4. Does not confer upon the grantor any form of sovereign, official, or judicial immunity.
- 28 5. Is legally enforceable in OTHER than a franchise court or administrative agency. That is, may be heard in equity 29 within a true, Article III constitutional court and NOT a legislative franchise court.
- 30 6. True constitutional courts are provided in which to litigate disputes arising under the benefit and those with said
31 disputes are not required to exhaust administrative remedies with an executive branch agency BEFORE they may 32 litigate. These constitutional courts are required to produce evidence that they are constitutional courts with OTHER 33 than strictly legislative franchise powers when challenged by the recipients of said benefits.
- 34 7. The specific value of the consideration can be quantified at any time.
- 35 8. Monies paid in by the recipient to subsidize the program are entirely refundable if the benefits they pay for have not 36 been received or employed either partially or in full.
- 37 9. Has all contributions paid in refunded if they die and never collect any benefits.
- 38 10. Participation in the program is not also attached to any other government program. For instance, being a recipient of 39 "social insurance" does not also make the recipient liable for unrelated or other federal taxes.
- 40 11. The term "benefit" must be defined in the franchise agreement that dispenses it, and its definition may not be left to the 41 subjective whims of any judge or jury.
- 42 12. If the "benefit" is financial, then it is paid in lawful money rather than Federal Reserve Notes, which are non-interest 43 bearing promissory notes that are not lawful money and are backed by nothing.
- 44 13. The franchise must expressly state that participation is voluntary and that no one can be prosecuted or punished for 45 failure to participate.
- 46 14. The identifying numbers, if any, that administer the program may not be used for identification and may not be shared 47 with or used by any nongovernmental entity other than the recipient him or her self.
- 48 15. May not be heard by any judge, jurist, or prosecutor who is a recipient or beneficiary of the same benefit, because this 49 would cause a conflict of interest in violation of 18 U.S.C. §208, 28 U.S.C. §144, and 28 U.S.C. §455, 18 U.S.C. §597,
50 and 18 U.S.C. §201.
- 51 16. During any litigation involving the "benefit", both the grantor and the grantee share equal obligation to prove that 52 equally valuable consideration was provided to the other party. Note that Federal Reserve Notes do not constitute 53 lawful money or therefore consideration.

1 17. Does NOT include a return of monies UNLAWFULLY withheld against a non-taxpayer. It is not a commercial
2 "benefit" or "purposeful availment" to have property STOLEN by a corrupted government returned to me.

3 Anything offered by the government that does not meet ALL of the above criteria is herein defined as an INJURY and a
4 TORT. Compelled participation is stipulated by both parties as being slavery in criminal violation of 18 U.S.C. §1583, 42
5 U.S.C. §1994, and the Thirteenth Amendment.

6 Receipt and/or acceptance of any government form by any government constitutes consent by the recipient of the 7 application to use the above definition of "benefit" in any disputes that might arise over such acceptance. Government
8 recipient and its agents, employees, and assignees forfeit their right as private individuals acting in any government office
9 to define the term "benefit" and agree to use ONLY the above definition.

10 Because the Submitter is ineligible for and does not seek any kind of "benefit" by submitting any of the attached forms, the 11 Submitter and Recipient both stipulate that the perjury statement has no "materiality" or legal actionability because it
12 cannot produce any kind of injury to the Recipient.

13 Parties stipulate that this definition applies to any and all past, present, or future forms they receive by any parties
14 concerned with this disclaimer.

44 The process by which a classically governmental function is abused as a method to destroy or war against private rights,
45 private property, common law remedies, constitutional remedies, or even personal choice and autonomy. The 46 PERPETRATOR we call the RECRUITER and the VICTIM we call the PEON, VASSAL, and SLAVE. We describe the 47 HAZARDS of participating in, NOT opposing, or benefiting from the "weaponization of government" on the opening page
48 of our site as follows:

1 People of all races, genders, political beliefs, sexual orientations, and nearly all religions are welcome here.
2 All are treated equally under REAL "law". The only way to remain truly free and equal under the civil law is to
3 avoid seeking government civil services, benefits, property, special or civil status, exemptions, privileges, or
4 special treatment. All such pursuits of government services or property require individual and lawful consent
5 to a franchise and the surrender of inalienable constitutional rights AND EQUALITY in the process, and should
6 therefore be AVOIDED. The rights and equality given up are the "cost" of procuring the "benefit" or property
7 from the government, in fact. Nothing in life is truly "free". Anyone who claims that such "benefits" or
8 property should be free and cost them nothing is a thief who wants to use the government as a means to STEAL
9 on his or her behalf. All just rights spring from responsibilities/obligations under the laws of a higher power. If
10 that higher power is God, you can be truly and objectively free. If it is government, you are guaranteed to be a
11 slave because they can lawfully set the cost of their property as high as they want as a Merchant under the 12 U.C.C. If you want it really bad from people with a monopoly, then you will get it REALLY bad. Bend over.
13 There are NO constitutional limits on the price government can charge for their monopoly services or property.
14 Those who want no responsibilities can have no real/PRIVATE rights, but only privileges dispensed to wards of 15 the state which are disguised to LOOK like unalienable rights. Obligations and rights are two sides of the same
16 coin, just like self-ownership and personal responsibility. For the biblical version of this paragraph, read 1
17 Sam. 8:10-22. For the reason God answered Samuel by telling him to allow the people to have a king, read
18 Deut. 28:43-51, which is God's curse upon those who allow a king above them. Click Here for a detailed 19 description of the legal, moral, and spiritual consequences of violating this paragraph.
20 [Sovereignty Education and Defense Ministry (SEDM) Website Opening Page; <http://sedm.org>]

21 Below are the elements describing exactly what we mean by this term:

22 1. The result is:

- 23 1.1. An INVOLUNTARY conversion of PRIVATE property, PRIVATE rights, and PRIVATE civil status into 24 PUBLIC property, PUBLIC rights, and PUBLIC civil statutory status respectively.

- 25 1.2. A destruction of the legal separation between PUBLIC and PRIVATE. See:

Separation Between Public and Private Course, Form #12.025
<https://sedm.org/LibertyU/SeparatingPublicPrivate.pdf>

- 26 1.3. A government that has superior or supernatural powers in relation to the people it was created to SERVE from 27 below rather than RULE from above.

- 28 1.4. The creation of a ALLEGED but not ACTUAL consensual connection between a fictional office (the 29 "franchisee") in the government and an otherwise PRIVATE human OUTSIDE the government.

- 30 1.5. A destruction of equality of treatment and protection between the GOVERNORS and the GOVERNED. See:

Requirement for Equal Protection and Equal Treatment, Form #05.033
<https://sedm.org/Forms/05-MemLaw/EqualProtection.pdf>

- 31 1.6. The establishment of a civil or governmental religion in violation of the First Amendment. See:

Socialism: The New American Civil Religion, Form #05.016
<https://sedm.org/Forms/05-MemLaw/SocialismCivilReligion.pdf>

32 2. Such activities:

- 33 2.1. Work a purpose OPPOSITE of that of establishing government in the first place, which is EXCLUSIVELY the 34 protection of PRIVATE property and PRIVATE rights.

- 35 2.2. Violate the Bill of Rights of the constitution of the government doing so.

- 36 2.3. Violate the oath of office of those working in the government who conspire to engage in such activities.

- 37 2.4. Result in a conversion of the government engaging in them from DE JURE to DE FACTO. See:

De Facto Government Scam, Form #05.043
<https://sedm.org/Forms/05-MemLaw/CorpGovt.pdf>

- 38 3. The method of instituting this weaponization of government usually consists of illegal "bundling" of a WANTED
39 service with an UNWANTED service, privilege or franchise. This makes it IMPOSSIBLE to avoid the UNWANTED 40 service, privilege, or franchise, because:

- 41 3.1. The government has a monopoly on the WANTED aspect of the product or service.

- 42 3.2. Private industry is usually legally prohibited from offering the WANTED service. In some cases, the offering of 43 the service is a criminal offense, in order to ENSURE and protect this criminal mafia racketeering.

- 44 4. The techniques described herein fit in the following CRIMINAL categories:

- 45 4.1. Extortion. 18 U.S.C. §872. They are coercing you into a public office and franchise so you become a usually 46 ONGOING sponsor of their criminal activities.

- 47 4.2. Offer to procure appointive public office. 18 U.S.C. §210. Offering you the UNWANTED portion of the service, 48 which is usually a public office, constitutes a criminal offer to procure the public office with the bribe of 49 "benefits" that you technically aren't eligible for.

- 4.3. Bribery of public officials and witnesses. 18 U.S.C. §201. The monies paid to the government under the coerced public office or fiction occupied by the victim of this extortion constitute bribes to a public official to treat you AS IF you are a real de jure public officer and to pay you "benefits" that only public officers can collect.
- 4.4. Conflict of interest. 18 U.S.C. §208. A criminal financial conflict of interest is created in the people offering the WANTED service to market and compel the UNWANTED service to increase their revenues.
- 4.5. Peonage and slavery. 18 U.S.C. §1581 and Thirteenth Amendment. The civil statutory obligations that attach to the compelled office that the VICTIM involuntarily occupies constitute PEONAGE.
- 4.6. Impersonating a public officer. 18 U.S.C. §912. Government can only regulate its own officers. Those officers must, in turn, be lawfully elected, appointed, or hired and they NEVER are. Following proper appointment, election, or hiring protocol would, after all, inform you that you are a volunteer, and they can NEVER admit that they need your consent to regulate you.

5. Those in government engaging in such activities protect themselves from criminal consequences by:

- 5.1. Abusing "equivocation" of key terms to make PUBLIC and PRIVATE indistinguishable.
- 5.2. Playing stupid.
- 5.3. Ensuring that people administering the program are NOT legally responsible or accountable for anything they say, write, or publish. See:

Legal Deception, Propaganda, and Fraud, Form #05.014
<https://sedm.org/Forms/05-MemLaw/LegalDecPropFraud.pdf>

- 5.4. Compartmentalizing service personnel at the bottom by telling them to learn PROCEDURES and NEVER actual LAW. Thus, they can claim plausible deniability and never be prosecuted personally for their criminal activities.
6. To ensure the continuation and protection of the weaponization of government, the corrupt government agents and employees engaging in it will:
 - 6.1. Hide forms for quitting the programs.
 - 6.2. Describe the program as "voluntary" but provide no regulations, forms, or internal procedures to QUIT.
 - 6.3. Not offer options on the application for the WANTED service any method of UNBUNDLING or REMOVING the UNWANTED service from the transaction.
 - 6.4. Define no statutory or regulatory terms which recognize ANYONE who has not volunteered for the UNWANTED service so that their PRIVATE rights can be legally recognized and even ADMINISTRATIVELY enforced.
The above tactics, in a PRIVATE business context, would be referred to as "marketing".
7. To ensure that the government is never victimized by the above tactics by PRIVATE people using it against THEM, the corrupted and covetous government must implement SOVEREIGN IMMUNITY in its own case but DENY it to the sovereign people they serve:

- 7.1. Government must claim to have sovereign immunity which requires EXPRESS WRITTEN CONSENT to surrender that sovereign immunity. By the way, the CONSTITUTION DOES NOT AUTHORIZE sovereign immunity and there is therefore NO SUCH THING! See: Najim v. CACI Premier Tech., Inc., 368 F.Supp.3d. 935 \(2019\).
- 7.2. The Sovereign People from whom that sovereign immunity was delegated DO NOT have sovereign immunity. Thus, sovereign immunity is a "supernatural power" the people as the "natural" cannot and do not possess.
- 7.3. All people signing up for the SCAM UNWANTED service do so through usually IMPLIED rather than EXPRESS consent. Thus, they are UNAWARE that they are "electing" themselves ILLEGALLY into a public office and joining the government by doing so. This constitutes fraud, because they are NOT ALLOWED to know that is what they are doing, and if they knew that was what they were doing, they would DEMAND the ability to NOT CONSENT to the UNWANTED service connected to the office and receive only the WANTED service or product. See:

Proof That There Is a "Straw Man", Form #05.042
<https://sedm.org/Forms/05-MemLaw/StrawMan.pdf>

8. Synonyms for this process include: adhesion contract, unconscionable contract, compelled franchise, compelled privilege, SLAVERY, PEONAGE, HUMAN TRAFFICKING.

Examples of government programs which usually implement "weaponization of government" as described above:

1. Passports. Most people use this document mainly for INTERSTATE travel and ID to conduct commerce, neither of which can be or should be "privileged" or regulated. Foreign travel use requests the PRIVILEGE of protection abroad is only secondary and should be optional. The Department of State should offer TWO passports, one for INTRASTATE use and one for FOREIGN use, so that you have a "NONPRIVILEGED" version of the document that you can obtain WITHOUT the need to collect an SSN or TIN. Forcing applicants to provide an SSN or TIN to receive ANY kind of

1 passport essentially bundles a DE FACTO public office with otherwise PRIVATE travel. That office is called
2 "STATUTORY citizen" under 8 U.S.C. §1401, 26 C.F.R. §1.1-1(c), etc. See:

Getting a USA Passport as a "State National", Form #10.013

<https://sedm.org/product/getting-a-usa-passport-as-a-state-national-form-10-013/>

- 3 2. State "resident" ID. This id is intended primarily for use in commerce, and most people, if they had a choice, would 4 AVOID the STATUTORY "resident" civil status and public office bundled with it.
- 5 3. Driver licensing. This id is intended primarily for use in commerce, and most people, if they had a choice, would 6 AVOID the STATUTORY "driver" civil status and public office bundled with it.
- 7 4. Marriage licensing. Licensed marriage is a civil statutory privilege and a three party contract. A licensed marriage is 8 polygamy with the state, and the state is the only one of the three parties who can rewrite the contract at will any time
9 they wan. Thus, the state literally becomes god as the only party with superior or supernatural powers in violation of 10 the First Amendment.
- 11 5. Professional licensing. Government uses licenses to institute in effect ECONOMIC EMBARGOES on all those who 12 don't follow their rules. If you don't follow their rules and regulations, they take away the license. In the absence of a 13 license, you lose business and could literally starve in some cases. The result is GENOCIDE.
- 14 6. Building permits. It's not your property if you need permission from the government to do anything to it that doesn't 15 demonstrably injure others.
- 16 7. Property taxes. Through the Torrens Act and the building code, the state claims a shared ownership in the property and 17 acquires absolute ownership. If you don't pay the property tax, they literally STEAL your property and all your equity.
18 The absolute owner is the only party who can deprive other parties of the use of the property so they are the absolute 19 owner.
- 20 8. The Federal Reserve counterfeiting franchise. We presently have "currency", and not "money". Currency in turn is a 21 debt instrument, and the effective lender is the PRIVATE, for profit, Federal Reserve. Every attempt to regulate the use
22 of this fiat currency through money laundering statutes presupposes that those handling it are engaged in a public office
23 in the national government. See:
24 8.1. The Money Scam, Form #05.041
25 <https://sedm.org/Forms/05-MemLaw/MoneyScam.pdf>
26 8.2. The Money Laundering Enforcement Scam, Form #05.044
27 <https://sedm.org/Forms/05-MemLaw/MoneyLaunderingScam.pdf>
28 9. Criminal courts, who will insist that you must be "REPRESENTED" essentially by a public officer and officer of the 29 court with a criminal financial conflict of interest, or they won't allow litigation to proceed. See:

Unlicensed Practice of Law, Form #05.029

<https://sedm.org/product/unlicensed-practice-of-law-form-05-029/>

30 In the private commercial marketplace, such tactics by large corporations include the following:

- 31 1. The Google Android operating system:
32 1.1. If phone manufacturers what to implement on their phone, must agree to use Google Search as their default
33 search engine.
34 1.2. Developers who want to sell their apps in the Google Play store must run all payments through the Google Play
35 payment system and pay a commission to Google. They are NOT allowed to have their OWN private app store or 36 payment platform.
- 37 2. The Apple IOS operating system. Vendors who want to offer their apps in the Apple Store must use the Apple payment
38 platform and pay an exorbitant 30% of all revenues their app collects, even if it isn't the sale of their app initially. This 39 is extortion.
- 40 3. The Microsoft Windows operating system. For years, Microsoft mandated that the Internet Explorer browser had to be 41 installed as the default browser on all new PC's sold, or the manufacturer could not buy Windows to install on their 42 computer.
- 43 4. Amazon marketplace. Third party vendors who sell on Amazon must agree in writing when they sign up to NEVER 44 offer the products they sell on Amazon at a LOWER price than the Amazon price.
- 45 5. Banks. Most banks COMPEL you ILLEGALLY into a public office called a STATUTORY "U.S. Person" in order to 46 open a bank account, even though it is ILLEGAL to occupy or elect yourself into such an office. They do this by 47 refusing to accept the W-8 form and mandating the use of the W-9 form to open an account, even though the W-9
48 doesn't apply to most Americans. See:

"U.S. Person" Position, Form #05.052

<https://sedm.org/Forms/05-MemLaw/USPersonPosition.pdf>

- 1 6. Money Service Businesses (MSBs) such as Western Union. They require you to provide an SSN in order to obtain a 2 reloadable gift card and claim that "the law" mandates this.
3 6.1. Their basis for doing so is usually "anti-money laundering" statutes (not "laws", but "statutes") that DO NOT
4 apply to the average American. See:

The Money Laundering Enforcement Scam, Form #05.044
<https://sedm.org/Forms/05-MemLaw/MoneyLaunderingScam.pdf>

- 5 6.2. No law mandates that a state national and nonresident alien not engaged in the "trade or business" franchise must 6 have or use an SSN or TIN, but they ILLEGALLY refuse to allow prospective cardholders to claim this status or 7 avoid the SSN/TIN requirement. See:

About IRS Form W-8BEN, Form #04.202
<https://sedm.org/Forms/04-Tax/2-Withholding/W-8BEN/AboutIRSFormW-8BEN.htm>

- 8 7. Private employers accepting job applicants. They say you MUST fill out a W-4 and will not accept a W-8 in order to 9 obtain a job, NOT as an "employee", but simply as a "worker" who is NOT a statutory government "employee". See
Federal and State Tax Withholding Options for Private Employers, Form #09.001
<https://sedm.org/Forms/09-Procs/FedStateWHOOptions.pdf>

10 The European Union has previously SANCTIONED large corporations to the tune of billions of dollars of penalties
11 connected with the above tactics, which they label in court as "anti-competitive behavior". Why aren't they applying the 12 SAME tactics to THEMSELVES, as far as the MONEY system? For instance, why aren't PRIVATE companies allowed to 13 have private money systems and not connect those who use them into a public office illegally? Every time someone tries to 14 do this, they get RAIDED illegally under the guise of "know your customer rules" that don't apply to private people. This 15 has happened with eGold, Bitclub, Liberty Dollar, National Commodity and Barter Association (NCBA), and MANY 16 others. Litigating against these entities can only have one purpose: Protect a de facto monopoly on money that the 17 Constitution does NOT EXPRESSLY authorize and which is therefore FORBIDDEN. See:

22 3. Money Laundering Enforcement Scam, Form #05.044
23 <https://sedm.org/Forms/05-MemLaw/MoneyLaunderingScam.pdf>

24 The main purpose of ELIMINATING all "weaponization of government" as described above is to:

- 25 1. Pursue "justice", which is legally defined as the "right to be left alone" by everyone, INCLUDING and ESPECIALLY 26 government. See:

What is "Justice"?, Form #05.050
<https://sedm.org/Forms/05-MemLaw/WhatIsJustice.pdf>

- 27 2. Restore the constitutional separation between PUBLIC and PRIVATE. The Constitution is a TRUST indenture, and the 28 main "benefit" it delivers, in fact, is PRIVATE PROPERTY! See:

Separation Between Public and Private Course, Form #12.025
<https://sedm.org/LibertyU/SeparatingPublicPrivate.pdf>

- 29 3. Restore government to it's DE JURE functions and eliminate all DE FACTO practices. See:

De Facto Government Scam, Form #05.043
<https://sedm.org/Forms/05-MemLaw/DeFactoGov.pdf>

- 30 4. Eliminate the "Administrative State" that depends for its entire existence upon the ILLEGAL creation of the public 31 offices that animate and implement the above FRAUD upon the people. See:

Administrative State: Tactics and Defenses Course, Form #12.041
<https://sedm.org/LibertyU/AdminState.pdf>

- 32 5. To eliminate the criminal activities and criminal financial conflicts of interest in both the judiciary and the legal 33 profession created by the above.

34 11.7.1.31 Natural law

35 For the purposes of this website and ministry, the term "natural law" is synonymous with the following behavior by civil
36 government:

1. ALL property is absolutely owned.
2. The protection of private property is not regarded by anyone in government as “making law” (Litigation Tool #01.009), but rather a fulfillment of the main purpose of establishing government and the oath that all public officers take when accepting office. The CIVIL statutes DO NOT protect PRIVATE property, but PUBLIC property that became public by donating PRIVATE property to a public use, a public purpose, and/or a public office. In that sense, the current civil government ONLY PROTECTS ITSELF and its own PUBLIC property, and NEVER YOU or ANY HUMAN BEING at least from a CIVIL perspective! See:

Why the Government is the Only Real Beneficiary of All Government Franchises, Form #05.051
<https://sedm.org/product/why-the-government-is-the-only-real-beneficiary-of-all-government-franchises-form-05-051/>

3. Civil statutes \(Form #05.037\) are not called “law”, but civil service franchise contracts.
4. Only voting and jury service are privileges that can be CIVILLY regulated by default. Any other thing that is a voluntary privilege must be expressly signed up for and PAID for in writing on the annual tax return filed at the beginning of each year and only lasts for one year.
5. Government ID’s are NOT used to change your civil status to a “resident” or “domiciliary”. You remain PRIVATE when using government ID. See:

*Hot Issues: Identification, SEDM
<https://sedm.org/identification/>

6. No other franchise or privilege \(Form #05.030\) is or can be bundled with voting or jury service, such as civil DOMICILE \(Form #05.002\).
7. All government “civil services” must be requested IN WRITING at the beginning of each year and you only pay for what you ask for. The purpose of filing tax returns is to CONSENT to specific civil services you want and to pay for them in advance. Those who didn’t pay for them may not receive them. See SEDM Disclaimer, Section 4.6 for a definition of “civil service”.
8. Everyone is subject to the criminal and common law, whether they consent or not.
9. Civil courts may not enforce civil statutory law upon any party UNLESS they expressly consented in writing to receive its benefits as public property. If they didn’t, only the common law and criminal law applies. That consent shall appear on the tax return filed annually.
10. Administrative tax enforcement is NOT permitted and not necessary, since all civil services consumed are prepaid annually in advance. If you don’t prepay, you don’t get the service.
11. Every government agent is personally accountable for the accuracy and truthfulness of EVERYTHING he or she communicates to the public that might have an adverse affect on PRIVATE property or PRIVATE rights. Thus, they are PRESUMED to be communicating under penalty of perjury at all times. If they lie, they are civilly penalized. ANONYMOUS communication or collection letters are FORBIDDEN. All must be signed by a human being.
12. All government “benefits” are regarded as “civil services” that must be 100% paid annually for by those who consume them AS THEY ARE USED. Use of public funds for charity is FORBIDDEN.
13. The filing of information returns \(Form #04.001\) such as the W-2 and 1099 are forbidden and a criminal offense of impersonating a public office. They are unnecessary if civil services are consented to and paid for annually and you don’t need to BE a public officer to consume civil services. Being a sponsor is sufficient to consume said services.
14. Consent must always be OVERT and in writing, and NEVER COVERT or implied through actions of any kind. See:

*Hot Issues: Invisible Consent, SEDM
<https://sedm.org/invisible-consent/>

For a system of government that implements the above and builds upon existing organic and statutory law, and which requires the least possible changes to the current system to implement, see:

Self Government Federation: Articles of Confederation, Form #13.002
<https://sedm.org/Forms/13-SelfFamilyChurchGovnce/SGFArtOfConfed.pdf>

11.7.2 Meaning of Geographical and political terms

This section describes the meaning of various geographical and political terms used throughout this proceeding.

Table 4: Summary of meaning of various terms and the contexts in which they are used

Law	Federal constitution	Federal statutes	Federal regulations	State constitutions	State statutes	State regulations
-----	----------------------	------------------	---------------------	---------------------	----------------	-------------------

Author	Union States/ "We The People"	Federal Government		"We The People"	State Government
"state"	Foreign country	Union state or foreign country	Union state or foreign country	Other Union state or federal government	Other Union state or federal government	Other Union state or federal government
"State"	Union state	Federal state	Federal state	Union state	Union state	Union state
"in this State" or "in the State" ⁶³	NA	NA	NA	NA	Federal enclave within state	Federal enclave within state
"State" ⁶⁴ (State Revenue and taxation code only)	NA	NA	NA	NA	Federal enclave within state	Federal enclave within state
"several States"	Union states collectively ⁶⁵	Federal "States" collectively	Federal "States" collectively	Federal "States" collectively	Federal "States" collectively	Federal "States" collectively
"United States"	states of the Union collectively	Federal United States	Federal United States	United States* the country	Federal United States	Federal United States

1 What the above table clearly shows is that the word "State" in the context of federal statutes and regulations means (not
2 includes!) federal States only under Title 48 of the U.S. Code⁶⁶, and these areas do not include any of the 50 Union States.
3 This is true in most cases and especially in the Internal Revenue Code. In the context of the above, a "Union State" means
4 one of the 50 Union states of the United States* (the country, not the federal United States), which are sovereign and
5 foreign with respect to federal legislative jurisdiction.

6 I will interpret each and every use of any one of the words of art or geographical terms defined above and used in any 7 pleading filed in this matter as having the default meanings provided if no specific statutory definition is provided by the 8 government opponent or the court.

9 All geographical terms appearing in Table 1 describe six different and unique contexts in which legal "terms" can be used,
10 and each implies a DIFFERENT meaning. Government opponent and the court are demanded to describe which context
11 they intend for each use of a geographical term in order to prevent any ambiguity. For instance, if they use the term
12 "United States", they MUST follow the term with a parenthesis and the context such as "United States (Federal 13 constitution)". The contexts are:

- 14 1. Federal constitution
- 15 2. Federal statutes
- 16 3. Federal regulations
- 17 4. State constitution
- 18 5. State statutes
- 19 6. State regulations

⁶³ See California Revenue and Taxation Code, Section 6017

⁶⁴ See California Revenue and Taxation Code, Section 17018

⁶⁵ See, for instance, U.S. Constitution Article IV, Section 2.

⁶⁶ See <https://www.law.cornell.edu/uscode/text/48>

1 If the context is “Federal statutes”, the specific statutory definition from the I.R.C. MUST be specified after that phrase to
2 prevent any ambiguity. For instance:

3 “United States (Federal statutes, 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(9) and (a)(10)).

4 If the context is “Federal regulations”, the specific regulation to which is referred to or assume must be provided if there is
5 one. For instance:

6 “United States (Federal regulations, 26 C.F.R. §31.3121(e)-1”).

7 Every unique use of a geographical term may ONLY have ONE context. If multiple contexts are implicated, then a new 8 sentence and a new statement relevant to that context only must be made. For instance:

- 9 1. “Defendant is a citizen of the United States (Federal constitution).”
10 2. “Defendant is NOT a citizen of the United States (Federal statutes or 8 U.S.C. §1401).”

11 If a geographical term is used and the context is not specified by the speaker and the speaker is talking about jurisdiction, it
12 shall imply the statutory context only.

13 I welcome a rebuttal on the record of anything appearing in the above pamphlet within 30 days, including an answer to all
14 the admissions at the end. If no rebuttal is provided, government opponent admits it all pursuant to Federal Rule of Civil 15 Procedure 8(b)(6). Silence is an admission, because injustice and prejudicial presumptions about the status of the litigants
16 will result if the government opponent does not speak on the record about this MOST PIVOTAL subject. Government
17 opponent is using this proceeding to enforce “club dues” called taxes, and Defendant simply seeks to establish that he/she 18 chooses not to join the club and cannot be compelled to join without violating the First Amendment prohibition against 19 compelled association.

20 “The Supreme Court, though rarely called upon to examine this aspect of the right to freedom of association,
21 has nevertheless established certain basic rules which will cover many situations involving forced or 22 prohibited associations. Thus, where a sufficiently compelling state interest, outside the political spectrum, can 23 be accomplished only by requiring individuals to associate together for the common good, then such forced 24 association is constitutional. ⁶⁷ But the Supreme Court has made it clear that compelling an individual to 25 become a member of an organization with political aspects [such as a “citizen”], or compelling an individual
26 to become a member of an organization which financially supports [through payment of club membership
27 dues called “taxes”], in more than an insignificant way, political personages or goals which the individual
28 does not wish to support, is an infringement of the individual's constitutional right to freedom of association.
29 ⁶⁸ The First Amendment prevents the government, except in the most compelling circumstances, from wielding
30 its power to interfere with its employees' freedom to believe and associate, or to not believe and not associate; it
31 is not merely a tenure provision that protects public employees from actual or constructive discharge. ⁶⁹ Thus,

Donohue, 367 U.S. 820, 81 S.Ct. 1826, 6 L.Ed.2d. 1191 (1961), reh'g denied, 368 U.S. 871, 82 S.Ct. 23, 7 L.Ed.2d. 72 (1961) (a state supreme court may order integration of the state bar); Railway Emp. 16 If the “Federal constitution” and the “Federal statutes” meanings of a geographical term are said by the speaker to be 17 equivalent, some authority MUST be provided. The reason is that this is VERY seldom the case. For instance:

- 18 1. The term “United States” in the context of the Federal constitution implies ONLY the states of the Union and excludes
19 federal territory... .WHEREAS
20 2. The term “United States” in the statutory sense includes only federal territory and excludes states of the Union.

21 Example proofs for the above consists of the following:

22 "The earliest case is that of Hepburn v. Ellzey, 2 Cranch, 445, 2 L.Ed. 332, in which this court held that, under
23 that clause of the Constitution limiting the jurisdiction of the courts of the United States to controversies

8 question, an act of a territorial legislature was not within the contemplation of Congress.

10 "As the only judicial power vested in Congress is to create courts whose judges shall hold their offices during
11 good behavior, it necessarily follows that, if Congress authorizes the creation of courts and the appointment
12 of judges for limited time, it must act independently of the Constitution upon territory which is not part of
13 the United States within the meaning of the Constitution."
14 O'Donoghue v. United States, [289 U.S. 516, 53 S.Ct. 740 (1933)]

15 Notice that last quote "not part of the United States within THE meaning of the Constitution", which implies that there is 16 ONLY ONE meaning and that meaning does not include the "territory" of the United States, which is the community
17 property of the states mentioned in ONLY ONE place in the constitution, which is Article 1, Section 8, Clause 17 and 18 nowhere else.

19 The most likely words to be subjected to "deliberate and malicious and self-serving verbiage" and deceit by the 20 government opponent and the Court are "United States", "State", and "trade or business". The rules of statutory 21 construction indicated in section 11.6 shall be VERY STRICTLY applied to these terms:

- 22 1. Since the terms are statutorily defined, the statutory definition shall SUPERSEDE the common meaning or the 23 constitutional meaning of the term.
- 24 2. Only that which is expressly specified SOMEWHERE within the statutes cited as authority may be "included" within 25 the meaning.
- 26 3. That which is NOT expressly specified shall be presumed to be purposefully excluded by implication:

27 "Expressio unius est exclusio alterius. A maxim of statutory interpretation meaning that the expression of one
28 thing is the exclusion of another. Burgin v. Forbes, 293 Ky. 456, 169 S.W.2d. 321, 325; Newblock v. Bowles,
29 170 Okl. 487, 40 P.2d. 1097, 1100. Mention of one thing implies exclusion of another. When certain persons
30 or things are specified in a law, contract, or will, an intention to exclude all others from its operation may be
31 inferred. Under this maxim, if statute specifies one exception to a general rule or assumes to specify the effects
32 of a certain provision, other exceptions or effects are excluded."
33 [Black's Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, p. 581]

34 "When a statute includes an explicit definition, we must follow that definition, even if it varies from that
35 term's ordinary meaning. Meese v. Keene, 481 U.S. 465, 484-485 (1987) ("It is axiomatic that the statutory
36 definition of the term excludes unstated meanings of that term"); Colautti v. Franklin, 439 U.S. at 392-393, n.
37 10 ("As a rule, `a definition which declares what a term "means" . . . excludes any meaning that is not stated");
38 Western Union Telegraph Co. v. Lenroot, 323 U.S. 490, 502 (1945); Fox v. Standard Oil Co. of N.J., 294 U.S.
39 87, 95-96 (1935) (Cardozo, J.); see also 2A N. Singer, Sutherland on Statutes and Statutory Construction §
40 47.07, p. 152, and n. 10 (5th ed. 1992) (collecting cases). That is to say, the statute, read "as a whole," post at
41 998 [530 U.S. 943] (THOMAS, J., dissenting), leads the reader to a definition. That definition does not include
42 the Attorney General's restriction -- "the child up to the head." Its words, "substantial portion," indicate the 43 contrary."
44 Stenberg v. Carhart, [530 U.S. 914 (2000)]

45 "It is axiomatic that the statutory definition of the term excludes unstated meanings of that term. Colautti v.
46 Franklin, 439 U.S. 379, 392, and n. 10 (1979). Congress' use of the term "propaganda" in this statute, as indeed
47 in other legislation, has no pejorative connotation.[19] As judges, it is our duty to [481 U.S. 485] construe
48 legislation as it is written, not as it might be read by a layman, or as it might be understood by someone who
49 has not even read it."
50 [Meese v. Keene, 481 U.S. 465, 484 (1987)]

51 11.7.3 Citizenship and nationality

52 If the speaker is talking about the citizenship:

- 1 1. Any reference to the citizenship of a litigant MUST specify one and only one definition of “United States” identified in 2 the preceding section and follow the term “United States” with the asterisk symbology shown therein. For instance, the
3 following would define a person who is a citizen of a state of the Union who has a domicile within that state on other 4 than federal territory within:

5 “citizen of the United States (Federal Constitution)”

- 6 2. If one of the six contexts for a geographical term is not specified when describing citizenship or if the term ‘United 7 States’ is not followed by the correct number of asterisks to identify WHICH “United States” is intended from within
8 section 11.7.3, then the context shall imply the “Federal constitution” and exclude the “Federal statutes” and imply
9 THREE asterisks.
- 10 3. If the context is the “Federal Constitution”, the following citizenship status shall be imputed to the person described.
11 3.1. Constitutional citizen within the meaning of the Fourteenth Amendment.
12 3.2. Not a statutory citizen pursuant to 8 U.S.C. §1401 or 26 C.F.R. §1.1-1(c) or 26 U.S.C. §911.
13 3.3. “national” pursuant to 8 U.S.C. §1101(a)(21).
14 3.4. NOT a “national but not citizen of the United States[] at birth” pursuant to 8 U.S.C. §1408.
- 15 4. If the term “United States” is used in describing citizenship, it shall imply the “Federal Constitution” and exclude the 16 “Federal Statutes” contexts.
- 17 5. The only method for imputing a citizenship status within the “Federal Statutes” context is to invoke one of the 18 following terms, and to specify WHICH SINGLE definition of “United States” is implied within the list of three 19 definitions defined by the U.S. Supreme Court in Hooven & Allison Co. v. Evatt, 324 U.S. 652 (1945).
20 5.1. “statutory citizen of the United States pursuant to 8 U.S.C. §1401”.
21 5.2. “citizen pursuant to 26 C.F.R. §1.1-1(c)”.

22 The implication of all the above is that the person being described by default:

- 23 1. Is not domiciled or resident on federal territory of the “United States” and is therefore protected by the United States
24 Constitution.
- 25 2. Is not domiciled or resident within any United States judicial district.
- 26 3. Is not domiciled or resident within any internal revenue district described in Treasury Order 150-02. The only 27 remaining internal revenue district is the District of Columbia.
- 28 4. May not lawfully have his or her or its legal identity kidnapped and transported to the District of Columbia 29 involuntarily pursuant to 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(39) or 26 U.S.C. §7408(d).
- 30 5. Is a “stateless person” within the meaning of 28 U.S.C. §1332 because not domiciled in the “States” described in 28
31 U.S.C. §1332(e). See Newman-Green v. Alfonso Larrain, 490 U.S. 826 \(1989\) for the meaning of the term “stateless 32 person”.
- 33 6. Is a nonresident to the exclusive jurisdiction of the United States government described in Article 1, Section 8, Clause
34 17 of the United States Constitution.
- 35 7. Is a statutory “non-resident non-person” for the purposes of federal taxation and is NOT a “nonresident alien 36 individual”. All “individuals” are aliens and public offices and creations of Congress within the I.R.C. The only time
37 an “individual” includes STATUTORY “U.S. citizens” is when they are domiciled on federal territory and 38 temporarily abroad under 26 U.S.C. §911(d). When “citizens” are in this condition, they interface to the I.R.C. as 39 “resident aliens” under a tax treaty with the foreign country that they are in.
- 40 8. Is protected by the separation of legislative powers between the states and the federal government:

41 “The people of the United States, by their Constitution, have affirmed a division of internal governmental
42 powers between the federal government and the governments of the several states-committing to the first its

48 powers; for, in the oft-repeated words of this court in Texas v. White, 7 Wall. 700, 725, ‘the preservation of the 49 States, and the maintenance of their governments, are as much within the design and care of the Constitution as 50 the preservation of the Union and the maintenance of the National government.’ The necessity of preserving
51 each from every form of illegitimate intrusion or interference on the part of the other is so imperative as to 52 require this court, when its judicial power is properly invoked, to view with a careful and discriminating eye
53 any legislation challenged as constituting such an intrusion or interference. See South Carolina v. United

23 11.8 Meaning of "United States" based on CONTEXT used⁷⁵

24 11.8.1 Three geographical definitions of "United States"

25 Most of us are completely unaware that the term "United States" has several distinct and separate legal meanings and
26 contexts and that it is up to us to know and understand these differences, to use them appropriately, and to clarify exactly
27 which one we mean whenever we sign any government or financial form (including voter registration, tax documents, etc.).
28 If we do not, we could unknowingly, unwillingly and involuntarily be creating false presumptions that cause us to surrender
29 our Constitutional rights and our sovereignty. The fact is, most of us have unwittingly been doing just that for most, if not
30 all, of our lives. Much of this misunderstanding and legal ignorance has been deliberately "manufactured" by our corrupted
31 government in the public school system. It is a fact that our public dis-servants want docile sheep who are easy to govern,
32 not "high maintenance" "sovereigns capable of critical and independent thinking and who demand their rights. We have
33 become so casual in our use of the term "United States" that it is no longer understood, even within the legal profession,
34 that there are actually three different legal meanings to the term. In fact, the legal profession has contributed to this 35 confusion over this term by removing its definitions from all legal dictionaries currently in print that we have looked at.
36 See Great IRS Hoax, Form #11.302, Section 6.13.1 for details on this scam.

37 Most of us have grown up thinking the term "United States" indicates and includes all 50 states of the Union. This is true
38 in the context of the U.S. Constitution but it is not true in all contexts. As you will see, this is the third meaning assigned to 39 the term "United States" by the United States Supreme Court. But, usually when we (Joe six pack) use the term United 40 States we actually think we are saying the united States, as we are generally thinking of the several states or the union of 41 States. As you will learn in this section, the meaning of the term depends entirely on the context and when we are filling 42 out federal forms or speaking with the federal government, this is a very costly false presumption.

<https://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>.

1 First, it should be noted that the term United States is a noun. In fact, it is the proper name and title “We the people...” gave
 2 to the corporate entity (non-living thing) of the federal (central) government created by the Constitution. This in turn
 3 describes where the “United States” federal corporation referenced in 28 U.S.C. §3002(15)(A) was to be housed as the Seat
 4 of the Government - In the District of Columbia, not to exceed a ten mile square.

5 Constitution
 6 Article I, Section 8, Clause 17

7 To exercise exclusive Legislation in all Cases whatsoever, over such District (not exceeding ten Miles square)
 8 as may, by Cession of particular States, and the Acceptance of Congress, become the Seat of the Government of 9 the United States, and to exercise like Authority over all Places purchased by the Consent of the Legislature of 10 the State in which the Same shall be for the Erection of Forts, Magazines, Arsenals, dock-Yards, and other
 11 needful Buildings;—And [underlines added]

12 Below is how the united States Supreme Court addressed the question of the meaning of the term “United States” (see 13 Black’s Law Dictionary) in the famous case of Hooven & Allison Co. v. Evatt, 324 U.S. 652 (1945). The Court ruled that 14 the term United States has three uses:

15 “The term 'United States' may be used in any one of several senses. It may be merely the name of a sovereign
 16 occupying the position analogous to that of other sovereigns in the family of nations. It may designate the 17 territory over which the sovereignty of the United States extends, or it may be the collective name of the states
 18 which are united by and under the Constitution.”
 19 [Hooven & Allison Co. v. Evatt, 324 U.S. 652 (1945)]

20 We will now break the above definition into its three contexts and show what each means.

21 Table 5: Meanings assigned to "United States" by the U.S. Supreme Court in Hooven & Allison v. Evatt

#	U.S. Supreme Court Definition of “United States” in Hooven	Context in which usually used	Referred to in this article as	Interpretation
1	“It may be merely the name of a sovereign occupying the position analogous to that of other sovereigns in the family of nations.”	International law	“United States”	“These united States ,” when traveling abroad, you come under the jurisdiction of the President through his agents in the U.S. State Department, where “U.S.” refers to the sovereign society. You are a “Citizen of the United States” like someone is a Citizen of France, or England. We identify this version of “United States” with a single asterisk after its name: “United States” throughout this article.
2	“It may designate the territory over which the sovereignty of the United States extends, or”	Federal law Federal forms	“United States”	“The United States (the District of Columbia, possessions and territories)”. Here Congress has exclusive legislative jurisdiction. In this sense, the term “United States” is a singular noun. You are a person residing in the District of Columbia, one of its Territories or Federal areas (enclaves). Hence, even a person living in the one of the sovereign States could still be a member of the Federal area and therefore a “citizen of the United States.” This is the definition used in most “Acts of Congress” and federal statutes. We identify this version of “United States” with two asterisks after its name: “United States” throughout this article. This definition is also synonymous with the “United States” corporation found in 28 U.S.C. §3002(15)(A).
3	“...as the collective name for the states which are united by and under the Constitution.”	Constitution of the United States	“United States”	“The several States which is the united States of America .” Referring to the 50 sovereign States , which are united under the Constitution of the United States of America . The federal areas within these states are not included in this definition because the Congress does not have exclusive legislative authority over any of the 50 sovereign States within the Union of States . Rights are retained by the States in the 9th and 10th Amendments, and you are a “ Citizen of these united States .” This is the definition used in the Constitution for the United States of America. We identify this version of “United States” with a three asterisks after its name: “United States” throughout this article.

22 The U.S. Supreme Court helped to clarify which of the three definitions above is the one used in the U.S. Constitution,
 23 when it held the following. Note they are implying the THIRD definition above and not the other two:

24 “The earliest case is that of Hepburn v. Ellzey, 2 Cranch, 445, 2 L.Ed. 332, in which this court held that, under
 25 that clause of the Constitution limiting the jurisdiction of the courts of the United States to controversies
 26 between citizens of different states, a citizen of the District of Columbia could not maintain an action in the 27 circuit court of the United States. It was argued that the word 'state,' in that connection, was used simply to
 28 denote a distinct political society. 'But,' said the Chief Justice, 'as the act of Congress obviously used the word

1 'state' in reference to that term as used in the Constitution, it becomes necessary to inquire whether Columbia is
2 a state in the sense of that instrument. The result of that examination is a conviction that the members of the 3 American confederacy only are the states contemplated in the Constitution . . . and excludes from the term
4 the signification attached to it by writers on the law of nations.' This case was followed in Barney v.
5 Baltimore, 6 Wall. 280, 18 L.Ed. 825, and quite recently in Hooe v. Jamieson, 166 U.S. 395, 41 L.Ed. 1049,
6 17 Sup.Ct.Rep. 596. The same rule was applied to citizens of territories in New Orleans v. Winter, 1 Wheat.
7 91, 4 L.Ed. 44, in which an attempt was made to distinguish a territory from the District of Columbia. But it
8 was said that 'neither of them is a state in the sense in which that term is used in the Constitution.' In Scott v.
9 Jones, 5 How. 343, 12 L.Ed. 181, and in Miners' Bank v. Iowa ex rel. District Prosecuting Attorney, 12 How. 1,
10 13 L.Ed. 867, it was held that under the judiciary act, permitting writs of error to the supreme court of a state in 11 cases where the validity of a state statute is drawn in question, an act of a territorial legislature was not within 12 the contemplation of Congress."
13 [Downes v. Bidwell, 182 U.S. 244 (1901)]

14 The U.S. Supreme Court further clarified that the Constitution implies the third definition above, which is the United 15 States when they held the following. Notice that they say “not part of the United States within the meaning of the 16 Constitution” and that the word “the” implies only ONE rather than multiple GEOGRAPHIC meanings:

17 "As the only judicial power vested in Congress is to create courts whose judges shall hold their offices during
18 good behavior, it necessarily follows that, if Congress authorizes the creation of courts and the appointment
19 of judges for limited time, it must act independently of the Constitution upon territory which is not part of
20 the United States within the meaning of the Constitution."
21 [O'Donoghue v. United States, 289 U.S. 516, 53 S.Ct. 740 (1933)]

22 And finally, the U.S. Supreme Court has also held that the Constitution does not and cannot determine or limit the authority
23 of Congress over federal territory and that the ONLY portion of the Constitution that does in fact expressly refer to federal 24 territory and therefore the statutory “United States” is Article 1, Section 8, Clause 17. Notice they ruled that Puerto Rico is 25 NOT part of the “United States” within the meaning of the Constitution, just like they ruled in O’Donoghue above that
26 territory was no part of the “United States”:

27 In passing upon the questions involved in this and kindred cases, we ought not to overlook the fact that, while
28 the Constitution was intended to establish a permanent form of government for the states which should elect
29 to take advantage of its conditions, and continue for an indefinite future, the vast possibilities of that future
30 could never have entered the minds of its framers. The states had but recently emerged from a war with one of 31 the most powerful nations of Europe, were disheartened by the failure of the confederacy, and were doubtful as 32 to the feasibility of a stronger union. Their territory was confined to a narrow strip of land on the Atlantic coast
33 from Canada to Florida, with a somewhat indefinite claim to territory beyond the Alleghenies, where their 34 sovereignty was disputed by tribes of hostile Indians supported, as was popularly believed, by the British, who 35 had never formally delivered possession [182 U.S. 244, 285] under the treaty of peace. The vast territory
36 beyond the Mississippi, which formerly had been claimed by France, since 1762 had belonged to Spain, still a
37 powerful nation and the owner of a great part of the Western Hemisphere. Under these circumstances it is little 38 wonder that the question of annexing these territories was not made a subject of debate. The difficulties of 39 bringing about a union of the states were so great, the objections to it seemed so formidable, that the whole
40 thought of the convention centered upon surmounting these obstacles. The question of territories was 41 dismissed with a single clause, apparently applicable only to the territories then existing, giving Congress the 42 power to govern and dispose of them.

43 Had the acquisition of other territories been contemplated as a possibility, could it have been foreseen that,
44 within little more than one hundred years, we were destined to acquire, not only the whole vast region between 45 the Atlantic and Pacific Oceans, but the Russian possessions in America and distant islands in the Pacific, it is 46 incredible that no provision should have been made for them, and the question whether the Constitution should 47 or should not extend to them have been definitely settled. If it be once conceded that we are at liberty to 48 acquire foreign territory, a presumption arises that our power with respect to such territories is the same
49 power which other nations have been accustomed to exercise with respect to territories acquired by them. If,
50 in limiting the power which Congress was to exercise within the United States[], it was also intended to 51 limit it with regard to such territories as the people of the United States[] should thereafter acquire, such 52 limitations should have been expressed. Instead of that, we find the Constitution speaking only to states,
53 except in the territorial clause, which is absolute in its terms, and suggestive of no limitations upon the power
54 of Congress in dealing with them. The states could only delegate to Congress such powers as they themselves
55 possessed, and as they had no power to acquire new territory they had none to delegate in that connection.
56 The logical inference from this is that if Congress had power to acquire new territory, which is conceded,
57 that power was not hampered by the constitutional provisions. If, upon the other hand, we assume [182 U.S.
58 244, 286] that the territorial clause of the Constitution was not intended to be restricted to such territory as 59 the United States then possessed, there is nothing in the Constitution to indicate that the power of Congress in 60 dealing with them was intended to be restricted by any of the other provisions.

61 [. . .]

1 If those possessions are inhabited by alien races, differing from us in religion, customs, laws, methods of
2 taxation, and modes of thought, the administration of government and justice, according to Anglo-Saxon
3 principles, may for a time be impossible; and the question at once arises whether large concessions ought not to
4 be made for a time, that ultimately our own theories may be carried out, and the blessings of a free government
5 under the Constitution extended to them. We decline to hold that there is anything in the Constitution to forbid
6 such action.

7 We are therefore of opinion that the island of Porto Rico is a territory appurtenant and
8 belonging to the United States, but not a part of the United States[] within the 9 revenue clauses of the Constitution; that the Foraker act is constitutional, so far as it imposes duties
10 upon imports from such island, and that the plaintiff cannot recover back the duties exacted in this case.
11 [Downes v. Bidwell, 182 U.S. 244 (1901)]

12 11.8.2 The two political jurisdictions/nations within the United States

13 Another important distinction needs to be made. Definition 1 above refers to the country “United States*”, but this country
14 is not a “nation”, in the sense of international law. This very important point was made clear by the U.S. Supreme Court in 15 1794 in the case of Chisholm v. Georgia, 2 Dall. (U.S.) 419, 1 L.Ed. 440 (1793) , when it said:

16 This is a case of uncommon magnitude. One of the parties to it is a State; certainly respectable, claiming to be
17 sovereign. The question to be determined is, whether this State, so respectable, and whose claim soars so
18 high, is amenable to the jurisdiction of the Supreme Court of the United States? This question, important in 19 itself, will depend on others, more important still; and, may, perhaps, be ultimately resolved into one, no less
20 radical than this 'do the people of the United States form a Nation?'

21 A cause so conspicuous and interesting, should be carefully and accurately viewed from every possible point of 22 sight. I shall examine it; 1st. By the principles of general jurisprudence. 2nd. By the laws and practice of 23 *particular States and Kingdoms. From the law of nations little or no
24 illustration of this subject can be expected. By that law the 25 several States and Governments spread over our globe, are 26 considered as forming a society, not a NATION. It has only been by a
27 very few comprehensive minds, such as those of Elizabeth and the Fourth Henry, that this last great idea has 28 been even contemplated. 3rdly. and chiefly, I shall examine the important question before us, by the 29 Constitution of the United States, and the legitimate result of that valuable instrument.
30 [Chisholm v. Georgia, 2 Dall. (U.S.) 419, 1 L.Ed. 440 (1793)]

31 An earlier edition of Black’s Law Dictionary further clarifies the distinction between a “nation” and a “society” by 32 clarifying the differences between a national government and a federal government, and keep in mind that the American 33 government is called “federal government”:

34 “NATIONAL GOVERNMENT. The government of a whole nation, as distinguished from that of a local or
35 territorial division of the nation, and also as distinguished from that of a league or confederation.

36 “A national government is a government of the people of a single state or nation, united as a community by
37 what is termed the “social compact,” and possessing complete and perfect supremacy over persons and things,
38 so far as they can be made the lawful objects of civil government. A federal government is distinguished from
39 a national government by its being the government of a community of independent and sovereign states,
40 united by compact.” Piqua Branch Bank v. Knoup, 6 Ohio.St. 393.”
41 [Black’s Law Dictionary, Revised Fourth Edition, 1968, p. 1176]
42

43 “FEDERAL GOVERNMENT. The system of government administered in a state formed by the union or
44 confederation of several independent or quasi independent states; also the composite state so formed.

45 *In strict usage, there is a distinction between a confederation and a federal government. The former term
46 denotes a league or permanent alliance between several states, each of which is fully sovereign and
47 independent, and each of which retains its full dignity, organization, and sovereignty, though yielding to the
48 central authority a controlling power for a few limited purposes, such as external and diplomatic relations.
49 In this case, the component states are the units, with respect to the confederation, and the central
50 government acts upon them, not upon the individual citizens. In a federal government, on the other hand, the
51 allied states form a union,-not, indeed, to such an extent as to destroy their separate organization or deprive
52 them of quasi sovereignty with respect to the administration of their purely local concerns, but so that the
53 central power is erected into a true state or nation, possessing sovereignty both external and internal,-while

1 the administration of national affairs is directed, and its effects felt, not by the separate states deliberating as
2 units, but by the people of all, in their collective capacity, as citizens of the nation. The distinction is
3 expressed, by the German writers, by the use of the two words "Staatenbund" and "Bundesstaat;" the former
4 denoting a league or confederation of states, and the latter a federal government, or state formed by means of a
5 league or confederation."
6 [Black's Law Dictionary, Revised Fourth Edition, 1968, p. 740]

7 So the "United States*" the country is a "society" and a "sovereignty" but not a "nation" under the law of nations, by the 8 Supreme Court's own admission. Because the Supreme Court has ruled on this matter, it is now incumbent upon each of us
9 to always remember it and to apply it in all of our dealings with the Federal Government. If not, we lose our individual
10 Sovereignty by default and the Federal Government assumes jurisdiction over us. So, while a sovereign American will 11 want to be the third type of Citizen, which is a "Citizen of the United States" and on occasion a "citizen of the United 12 States*", he would never want to be the second, which is a "citizen of the United States". A human being who is a
13 "citizen" of the second is called a statutory "U.S. citizen" under 8 U.S.C. §1401, and he is treated in law as occupying a
14 place not protected by the Bill of Rights, which is the first ten amendments of the United States Constitution. Below is how 15 the U.S. Supreme Court, in a dissenting opinion, described this "other" United States, which we call the "federal zone":

16 "I take leave to say that, if the principles thus announced should ever receive the sanction of a majority of
17 this court, a radical and mischievous change in our system of government will result. We will, in that event,
18 pass from the era of constitutional liberty guarded and protected by a written constitution into an era of 19 legislative absolutism..

20 [. . .]

21 "The idea prevails with some, indeed it has found expression in arguments at the bar, that we have in this
22 country substantially two national governments; one to be maintained under the Constitution, with all of its
23 restrictions; the other to be maintained by Congress outside the independently of that instrument, by 24 exercising such powers [of absolutism] as other nations of the earth are accustomed to..

25 [. . .]

26 It will be an evil day for American liberty if the theory of a government outside the supreme law of the land
27 finds lodgment in our constitutional jurisprudence. No higher duty rests upon this court than to exert its full
28 authority to prevent all violation of the principles of the Constitution."
29 Downes v. Bidwell, [182 U.S. 244 (1901), Justice Harlan, Dissenting]

30 11.8.3 "United States" as a corporation and a Legal Person

31 The second definition of "United States*" above is also a federal corporation. This corporation was formed in 1871. It is 32 described in 28 U.S.C. §3002\(15\)\(A\):

33 TITLE 28 > PART VI > CHAPTER 176 > SUBCHAPTER A > Sec. 3002.
34 TITLE 28 - JUDICIARY AND JUDICIAL PROCEDURE
35 PART VI - PARTICULAR PROCEEDINGS
36 CHAPTER 176 - FEDERAL DEBT COLLECTION PROCEDURE
37 SUBCHAPTER A - DEFINITIONS AND GENERAL PROVISIONS

38 Sec. 3002. Definitions

39 (15) "United States" means -

40 (A) a Federal corporation;

41 (B) an agency, department, commission, board, or other entity of the United States; or 42 (C) an instrumentality of the United States.

43

44 The U.S. Supreme Court, in fact, has admitted that all governments are corporations when it held:

45 "Corporations are also of all grades, and made for varied objects; all governments are corporations, created
46 by usage and common consent, or grants and charters which create a body politic for prescribed purposes;
47 but whether they are private, local or general, in their objects, for the enjoyment of property, or the exercise
48 of power, they are all governed by the same rules of law, as to the construction and the obligation of the 49 instrument by which the incorporation is made [the Constitution is the corporate charter]. One universal rule
50 of law protects persons and property. It is a fundamental principle of the common law of England, that the term
51 freemen of the kingdom, includes 'all persons,' ecclesiastical and temporal, incorporate, politique or natural; it
52 is a part of their magna charta (2 Inst. 4), and is incorporated into our institutions. The persons of the members
53 of corporations are on the same footing of protection as other persons, and their corporate property secured by 54 the same laws which protect that of individuals. 2 Inst. 46-7. 'No man shall be taken,' 'no man shall be

1 disseised,' without due process of law, is a principle taken from magna charta, infused into all our state
2 constitutions, and is made inviolable by the federal government, by the amendments to the constitution."
3 [Proprietors of Charles River Bridge v. Proprietors of, 36 U.S.C. 420 (1837)]

4 If we are acting as a federal "public official" or contractor, then we are representing the "United States federal 5 corporation". That corporation is a statutory "U.S. citizen" under 8 U.S.C. §1101\(a\)\(22\)\(A\) which is completely subject to 6 all federal law.

7 "A corporation is a citizen, resident, or inhabitant of the state or country by or under the laws of which it was
8 created, and of that state or country only."
9 [19 Corpus Juris Secundum (C.J.S.), Corporations, §886 (2003)]

10 Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 17\(b\) says that when we are representing that corporation as "officers" or "employees", we 11 therefore become statutory "U.S. citizens" completely subject to federal territorial law:

12 IV. PARTIES > Rule 17.
13 Rule 17. Parties Plaintiff and Defendant: Capacity

14 (b) Capacity to Sue or be Sued.

15 Capacity to sue or be sued is determined as follows:

16 (1) for an individual who is not acting in a representative capacity, by the law of the individual's domicile;

17 (2) for a corporation, by the law under which it was organized; and

18 (3) for all other parties, by the law of the state where the court is located, except that:

19 (A) a partnership or other unincorporated association with no such capacity under that state's law may sue
20 or be sued in its common name to enforce a substantive right existing under the United States Constitution
21 or laws; and

22 (B) 28 U.S.C. §§754 and 959\(a\) govern the capacity of a receiver appointed by a United States court to sue
23 or be sued in a United States court.

24 [Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 17\(b\)]

25 Yet on every government (any level) document we sign (e.g. Social Security, Marriage License, Voter Registration, Driver 26 License, BATF 4473, etc.) they either require you to be a "citizen of the United States" or they ask "are you a resident of 27 Illinois?". They are in effect asking you to assume or presume the second definition, the "United States", when you fill
28 out the form, but they don't want to tell you this because then you would realize they are asking you to commit perjury on a
29 government form under penalty of perjury. They in effect are asking you if you wish to act in the official capacity of a
30 public employee or officer of the federal corporation. The form you are filling out therefore is serving the dual capacity of 31 a federal job application and an application for "benefits". The reason this must be so, is that they are not allowed to pay
32 PUBLIC "benefits" to PRIVATE humans and can only lawfully pay them to public statutory "employees", public officers,
33 and contractors. Any other approach makes the government into a thief. See the article below for details on this scam:

Why Your Government is Either a Thief or You are a "Public Officer" for Income Tax Purposes, Form #05.008
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

34 If you accept the false and self-serving presumption of your public dis-servants, or you answer "Yes" to the question of 35 whether you are a "citizen of the United States" or a "U.S. citizen" on a federal or state form, usually under penalty of 36 perjury, then you have committed perjury under penalty of perjury and also voluntarily placed yourself under their
37 exclusive/plenary legislative jurisdiction as a public official/"employee" and are therefore unlawfully subject to Federal &
38 State Codes and Regulations (Statutes). The Social Security Number they ask for on the form, in fact, is prima facie
39 evidence that you are a federal statutory employee, in fact. Look at the evidence for yourself, paying particular attention to 40 sections 6.1, 6.2 and 6.6:

Resignation of Compelled Social Security Trustee, Form #06.002

41 Most statutes passed by government are, in effect, PRIVATE law only for government. They are private law or contract
42 law that act as the equivalent of a government employment agreement.

43 "The power to "legislate generally upon" life, liberty, and property, as opposed to the "power to provide modes
44 of redress" against offensive state action, was "repugnant" to the Constitution. Id., at 15. See also United States

2 U.S. 127, 139 (1903). Although the specific holdings of these early cases might have been superseded or
3 modified, see, e.g., Heart of Atlanta Motel, Inc. v. United States, 379 U.S. 241 (1964); United States v. Guest,
4 383 U.S. 745 (1966), their treatment of Congress' §5 power as corrective or preventive, not definitional, has not
5 been questioned."

7 What the U.S. Supreme Court is saying above is that the government has no authority to tell you how to run your private
8 life. This is contrary to the whole idea of the Internal Revenue Code, whose main purpose is to monitor and control every
9 aspect of those who are subject to it. In fact, it has become the chief means for Congress to implement what we call "social
10 engineering". Just by the deductions they offer, people who are not engaged in a "trade or business" and thus have no
11 income tax liability are incentivized into all kinds of crazy behaviors in pursuit of reductions in a liability that they in fact
12 do not even have. Therefore, the only reasonable thing to conclude is that Subtitle A of the Internal Revenue Code, which 13 would "appear" to regulate the private conduct of all individuals in states of the Union, in fact only applies to "public
14 officials" in the official conduct of their duties while present in the District of Columbia, which 4 U.S.C. §72 makes the 15 "seat of government". The Internal Revenue Code (I.R.C.) therefore essentially amounts to a part of the job responsibility
16 and the "employment contract" of "public officials". This was also confirmed by the House of Representatives, who said
17 that only those who take an oath of "public office" are subject to the requirements of the personal income tax. See:

19 We the People, as the Sovereigns, cannot lawfully become the proper subject to exclusive federal jurisdiction unless and

33 is reserved for you on the federal plantation:

11 U.S.C. §1601-1611. 28 U.S.C. §1605(a)(2) of the act says that those who conduct "commerce" within the legislative 12 jurisdiction of the "United States" (federal zone), whether as public official or federal benefit recipient, surrender their 13 sovereign immunity.

14 TITLE 28 > PART IV > CHAPTER 97 > § 1605
15 § 1605. General exceptions to the jurisdictional immunity of a foreign state

16 (a) A foreign state shall not be immune from the jurisdiction of courts of the United States or of the States in any
17 case—

18 (2) in which the action is based upon a commercial activity carried on in the United States by the foreign state;
19 or upon an act performed in the United States in connection with a commercial [employment or federal benefit]
20 activity of the foreign state elsewhere; or upon an act outside the territory of the United States in connection
21 with a commercial activity of the foreign state elsewhere and that act causes a direct effect in the United States;

22 They are also destroying the separation of powers by fooling you into declaring yourself to be a statutory "U.S. citizen"
23 under 8 U.S.C. §1401. 28 U.S.C. §1603(b)(3) and 28 U.S.C. §1332(e) specifically exclude such statutory "U.S. citizens"
24 from being foreign sovereigns who can file under statutory diversity of citizenship. This is also confirmed by the 25 Department of State Website:

26 "Section 1603(b) defines an "agency or instrumentality" of a foreign state as an entity

27 (1) which is a separate legal person, corporate or otherwise, and

28 (2) which is an organ of a foreign state or political subdivision thereof, or a majority of whose shares or other 29 ownership interest is owned by a foreign state or political subdivision thereof, and

30 (3) which is neither a citizen of the a state of the United States as defined in Sec. 1332(e) nor created under 31 the laws of any third country."

32 [Department of State Website, http://travel.state.gov/law/info/judicial/judicial_693.html]

33 In effect, they kidnapped your legal identity and made you into a "resident alien federal employee" working in the "king's 34 castle", what Mark Twain called "the District of Criminals", and changed your status from "foreign" to "domestic" by 35 creating false presumptions about citizenship and using the Social Security Number, IRS Form W-4, and SSA Form SS-5 to 36 make you into a "subject citizen" and a "public employee" with no constitutional rights.

37 The nature of most federal law as private/contract law is carefully explained below:

Requirement for Consent, Form #05.003
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

38 As you will soon read, the government uses various ways to mislead and trick us into their private/contract laws (outside 39 our Constitutional protections) and make you into the equivalent of their "employee", and thereby commits a great fraud on 40 the American People. It is the purpose of this document to expose the most important aspect of that willful deception, 41 which is the citizenship trap.

42 11.8.4 Why the STATUTORY Geographical "United States" does not include states of the Union

43 A common point of confusion is the comparison between STATUTORY and CONSTITUTIONAL contexts for the "United 44 States". Below is a question posed by a reader about this confusion:

1 Your extensive citizenship materials say that the term "United States" described in 8 U.S.C. §1101(a)(38) ,
2 (a)(36) , and 8 C.F.R. §215.1(f) includes only DC, Puerto Rico, Guam, USVI, and CNMI and excludes all
3 Constitutional Union states. In fact, a significant portion of what your materials say hinges on the 4 interpretation that the term "United States" per 8 U.S.C. §1101(a)(38) includes only DC, Puerto Rico, Guam,
5 USVI, and CNMI and excludes all Constitutional Union states. Therefore, it is important that your readers are
6 confident that this is the correct interpretation of 8 U.S.C. §1101(a)(38). The problem that most of your readers
7 are going to have is that the text for 8 U.S.C. §1101(a)(38) say the "United States" means continental United 8 States, Alaska, Hawaii, Puerto Rico, Guam, and the Virgin Islands of the United States.

9 Please explain to me how the term "United States" described in 8 U.S.C. §1101(a)(38), (a)(36) , and 8 C.F.R.
10 §215.1(f) can exclude all Constitution Union states when 8 U.S.C. §1101(a)(38) explicitly lists list Alaska and 11 Hawaii as part of "United States". Alaska and Hawaii were the last two Constitutional states to join the Union
12 and they became Constitutional Union states on August 21, 1959 and January 3, 1959 respectfully. The only
13 possible explanation that I can think of is that the Statutes at Large that 8 U.S.C. §1101(a)(38) is a codification
14 of never got updated after Alaska and Hawaii joined the Union. Do you agree? How can one provide legal 15 proof of this? This proof needs to go into your materials since this is such a key and pivotal issue to 16 understanding your correct political and civil status. It appears that the wording used in 8 U.S.C. §1101(a)(38)
17 is designed to obfuscate and confuse most people into thinking that it is describing United States* when in fact
18 is it describing only a portion of United States. If this section of code is out of date, why has Congress never 19 updated it to remove Alaska and Hawaii from the definition of "United States" ?

20 The definitions that lead to this question are as follows:

21 8 U.S.C. §1101(a)(38)

22 The term "United States", except as otherwise specifically herein provided, when used in a
23 geographical sense, means the continental United States, Alaska, Hawaii, Puerto Rico, Guam, and 24 the Virgin Islands of the United States.

25 _____
26 8 U.S.C. §1101(a)(36)

27 The term "State" includes the District of Columbia, Puerto Rico, Guam, the Virgin Islands of the 28 United States, and the Commonwealth of the Northern Mariana Islands.

29 _____
30 8 C.F.R. §215.1(f)

31 The term continental United States means the District of Columbia and the several States, except 32 Alaska and Hawaii.

33 In response to this question, we offer the following explanation:

- 34 1. The U.S. Supreme Court has held that a "national and citizen of the United States at birth" in 8 U.S.C. §1401 does 35 NOT include state citizens under the Fourteenth Amendment. See Rogers v. Bellei, 401 U.S. 815 (1971). Hence, the 36 "United States" they are referring to in 8 U.S.C. §1401 CANNOT include constitutional states of the Union.
- 37 2. 40 U.S.C. §§3111 and 3112 say that federal jurisdiction does not exist within a state except on land ceded to the 38 national government. Hence, no matter what the geographical definitions are, they do not include anything other than 39 federal territory.
- 40 3. It is a legal impossibility to have more than one domicile and if you are domiciled in a state of the Union, then you are 41 domiciled OUTSIDE of federal territory and federal civil jurisdiction. See:
42

Why Domicile and Becoming a "Taxpayer" Require Your Consent , Form #05.002 http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm
--
- 43 4. All statutory terms are limited to territory over which Congress has EXCLUSIVE GENERAL (RATHER than subject 44 matter) jurisdiction. All of the statuses indicted in the statutes (including those in 8 U.S.C. §§1401 and 1408) STOP
45 at the border to federal territory and do not apply within states of the Union. One cannot have a status in a place that they
46 are not civilly domiciled, and especially a status that they do NOT consent to and to which rights and obligations 47 attach. Otherwise, the Declaration of Independence is violated because they are subjected to obligations that they didn't consent to and are a slave. This is proven in:

5. As the U.S. Supreme Court held, all law is prima facie territorial and confined to the territory of the specific state. The states of the Union are NOT "territory" as legally defined.

*Volume 86, Corpus Juris Secundum Legal Encyclopedia Territories
§1. Definitions, Nature, and Distinctions*

The word 'territory,' when used to designate a political organization has a distinctive, fixed, and legal meaning under the political institutions of the United States[], and does not necessarily include all the territorial possessions of the United States[], but may include only the portions thereof which are organized and exercise governmental functions under act of congress."

While the term 'territory' is often loosely used, and has even been construed to include municipal subdivisions of a territory, and 'territories of the' United States[] is sometimes used to refer to the entire domain over which the United States[] exercises dominion, the word 'territory,' when used to designate a political organization, has a distinctive, fixed, and legal meaning under the political institutions of the United States[], and the term 'territory' or 'territories' does not necessarily include only a portion or the portions thereof which are organized and exercise government functions under acts of congress. The term 'territories' has been defined to be political subdivisions of the outlying dominion of the United States[], and in this sense the term 'territory' is not a description of a definite area of land but of a political unit governing and being governed as such. The question whether a particular subdivision or entity is a territory is not determined by the particular form of government with which it is, more or less temporarily, invested.

'Territories' or 'territory' as including 'state' or 'states.'" While the term 'territories of the' United States[] may, under certain circumstances, include the states of the Union, as used in the federal Constitution and in ordinary acts of congress "territory" does not include a foreign state.

As used in this title, the term 'territories' generally refers to the political subdivisions created by congress, and not within the boundaries of any of the several states.
[86 Corpus Juris Secundum (C.J.S.), Territories (2003)]

Therefore, all of the civil statuses found in Title 8 of the U.S. Code do not extend into or relate to anyone civilly domiciled in a constitutional state, regardless of what the definition of "United States" is and whether it is GEOGRAPHICAL or GOVERNMENT sense.

*"It is a well established principle of law that all federal regulation applies only within the territorial jurisdiction of the United States unless a contrary intent appears."
[Foley Brothers, Inc. v. Filardo, 336 U.S. 281 (1949)]*

*"The laws of Congress in respect to those matters [outside of Constitutionally delegated powers] do not extend into the territorial limits of the states, but have force only in the District of Columbia, and other places that are within the exclusive jurisdiction of the national government."
[Caha v. U.S., 152 U.S. 211 (1894)]*

*"There is a canon of legislative construction which teaches Congress that, unless a contrary intent appears [legislation] is meant to apply only within the territorial jurisdiction of the United States."
[U.S. v. Spelar, 338 U.S. 217 at 222]*

6. The U.S. Supreme Court has held that Congress enjoys no legislative jurisdiction within a constitutional state. Hence, those in constitutional states can have no civil "status" under the laws of Congress. There are a few RARE exceptions to this, and all of them relate to CONSTITUTIONAL remedies. For instance 42 U.S.C. §1983 implements provisions of the Fourteenth Amendment, so "person" in that statute can also include state nationals. See Litigation Tool #08.008 for details on this exception.

*"The difficulties arising out of our dual form of government and the opportunities for differing opinions concerning the relative rights of state and national governments are many; but for a very long time this court has steadfastly adhered to the doctrine that the taxing power of Congress does not extend to the states or their political subdivisions. The same basic reasoning which leads to that conclusion, we think, requires like limitation upon the power which springs from the bankruptcy clause. United States v. Butler, supra."
[Ashton v. Cameron County Water Improvement District No. 1, 298 U.S. 513, 56 S.Ct. 892 (1936)]*

1 "It is no longer open to question that the general government, unlike the states, Hammer v. Dagenhart, 247
2 U.S. 251, 275, 38 S.Ct. 529, 3 A.L.R. 649, Ann.Cas.1918E 724, possesses no inherent power in respect of the
3 internal affairs of the states; and emphatically not with regard to legislation."
4 Carter v. Carter Coal Co., [298 U.S. 238, 56 S.Ct. 855 (1936)]

- 5 7. The U.S. Supreme Court has held that Congress can only tax or regulate that which it creates. Since it didn't create
6 humans, then all civil statuses under Title 8 MUST be artificial PUBLIC offices.

7 "What is a Constitution? It is the form of government, delineated by the mighty hand of the people, in which
8 certain first principles of fundamental laws are established. The Constitution is certain and fixed; it contains 9 the permanent will of the people, and is the supreme law of the land; it is paramount to the power of the 10 Legislature, and can be revoked or altered only by the authority that made it. The life-giving principle and the 11 death-doing stroke must proceed from the same hand."
12 [VanHorne's Lessee v. Dorrance, 2 U.S. 304 (1795)]

13 "The great principle is this: because the constitution will not permit a state to destroy, it will not permit a law 14 [including a tax law] involving the power to destroy."
15 [Providence Bank v. Billings, 29 U.S. 514 (1830)]

16 "The power to tax involves the power to destroy; the power to destroy may defeat and render useless the power
17 to create; and there is a plain repugnance in conferring on one government [THE FEDERAL GOVERNMENT]
18 a power to control the constitutional measures of another [WE THE PEOPLE], which other, with respect to 19 those very measures, is declared to be supreme over that which exerts the control."
20 [Van Brocklin v. State of Tennessee, 117 U.S. 151 (1886)]

- 21 8. Just like in the Internal Revenue Code, the term "United States" within Title 8 of the U.S. Code is ONLY defined in its 22 GEOGRAPHICAL sense but the GEOGRAPHICAL sense is not the only sense. The OTHER sense is the 23 GOVERNMENT as a legal person.
24 9. There is no way provided in statutes to distinguish the GEOGRAPHICAL use and the GOVERNMENT use in all the 25 cases we have identified. This leaves the reader guessing and also gives judges unwarranted and unconstitutional
26 discretion to apply either context. This confusion is deliberate to facilitate equivocation and mask and protect the 27 massive criminal identity theft ongoing everyday in federal courtrooms across the country. See:

Government Identity Theft, Form #05.046
<https://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

- 28 10. The Great IRS Hoax, Form #11.302, Section 5.2.12 talks about the meaning and history of United States in the Internal 29 Revenue Code. It proves that "United States" includes only the federal zone and not the Constitutional states or land
30 under the exclusive jurisdiction of said states.

Great IRS Hoax, Form #11.302, Section 5.2.12
<http://famguardian.org/Publications/GreatIRSHoax/GreatIRSHoax.htm>

- 31 11. The term "United States" as used in 8 U.S.C. §1401 within "national and citizen of the United States at birth" does 32 not expressly invoke the GEOGRAPHIC sense and hence, must be presumed to be the GOVERNMENT sense, where 33 "citizen" is a public officer in the government.
34 12. Members of the legal profession have tried to argue with the above by saying that Congress DOES have SUBJECT
35 MATTER jurisdiction within states of the Union as listed in Article 1, Section 8 of the Constitution. However:
36 12.1. The geographical definition of "United States" found in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(9) and (a)(10) and 4 U.S.C. §110(d)
37 EXCLUDES states of the Union.

38 "Expressio unius est exclusio alterius. A maxim of statutory interpretation meaning that the expression of one
39 thing is the exclusion of another. Burgin v. Forbes, 293 Ky. 456, 169 S.W.2d. 321, 325; Newblock v. Bowles,
40 170 Okl. 487, 40 P.2d. 1097, 1100. Mention of one thing implies exclusion of another. When certain persons
41 or things are specified in a law, contract, or will, an intention to exclude all others from its operation may be
42 inferred. Under this maxim, if statute specifies one exception to a general rule or assumes to specify the effects
43 of a certain provision, other exceptions or effects are excluded."
44 [Black's Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, p. 581]

45 "When a statute includes an explicit definition, we must follow that definition, even if it varies from that
46 term's ordinary meaning. Meese v. Keene, 481 U.S. 465, 484-485 (1987) ("It is axiomatic that the statutory
47 definition of the term excludes unstated meanings of that term"); Colautti v. Franklin, 439 U.S. at 392-393, n.
48 10 ("As a rule, a definition which declares what a term "means" . . . excludes any meaning that is not stated");
49 Western Union Telegraph Co. v. Lenroot, 323 U.S. 490, 502 (1945); Fox v. Standard Oil Co. of N.J., 294 U.S.
50 87, 95-96 (1935) (Cardozo, J.); see also 2A N. Singer, Sutherland on Statutes and Statutory Construction §
51 47.07, p. 152, and n. 10 (5th ed. 1992) (collecting cases). That is to say, the statute, read "as a whole," post at
52 998 [530 U.S. 943] (THOMAS, J., dissenting), leads the reader to a definition. That definition does not include

1 the Attorney General's restriction -- "the child up to the head." Its words, "substantial portion," indicate the
2 contrary."
3 [Stenberg v. Carhart, 530 U.S. 914 (2000)]

4 12.2. The U.S. Supreme Court has never identified income taxation under 26 U.S.C. Subtitles A and C as an Article 1,
5 Section 8 power related to subject matter jurisdiction. We have also NEVER found any evidence that it is a
6 constitutional power other than the Sixteenth Amendment.

7 12.3. The Sixteenth Amendment did not grant Congress ANY new taxing power that it didn't already have over any 8 new subject or person:

9 "..by the previous ruling it was settled that the provisions of the Sixteenth Amendment conferred no new
10 power of taxation but simply prohibited the previous complete and plenary power of income taxation
11 possessed by Congress from the beginning from being taken out of the category of indirect taxation to which
12 it inherently belonged and being placed in the category of direct taxation subject to apportionment by a
13 consideration of the sources from which the income was derived, that is by testing the tax not by what it was -- a
14 tax on income, but by a mistaken theory deduced from the origin or source of the income taxed. "
15 [Stanton v. Baltic Mining Co., 240 U.S. 103 (1916)]

16 The whole point of Title 8 is confuse state citizens with territorial citizens and to thereby usurp jurisdiction over them and 17 commit criminal identity theft. The tools for usurping that jurisdiction are described in:

Federal Jurisdiction, Form #05.018
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

18 A citizen of the District of Columbia is certainly within the meaning of 8 U.S.C. §1401. All you do by trying to confuse
19 THAT citizen with a state citizen is engage in the Stockholm Syndrome and facilitate identity theft of otherwise sovereign
20 state nationals by thieves in the District of Criminals. If you believe that an 8 U.S.C. §1401 "national and citizen of the 21 United States" includes state citizens, then you have the burden of describing WHERE those domiciled in federal territory
22 are described in Title 8, because the U.S. Supreme Court held that these two types of citizens are NOT the same. Where is 23 your proof?

24 "The 1st section of the 14th article [Fourteenth Amendment], to which our attention is more specifically invited,
25 opens with a definition of citizenship—not only citizenship of the United States[], but citizenship of the
26 states. No such definition was previously found in the Constitution, nor had any attempt been made to define
27 it by act of Congress. It had been the occasion of much discussion in the courts, by the executive departments
28 and in the public journals. It had been said by eminent judges that no man was a citizen of the United 29 States[] except as he was a citizen of one of the states composing the Union. Those therefore, who had 30 been born and resided always in the District of Columbia or in the territories, though within the United 31 States[], were not citizens. Whether this proposition was sound or not had never been judicially decided."*

33
34 The Court today holds that the Citizenship Clause of the Fourteenth Amendment has no application to Bellei
35 [an 8 U.S.C. §1401 STATUTORY citizen]. The Court first notes that Afroyim was essentially a case construing
36 the Citizenship Clause of the Fourteenth Amendment. Since the Citizenship Clause declares that: 'All persons
37 born or naturalized in the United States * * * are citizens of the United States * * *,' the Court reasons that the 38 protections against involuntary expatriation declared in Afroyim do not protect all American citizens, but only
39 those 'born or naturalized in the United States.' Afroyim, the argument runs, was naturalized in this country so
40 he was protected by the Citizenship Clause, but Bellei, since he acquired his American citizenship at birth in 41 Italy as a foreignborn child of an American citizen, was neither born nor naturalized in the United States and,
42 hence, falls outside the scope of the Fourteenth Amendment guarantees declared in Afroyim. One could hardly
43 call this a generous reading of the great purposes the Fourteenth Amendment was adopted to bring about.
44 While conceding that Bellei is an American citizen, the majority states: 'He simply is not a Fourteenth-
45 Amendment-first-sentence citizen.' Therefore, the majority reasons, the congressional revocation of his
46 citizenship is not barred by the Constitution. I cannot accept the Court's conclusion that the Fourteenth
47 Amendment protects the citizenship of some Americans and not others. [. . .]

48 The Court today puts aside the Fourteenth Amendment as a standard by which to measure congressional
49 action with respect to citizenship, and substitutes in its place the majority's own vague notions of 'fairness.'
50 The majority takes a new step with the recurring theme that the test of constitutionality is the Court's own
51 view of what is 'fair, reasonable, and right.' Despite the concession that Bellei was admittedly an American
52 citizen, and despite the holding in Afroyim that the Fourteenth Amendment has put citizenship, once
53 conferred, beyond the power of Congress to revoke, the majority today upholds the revocation of Bellei's
54 citizenship on the ground that the congressional action was not 'irrational or arbitrary or unfair.' The
55 majority applies the 'shock-the-conscience' test to uphold, rather than strike, a federal statute. It is a dangerous concept of constitutional law that allows the majority to conclude that, because it cannot say the statute is 'irrational or arbitrary or unfair,' the statute must be constitutional.

Since the Court this Term has already downgraded citizens receiving public welfare, Wyman v. James, 400 U.S. 309, 91 S.Ct. 381, 27 L.Ed.2d. 408 (1971), and citizens having the misfortune to be illegitimate, Labine v. Vincent, 401 U.S. 532, 91 S.Ct. 1917, 28 L.Ed.2d. 288, I suppose today's decision downgrading citizens born outside the United States should have been expected. Once again, as in James and Labine, the Court's opinion makes evident that its holding is contrary to earlier decisions. Concededly, petitioner was a citizen at birth, not by constitutional right, but only through operation of a federal statute. [Rogers v. Bellei, 401 U.S. 815 (1971)]

In summary, all of the above items cannot simultaneously be true and at the same time, the geographical "United States" including states of the Union within any act of Congress. The truth cannot conflict with itself or it is a LIE. Any attempt to rebut the evidence and resulting conclusions of fact and law within this section must therefore deal with ALL of the issues addressed and not cherry pick the ones that are easy to explain.

Our conclusion is that the United States, the area over which the EXCLUSIVE sovereignty of the United States government extends, is divided into two areas in which one can establish their domicile:

1. American Samoa and
2. "United States" as described in 8 U.S.C. §1101(a)(38), (a)(36) , and 8 C.F.R. §215.1(f).

This is very clear after looking at 8 U.S.C. §1401 and 8 U.S.C. §1408. The term "United States" described in 8 U.S.C. §1101(a)(38), (a)(36), and 8 C.F.R. §215.1(f) is not the inhabited area of United States as previously mentioned in Appendix A of this document, but rather it is one of the two areas within United States that one can establish a domicile in. The inhabited areas of the United States would be "United States" per 8 U.S.C. §1101(a)(38) AND American Samoa. Those born in "United States" per 8 U.S.C. §1101(a)(38) are "citizens of the "United States", where "United States" is described in 8 U.S.C. §1101(a)(38), and "nationals of United States" per 8 U.S.C. §1101(a)(22) . Those born in American Samoa are "non-citizens of the "United States", where "United States" is described in 8 U.S.C. §1101(a)(38). United States = "United States", where "United States" is described in 8 U.S.C. §1101(a)(38), American Samoa, and all of the uninhabited territories of the U.S., including the federal enclaves within the exterior borders of the Constitutional Union states.

11.8.5 Why the CONSTITUTIONAL Geographical "United States" does NOT include federal territory

The case of Valmonte v. I.N.S., 136 F.3d. 914 (C.A.2, 1998) very clearly determines that the CONSTITUTIONAL "United States", when used in a GEOGRAPHICAL context, means states of the Union and EXCLUDES federal territories. Below is the text of that holding:

The principal issue in this petition is the territorial scope of the term "the United States" in the Citizenship Clause of the Fourteenth Amendment. U.S. Const. amend. XIV, § 1 ("All persons born or naturalized in the United States, and subject to the jurisdiction thereof, are citizens of the United States and of the State wherein they reside." (emphasis added)). Petitioner, who was born in the Philippines in 1934 during its status as a United States territory, argues she was "born ... in the United States" and is therefore a United States citizen.⁷⁶

Petitioner's argument is relatively novel, having been addressed previously only in the Ninth Circuit. See Rabang v. INS, 35 F.3d 1449, 1452 (9th Cir.1994) ("No court has addressed whether persons born in a United States territory are born 'in the United States,' within the meaning of the Fourteenth Amendment,"), cert. denied sub nom. Sanidad v. INS, 515 U.S. 1130, 115 S.Ct. 2554, 132 L.Ed.2d. 809 (1995). In a split decision, the Ninth Circuit held that "birth in the Philippines during the territorial period does not constitute birth 'in ⁷⁶ Although this argument was not raised before the immigration judge or on appeal to the BIA, it may be raised for the first time in this petition. See INA, supra, § 106(a)(5), 8 U.S.C. §1105a(a)(5).

1 the United States' under the Citizenship Clause of the Fourteenth Amendment, and thus does not give rise to
2 United States citizenship." Rabang, 35 F.3d at 1452. We agree.⁷⁷

3 Despite the novelty of petitioner's argument, the Supreme Court in the Insular Cases⁷⁸ provides authoritative
4 guidance on the territorial scope of the term "the United States" in the Fourteenth Amendment. The Insular
5 Cases were a series of Supreme Court decisions that addressed challenges to duties on goods transported from 6 Puerto Rico to the continental United States. Puerto Rico, like the Philippines, had been recently ceded to the 7 United States. The Court considered the territorial scope of the term "the United States" in the Constitution
8 and held that this term as used in the uniformity clause of the Constitution was territorially limited to the 9 states of the Union. U.S. Const. art. I, § 8 ("[A]ll Duties, Imposts and Excises shall be uniform throughout the 10 United States." (emphasis added)); see Downes v. Bidwell, 182 U.S. 244, 251, 21 S.Ct. 770, 773, 45 L.Ed. 1088
11 (1901) ("[I]t can nowhere be inferred that the territories were considered a part of the United States. The 12 Constitution was created by the people of the United States, as a union of States, to be governed solely by 13 representatives of the States; ... In short, the Constitution deals with States, their people, and their 14 representatives."); Rabang, 35 F.3d at 1452. Puerto Rico was merely a territory "appurtenant and belonging
15 to the United States, but not a part of the United States within the revenue clauses of the Constitution."
16 Downes, 182 U.S. at 287, 21 S.Ct. at 787.

17 The Court's conclusion in Downes was derived in part by analyzing the territorial scope of the Thirteenth and 18 Fourteenth Amendments. The Thirteenth Amendment prohibits slavery and involuntary servitude "within the 19 United States, or any place subject to their jurisdiction." U.S. Const. amend. XIII, § 1 (emphasis added). The 20 Fourteenth Amendment states that persons "born or naturalized in the United States, and subject to the 21 jurisdiction thereof, are citizens of the United States and of the State wherein they reside." U.S. Const. amend
22 XIV, § 1 (emphasis added). The disjunctive "or" in the Thirteenth Amendment demonstrates that "there may 23 be places within the jurisdiction of the United States that are no[] part of the Union" to which the 24 Thirteenth Amendment would apply. Downes, 182 U.S. at 251, 21 S.Ct. at 773. Citizenship under the 25 Fourteenth Amendment, however, "is not extended to persons born in any place 'subject to [the United 26 States '] jurisdiction,' " but is limited to persons born or naturalized in the states of the Union. Downes, 182
27 U.S. at 251, 21 S.Ct. at 773 (emphasis added); see also id. at 263, 21 S.Ct. at 777 ("[I]n dealing with foreign
28 sovereignties, the term 'United States' has a broader meaning than when used in the Constitution, and 29 includes all territories subject to the jurisdiction of the Federal government, wherever located."⁷⁹).

30 Following the decisions in the Insular Cases, the Supreme Court confirmed that the Philippines, during its
31 status as a United States territory, was not a part of the United States. See Hooven & Allison Co. v. Evatt, 324
32 U.S. 652, 678, 65 S.Ct. 870, 883, 89 L.Ed. 1252 (1945) ("As we have seen, [the Philippines] are not a part of
33 the United States in the sense that they are subject to and enjoy the benefits or protection of the Constitution,
34 as do the states which are united by and under it."); see id. at 673-74, 65 S.Ct. at 881 (Philippines "are 35 territories belonging to, but not a part of, the Union of states under the Constitution," and therefore imports
36 "brought from the Philippines into the United States ... are brought from territory, which is not a part of the 37 United States, into the territory of the United States.").

38 Accordingly, the Supreme Court has observed, without deciding, that persons born in the Philippines prior to 39 its independence in 1946 are not [CONSTITUTIONAL] citizens of the United States. See Barber v. Gonzales,
40 347 U.S. 637, 639 n. 1, 74 S.Ct. 822, 823 n. 1, 98 L.Ed. 1009 (1954) (stating that although the inhabitants of the 41 Philippines during the territorial period were "nationals" of the United States, they were not "United States
42 citizens"); Rabang v. Boyd, 353 U.S. 427, 432 n. 12, 77 S.Ct. 985, 988 n. 12, 1 L.Ed.2d. 956 (1957) ("The 43 inhabitants of the Islands acquired by the United States during the late war with Spain, not being citizens of 44 the United States, do not possess right of free entry into the United States." (emphasis added) (citation and 45 internal quotation marks omitted)).

⁷⁷ For the purpose of deciding this petition, we address only the territorial scope of the phrase "the United States" in the Citizenship Clause. We do not consider the distinct issue of whether citizenship is a "fundamental right" that extends by its own force to the inhabitants of the Philippines under the doctrine of territorial incorporation. Dorr v. United States, 195 U.S. 138, 146, 24 S.Ct. 808, 812, 49 L.Ed. 128 (1904) ("Doubtless Congress, in legislating for the Territories would be subject to those fundamental limitations in favor of personal rights which are formulated in the Constitution and its amendments." (citation and internal quotation marks omitted)); Rabang, 35 F.3d at 1453 n. 8 ("We note that the territorial scope of the phrase 'the United States' is a distinct inquiry from whether a constitutional provision should extend to a territory." (citing Downes v. Bidwell, 182 U.S. 244, 249, 21 S.Ct. 770, 772, 45 L.Ed. 1088 (1901))). The phrase "the United States" is an express territorial limitation on the scope of the Citizenship Clause. Because we determine that the phrase "the United States" did not include the Philippines during its status as a United States territory, we need not determine the application of the Citizenship Clause to the Philippines under the doctrine of territorial incorporation. Cf. United States v. Verdugo-Urquidez, 494 U.S. 259, 291 n. 11, 110 S.Ct. 1056, 1074 n. 11, 108 L.Ed.2d 222 (1990) (Brennan, J., dissenting) (arguing that the Fourth Amendment may be applied extraterritorially, in part, because it does not contain an "express territorial limitation[]").

⁷⁸ De Lima v. Bidwell, 182 U.S. 1, 21 S.Ct. 743, 45 L.Ed. 1041 (1901); Dooley v. United States, 182 U.S. 222, 21 S.Ct. 762, 45 L.Ed. 1074 (1901); Armstrong v. United States, 182 U.S. 243, 21 S.Ct. 827, 45 L.Ed. 1086 (1901); and Downes v. Bidwell, 182 U.S. 244, 21 S.Ct. 770, 45 L.Ed. 1088 (1901).

⁷⁹ Congress, under the Act of February 21, 1871, ch. 62, § 34, 16 Stat. 419, 426, expressly extended the Constitution and federal laws to the District of Columbia. See Downes, 182 U.S. at 261, 21 S.Ct. at 777 (stating that the "mere cession of the District of Columbia" from portions of Virginia and Maryland did not "take [the District of Columbia] out of the United States or from under the aegis of the Constitution.").

1 Petitioner, notwithstanding this line of Supreme Court authority since the Insular Cases, argues that the
2 Fourteenth Amendment codified English common law principles that birth within the territory or dominion of a
3 sovereign confers citizenship. Because the United States exercised complete sovereignty over the Philippines
4 during its territorial period, petitioner asserts that she is therefore a citizen by virtue of her birth within the 5 territory and dominion of the United States. Petitioner argues that the term "the United States" in the 6 Fourteenth Amendment should be interpreted to mean "within the dominion or territory of the United
7 States." Rabang, 35 F.3d at 1459 (Pregerson, J., dissenting); see United States v. Wong Kim Ark, 169 U.S. 649,
8 693, 18 S.Ct. 456, 473-74, 42 L.Ed. 890 (1898) (relying on the English common law and holding that the 9 Fourteenth Amendment "affirms the ancient and fundamental rule of citizenship by birth within the territory, in 10 the allegiance and under the protection of the country" (emphasis added)); Inglis v. Sailors' Snug Harbour, 28
11 U.S. (3 Pet.) 99, 155, 7 L.Ed. 617 (1830) (Story, J., concurring and dissenting) (citizenship is conferred by 12 "birth locally within the dominions of the sovereign; and ... birth within the protection and obedience ... of the 13 sovereign").

14 We decline petitioner's invitation to construe Wong Kim Ark and Inglis so expansively. Neither case is reliable
15 authority for the citizenship principle petitioner would have us adopt. The issue in Wong Kim Ark was whether 16 a child born to alien parents in the United States was a citizen under the Fourteenth Amendment. That the child
17 was born in San Francisco was undisputed and "it [was therefore] unnecessary to define 'territory' rigorously
18 or decide whether 'territory' in its broader sense (i.e. outlying land subject to the jurisdiction of this country)
19 meant 'in the United States' under the Citizenship Clause." Rabang, 35 F.3d at 1454.⁸⁰ Similarly, in Inglis, a 20 pre-Fourteenth Amendment decision, the Court considered whether a person, born in the colonies prior to the 21 Declaration of Independence, whose parents remained loyal to England and left the colonies after 22 independence, was a United States citizen for the purpose of inheriting property in the United States. Because 23 the person's birth within the colonies was undisputed, it was unnecessary in that case to consider the territorial 24 scope of common law citizenship.

25 The question of the Fourteenth Amendment's territorial scope was not before the Court in Wong Kim Ark or
26 Inglis and we will not construe the Court's statements in either case as establishing the citizenship principle
27 that a person born in the outlying territories of the United States is a United States citizen under the 28 Fourteenth Amendment. See Rabang, 35 F.3d at 1454. "[G]eneral expressions, in every opinion, are to be
29 taken in connection with the case in which those expressions are used. If they go beyond the case, they may be 30 respected, but ought not to control the judgment in a subsequent suit when the very point is presented for 31 decision." Cohens v. Virginia, 19 U.S. (6 Wheat.) 264, 399, 5 L.Ed. 257 (1821) (Marshall, C.J.).

32 In sum, persons born in the Philippines during its status as a United States territory were not "born ... in the 33 United States" under the Fourteenth Amendment. Rabang, 35 F.3d at 1453 (Fourteenth Amendment has an 34 "express territorial limitation which prevents its extension to every place over which the government exercises
35 its sovereignty."). Petitioner is therefore not a United States citizen by virtue of her birth in the Philippines
36 during its territorial period.

37 Petitioner makes several additional arguments that we address and dispose of quickly. First, contrary to 38 petitioner's argument, Congress' classification of the inhabitants of the Philippines as "nationals" during the 39 Philippines' territorial period did not violate the Thirteenth Amendment. The Thirteenth Amendment
40 "proscribe[s] conditions of 'enforced compulsory service of one to another.'" Jobson v. Henne, 355 F.2d. 129,
41 131 (2d Cir.1966) (quoting Hodges v. United States, 203 U.S. 1, 16, 27 S.Ct. 6, 8, 51 L.Ed. 65 (1906)).

42 Furthermore, contrary to petitioner's argument, Congress had the authority to classify her as a "national"
43 and then reclassify her as an alien to whom the United States immigration laws would apply. Congress'
44 authority to determine petitioner's political and immigration status was derived from three sources. Under 45 the Constitution, Congress has authority to "make all needful Rules and Regulations respecting the Territory
46 ... belonging to the United States," see U.S. Const. art. IV, § 3, cl. 2, and "[t]o establish an uniform Rule of 47 Naturalization," id. art. I, § 8, cl.4. The Treaty of Paris provided that "the civil rights and political status of 48 the native inhabitants ... shall be determined by Congress." Treaty of Paris, supra, art. IX, 30 Stat. at 1759.
49 This authority was confirmed in Downes where the Supreme Court stated that the "power to acquire territory
50 by treaty implies not only the power to govern such territory, but to prescribe upon what terms the United
51 States will receive its inhabitants, and what their status shall be." Downes, 182 U.S. at 279, 21 S.Ct. at 784;
52 see Rabang v. Boyd, 353 U.S. 427, 432, 77 S.Ct. 985, 988, 1 L.Ed.2d. 956 (1957) (rejecting argument that 53 Congress did not have authority to alter the immigration status of persons born in the Philippines).

54 Congress' reclassification of Philippine "nationals" to alien status under the Philippine Independence Act
55 was not tantamount to a "collective denaturalization" as petitioner contends. See Afroyim v. Rusk, 387 U.S.
56 253, 257, 87 S.Ct. 1660, 1662, 18 L.Ed.2d. 757 (1967) (holding that Congress has no authority to revoke

⁸⁰ This point is well illustrated by the Court's ambiguous pronouncements on the territorial scope of common law citizenship. See Rabang, 35 F.3d at 1454; compare Wong Kim Ark, 169 U.S. at 658, 18 S.Ct. at 460 (under the English common law, "every child born in England of alien parents was a natural-born subject" (emphasis added)), and id. at 661, 18 S.Ct. at 462 ("Persons who are born in a country are generally deemed citizens and subjects of that country." (citation and internal quotation marks omitted; emphasis added)), with id. at 667, 18 S.Ct. at 464 (citizenship is conferred by "birth within the dominion").

1 United States citizenship). Philippine "nationals" of the United States were not naturalized United States
2 citizens. See Manlangit v. INS, 488 F.2d. 1073, 1074 (4th Cir.1973) (holding that Afroyim addressed the rights
3 of a naturalized American citizen and therefore does not stand as a bar to Congress' authority to revoke the 4 non-citizen, "national" status of the Philippine inhabitants).

7 11.8.6.1 Tabular summary

8 Next, we must conclusively determine which “United States” is implicated in various key sections of the U.S. Code and 9 supporting regulations. Below is a tabular list that describes its meaning in various contexts, the reason why we believe 10 that meaning applies, and the authorities that prove it.

1 11.8.6.2 Supporting evidence

2 Below is a list of the content of some of the above authorities showing the meaning of each status:

- 3 1. Geographical “United States”, 8 U.S.C. §1101(a)(38).

4 [TITLE 8 > CHAPTER 12 > SUBCHAPTER I > Sec. 1101. \[Aliens and Nationality\]](#)
5 Sec. 1101. - Definitions

6 (a)(36): State [Aliens and Nationality]

7 The term "State" includes the District of Columbia, Puerto Rico, Guam, and the Virgin Islands of the United 8 States.

- 9 2. “continental United States”, 8 U.S.C. §1101(a)(38).

10 [TITLE 8 > CHAPTER 12 > SUBCHAPTER I > Sec. 1101. \[Aliens and Nationality\]](#)
11 Sec. 1101. - Definitions

12 (a)(38) The term "United States", except as otherwise specifically herein provided, when used in a geographical 13 sense, means the continental United States, Alaska, Hawaii, Puerto Rico, Guam, and the Virgin Islands of the 14 United States.

- 15 3. “citizen of the United States”, 8 U.S.C. §1101(a)(22)(A).

16 “Like the constitutional clauses at issue in Rabang and Downes, the Naturalization Clause is expressly
17 limited to the “United States[].” This limitation “prevents its extension to every place over which the 18 government exercises its sovereignty.” Rabang, 35 F.3d. at 1453. Because the Naturalization Clause did not
19 follow the flag to the CNMI when Congress approved the Covenant, the Clause does not require us to apply
20 federal immigration law to the CNMI prior to the CNRA’s transition date.

21 The district court correctly granted summary judgment on the merits to the government Defendants. Eche and 22 Lo may, of course, submit new applications for naturalization once they have satisfied the statutory 23 requirements.”
24 [Eche v. Holder, 694 F.3d. 1026]

- 25 4. “a person who, though not a citizen of the United States, owes permanent allegiance to the United States”, 8
26 U.S.C. §1101(a)(22)(B).

27 We have previously indicated that Marquez-Almanzar’s construction of § 1101(a)(22)(B) is erroneous, but 28 have not addressed the issue at length. In Oliver v. INS, 517 F.2d. 426, 427 (2d Cir.1975) (per curiam), the 29 petitioner, as a defense to deportation, argued that she qualified as a U.S. [*] national under § 1101(a)(22) (B)
30 because she had resided exclusively in the United States for twenty years, and thus “owe[d] allegiance” to the 31 United States[]. Without extensively analyzing the statute, we found that the petitioner could not be “a 32 ‘national’ as that term is understood in our law.” Id. We pointed out that the petitioner still owed allegiance to 33 Canada (her country of birth and citizenship) because she had not taken the U.S. naturalization oath, to 34 “renounce and abjure absolutely and entirely all allegiance and fidelity to any [foreign state of] ... which the 35 petitioner was before a subject or citizen.” Id. at 428 (quoting INA §337(a)(2), 8 U.S.C. §1448(a)(2)). In 36 making this observation, we did not suggest that the petitioner in Oliver could have qualified as a U.S. []
37 national by affirmatively renouncing her allegiance to Canada or otherwise swearing “permanent allegiance”
38 to the United States. In fact, in the following sentence we said that Title III, Chapter 1 of the INA9 “indicates 39 that, with a few exceptions not here pertinent, one can satisfy [8 U.S.C. §1101(a)(22)(B)]
40 only at birth; thereafter the road lies through naturalization, which leads to becoming a citizen
41 and not merely a ‘national.’”10 Id. at 428.

42 Our conclusion in Oliver, which we now reaffirm, is consistent with the clear meaning of 8 U.S.C.
43 §1101(a)(22)(B), read in the context of the general statutory scheme. The provision is a subsection of 8 U.S.C.
44 §1101(a). Section 1101(a) defines various terms as they are used in our immigration and 45 nationality laws, U.S.Code tit. 8, ch. 12, codified at 8 U.S.C. §§1101-1537. The 46 subsection’s placement indicates that it was designed to describe the attributes of a 47 person who has already been deemed a non-citizen national elsewhere in Chapter 12 of 48 the U.S.Code, rather than to establish a means by which one may obtain that status. For 49 example, 8 U.S.C. §1408, the only statute in Chapter 12 expressly conferring “non-citizen national” status on 50 anyone, describes four categories of persons who are “nationals, but not citizens, of the United States[] at

1 birth." All of these categories concern persons who were either born in an "outlying possession" of the United
2 States], see 8 U.S.C. §1408(1), or "found" in an "outlying possession" at a young age, see id. § 1408(3), or
3 who are the children of non-citizen nationals, see id. §§ 1408(2) & (4).¹¹ Thus, § 1408 establishes a category
4 of persons who qualify as non-citizen nationals; those who qualify, in turn, are described by § 1101(a)(22)(B)
5 as owing "permanent allegiance" to the United States[*]. In this context the term "permanent allegiance"
6 merely describes the nature of the relationship between non-citizen nationals and the United States, a
7 relationship that has already been created by another statutory provision. See Barber v. Gonzales, 347 U.S.
8 637, 639, 74 S.Ct. 822, 98 L.Ed. 1009 (1954) ("It is conceded that respondent was born a national of the United 9 States; that as such he owed permanent allegiance to the United States...."); cf. Philippines Independence Act of 10 1934, § 2(a)(1), Pub.L. No. 73-127, 48 Stat. 456 (requiring the Philippines to establish a constitution providing 11 that "pending the final and complete withdrawal of the sovereignty of the United States[,] ... [a]ll citizens of the 12 Philippine Islands shall owe allegiance to the United States").

13 Other parts of Chapter 12 indicate, as well, that §1101(a)(22) (B) describes, rather 14 than confers, U.S. [*] nationality. The provision immediately following § 1101(a)(22)
15 defines "naturalization" as "the conferring of nationality of a state upon a person
16 after birth, by any means whatsoever." 8 U.S.C. §1101(a)(23). If Marquez-Almanzar were 17 correct, therefore, one would expect to find "naturalization by a demonstration of permanent allegiance" in that 18 part of the U.S.Code entitled "Nationality Through Naturalization," see INA tit. 8, ch. 12, subch. III, pt. II,
19 codified at 8 U.S.C. §§1421-58. Yet nowhere in this elaborate set of naturalization requirements (which 20 contemplate the filing by the petitioner, and adjudication by the Attorney General, of an application for 21 naturalization, see, e.g., 8 U.S.C. §§1427, 1429), did Congress even remotely indicate that a demonstration of 22 "permanent allegiance" alone would allow, much less require, the Attorney General to confer U.S. national 23 status on an individual.

24 Finally, the interpretation of the statute underlying our decision in Oliver comports
25 with the historical meaning of the term "national" as it is used in Chapter 12. The 26 term (which as §§ 1101(a)(22)(B)American War, namely the Philippines, Guam, and 27 Puerto Rico in the early twentieth century, who were not granted U.S. [] citizenship,
28 yet were deemed to owe "permanent allegiance" to the United States[] and 29 recognized as members of the national community in a way that distinguished them
30 from aliens. See 7 Charles Gordon et al., Immigration Law and Procedure, §91.01[3] (2005); see also

40 5. "national and citizen of the United States at birth", 8 U.S.C. §1401. See Form #05.006, Section 5.1.

41 The Court today holds that the Citizenship Clause of the Fourteenth Amendment has no application to
42 Bellei. The Court first notes that Afroyim was essentially a case construing the Citizenship Clause of the 43 Fourteenth Amendment. Since the Citizenship Clause declares that: 'All persons born or naturalized in the 44 United States[] are citizens of the United States[],' the Court reasons that the protections against 45 involuntary expatriation declared in Afroyim do not protect all American citizens, but only those 'born or 46 naturalized in the United States.' Afroyim, the argument runs, was naturalized in this country so he was 47 protected by the Citizenship Clause, but Bellei, since he acquired his American citizenship at birth in Italy as a
48 foreignborn child of an American citizen, was neither born nor naturalized in the United States[] and,
49 hence, falls outside the scope of the Fourteenth Amendment guarantees declared in Afroyim. One could hardly
50 call this a generous reading of the great purposes the Fourteenth Amendment was adopted to bring about.

51 While conceding that Bellei is an American citizen, the majority states: 'He simply is not a Fourteenth-
52 Amendment-first-sentence citizen.' Therefore, the majority reasons, the congressional revocation of his
53 citizenship is not barred by the Constitution. I cannot accept the Court's conclusion that the Fourteenth
54 Amendment protects the citizenship of some Americans and not others.

55 [. . .]

56 The Court today puts aside the Fourteenth Amendment as a standard by which to measure congressional
57 action with respect to citizenship, and substitutes in its place the majority's own vague notions of 'fairness.'
58 The majority takes a new step with the recurring theme that the test of constitutionality is the Court's own
59 view of what is 'fair, reasonable, and right.' Despite the concession that Bellei was admittedly an American

1 citizen, and despite the holding in Afroyim that the Fourteenth Amendment has put citizenship, once
2 conferred, beyond the power of Congress to revoke, the majority today upholds the revocation of Bellei's
3 citizenship on the ground that the congressional action was not 'irrational or arbitrary or unfair.' The
4 majority applies the 'shock-the-conscience' test to uphold, rather than strike, a federal statute. It is a
5 dangerous concept of constitutional law that allows the majority to conclude that, because it cannot say the
6 statute is 'irrational or arbitrary or unfair,' the statute must be constitutional.

7 [. . .]

8 Since the Court this Term has already downgraded citizens receiving public welfare, Wyman v. James, 400 U.S.
9 309, 91 S.Ct. 381, 27 L.Ed.2d. 408 (1971), and citizens having the misfortune to be illegitimate, Labine v.
10 Vincent, 401 U.S. 532, 91 S.Ct. 1917, 28 L.Ed.2d. 288, I suppose today's decision downgrading citizens born
11 outside the United States should have been expected. Once again, as in James and Labine, the Court's opinion
12 makes evident that its holding is contrary to earlier decisions. Concededly, petitioner was a citizen at birth, not 13 by constitutional right, but only through operation of a federal statute.
14 [Rogers v. Bellei, 401 U.S. 815 (1971)]

15 6. “non-citizen national of the United States at birth”, 8 U.S.C. §1408.

16 Having jurisdiction, the Court turns to defendants' motion to dismiss under Rule 12(b)(6) for failure to state a
17 claim. Plaintiffs' claims all hinge upon one legal assertion:

18 the Citizenship Clause guarantees the citizenship of people born in American Samoa. Defendants argue that 19 this assertion must be rejected in light of the Constitution's plain language, rulings from the Supreme Court and 20 other federal courts, longstanding historical practice, and pragmatic considerations. See generally Defs.'
21 Mem.; Gov't's Reply in Supp. of Their Mot. to Dismiss ("Defs.' Reply") [Dkt. # 20]; Amicus Br. Unfortunately 22 for the plaintiffs, I agree. The Citizenship Clause does not guarantee birthright citizenship to American 23 Samoans. As such, for the following reasons, I must dismiss the remainder of plaintiffs' claims.

24 The Citizenship Clause of the Fourteenth Amendment provides that "[a]ll persons born or naturalized in the 25 United States and subject to the jurisdiction thereof, are citizens of the United States] and of the State
26 wherein they reside." U.S. Const. amend. XIV, section 1. Both parties seem to agree that American Samoa is
27 "subject to the jurisdiction" of the United States, and other courts have concluded as much. See Pls.' Opp'n
28 at 2; Defs.' Mem. at 14 (citing Rabang as noting that the territories are "subject to the jurisdiction" of the 29 United States). But to be covered by the Citizenship Clause, a person must be born or naturalized "in the 30 United States and subject to the jurisdiction thereof." Thus, the key question becomes whether American
31 Samoa qualifies as a part of the "United States" as that is used within the Citizenship Clause.⁸

32 The Supreme Court famously addressed the extent to which the Constitution applies in territories in a series of 33 cases known as the Insular Cases.⁹ In these cases, the Supreme Court contrasted "incorporated" territories
34 those lands expressly made part of the United States by an act of Congress with "unincorporated territories"
35 that had not yet become part of the United States and were not on a path toward statehood. See, e.g., Downes,
36 182 U.S. at 312; Dorr v. United States, 195 U.S. 138, 143 (1904); see also United States v. Verdugo-Urquidez, 37 494 U.S. 259, 268 (1990); Eche v. Holder, 694 F.3d. 1026, 1031 (9th Cir. 2012) (citing Boumediene v. Bush, 38 553 U.S. 723, 757-58 (2008)).¹⁰ In an unincorporated territory, the Insular Cases held that only certain
39 "fundamental" constitutional rights are extended to its inhabitants. Dorr, 195 U.S. 148-49; Balzac v. Porto
40 Rico, 258 U.S. 298, 312 (1922); see also Verdugo-Urquidez, 494 U.S. at 268. While none of the Insular Cases
41 directly addressed the Citizenship Clause, they suggested that citizenship was not a "fundamental" right that
42 applied to unincorporated territories.¹¹

43 For example, in the Insular Case of Downes v. Bidwell, the Court addressed, via multiple opinions, whether the 44 Revenue Clause of the Constitution applied in the unincorporated territory of Puerto Rico. In an opinion for the 45 majority, Justice Brown intimated in dicta that citizenship was not guaranteed to unincorporated territories.
46 See Downes, 182 U.S. at 282 (suggesting that citizenship and suffrage are not "natural rights enforced in the 47 Constitution" but rather rights that are "unnecessary to the proper protection of individuals." He added 48 that "it is doubtful if Congress would ever assent to the annexation of territory upon the condition that its 49 inhabitants, however foreign they may be to our habits, traditions, and modes of life, shall become at once
50 citizens of the United States." Id. at 279-80. He also contrasted the Citizenship Clause with the language of 51 the Thirteenth Amendment, which prohibits slavery "within the United States], or in any place subject to 52 their jurisdiction." Id. at 251 (emphasis added). He stated:

53 [T]he 14th Amendment, upon the subject of citizenship, declares only that "all persons born or naturalized
54 in the United States, and subject to the jurisdiction thereof, are citizens of the United States, and of the state
55 wherein they reside." Here there is a limitation to persons born or naturalized in the United States, which is 56 not extended to persons born in any place "subject to their jurisdiction."

57 Id. (emphasis added). In a concurrence, Justice White echoed this sentiment, arguing that the practice of 58 acquiring territories "could not be practically exercised if the result would be to endow the inhabitants with 59 citizenship of the United States." Id. at 306.

1 Plaintiffs rightly note that Downes did not possess a singular majority opinion and addressed the right to
2 citizenship only in dicta. Pls.' Opp'n at 25-27. But in the century since Downes and the Insular Cases were 3 decided, no federal court has recognized birthright citizenship as a guarantee in unincorporated territories.
4 To the contrary, the Supreme Court has continued to suggest that citizenship is not guaranteed to people
5 born in unincorporated territories. For example, in a case addressing the legal status of an individual born
6 in the Philippines while it was a territory, the Court noted without objection or concern that "persons born in
7 the Philippines during [its territorial period] were American nationals" and "until 1946, [could not] become
8 United States citizens. Barber v. Gonzales, 347 U.S. 637, 639 n.1 (1954). Again, in Miller v. Albright, 523
9 U.S. 420, 467 n.2 (1998), Justice Ginsberg noted in her dissent that "the only remaining noncitizen nationals
10 are residents of American Samoa and Swains Island" and failed to note anything objectionable about their 11 noncitizen national status. More recently, in Boumediene v. Bush, the Court reexamined the Insular Cases
12 in holding that the Constitution's Suspension Clause applies in Guantanamo Bay, Cuba. 553 U.S. 723, 757-
13 59 (2008). The Court noted that the Insular Cases "devised . . . a doctrine that allowed [the Court] to use its 14 power sparingly and where it would most be needed. This century-old doctrine informs our analysis in the 15 present matter." Id. at 759.

16 [. . .]

17 Indeed, other federal courts have adhered to the precedents of the Insular Cases in similar cases involving 18 unincorporated territories. For example, the Second, Third, Fifth, and Ninth Circuits have held that the term
19 "United States" in the Citizenship Clause did not include the Philippines during its time as an
20 unincorporated territory. See generally Nolos v. Holder, 611 F.3d. 279 (5th Cir. 2010); Valmonte v. I.N.S., 21 136 F.3d. 914 (2d Cir. 1998); Lacap v. I.N.S., 138 F.3d. 518 (3d Cir. 1998); Rabang, 35 F.3d. 1449. These 22 courts relied extensively upon Downes to assist with their interpretation of the Citizenship Clause. See Nolos,
23 611 F.3d. at 282-84; Valmonte, 136 F.3d. at 918-21; Rabang, 35 F.3d. at 1452-53. Indeed, one of my own
24 distinguished colleagues in an earlier decision cited these precedents to reaffirm that the Citizenship Clause
25 did not include the Philippines during its territorial period. See Licudine v. Winter, 603 F.Supp.2d. 129, 132-
26 34 (D.D.C. 2009) (Robinson, J.).12

27 [. . .]

28 Finally, this Court is mindful of the years of past practice in which territorial citizenship has been treated as
29 a statutory [PRIVILEGE!], and not a constitutional, right. In the unincorporated territories of Puerto Rico,
30 Guam, the U.S. Virgin Islands, and the Northern Mariana Islands, birthright citizenship was conferred upon
31 their inhabitants by various statutes many years after the United States acquired them. See Amicus Br. at 10-
32 11. If the Citizenship Clause guaranteed birthright citizenship in unincorporated territories, these statutes
33 would have been unnecessary. While longstanding practice is not sufficient to demonstrate constitutionality,
34 such a practice requires special scrutiny before being set aside. See, e.g., Jackman v. Rosenbaum Co., 260
35 U.S. 22, 31 (1922) (Holmes, J.) ("If a thing has been practiced for two hundred years by common consent, it
36 will need a strong case for the Fourteenth Amendment to affect it[.]"); Walz v. Tax Comm'n, 397 U.S. 664, 678
37 (1970) ("It is obviously correct that no one acquires a vested or protected right in violation of the Constitution
38 by long use Yet an unbroken practice . . . is not something to be lightly cast aside."). And while Congress
39 cannot take away the citizenship of individuals covered by the Citizenship Clause, it can bestow citizenship
40 upon those not within the Constitution's breadth. See U.S. Const, art. IV, § 3, cl. 2 ("Congress shall have Power
41 to dispose of and make all needful Rules and Regulations respecting the Territory belonging to the United 42 States[]"); id. at art. I, § 8, cl. 4 (Congress may "establish a uniform Rule of Naturalization . . ."). To date,
43 Congress has not seen fit to bestow birthright citizenship upon American Samoa, and in accordance with the 44 law, this Court must and will respect that choice.16
45 [Tuaua v. U.S.A, 951 F.Supp.2d. 88 (2013)]

46 7. "citizen of the United States" for the purposes of naturalization, 8 U.S.C. §1421.

47 Eche and Lo rely on this observation, but our decision in Rodiek did not turn on any constitutional issue.
48 Moreover, because Hawaii was an incorporated territory, our observation about the Naturalization Clause
49 must be read in that context. The CNMI [Commonwealth of the Northern Mariana Islands] is not an
50 incorporated territory. While the Covenant is silent as to whether the CNMI is an unincorporated territory, 51 and while we have observed that it may be some third category, the difference is not material here because 52 the Constitution has "no greater" force in the CNMI "than in an unincorporated territory." Comm. of 53 Northern Mariana Islands v. Atalig, 723 F.2d. 682, 691 n. 28 (9th Cir.1984); see Wabol v. Villacrusis, 958
54 F.2d. 1450, 1459 n. 18 (9th Cir.1990). The Covenant extends certain clauses of the United States Constitution
55 to the CNMI, but the Naturalization Clause is not among them. See Covenant §501, 90 Stat. at 267. The 56 Covenant provides that the other clauses of the Constitution "do not apply of their own force," even though
57 they may apply with the mutual consent of both governments. Id

58 The Naturalization Clause does not apply of its own force and the governments have not consented to its 59 applicability. The Naturalization Clause has a geographic limitation: it applies "throughout the United 60 States[]". The federal courts have repeatedly construed similar and even identical language in other 61 clauses to include states and incorporated territories, but not unincorporated territories. In Downes v.
62 Bidwell, 182 U.S. 244, 21 S.Ct. 770, 45 L.Ed. 1088 (1901), one of the Insular Cases, the Supreme Court held

1 that the Revenue Clause's identical explicit geographic limitation, "throughout the United States[], did
2 not include the unincorporated territory of Puerto Rico, which for purposes of that Clause was "not part of 3 the United States[]." Id. at 287, 21 S.Ct. 770. The Court reached this sensible result because 4 unincorporated territories are not on a path to statehood. See Boumediene v. Bush, 553 U.S. 723, 757–58,
5 128 S.Ct. 2229, 171 L.Ed.2d. 41 (2008) (citing Downes, 182 U.S. at 293, 21 S.Ct. 770). In Rabang v. I.N.S.,
6 35 F.3d. 1449 (9th Cir.1994), this court held that the Fourteenth Amendment's limitation of birthright
7 citizenship to those "born ... in the United States" did not extend citizenship to those born in the Philippines
8 during the period when it was an unincorporated territory. U.S. Const., 14th Amend., cl. 1; see Rabang, 35
9 F.3d. at 1451. Every court to have construed that clause's geographic limitation has agreed. See Valmonte v.
10 I.N.S., 136 F.3d. 914, 920–21 (2d Cir.1998); Lacap v. I.N.S., 138 F.3d. 518, 519 (3d Cir.1998); Licudine v.
11 Winter, 603 F.Supp.2d. 129, 134 (D.D.C.2009).

12 Like the constitutional clauses at issue in Rabang and Downes, the Naturalization Clause is expressly limited
13 to the "United States." This limitation "prevents its extension to every place over which the government
14 exercises its sovereignty." Rabang, 35 F.3d. at 1453. Because the Naturalization Clause did not follow the flag
15 to the CNMI when Congress approved the Covenant, the Clause does not require us to apply federal 16 immigration law to the CNMI prior to the CNRA's transition date.

- 21 8. "United States citizenship", 8 U.S.C. §1452(a). The "domicile" used in connection with federal statutes can only 22 mean federal territory not within any state because of the separation of powers. Therefore "United States" can only 23 mean "United States".

24 "Domicile and citizen are synonymous in federal courts. Earley v. Hershey Transit Co., D.C. Pa., 55 F.Supp.

7 Title 8 - Aliens and Nationality

8 (e) The term United States[*] means the several States, the District of Columbia, the Canal Zone, Puerto
9 Rico, the Virgin Islands, Guam, American Samoa, Swains Island, the Trust Territory of the Pacific Islands,
10 and all other territory and waters, continental and insular, subject to the jurisdiction of the United States[*].

11
12 "This section contemplates two sources of citizenship, and two sources only,—birth and naturalization. The 13 persons declared to be citizens are 'all persons born or naturalized in the United States, and subject to the 14 jurisdiction thereof.' The evident meaning of these last words is, not merely subject in some respect or degree
15 to the jurisdiction of the United States, but completely subject to their [plural, not singular, meaning states of 16 the Union] political jurisdiction, and owing them [the state of the Union] direct and immediate
17 allegiance. And the words relate to the time of birth in the one case, as they do [169 U.S. 649, 725] to the time
18 of naturalization in the other. Persons not thus subject to the jurisdiction of the United States at the time of birth 19 cannot become so afterwards, except by being naturalized, either individually, as by proceedings under the 20 naturalization acts, or collectively, as by the force of a treaty by which foreign territory is acquired."

33 "The 1st section of the 14th article [Fourteenth Amendment], to which our attention is more specifically invited,
34 opens with a definition of citizenship—not only citizenship of the United States[], but citizenship of the
35 states. No such definition was previously found in the Constitution, nor had any attempt been made to define it
36 by act of Congress. It had been the occasion of much discussion in the courts, by the executive departments and 37 in the public journals. It had been said by eminent judges that no man was a citizen of the United States[]
38 except as he was a citizen of one of the states composing the Union. Those therefore, who had been born and 39 resided always in the District of Columbia or in the territories, though within the United States[*], were not

11.8.6.3 Position on conflicting stare decisis from federal courts

We agree with the court authorities above because:

1. The term "citizen" as used in federal court means DOMICILE, not nationality. Delaware, L. & W.R. Co. v. Petrowsky, 2 Cir., 250 F. 554, 557. Earley v. Hershey Transit Co., 55 F.Supp. 981, D.C.PA. (1944).
2. Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 17(b) limits the applicability of federal civil law to those domiciled on federal territory and no place else. You can only be domiciled in ONE place at a time, and therefore ONLY be a STATUTORY "citizen" in EITHER the state or the national government but not both.
3. Those domiciled in a state of the Union:
 - 3.1. Are NOT domiciled within the exclusive jurisdiction of Congress and hence are not subject to federal civil law.
 - 3.2. Cannot have a civil statutory STATUS under the laws of Congress to which any obligations attach, especially including "citizen" without such a federal domicile.
4. "citizen" as used in 8 U.S.C. §1101(a)(22)(A) cannot SIMULTANEOUSLY be a STATUTORY/CIVIL status AND a CONSTITUTIONAL/POLITICAL status. It MUST be ONE or the other in the context of this statute. This is so because:
 - 4.1. "United States" in the constitution is limited to states of the Union.
 - 4.2. "United States" in federal statutes is limited to federal territory and excludes states of the Union for every title OTHER than Title 8. See 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(9) and (a)(10).

The federal courts are OBLIGATED to recognize, allow, and provide a STATUS under Title 8 for those who STARTED OUT as STATUTORY "citizens of the United States", including those under 8 U.S.C. §1401 ("nationals and citizens of

1 the United States”), and who decided to abandon ALL privileges, benefits, and immunities to restore their sovereignty as
2 CONSTITUTIONAL but not STATUTORY “citizens”. This absolute right is supported by the following maxims of law:

3 Invito beneficium non datur. No one is obliged to accept a benefit against his consent. Dig. 50, 17, 69. But if he
4 does not dissent he will be considered as assenting. Vide Assent.

5 Potest quis renunciare pro se, et suis, juri quod pro se introductum est. A man may relinquish, for himself and 6 his heirs, a right which was introduced for his own benefit. See 1 Bouv. Inst. n. 83.

7 Quilibet potest renunciare juri pro se inducto. Any one may renounce a law introduced for his own benefit. To 8 this rule there are some exceptions. See 1 Bouv. Inst. n. 83.
9 [Bouvier's Maxims of Law, 1856
10 SOURCE: <http://famguardian.o...viersMaxims.htm>]

11 In addition to the above maxims of law on “benefits”, it is an unconstitutional deprivation to turn CONSTITUTIONAL
12 rights into STATUTORY privileges under what the U.S. Supreme Court calls the “Unconstitutional Conditions Doctrine”.

13 "It has long been established that a State may not impose a penalty upon those who exercise a right guaranteed
14 by the Constitution." Frost & Frost Trucking Co. v. Railroad Comm'n of California, 271 U.S. 583.
15 "Constitutional rights would be of little value if they could be indirectly denied,' Smith v. Allwright, 321 U.S.
16 649, 644, or manipulated out of existence,' Gomillion v. Lightfoot, 364 U.S. 339, 345."
17 [Harman v. Forssenius, 380 U.S. 528 at 540, 85 S.Ct. 1177, 1185 (1965)]

18 An attempt to label someone with a civil status under federal statutory law against their will would certainly fall within in 19 the Unconstitutional Conditions Doctrine. See:

Government Instituted Slavery Using Franchises, Form #05.030, Section 28.2
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

20 Furthermore, if the Declaration of Independence says that Constitutional rights are Unalienable, then they are INCAPABLE
21 of being sold, given away, or transferred even WITH the consent of the PRIVATE owner.

22 *"We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator
23 with certain unalienable Rights, that among these are Life, Liberty and the pursuit of Happiness.--That to*
24 secure these rights, Governments are instituted among Men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the 25 governed, -"
26 [Declaration of Independence]

27 "Unalienable. Inalienable; incapable of being aliened, that is, sold and transferred."
28 [Black's Law Dictionary, Fourth Edition, p. 1693]

29 Some people argue that the Declaration of Independence cited above is not “LAW” and they are wrong. The very first 30 enactment of Congress on p. 1 of volume 1 of the Statutes At Large incorporated the Declaration of Independence as the 31 laws of this country.

32 The only place that UNALIENABLE CONSTITUTIONAL rights can be given away, is where they don't exist, which is
33 among those domiciled AND present on federal territory, where everything is a STATUTORY PRIVILEGE and PUBLIC
34 right and there are no PRIVATE rights except by Congressional grant/privilege.

35 "Indeed, the practical interpretation put by Congress upon the Constitution has been long continued and
36 *uniform to the effect [182 U.S. 244, 279] that the Constitution is applicable to territories acquired by purchase
37 or conquest, only when and so far as Congress shall so direct. Notwithstanding its duty to 'guarantee to every
38 state in this Union a republican form of government' (art. 4, 4), by which we understand, according to the
39 definition of Webster, 'a government in which the supreme power resides in the whole body of the people,
40 and is exercised by representatives elected by them.' Congress did not hesitate, in the original organization of*
41 the territories of Louisiana, Florida, the Northwest Territory, and its subdivisions of Ohio, Indiana,
42 Michigan, Illinois, and Wisconsin and still more recently in the case of Alaska, to establish a form of
43 government bearing a much greater analogy to a British Crown colony than a republican state of America,
44 and to vest the legislative power either in a governor and council, or a governor and judges, to be appointed by
45 the President. It was not until they had attained a certain population that power was given them to organize a
46 legislature by vote of the people. In all these cases, as well as in territories subsequently organized west of the
47 Mississippi, Congress thought it necessary either to extend to Constitution and laws of the United States over
48 them, or to declare that the inhabitants should be entitled to enjoy the right of trial by jury, of bail, and of the
49 privilege of the writ of habeas corpus, as well as other privileges of the bill of rights."

11.8.6.4 Challenge to those who disagree

Those who would argue with the conclusions of section 11.8.5 (such a federal judge) are challenged to answer the following questions WITHOUT contradicting either themselves OR the law. We guarantee they can't do it. However, our answers to the following questions are the only way to avoid conflict. Those answers appear in the next section, in fact. Anything that conflicts with itself or the law simply cannot be true.

1. If the Declaration of Independence says that ALL just powers of government derive ONLY from our consent and we don't consent to ANYTHING, then aren't the criminal laws the ONLY thing that can be enforced against nonconsenting parties, since they don't require our consent to enforce?
2. Certainly, if we DO NOT want "protection" or "benefits, privileges, and immunities" of being a STATUTORY/CIVIL citizen domiciled on federal territory, then there ought to be a way to abandon it and the obligation to pay for it, at least temporarily, right?
3. If the word "permanent" in the phrase "permanent allegiance" is in fact conditioned on our consent and is therefore technically NOT "permanent", as revealed in 8 U.S.C. §1101(a)(31), can't we revoke it either temporarily or conditionally as long as we specify the conditions in advance or the specific laws we have it for and those we don't?

8 U.S.C. §1101 Definitions [for the purposes of citizenship]

(a) As used in this chapter—

(31) The term "permanent" means a relationship of continuing or lasting nature, as distinguished from temporary, but a relationship may be permanent even though it is one that may be dissolved eventually at the instance either of the United States or of the individual, in accordance with law.

4. If the separation of powers does not permit federal civil jurisdiction within states, how could the statutory status of "citizen" carry any federal obligations whatsoever for those domiciled within a constitutional state and outside of federal territory?
5. If domicile is what imparts the "force of law" to civil statutes per Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 17 and we don't have a domicile on federal territory, then how could we in turn have any CIVIL status under the laws of Congress, INCLUDING that of "citizen"?
6. Isn't a "non-resident non-person" just someone who refuses to be a customer of specific services offered by government using the civil statutory law? Why can't I choose to be a non-resident for specific franchises or interactions because I don't consent to procure the product or service.⁸¹
7. If the "citizen of the United States at birth" under 8 U.S.C. §1401 involves TWO components, being "national" and "citizen", can't we just abandon the "citizen" part for specific transactions by withdrawing consent and allegiance for those transactions or relationships? Wouldn't we do that by simply changing our domicile to be outside of federal territory, since civil status is tied to domicile?

citizen. One who, under the Constitution and laws of the United States[], or of a particular state, is a member of the political community, owing allegiance and being entitled to the enjoyment of full civil

⁸¹ Earlier versions of the following regulation prove this:

26 C.F.R. §301.7701-5 Domestic, foreign, resident, and nonresident persons.

A domestic corporation is one organized or created in the United States, including only the States (and during the periods when not States, the Territories of Alaska and Hawaii), and the District of Columbia, or under the law of the United States or of any State or Territory. A foreign corporation is one which is not domestic. A domestic corporation is a resident corporation even though it does no business and owns no property in the United States. A foreign corporation engaged in trade or business within the United States is referred to in the regulations in this chapter as a resident foreign corporation, and a foreign corporation not engaged in trade or business within the United States, as a nonresident foreign corporation. A partnership engaged in trade or business within the United States is referred to in the regulations in this chapter as a resident partnership, and a partnership not engaged in trade or business within the United States, as a nonresident partnership. Whether a partnership is to be regarded as resident or nonresident is not determined by the nationality or residence of its members or by the place in which it was created or organized.

- 22 9. If I'm not allowed to abandon the civil protection of Caesar and the obligation to pay for it and I am FORCED to obey
23 Caesar's "social compact" and franchise called the CIVIL law and am FORCED to be privileged and a civil "subject",
24 isn't there:

25 9.1. An unconstitutional taking without compensation of all the PUBLIC rights attached to the statutory status of 26 "citizen" if we do not consent to the status?

27 9.2. Involuntary servitude?

- 28 10. What if I define what they call "protection" NOT as a "benefit" but an "injury"? Who is the customer here? The 29 CUSTOMER should be the only one who defines what a "benefit" is and only has to pay for it if HE defines it as a
30 "benefit".

- 31 11. The U.S. government claims to have sovereign immunity that allows it to pick and choose which statutes they consent
32 to be subject to. See Alden v. Maine, 527 U.S. 706 (1999).

33 11.1. Under the concept of equal protection and equal treatment, why doesn't EVERY "person" or at least HUMAN
34 BEING have the SAME sovereign immunity? If the government is one of delegated powers, how did they get it
35 without the INDIVIDUAL HUMANS who delegated it to them ALSO having it?

36 11.2. Why isn't that SAME government subject to the Foreign Sovereign Immunities Act, 28 U.S.C. Chapter 97 and 37 suffer a waiver of sovereign immunity in state court when it tries to commercially invade a constitutional state
38 against the consent of a specific inhabitant who is protected by the Constitution?

39 11.3. Isn't a STATUTORY "citizen" just a CUSTOMER of government services?

40 11.4. Shouldn't that CUSTOMER have the SAME right to NOT be a customer for specific services, franchises, or titles
41 of code? Isn't the essence of FREEDOM CHOICE and exclusive CONTROL over your own PRIVATE property 42 and what you consent to buy and pay for?

43 11.5. Isn't it a conspiracy against rights to PUNISH me by withdrawing ALL government services all at once if I don't 44 consent to EVERYTHING, every FRANCHISE, and every DUTY arbitrarily imposed against "citizens" by 45 government? That's how the current system works. Government REFUSES to recognize those such as state
46 nationals who are unprivileged and terrorizes them and STEALS from them because they refuse to waive
47 sovereign immunity and accept the disabilities of being a STATUTORY "citizen".

48 11.6. What business OTHER than government as a corporation can lawfully force you and punish you for refusing to 49 be a customer for EVERYTHING they make or starve to death and go to jail for not doing so? Isn't this an 50 unconstitutional Title of Nobility? Other businesses and even I aren't allowed to have the same right against the 51 government and are therefore deprived of equal protection and equal treatment under the CONSTITUTION
52 instead of statutory law.

- 53 12. If the First Amendment allows for freedom from compelled association, why do I have to be the SAME status for 54 EVERY individual interaction with the government? Why can't I, for instance be all the following at the same time?:

55 12.1. A POLITICAL but not STATUTORY/CIVIL "citizen of the United States" under Title 8?

1 12.2. A “nonresident” for every other Title of the U.S. Code because I don’t want the “benefits” or protections of the 2 other titles?

3 12.3. A “nonresident non-person” for every act of Congress.

4 12.4. No domicile on federal territory or within the STATUTORY United States and therefore immune from federal
5 civil law under Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 17(b) .

6 12.5. A PRIVATE “person” only under the common law with a domicile on private land protected by the constitution
7 but OUTSIDE “the State”, which is a federal corporation? Only those who are public officers have a domicile
8 within the STATUTORY “State” and only while on official duty pursuant to 4 U.S.C. §72. When off duty, their
9 domicile shifts to OUTSIDE that STATUTORY “State”.

10 13. Is the “citizen” in Title 8 of the U.S. Code the same “citizen” that obligations attach to under Titles 26 and 31? Could
11 Congress have instead created an office and a franchise with the same name of “citizen of the United States” under 12 Title 26, imposed duties upon it, and fooled everyone into thinking it is the same “citizen” as the one in Title 8?

13 14. If the Bible says that Christians can’t consent to anything Caesar does or have contracts with him (Exodus 23:32-33,
14 Judges 2:1-4), then how could I lawfully have any discretionary status under Caesar’s laws such as STATUTORY
15 “citizen”? The Bible says I can’t have a king above me.

16 “Owe no one anything [including ALLEGIANCE], except to love one another; for he who loves his neighbor 17 has fulfilled the law.”
18 [Romans 13:8, Bible, NKJV]

19 15. If the Bible says that GOD bought us for a price and therefore OWNS us, then by what authority does Caesar claim
20 ownership or the right to extract “rent” called “income tax” upon what belongs to God? Isn’t Caesar therefore simply 21 renting out STOLEN property and laundering money if he charges “taxes” on the use of that which belongs to God?

22 “For you were bought [by Christ] at a price [His blood]; therefore glorify God in your body and in your spirit,
23 which are God’s [property].”
24 [1 Cor. 6:20, Bible, NKJV]

32 Lastly, please do not try to challenge the content of this section WITHOUT first reading the above debates IN THEIR
33 entirety. We and the Sovereignty Education and Defense Ministry (SEDM) HATE having to waste our time repeating 34 ourselves.

35 11.8.6.5 Our answers to the Challenge

36 It would be unreasonable for us to ask anything of our readers that we ourselves wouldn’t be equally obligated to do.
37 Below are our answers to the challenge in the previous section. They are entirely consistent with ALL the organic law, the 38 rulings of the U.S. Supreme Court, and the Bible. We allege that they are also the ONLY way to answer the challenge
39 without contradicting yourself and thereby proving you are a LIAR, a THIEF, a terrorist, and an identity thief engaged in 40 human trafficking of people’s legal identity to what Mark Twain called “the District of Criminals”.

41 1. QUESTION: If the Declaration of Independence says that ALL just powers of government derive ONLY from our
42 consent and we don’t consent to ANYTHING, then aren’t the criminal laws the ONLY thing that can be enforced
43 against nonconsenting parties, since they don’t require our consent to enforce?

44 OUR ANSWER: Yes.

45 2. QUESTION: Certainly, if we DO NOT want “protection” or “benefits, privileges, and immunities” of being a
46 STATUTORY/CIVIL citizen domiciled on federal territory, then there ought to be a way to abandon it and the 47 obligation to pay for it, at least temporarily, right?

48 OUR ANSWER: Yes. Absolutely. One can be protected by the COMMON law WITHOUT being a “person” under 49 the CIVIL law. If one has a right to NOT contract and NOT associate, then that right BEGINS with the right to not procure ANY civil statutory status under what the U.S. Supreme Court calls “the social compact”. All compacts are contracts. Yet that doesn’t make such a person “lawless” because they are still subject to the COMMON law, which hasn’t been repealed.

3. QUESTION: If the word “permanent” in the phrase “permanent allegiance” is in fact conditioned on our consent and is therefore technically NOT “permanent”, as revealed in 8 U.S.C. §1101(a)(31), can’t we revoke it either temporarily or conditionally as long as we specify the conditions in advance or the specific laws we have it for and those we don’t? OUR ANSWER: Yes. All that is required is to notice the government that you don’t consent. Everything beyond that point becomes a tort under the common law.
4. QUESTION: If the separation of powers does not permit federal civil jurisdiction within states, how could the statutory status of “citizen” carry any federal obligations whatsoever for those domiciled within a constitutional state and outside of federal territory? OUR ANSWER: They don’t. Federal civil and criminal law has no bearing upon anyone OTHER than public officers within a constitutional state. Those officers, in turn, come under federal civil law by virtue of the domicile of the OFFICE they represent and their CONSENT to occupy said office under 4 U.S.C. §72 and Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 17. Otherwise, rule 17 forbids quoting federal civil law against a state citizen domiciled OUTSIDE of federal territory.
5. QUESTION: If domicile is what imparts the “force of law” to civil statutes per Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 17 and we don’t have a domicile on federal territory, then how could we in turn have any CIVIL status under the laws of Congress, INCLUDING that of “citizen” or “resident”? OUR ANSWER: You CAN’T. The only reason people believe otherwise is because of propaganda and untrustworthy publications of the government designed to destroy the separation of powers that is the foundation of the Constitution.⁸²
6. QUESTION: Isn’t a “nonresident non-person” just someone who refuses to be a customer of specific services offered by government using the civil statutory code/franchise? Why can’t I choose to be a nonresident for specific franchises or interactions because I don’t consent to procure the product or service.⁸³ OUR ANSWER: Yes. You can opt out of specific franchise by changing your status under each franchise. They all must act independently or the Unconstitutional Conditions Doctrine is violated.⁸⁴
7. QUESTION: If the “national and citizen of the United States at birth” under 8 U.S.C. §1401 involves TWO components, being “national” and “citizen”, why can’t we just abandon the “citizen” part for specific transactions by withdrawing consent and allegiance for those transactions or relationships? Wouldn’t we do that by simply changing our domicile to be outside of federal territory, since civil status is tied to domicile? OUR ANSWER: Yes. You own yourself and your property. That right of ownership includes the right to exclude all others, including governments, from using or benefitting from the use of your property. See:

Your Exclusive Right to Declare or Establish Your Civil Status, Form #13.008 http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm

8. QUESTION: How can the government claim we have an obligation to pay for protection we don’t want if it is a maxim of the common law that we may REFUSE to accept a “benefit”?

⁸³ Earlier versions of the following regulation prove this:

26 C.F.R. §301.7701-5 Domestic, foreign, resident, and nonresident persons.

*A domestic corporation is one organized or created in the United States, including only the States (and during the periods when not States, the Territories of Alaska and Hawaii), and the District of Columbia, or under the law of the United States or of any State or Territory. A foreign corporation is one which is not domestic. A domestic corporation is a resident corporation even though it does no business and owns no property in the United States. A foreign corporation engaged in trade or business within the United States is referred to in the regulations in this chapter as a resident foreign corporation, and a foreign corporation not engaged in trade or business within the United States, as a nonresident foreign corporation. A partnership engaged in trade or business within the United States is referred to in the regulations in this chapter as a resident partnership, and a partnership not engaged in trade or business within the United States, as a nonresident partnership. Whether a partnership is to be regarded as resident or nonresident is not determined by the nationality or residence of its members or by the place in which it was created or organized.

1 OUR ANSWER: They don't have the authority to demand that we buy or pay for anything that we don't want. It's a
2 crime to claim otherwise in violation of:

3 8.1. The Fifth Amendment takings clause.

4 8.2. Extortion, 18 U.S.C. §872.

5 8.3. Mailing threatening communications, if they try to collect it, 18 U.S.C. §876.

- 7 9. QUESTION: If I'm not allowed to abandon the civil protection of Caesar and the obligation to pay for it and I am
8 FORCED to obey Caesar's "social compact" and franchise called the CIVIL law and am FORCED to be privileged and 9 a civil "subject", isn't there:

10 OUR ANSWER:

11 9.1. An unconstitutional taking without compensation of all the PUBLIC rights attached to the statutory status of 12 "citizen" if we do not consent to the status?

13 OUR ANSWER: Yes.

14 9.2. Involuntary servitude?

15 OUR ANSWER: Yes.

- 16 10. QUESTION: What if I define what they call "protection" NOT as a "benefit" but an "injury"? Who is the customer
17 here? The CUSTOMER should be the only one who defines what a "benefit" is and only has to pay for it if HE defines 18 it as a "benefit".

19 OUR ANSWER: YOU the sovereign are the "customer". The customer is always right. A government of delegated
20 powers can have not more powers or sovereignty than the INDIVIDUAL PRIVATE HUMANS who make it up and 21 whom it "serves".

- 22 11. The U.S. government claims to have sovereign immunity that allows it to pick and choose which statutes they consent
23 to be subject to. See Alden v. Maine, 527 U.S. 706 (1999).

24 11.1. QUESTION: Under the concept of equal protection and equal treatment, why doesn't EVERY "person" or at 25 least HUMAN BEING have the SAME sovereign immunity? If the government is one of delegated powers, how 26 did they get it without the INDIVIDUAL HUMANS who delegated it to them ALSO having it?

27 OUR ANSWER: Yes. Humans also have sovereign immunity. Only their own consent and actions can 28 undermine or remove that sovereignty. It's insane and schizophrenic to conclude that a government of delegated
29 powers can have any more sovereignty than the humans who made it up or delegated that power. Likewise, it's a
30 violation of maxims of law to conclude that the COLLECTIVE can have any more rights than a SINGLE
31 HUMAN.⁸⁵

32 11.2. QUESTION: Why isn't that SAME government subject to the Foreign Sovereign Immunities Act, 28 U.S.C.
33 Chapter 97 and suffer a waiver of sovereign immunity in state court when it tries to commercially invade a
34 constitutional state against the consent of a specific inhabitant who is protected by the Constitution?

35 OUR ANSWER: They are. To suggest that they can pass any law that they themselves are not ALSO subject to 36 in the context of those protected by the constitution amounts to an unconstitutional Title of Nobility to the 37 "United States" federal corporation as a legal person.

38 11.3. QUESTION: Isn't a STATUTORY "citizen" just a CUSTOMER of government services?

39 OUR ANSWER: Yes. The "services" derived by this customer are called "privileges and immunities". Those 40 who aren't "customers" are: 1. "non-resident non-persons"; 2. Not "subjects". 3. Immune from the civil statutory
41 law under Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 17; 4. Protected only by the common law under principles of equity
42 and the constitution alone.

43 11.4. QUESTION: Shouldn't that CUSTOMER have the SAME right to NOT be a customer for specific services,
44 franchises, or titles of code? Isn't the essence of FREEDOM CHOICE and exclusive CONTROL over your own
45 PRIVATE property and what you consent to buy and pay for?

46 OUR ANSWER: Yes. The main purpose of any government is to protect your EXCLUSIVE ownership over
47 your PRIVATE property and the right to deprive ANYONE and EVERYONE from using or benefitting from the 48 use of your PRIVATE property. If they won't do that, then there IS not government, but just a big corporation
49 employer in which the citizen/government relationship has been replaced by the EMPLOYER/EMPLOYEE
50 relationship. That's the essence of what "ownership" is legally defined as: The RIGHT to exclude others. If you
51 can exclude everyone BUT the government, and they can exclude you without your consent, then THEY are the 52 real owner and you are just a public officer employee acting as a custodian over what is REALLY government property. Hence, the government is SOCIALIST, because socialism is based on GOVERNMENT ownership and/or control of ALL property or NO private property at all.

11.5. QUESTION: Isn't it a conspiracy against rights to PUNISH me by withdrawing ALL government services all at once if I don't consent to EVERYTHING, every FRANCHISE, and every DUTY arbitrarily imposed against "citizens" by government? That's how the current system works. Government REFUSES to recognize those such as state nationals who are unprivileged and terrorizes them and STEALS from them because they refuse to waive sovereign immunity and accept the disabilities of being a STATUTORY "citizen".

OUR ANSWER: Yes, absolutely. Under such a malicious enforcement mechanism, uncoerced consent is literally and rationally IMPOSSIBLE.

11.6. QUESTION: What business OTHER than government as a corporation can lawfully force you and punish you for refusing to be a customer for EVERYTHING they make or starve to death and go to jail for not doing so? Isn't this an unconstitutional Title of Nobility? Other businesses and even I aren't allowed to have the same right against the government and are therefore deprived of equal protection and equal treatment under the CONSTITUTION instead of statutory law.

OUR ANSWER: No other business can do that or should be able to do that, and hence, the government has "supernatural" and "superior powers" and has established not only a Title of Nobility, but a RELIGION in which "taxes" become unconstitutional tithes to a state-sponsored religion, civil rulers are "gods" with supernatural powers, you are the compelled "worshipper", and "court" is the church building.⁸⁶

12. QUESTION: If the First Amendment allows for freedom from compelled association, why do I have to be the SAME status for EVERY individual interaction with the government? Why can't I, for instance be all the following at the same time?:

OUR ANSWER:

12.1. QUESTION: A POLITICAL but not STATUTORY/CIVIL "citizen of the United States" under Title 8?

OUR ANSWER: You can.

12.2. QUESTION: A "nonresident" for every other Title of the U.S. Code because I don't want the "benefits" or protections of the other titles?

OUR ANSWER: You can. Under the Uniform Commercial Code, YOU can be a Merchant in relation to every government franchise selling YOUR private property to the government, and specifying terms that SUPERSEDED or replace the government's author. If they can offer franchises, you can defend yourself with ANTI-FRANCHISES under the concept of equal protection.

12.3. QUESTION: A "nonresident non-person" for every act of Congress.

OUR ANSWER: Yes. Domicile outside of federal territory makes one a nonresident and transient foreign under federal civil law, unless already a public officer lawfully serving in an elected or appointed position WITHIN a constitutional state.

12.4. QUESTION: No domicile on federal territory or within the STATUTORY United States and therefore immune from federal civil law under Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 17(b) .

OUR ANSWER: Yes. Absolutely. Choice of law rules and criminal "identity theft" occurs if rule 17 is transgressed and you are made involuntary surety for a public office called "citizen" domiciled in what Mark Twain calls "the District of Criminals".

12.5. QUESTION: A PRIVATE "person" only under the common law with a domicile on private land protected by the constitution but OUTSIDE "the State", which is a federal corporation? Only those who are public officers have a domicile within the STATUTORY "State" and only while on official duty pursuant to 4 U.S.C. §72. When off duty, their domicile shifts to OUTSIDE that STATUTORY "State".

OUR ANSWER: Yes. By refusing to consent to the privileges or benefits of STATUTORY citizenship, you retain your sovereign immunity, retain ALL your constitutional rights, and are victim of a tort of the federal government refuses to leave you alone. The right to be left alone, in fact, is the very DEFINITION of justice itself and the purpose of courts it to promote and protect justice.⁸⁷

13. QUESTION: Is the "citizen" in Title 8 of the U.S. Code the same "citizen" that obligations attach to under Titles 26 and 31? Could Congress have instead created an office and a franchise with the same name of "citizen of the United States" under Title 26, imposed duties upon it, and fooled everyone into thinking it is the same "citizen" as the one in

- 16 14. QUESTION: If the Bible says that Christians can't consent to anything Caesar does or have contracts with him
17 (Exodus 23:32-33, Judges 2:1-4), then how could I lawfully have any discretionary status under Caesar's laws such as 18 STATUTORY "citizen"? The Bible says I can't have a king above me.
19 OUR ANSWER: Those not domiciled on federal territory and who refuse to accept or consent to any civil status under 20 Caesar's laws retain their sovereign and sovereign immunity and therefore are on an EQUAL footing with any and 21 every government. They are neither a "subject" nor a "citizen", but also are not "lawless" because they are still subject
22 to the COMMON law and must be dealt with ONLY as an EQUAL in relation to everyone else, rather than a
23 government SLAVE or SUBJECT. See Exodus 23:32-33, Isaiah 52:1-3, and Judges 2:1-4 on why God forbids
24 Christians to consent to ANYTHING government/Caesarea does, and why this implies that they can't be anything
25 OTHER than equal and sovereign in relation to Caesar.
- 26 15. QUESTION: If the Bible says that GOD bought us for a price and therefore OWNS us, then by what authority does 27 Caesar claim ownership or the right to extract "rent" called "income tax" upon what belongs to God? Where is the 28 separation of church and state in THAT? Isn't Caesar therefore simply renting out STOLEN property and laundering
29 money if he charges "taxes" on the use of property which belongs to God?
30 OUR ANSWER: Yes he is according to God. The Holy Bible says the Heaven and the Earth belong NOT to Caesar,
31 but the God. Deut. 10:15. Caesar, on the other hand, falsely claims that HE owns everything by "divine right", which 32 means he STOLE the ownership from God. Like Satan, he is a THIEF. He is renting out STOLEN property and 33 therefore MONEY LAUNDERING in violation of God's laws.

34 11.9 Applicability of IRS Presumption Rules in 26 C.F.R. §1.1441-1(b)(3)

35 IRS Presumption Rules found in 26 C.F.R. §1.1441-1(b)(3) do NOT apply unless and until the government satisfies the 36 burden of proving the following:

- 37 1. The owner of the property is a statutory "alien", and therefore "individual" (26 C.F.R. §1.1441-1(c)(3)) and "person"
38 (26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(1)). You cannot be a "payee" who has ANY duty a "withholding agent" to prove ANYTHING
39 WITHOUT FIRST being a statutory "person" and therefore an "alien".

4. Meaning of Words

The word "private" when it appears in front of other entity names such as "person", "individual", "business", "employee", "employer", etc. shall imply that the entity is:

1. In possession of absolute, exclusive ownership and control over their own labor, body, and all their property. In Roman Law this was called "dominium".
2. On an EQUAL rather than inferior relationship to government in court. This means that they have no obligations to any government OTHER than possibly the duty to serve on jury and vote upon voluntary acceptance of the obligations of the civil status of "citizen" (and the DOMICILE that creates it). Otherwise, they are entirely free and unregulated unless and until they INJURE the equal rights of another under the common law.
3. A "nonresident" in relation to the state and federal government.
4. Not a PUBLIC entity defined within any state or federal statutory law. This includes but is not limited to statutory "person", "individual", "taxpayer", "driver", "spouse" under any under any civil statute or franchise.
5. Not engaged in a public office or "trade or business" (per 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(26)). Such offices include but are not limited to statutory "person", "individual", "taxpayer", "driver", "spouse" under any civil statute or franchise.
6. Not consenting to contract with or acquire any public status, public privilege, or public right under any state or federal franchise. For instance, the phrase "private employee" means a common law worker that is NOT the statutory "employee" defined within 26 U.S.C. §3401(c) or 26 C.F.R. §301.3401(c)-1 or any other federal or state law or statute.
7. Not sharing ownership or control of their body or property with anyone, and especially a government. In other words, ownership is not "qualified" but "absolute".
8. Not subject to civil enforcement or regulation of any kind, except AFTER an injury to the equal rights of others has occurred. Preventive rather than corrective regulation is an unlawful taking of property according to the Fifth Amendment takings clause.

Every attempt by anyone in government to alienate rights that the Declaration of Independence says are UNALIENABLE shall also be treated as "PRIVATE BUSINESS ACTIVITY" that cannot be protected by sovereign, official, or judicial immunity. So called "government" cannot make a profitable business or franchise out of alienating inalienable rights without ceasing to be a classical/de jure government and instead becoming in effect an economic terrorist and de facto government in violation of Article 4, Section 4.

"No servant [or government or biological person] can serve two masters; for either he will hate the one and love the other, or else he will be loyal to the one and despise the other. You cannot serve God and mammon [government]."

3. The owner of the property was acting as a public officer on official business and therefore was subject to regulations and supervision. The reason for this is explained in:

Why Your Government is Either a Thief or You are a "Public Officer" for Income Tax Purposes, Form #05.008
<https://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

The above is consistent with the following holding by the U.S. Supreme Court, in referencing "congressionally created rights", meaning statutory privileges:

1 “The distinction between public rights and private rights has not been definitively explained in our
2 precedents.⁸⁸ Nor is it necessary to do so in the present cases, for it suffices to observe that a matter of public
3 rights must at a minimum arise “between the government and others.” Ex parte Bakelite Corp., supra, at 451,
4 49 S.Ct., at 413.⁸⁹ In contrast, “the liability of one individual to another under the law as defined,” Crowell v.
5 Benson, supra, at 51, 52 S.Ct., at 292, is a matter of private rights. Our precedents clearly establish that only
6 controversies in the former category may be removed from Art. III courts and delegated to legislative courts or 7 administrative agencies for their determination. See Atlas Roofing Co. v. Occupational Safety and Health
8 Review Comm’n, 430 U.S. 442, 450, n. 7, 97 S.Ct. 1261, 1266, n. 7, 51 L.Ed.2d. 464 (1977); Crowell v. Benson,
9 supra, 285 U.S., at 50-51, 52 S.Ct., at 292. See also Katz, Federal Legislative Courts, 43 Harv.L.Rev. 894, 917-
10 918 (1930).^{FN24} Private-rights disputes, on the other hand, lie at the core of the historically recognized 11 judicial power.”

12 [. . .]

13 Although Crowell and Raddatz do not explicitly distinguish between rights created by Congress and other
14 rights, such a distinction underlies in part Crowell's and Raddatz' recognition of a critical difference between 15 rights created by federal statute and rights recognized by the Constitution. Moreover, such a distinction seems 16 to us to be necessary in light of the delicate accommodations required by the principle of separation of powers
17 reflected in Art. III. The constitutional system of checks and balances is designed to guard against 18 “encroachment or aggrandizement” by Congress at the expense of the other branches of government. Buckley
19 v. Valeo, 424 U.S., at 122, 96 S.Ct., at 683. But when Congress creates a statutory right [a “privilege” in this
20 case, such as a “trade or business”], it clearly has the discretion, in defining that right, to create
21 presumptions, or assign burdens of proof, or prescribe remedies; it may also provide that persons seeking to
22 vindicate that right must do so before particularized tribunals created to perform the specialized adjudicative
23 tasks related to that right.^{FN35} Such provisions do, in a sense, affect the exercise of judicial power, but they 24 are also incidental to Congress' power to define the right that it has created. No comparable justification exists,
25 however, when the right being adjudicated is not of congressional creation. In such a situation, substantial
26 inroads into functions that have traditionally been performed by the Judiciary cannot be characterized merely 27 as incidental extensions of Congress' power to define rights that it has created. Rather, such inroads suggest
28 unwarranted encroachments upon the judicial power of the United States, which our Constitution reserves for 29 Art. III courts.

32 12 Mens Rea: Precedence of Laws as a Source of Authoritative Belief⁹⁰

33 Every criminal trial requires the establishment of “mens rea” or evil intent, in order to successfully prosecute the action.
34 Before one can have evil intent, they must KNOW that they are violating a positive law criminal statute and do so willfully
35 and intentionally. By positive law, we mean a statute which is specifically identified as legally admissible evidence. In 36 order to challenge jurisdiction in such a setting, the defendant must be able to prove that the criminal statute cited by the 37 prosecution is NOT legally admissible evidence and therefore constitutes an INVALID source of reasonable belief about
38 the criminal liability sought to be enforced. This section therefore establishes the basis for establishing a reasonable belief
39 about how one can KNOW that a specific statute is reliable positive law that is admissible evidence in court.

⁸⁸ Crowell v. Benson, 285 U.S. 22, 52 S.Ct. 285, 76 L.Ed. 598 (1932), attempted to catalog some of the matters that fall within the public-rights doctrine:

“Familiar illustrations of administrative agencies created for the determination of such matters are found in connection with the exercise of the congressional power as to interstate and foreign commerce, taxation, immigration, the public lands, public health, the facilities of the post office, pensions and payments to veterans.” Id., at 51, 52 S.Ct., at 292 (footnote omitted).

⁸⁹ Congress cannot “withdraw from [Art. III] judicial cognizance any matter which, from its nature, is the subject of a suit at the common law, or in equity, or admiralty.” Murray's Lessee v. Hoboken Land & Improvement Co., 18 How. 272, 284 (1856) (emphasis added). It is thus clear that the presence of the United States as a proper party to the proceeding is a necessary but not sufficient means of distinguishing “private rights” from “public rights.” And it is also clear that even with respect to matters that arguably fall within the scope of the “public rights” doctrine, the presumption is in favor of Art. III courts. See Glidden Co. v. Zdanok, 370 U.S., at 548-549, and n. 21, 82 S.Ct., at 1471-1472, and n. 21 (opinion of Harlan, J.). See also Currie, The Federal Courts and the American Law Institute, Part 1, 36 U.Chi.L.Rev. 1, 13-14, n. 67 (1968). Moreover, when Congress assigns these matters to administrative agencies, or to legislative courts, it has generally provided, and we have suggested that it may be required to provide, for Art. III judicial review. See Atlas Roofing Co. v. Occupational Safety and Health Review Comm’n, 430 U.S., at 455, n. 13, 97 S.Ct., at 1269, n. 13.

4 The precedence and hierarchy of law, like the hierarchy of sovereignty described in section 4.1 of the Great IRS Hoax,
5 Form #11.302 on Natural Order, follows the sequence that it is created.

- 6 1. The Common Law trumps all statutory law, and is the primary vehicle used for the protection of PRIVATE RIGHTS.
7 Statutory civil law protects only PUBLIC RIGHTS and all those subject to it are franchisees and public officers within 8 the government. See:

- 9 2. Where there are conflicts of law, the U.S. Constitution is the Supreme Law of the Land because it was created first by 10 the sovereign people. It says so right in the document itself.

11 "This Constitution, and the Laws of the United States which shall be made in Pursuance thereof; and all
12 Treaties made, or which shall be made, under the Authority of the United States, shall be the supreme Law of 13 the Land; and the Judges in every State shall be bound thereby, any Thing in the Constitution or Laws of any 14 state to the Contrary notwithstanding."
15 [Article VI, United States Constitution]

- 16 3. State law takes precedence over federal statutory law. Only "federal questions" may be entertained in federal court, all 17 of which involve federal property, federal territory, and those domiciled on federal territory. See 28 U.S.C. §1652,
18 Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 17\(b\).
19 4. The Statutes at Large (S.A.L.) have the next highest precedence, because they are created by Congress from the 20 authority derived from the U.S. Constitution.
21 5. Next comes the U.S. Code, which implements the Statutes at Large. Some titles are enacted into positive law while 22 others, such as the Internal Revenue Code, Title 26, are not. Titles of the code that are not enacted into positive law are 23 only prima facie evidence of law that can be rebutted using the Statutes at Large from which they are derived.
24 6. The U.S. Code is interpreted by Executive Branch agencies to formulate proposed regulations, which are then 25 published in the Federal Register under the authority of the Federal Register Act, 44 U.S.C. Chapter 15.
26 7. A subset of the regulations and forms that have been published in the Federal Register are then codified and organized
27 by subject matter within the Code of Federal Regulations \(C.F.R.\). The titles of the Code of Federal Regulations
28 mirror those of the U.S. Code, for the most part, but in some cases are different.
29 8. The Code of Federal Regulations \(C.F.R.\) then takes precedence over agency publications that implement it. Every 30 IRS publications are not law, do not confer rights, and people who use them as a basis for belief can be fined and 31 sanctioned by the courts. See:

32 Understanding this hierarchy is very important when one considers the definitions of terms. Generally, terms used
33 throughout the C.F.R.'s and IRS publications are derived from the U.S. Codes, which in turn are derived from the Statutes
34 at Large. Federal courts will, upon occasion, hold that regulations which appear in the Code of Federal Regulations are
35 invalid because they conflict with either the U.S. Codes or the Statutes at Large that they derive from. Below is a tabular
36 summary of what we just explained to help you visualize what we mean. The items below are in precedence order, where 37 the lower numbered items appearing first are of higher precedence than later or higher numbered items:

The Statutes at Large from which the I.R.C. is written are the only real "law" you can cite as an authority or evidence in tax litigation.

2. Only have the force of law if published and promulgated by the Secretary of the Treasury in the Federal Register in accordance with the Administrative Procedures Act, 5 U.S.C. §553. All regulations promulgated in the Federal Register are “legislative regulations”.
3. The federal Statutes at Large are not available online from the government for any year after 1874. Our link above to the Statutes at Large is for the period 1789-1873. The ONLY source of these statutes covering all years is a federal depository library (free) or Potomac Publishing (fee service):
<http://www.potomacpub.com/>
4. The internal procedures of the federal agency MUST be followed in any agency action that adversely affects the rights of individuals. See Morton v. Ruiz, shown below. Consequently, all enforcement actions attempted by the IRS must be in strict accordance with the Internal Revenue Manual and part 601 of 26 CFR, or the revenue agents can be held personally liable for deprivations of rights under 42 U.S.C. §1983.

“Where the rights of individuals are affected, it is incumbent upon agencies to follow their own procedures. This is so even where the internal procedures are possibly more rigorous than otherwise would be required. Service v. Dulles, 354 U.S. 363, 388 (1957); Vitarelli v. Seaton, 359 U.S. 535, 539-540 (1959). The BIA, by its Manual, has declared that all directives that “inform the public of privileges and benefits available” and of “eligibility requirements” are among those to be published. The requirement that, in order to receive general assistance, an Indian must reside directly “on” a reservation is clearly an important substantive policy that fits within this class of directives. Before the BIA may extinguish the entitlement of these otherwise eligible beneficiaries, it must comply, at a minimum, with its own internal procedures.”
[Morton v. Ruiz, 415 U.S. 199, 94 S.Ct. 1055, 39 L.Ed.2d. 270 (1974)]

5. The IRS Internal Revenue Manual \(I.R.M.\), Section 4.10.7.2.8 indicates that all IRS publications, and by implication all their forms as well, "may not be cited to sustain a position". You will note that several documents fall in this category, including the Internal Revenue Manual (I.R.M.) itself, IRS publications, and all of their forms.

Internal Revenue Manual 4.10.7.2.8 \(05-14-1999\)
IRS Publications

IRS Publications, issued by the Headquarters Office, explain the law in plain language for taxpayers and their advisors. They typically highlight changes in the law, provide examples illustrating Service positions, and include worksheets. Publications are nonbinding on the Service and do not necessarily cover all positions for a given issue. While a good source of general information, publications should not be cited to sustain a position.

6. See the following article:

Federal Courts and IRS' Own Internal Revenue Manual Say the IRS is NOT RESPONSIBLE for Its Actions or its Words or for Following its Own Written Procedures, Family Guardian Fellowship
<http://famguardian.org/Subjects/Taxes/Articles/IRSNotResponsible.htm>

Therefore, the only remaining reasonable basis for belief about tax liability is:

1. The Constitution of the United States of America.
2. Enacted positive law from the Statutes at Large AFTER January 2, 1939.
3. Rulings of the Supreme Court and NOT lower federal courts.

Next, we must determine WHERE we as a concerned, involved American can find the above sources of REAL law. Based on researching sources for the above three, we have summarized our findings in the table below:

Table 8: Legitimate sources of belief

Prec- edence #	Authority	Author	Sources
1	Constitution	“We the People”	1. U.S. Govt: http://www.gpoaccess.gov/constitution/browse.html 2. Findlaw: http://www.findlaw.com/casecode/constitution/
2	Statutes at Large AFTER January 2, 1939	Congress	1. U.S. Govt (1789-1875): http://memory.loc.gov/ammem/amlaw/lwslink.html 2. Potomac Publishing (fee service, all years): http://www.potomacpub.com/techdata/asp/main/index/index.aspx

Prec- edence #	Authority	Author	Sources
3	Supreme Court Rulings	Supreme court	1. Supreme Court: http://www.supremecourtus.gov/ 2. Findlaw: http://www.findlaw.com/casecode/supreme.html 3. Cornell: http://straylight.law.cornell.edu/supct/index.html

1 The most noticeable thing about the above, is that there is no place on any government or commercial website where a
2 concerned American can read any of the Statutes at Large passed after 1875, which are technically the only REAL, enacted,
3 positive law available. We find this situation simply appalling. Obviously, Congress does not want Americans reading the 4 real law or they would make it easy to do so. Instead, they would rather that:

- 5 1. Americans read what essentially amounts to government propaganda called the Internal Revenue Code
- 6 2. Americans base all of their decisions upon essentially hearsay evidence from colleagues, IRS publications that have 7 deliberate lies, and tax professionals with a conflict of interest.
- 8 3. Those who want to read the REAL law from the Statutes at Large must either pay huge sums of money to only ONE
9 source, Potomac Publishing, to read it online, or visit a Federal Depository Library at a major university, which in most
10 cases is inaccessible and inconvenient to most Americans, and especially those who live in rural areas.

11 We find the above predicament that our representatives and lawmakers have put us in to be a scandal of monumental
12 proportions that must be fixed before there is ever any hope of returning to a Constitutionally administered tax system. In 13 the meantime, while we are waiting for reforms of the above deficiencies, we believe it constitutes malicious abuse of legal 14 process and conspiracy against rights to hold the average American accountable to obey enacted laws that he can't even 15 read and doesn't have access to. HYPOCRISY!

16 13 How the Government Maliciously Conceals and Avoids the Content of this Pamphlet

17 Since this pamphlet was first published on January 19, 2006, the U.S. Dept. of Treasury has attempted to unlawfully protect 18 itself from the consequences of the information it contains by the following means:

- 19 1. They repealed Treasury Order 150-02 on May 2, 2006 and replaced it with Treasury Directive 21-01. See:
20 <http://www.treas.gov/regs/to150-02.htm>
- 21 2. Treasury Directive 21-01 appears at the following, and mentions nothing about the boundaries of existing internal 22 revenue districts. See:
23 2.1. <http://www.ustreas.gov/regs/td21-01.htm>
24 2.2. <http://treasury.tpaq.treasury.gov/regs/td00-03.htm>
- 25 3. In spite of the above, revenue agents STILL have no delegated authority to collect outside of internal revenue districts
26 per the Internal Revenue Code:
27 3.1. 26 C.F.R. §301.6301-1 still says that:

28 "The taxes imposed by the internal revenue laws shall be collected by district directors of internal revenue."

- 29 3.2. District directors in turn are authorized to redelegate the levy power to lower level officials such as collection
30 officers. See IRS Delegation Order 191. The delegation of authority down the chain of command, from the 31 Secretary, to the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, to local IRS employees constitutes a valid delegation by the 32 Secretary to the Commissioner, and a redelegation by the Commissioner to the delegated officers and employees.
33 See 26 C.F.R. §301.7701-9.
- 34 3.3. Under Title 26, Section 7701(a) provides the following definitions:

35 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)

36 (11) Secretary of the Treasury and Secretary

37 (A) Secretary of the Treasury - The term "Secretary of the Treasury" means the Secretary of the Treasury, 38 *personally, and shall not include any delegate of his.

39 (B) Secretary - The term "Secretary" means the Secretary of the Treasury or his delegate.

1 (12) Delegate

2 (A) In general - The term "or his delegate"—

3 (i) when used with reference to the Secretary of the Treasury, means any officer, employee, or agency of the 4 Treasury Department duly authorized by the Secretary of the Treasury directly, or indirectly by one or more
5 redelegations of authority, to perform the function mentioned or described in the context; and (ii) when used
6 with reference to any other official of the United States, shall be similarly construed.

7 3.4. 26 C.F.R. §301.7701-9(2009) entitled "Secretary or his delegate" defines the terms to mean:

8 "the Secretary of the Treasury, or any officer, employee, or agency of the Treasury Department duly authorized
9 by the Secretary to perform the function mentioned or described in the context, and the term 'or his delegate'
10 when used in connection with any other official of the United States shall be similarly construed."

11 3.5. According to Title 26, Section 7621 and 26 C.F.R. §301.7621, without any "internal revenue districts" and 12 "district directors" there is no "delegation of authority" and that the "revenue officer" or "revenue agent" is not the 13 Secretary of Treasury or Commissioner of Internal Revenue. See 26 C.F.R. §§601.101, 301.6301, 301.6331.

14 4. In spite of the above changes, IRS STILL has no authority to enforce outside of internal revenue districts:

15 4.1. 26 C.F.R. §301.6331-1 is entitled "Levy and distraint" and states

16 (a) Authority to levy—

17 (1) In general. If any person liable to pay any tax neglects or refuses to pay the tax within 10 days after notice
18 and demand, the district director to whom the assessment is charged (or, upon his request, any other district
19 director) may proceed to collect the tax by levy. The district director may levy upon any property, or rights to 20 property, whether real or personal, tangible or intangible, belonging to the taxpayer. The district director may 21 also levy upon property with respect to which there is a lien provided by section 6321 or 6324 for the payment
22 of the tax."

23 4.2. Title 26, Section 6322 clearly places the lien to arise at the time the "assessment" is made and assessments are 24 made under 26 C.F.R. §301.6203-1 by "The district director and the director of the regional service center" who

25 ". . .shall appoint one or more assessment officers. The district director shall also appoint assessment officers in 26 a Service Center servicing his district. The assessment shall be made by an assessment officer signing the 27 summary record of assessment. The summary record, through supporting records, shall provide identification
28 of the taxpayer, the character of the liability assessed, the taxable period, if applicable, and the amount of the 29 assessment."

30 4.3. Under 26 C.F.R. §601.101(2009) the Secretary promulgates "General Procedural Rules" and in "Introduction"
31 states:

32 (a) General. The Internal Revenue Service is a bureau of the Department of the Treasury under the 33 immediate direction of the Commissioner of Internal Revenue. The Commissioner has general 34 superintendence of the assessment and collection of all taxes imposed by any law providing internal 35 revenue. The Internal Revenue Service is the agency by which these functions are performed. Within an 36 internal revenue district the internal revenue laws are administered by a district director of internal 37 revenue."

38 4.4. 26 C.F.R. §301.6301(2000-2009) in relevant part provides:

39 "taxes imposed by the internal revenue laws shall be collected by district directors of internal revenue."

40 4.5. 26 C.F.R. §301.6201 (2000-2009) in relevant part provides:

41 "district director is authorized and required to make all inquiries necessary to the determination and 42 assessment of all taxes imposed by the Internal Revenue Code of 1954 or any prior internal revenue law."

43 4.6. 26 C.F.R. §601.107(2000-2009) provides in relevant part:

44 "Each district has a Criminal Investigation function whose mission is to encourage and achieve the highest 45 possible degree of voluntary compliance with the internal revenue laws."

1 4.7. 26 C.F.R. §601.104(c)(2000-2009) says:

2 (c) Enforcement procedure—

3 "(1) General. Taxes shown to be due on returns, deficiencies in taxes, additional or delinquent taxes to be 4 assessed, and penalties, interest, and additions to taxes, are recorded by the district director or the director of 5 the appropriate service center as "assessments..."

6 "(2) Levy. If a taxpayer neglects or refuses to pay any tax within the period provided for its payment, it is 7 lawful for the district director to make collection by levy on the taxpayer's property...."

8 "(3) Liens. The United States' claim for taxes is a lien on the taxpayer's property at the time of assessment.
9 Such lien is not valid as against any purchaser, holder of a security interest, mechanic's lienor, or judgment
10 lien creditor until notice has been filed by the district director...."

11 4.8. Revenue Officers typically have no delegation of authority under Title 26, section 7701(a)(11), 7701(a)(12),
12 6301, 6331, nor any authority under 26 C.F.R. §§301.7701-9, 301.7701-10, 301.6301-1, and 26 C.F.R.
13 §301.6331-1 to levy the property interests of anyone outside of internal revenue districts, and there are not
14 expressly identified internal revenue districts..

15 5. To further obscure and conceal the above limitations, Internal Revenue Bulletin (I.R.B.) 2007-36 was enacted in 2007,
16 which states the following:

17 "In light of the IRS reorganization subsequent to RRA 1998, the district and special procedures offices
18 referenced in the regulations no longer exist"
19 [Internal Revenue Bulletin (I.R.B.) 2007-36, p. 536; SOURCE: <http://www.irs.gov/pub/irs-irbs/irb07-36.pdf>]

20 "Paragraphs (a)(4), (c), (d)(1), and (d)(2) are amended by removing the language "director" and adding the 21 language "IRS" in its place wherever it appears. 3. Paragraph (B) (4), is amended by removing the language
22 "Internal Revenue district" and adding the language "IRS office" in its place."
23 [Internal Revenue Bulletin (I.R.B.) 2007-36, p. 537-2, SOURCE: <http://www.irs.gov/pub/irs-irbs/irb07-36.pdf>]

24 6. Even though current IRS guidance replaces the word “district director” with the phrase “IRS”, the Internal Revenue
25 Code STILL DOES NOT authorize this change and therefore all the changes maliciously made above to obscure the 26 limitations upon IRS enforcement authority within states of the Union are void and all enforcement efforts in excess of 27 such limitations are a criminal tort.

28 So essentially, what they have done is bury the truth two levels deeper than before, but they STILL have not published
29 anything that indicates exactly where these fictitious “internal revenue districts” are located. They can’t because the only
30 place the public offices and “trade or business” franchise offices can exist per 4 U.S.C. §72 is the District of Columbia and 31 NOT ELSWHERE.

32 14 Rebutted Arguments of U.S. Attorneys against the Conclusions of this Pamphlet

33 Some U.S. Attorneys have tried to argue against the information in this pamphlet when used by our readers to defend 34 themselves against illegal enforcement by the IRS outside the District of Columbia in violation of 4 U.S.C. §72. Below are 35 some of the LAME and nonresponsive arguments against the content of this pamphlet regarding jurisdiction of the IRS to 36 enforce the Internal Revenue Code within states of the Union:

- 37 1. Treasury Order 150-10 extends the Secretary’s authority to the Commissioner.
- 38 1.1. This Treasury Order does not address the “expressly” delegated authority of the Secretary;
- 39 1.2. This is a general delegation of authority which addresses “WHAT” the Commissioner can do and does not 40 address “WHERE” the Commissioner can exercise the Secretary’s authority pursuant to 4 U.S.C. §72;
- 41 1.3. Nothing in T.D.O. 150-10 “expressly” extends the authority of the Commissioner to the several states;
- 42 1.4. Furthermore, this Treasury Order has not been published in the Federal Register, pursuant to 44 U.S.C. §1505 and 43 5 U.S.C. §553 and therefore it is not applicable to the Citizens in the several states. The Secretary admits this by

1 his ruling in 1953,⁹¹ where he requires all divisions or units of the IRS to publish in the Federal Register any item
2 of concern to the American public. This was even more clearly stated in 1955⁹² as follows:

3 "It shall be the policy to publish for public information all statements of practices and procedure issued
4 primarily for internal use, and, hence, appearing in internal management documents, which affect rights or
5 duties of taxpayers or other members of the public under the Internal Revenue Code and related statutes."

6 1.5. Since T.D.O. 150-10 has not been published in the Federal Register, it is not applicable to Citizens in the several 7 states; and

8 1.6. Therefore, citing T.D.O. 150-10 is non-responsive to the mandates of 4 U.S.C. §72.

9 2. U.S. Attorneys have cited Hughes v. U.S., 953 F.2d. 531, 542-43 (9th Cir. 1991) in response to the jurisdictional
10 challenges regarding the Secretary. The Hughes ruling claims that "4 U.S.C. §72 does not foreclose the authority of the 11 IRS outside the District of Columbia." The only reason given by the Hughes Court is that the President in 26 U.S.C.
12 §7621 is authorized to establish internal revenue districts outside Washington, D.C.⁹³ This argument fails every aspect
13 of the 4 U.S.C. §72 litmus test as follows:

14 2.1. Establishing internal revenue districts outside Washington, D.C. does not have the same effect in law as 15 establishing internal revenue districts within the several states; especially in light of 4 U.S.C. §72. It has already 16 been cited supra that Congress has granted the Secretary authority to leave Washington, D.C. and enter

17 2.1.1. The Virgin Islands.

18 2.1.2. Guam.

19 2.1.3. Northern Marianas.

20 2.1.4. Cities still within the District of Columbia but not within the city of Washington.

21 (to name three other geographical locations) The question still remains, can he enter the several states?

22 2.2. 4 U.S.C. §72 mandates that ALL offices associated with the government that have jurisdiction within the several 23 states shall be "expressly" authorized by Congress to act within the several states in United States law.
24 Authorizing the office of President in 26 U.S.C. §7621 does not "expressly" authorize the office of Secretary
25 when the Secretary is not even mentioned in 26 U.S. §7621;

26 2.3. The term ALL OFFICES, whether defined or not, includes all offices associated with the seat of government. If 27 this refers to buildings, then ALL BUILDINGS are to be in "the District of Columbia, and not elsewhere" unless 28 Congress "expressly" provides otherwise in United States law. It is unlikely that Congress intended that the term
29 "offices" would refer to buildings since buildings cannot exercise any authority at all; only people can exercise
30 authority and it is the authority of said offices which must be "exercised" within only "the District of Columbia, 31 and not elsewhere";

32 2.4. With few exceptions, it is the Secretary who is authorized by Congress to write all needful rules and regulations
33 for the administration and enforcement of Title 26 (See 26 U.S.C. §§7801, 7805). Therefore it is that Office
34 which must acquire express leave by Congress to act within the several states not that of the President. The 35 Hughes Court implies in error that 26 U.S.C. §7621 is the "expressly" stated grant of leave issued by Congress as 36 required under 4 U.S.C. §72, claiming that the office of the President of the U.S. is somehow the same office as 37 that occupied by the Secretary.

38 2.5. The term "State" as used in 26 U.S.C. §7621 includes "the District of Columbia" (see 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(10))⁹⁴.
39 Even if "State" could be concluded to include the several states, this definition does not "expressly" extend the 40 office of Secretary to the several states when the several states are not "expressly" mentioned in the meaning of 41 "State" as used in § 7621 (see § 7701(a)(10) and 4 U.S.C. §110(d)). A "definition" and a "term" are limitations
42 upon the term defined and it excludes what is not specifically included (See any dictionary or Black's Law 43 Dictionary 6th Edition for "Definition" and "Term"). Without rebuttal to the contrary, Congress has limited the 44 Secretary's authority to "the District of Columbia," the Virgin Islands, Guam and the Northern Marianas, never 45 having "expressly" granted the Secretary the statutory leave to exercise his authority in the several states.

⁹¹ IRS Revenue Ruling 2 (1953-1 CB 484).

⁹² IRS Rev Procd. 55-1 (1955-2 CB 897)

⁹³ Congress has "expressly" extended the authority of the Secretary to the Virgin Islands with respect to 26 U.S.C. Chapter 75 and this area is obviously outside "the District of Columbia" but not remotely associated with the several states.

⁹⁴ Under this definition, Alaska and Hawaii were removed from applicability upon receiving freely associated compact state status (See P.L. 86-624, § 18(j); P.L. 86-70, § 22(a)). The several states are "countries" (See 28 U.S.C. §297(b)).

- 1 2.6. Moreover, there is no evidence in the Hughes case or in any other case to establish the material fact that the 2 President has in fact established said internal revenue districts⁹⁵ within the several states⁹⁶? However, there is
 3 evidence that the President established “customs districts,” but no internal revenue districts have ever been
 4 established by the President within the several states. ⁹⁷
- 5 2.7. If one argues that the President has authorized the Secretary to create internal revenue districts, then what 6 evidence exists that the Secretary has by treasury order or regulation, created said internal revenue districts within 7 the several states?
- 8 2.8. If no internal revenue districts have been established in the several states by the President or even by the 9 Secretary, then out of which internal revenue districts does the Secretary administer and enforce internal revenue 10 laws within the several states?
- 11 3. Several Court rulings have stated that the IRS can exercise its authority outside the District of Columbia.
- 12 3.1. Every case cited to date by any U.S. Attorney is off-point. 4 U.S.C. §72 states that any “expressly” granted
 13 exception to the limitations of “the District of Columbia, and not elsewhere” as mandated, are to be found in 14 United States law and NOT the Courts.

15 “Official powers cannot be extended beyond the terms and necessary implications of the grant. If broader
 16 powers be desirable, they must be conferred by Congress.”
 17 [Federal Trade Commission v. Raladam Co., 283 U.S. 643, 51 S.Ct. 587 (1931)(Emphasis added)]

- 18 3.2. Generally, all cases cited to date have dealt with WHAT the Secretary can do and not WHERE he can do it. 4 19 U.S.C. §72 is about the geographical location WHERE the Secretary can exercise his authority and nothing else.
- 20 3.3. Unless one can present the law which so “expressly” extends the authority of the Secretary to the several states,
 21 said offices can only exercise their authority within the geographical areas “expressly” authorized by Congress in
 22 law; and
- 23 3.4. Therefore citing court rulings is an irrelevant and non-responsive answer.
- 24 4. Judges have recently attempted to protect U.S. Attorneys and the government by stating on the record and in court
 25 orders that the Citizen is arguing that the Secretary cannot leave “the District of Columbia.” Any argument to this
 26 effect is a falsification of the record. It has been shown supra that the Secretary can indeed exercise his authority
 27 within The Virgin Islands, Guam, and the Northern Marianas; areas which are outside “the District of Columbia” and 28 authorized by United States law. The contention has always been that the Secretary is restricted from ENTERING the 29 several states unless Congress has “expressly” authorized him to do so in United States law. No law means no
 30 Authority in the several states!

31 15 Removals from state to federal court

32 When you file a case against a federal officer who has violated your PRIVATE or CONSTITUTIONAL rights, it is quite 33 common for the attorney representing the client to remove the case from Constitutional state court to federal court. In most 34 cases, this is an improper procedure. Here are some facts surrounding removals to that unlawful removals can be 35 challenged in advance by the Plaintiff in such an action BEFORE they are even attempted:

- 36 1. Removals are covered in the following Wikipedia article:

⁹⁵ The Hughes Court implies that the President’s (Secretary’s alleged “implied”) authority outside Washington, D.C. pursuant to 26 U.S.C. §7621 somehow means that the Secretary’s authority has been “expressly” extended to the several states when in fact all the Court said was that the IRS can act outside of Washington, D.C. Congress has indeed extended the Secretary’s authority (and presumably the IRS) to areas outside “the District of Columbia” but the area of the several states is not one of those areas. As a result of this misleading description of the IRS (Secretary’s) authority, the Courts continue to promulgate the error that Hughes extends the authority of the IRS to the several states which violates the letter and spirit of 4 U.S.C. §72. To date, no Court or U.S. Attorney has identified even one U.S. law by which Congress has “expressly” extended the authority of the Secretary to the several states thereby forcing American Citizens to speculate that no said authority has been established by Congress for the Secretary in the several states.

⁹⁶ In 1998, via Executive Order (“E.O.”) #10289, as amended, President William J. Clinton authorized the Secretary to establish revenue districts under authority of 26 U.S.C. §7621. Although §7621 is not listed in the Parallel Table of Authorities and Rules, E.O. #10289 is listed. The implementing regulations for said Executive Order are found in 19 C.F.R. Part 101. Said regulation establishes “customs collection offices” in each of the several states; it does not establish “internal revenue districts”. A note at 26 C.F.R. §301.7621-1 confirms that E.O. #10289 is the only authority for establishing revenue districts.

⁹⁷ The burden of proof that said districts have been established by the President within the several states is upon the Court and U.S. Attorneys if they hope to establish jurisdiction on the record. Without said evidence in the record, Respondent and the Courts cannot assume that said districts exist and therefore cannot assume that Secretary has any authority in the several states.

2. Removals are authorized under federal law by 28 U.S.C. §1446.
 - 2.1. 28 U.S.C. §1446 does not define “State”.
 - 2.2. The “State” they are referring to can only be a federal territory or possession and NOT a CONSTITUTIONAL state.
 - 2.3. The term “State” is defined in 28 U.S.C. §1332(e) as follows, and it EXCLUDES states of the Union.

28 U.S. Code § 1332 - Diversity of citizenship; amount in controversy; costs

(e) The word “States”, as used in this section, includes the Territories, the District of Columbia, and the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico.

- 2.4. If the defendant insists that the term “State” means a CONSTITUTIONAL state of the Union, force him/her to satisfy the burden of proving it with evidence on the record or dismiss his claim.
 - 2.5. Removals are NOT authorized after one year from the date of commencement of the action, unless the district court finds that the plaintiff has acted in bad faith in order to prevent a defendant from removing the action. 28 U.S.C. §1446(c)(1).
 3. Removals may only be filed by the Respondent in the action, not the Petitioner or Plaintiff.
 4. Removals are initiated by filing a “Notice of Removal” in the state court where the action was initiated. That state court can ONLY be a territorial court and not a state of the Union court.
 5. The Ninth and Tenth Amendment forbid federal district of circuit courts from intervening in actions between two parties in a single state.
 - 5.1. The only known exception to this is a case between a citizen of a state and a state officer under 42 U.S.C. §1983. This statute was an implementation of the Fourteenth Amendment, Section 1 equal protection clauses and is usually invoked for discrimination or violation of equal protection. See:

Section 1983 Litigation, Litigation Tool #08.008
<http://sedm.org/Litigation/LitIndex.htm>
 - 5.2. In fulfillment of this requirement, the diversity clauses found in U.S. Constitution Article III, Section 2 only allow cases in federal court between citizens of two DIFFERENT states.
6. By removing a case from a CONSTITUTIONAL state to a federal district court, the following violation of rights occurs:
 - 6.1. Loss of common law protections for the Plaintiff/Petitioner. The U.S. Supreme Court held in Erie Railroad v. Tompkins, 304 U.S. 64 (1938) that the federal courts may not invoke STATE common law. Therefore, the only choice of law they have is either the Constitution or STATUTE law. Statute law, in turn, only pertains to federal officers, which usually doesn’t include the Plaintiff, so the judge HAS to allow ONLY the constitution to be invoked for a transferred case unless the Defendant/Respondent satisfies the burden of proving that the plaintiff is a federal officer domiciled on federal territory. For details, see:

Why Statutory Civil Law is Law for Government and Not Private Persons, Form #05.037
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>
 - 6.2. Criminal conflict of interest on the part of the federal judge, because the case usually involves a loss of revenues to the national government caused by strictly following the revenue laws. See 18 U.S.C. §208, and 28 U.S.C. §§144 and 455. This conflict of interest makes due process of law IMPOSSIBLE. The most basic element of due process is an IMPARTIAL judge and impartial jury. See Requirement for Due Process of Law, Form #05.045.
 - 6.3. The judge with a criminal financial conflict of interest, when given a choice between protecting your constitutional rights and using statutes that pertain only to federal officers to PLUNDER and ENSLAVE you, will always choose the latter.
 7. The ONLY reasonable or lawful basis for removing from state court to federal court is if:
 - 7.1. Federal officers acting as Defendant/Respondent were acting within their delegated authority and therefore, cannot be sued personally. Instead, the United States federal corporation is substituted in his/her place. This determination must be proven on the record of the proceeding WITH evidence. Otherwise it is arbitrary void. See 28 U.S.C. §2679(d)(3).
 - 7.2. Federal property or rights to property are involved under U.S. Constitution Article 4, Section 3, Clause 2. The only court that can rule on federal property is federal court.
 8. If you as Plaintiff/Petitioner have your case against an offending federal officer removed to district court when you KNOW the officer was not acting within his authority, you should ensure that you invoke Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 17(b), which PROHIBITs invoking federal statutory law against you and forces the judge to enforce ONLY the constitution in protecting ONLY private property and private rights. No public rights or federal property are involved and therefore any other approach is a usurpation.

9. If the federal government asserts authority over your PRIVATE property, you should use the following course as a tool to FORCE them to prove on the record that you consented in writing to donate the PRIVATE property to a public use or public purpose. Otherwise, it is conclusively presumed to be PRIVATE, in which case you can control their uses of the property and charge them whatever you want for its use:

16 Frequently Asked Questions (FAQs)

16.1 What can be cited as legal authority against a person domiciled in a state of the Union who is not a federal agent, employee, contractor, or franchisee?

People domiciled in a state of the Union who are not federal agents, employees, contractors, or franchisees are not the proper subject of federal law, which acts primarily as law for government and not for the private citizens:

"The power to "legislate generally upon" life, liberty, and property, as opposed to the "power to provide modes of redress" against offensive state action, was "repugnant" to the Constitution. Id., at 15. See also United States v. Reese, 92 U.S. 214, 218 (1876); United States v. Harris, 106 U.S. 629, 639 (1883); James v. Bowman, 190 U.S. 127, 139 (1903). Although the specific holdings of these early cases might have been superseded or modified, see, e.g., Heart of Atlanta Motel, Inc. v. United States, 379 U.S. 241 (1964); United States v. Guest, 383 U.S. 745 (1966), their treatment of Congress' §5 power as corrective or preventive, not definitional, has not been questioned."
[City of Boerne v. Flores, Archbishop of San Antonio, 521 U.S. 507 (1997)]

"It is no longer open to question that the general government, unlike the states, Hammer v. Dagenhart, 247 U.S. 251, 275, 38 S.Ct. 529, 3 A.L.R. 649, Ann.Cas.1918E 724, possesses no inherent power in respect of the internal affairs of the states; and emphatically not with regard to legislation."
[Carter v. Carter Coal Co., 298 U.S. 238, 56 S.Ct. 855 (1936)]

Therefore, the only legitimate source of law for them is state and not federal law. The only basis for a reasonable belief of such a person is therefore legally admissible evidence of what an enacted positive tax law actually says. Everything else essentially is based on presumption. 1 U.S.C. §204 establishes what types of evidence are admissible when it says:

TITLE 1 > CHAPTER 3 > § 204
§ 204. Codes and Supplements as evidence of the laws of United States and District of Columbia; citation of Codes and Supplements

In all courts, tribunals, and public offices of the United States, at home or abroad, of the District of Columbia, and of each State, Territory, or insular possession of the United States—

*(a) United States Code.— The matter set forth in the edition of the Code of Laws of the United States current at any time shall, together with the then current supplement, if any, establish prima facie the laws of the United States, general and permanent in their nature, in force on the day preceding the commencement of the session following the last session the legislation of which is included: Provided, however, That whenever titles of such Code shall have been enacted into positive law the text thereof shall be legal evidence of the laws therein contained, in all the courts of the United States, the several States, and the Territories and insular possessions of the United States

An examination of the legislative notes under 1 U.S.C. §204 then reveals which titles of the U.S. Code are "positive law" and which are not. Title 26 is not listed as being positive law. Therefore, it constitutes "prima facie" evidence of law. "prima facie" is defined in Black's Law Dictionary as "presumed to be evidence":

"Prima facie. Lat. At first sight; on the first appearance; on the face of it; so far as can be judged from the first disclosure; presumably; a fact presumed to be true unless disproved by some evidence to the contrary. State ex rel. Herbert v. Whims, 68 Ohio App. 39, 28 N.E.2d. 596, 599, 22 O.O. 110. See also Presumption"
[Black's Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, p. 1189]

1 Therefore, the Internal Revenue Code is simply “presumed” to be law. Our pamphlet below thoroughly analyzes the 2 concept of Constitutional “due process” and presumption:

Presumption: Chief Weapon for Unlawfully Enlarging Federal Jurisdiction, Form #05.017
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

3 The above pamphlet concludes the following about “presumption” based on its exhaustive legal analysis:

- 4 1. All “presumption” is a violation of due process.
- 5 2. Presumption cannot be used as a permanent substitute for evidence in any legal proceeding.
- 6 3. The reason that “presumption” is a violation of “due process” is that it prejudices one’s rights absent supporting 7 evidence.
- 8 4. “Statutory presumption”, which is a statute that creates a presumption that could operate to prejudice one’s 9 constitutional rights, is a violation of due process.
- 10 5. The only case where “presumption” can be lawfully employed without violating the Constitution is against parties who 11 are not protected by the Constitution. Therefore, “presumption” cannot be used against a person domiciled in a state of 12 the Union and can only be used against:
 - 13 5.1. “U.S. persons” domiciled in the federal zone who are not protected by the Bill of Rights.. .OR

14 “CONSTITUTIONAL RESTRICTIONS AND LIMITATIONS [Bill of Rights] WERE NOT APPLICABLE to the 15 areas of lands, enclaves, territories, and possessions over which Congress had EXCLUSIVE LEGISLATIVE
16 JURISDICTION”
17 [Downes v. Bidwell, 182 U.S. 244 (1901)]

- 18 5.2. Parties who have contracted away their rights by pursuing privileged federal employment, privileges, benefits, or 19 “public office”. This would include people in states of the Union, but only those working for the federal
20 government.

21 “The restrictions that the Constitution places upon the government in its capacity as lawmaker, i.e., as the
22 regulator of private conduct, are not the same as the restrictions that it places upon the government in its

32 that reason. Connick v. Myers, 461 U.S. 138, 147 (1983). Private citizens cannot be punished for partisan
33 political activity, but federal and state employees can be dismissed and otherwise punished for that reason.
34 Public Workers v. Mitchell, 330 U.S. 75, 101 (1947); Civil Service Comm’n v. Letter Carriers, 413 U.S. 548,

36 [Rutan v. Republican Party of Illinois, 497 U.S. 62 (1990)]

37 The audience for this memorandum is only people domiciled either in the Kingdom of Heaven on earth or in states of the 38 Union on land not under exclusive or plenary federal jurisdiction. Therefore:

- 39 1. “presumption” may not be employed by any reader of this pamphlet without violating the Constitution.
- 40 2. The Internal Revenue Code does not constitute a reasonable basis for belief about tax liability, because it requires 41 presumption and is “prima facie law”.
- 42 3. The only thing that can be cited is positive law from the Statutes at Large that has not been repealed. Everything
43 published in the Statutes at Large that is not repealed is admissible as non prima-facie evidence of law. The current 44 version of 1 U.S.C. §204 doesn’t say that but earlier versions do.

45 We then investigated further after we learned the above. In particular, we looked at the enactment of the 1939 Internal 46 Revenue Code, 53 Stat. 1. Section 4 of that act says that all prior revenue Laws were repealed by the act, which means that 47 all revenue laws passed before January 2, 1939 were repealed, including those found in the Statutes at Large. Below is the 48 text of that act:

49 1939 Internal Revenue Code, 53 Stat. 1, Section 4

1 SEC. 4. REPEAL AND SAVINGS PROVISIONS.— (a) The Internal Revenue Title, as hereinafter set forth, is intended
2 to include all general laws of the United States and parts of such laws, relating exclusively to internal revenue,
3 in force on the 2d day of January 1939 (1) of a permanent nature and (2) of a temporary nature if embraced in
4 said Internal Revenue Title. In furtherance of that purpose, all such laws and parts of laws codified herein, to 5 the extent they relate exclusively to internal revenue, are repealed, effective, except as provided in section 5, on 6 the day following the date of the enactment of this act.

7 (b) Such repeal shall not affect any act done or any right accruing or accrued, or any suit or proceeding had or 8 commenced in any civil cause before the said repeal, but all rights and liabilities under said acts shall continue,
9 and may be enforced in the same manner, as if said repeal had not been made; nor shall any office, position,
10 employment, board, or committee, be abolished by such repeal, but the same shall continue under the pertinent
11 provisions of the Internal Revenue Title.

12 (c) All offenses committed, and all penalties or forfeitures incurred under any statute hereby repealed, may be
13 prosecuted and punished in the same manner and with the same effect as if this act had not been passed.

14 (d) All acts of limitation, whether applicable to civil causes and proceedings, or to the prosecution of offenses,
15 or for the recovery of penalties or forfeitures, hereby repealed shall not be affected thereby, but all suits,
16 proceedings, or prosecutions, whether civil or criminal, for causes arising, or acts done or committed, prior to 17 said repeal, may be commenced and prosecuted within the same time as if this act had not been passed.

18 (e) The authority vested in the President of the United States, or in any officer or officers of the Treasury
19 Department, by the law as it existed immediately prior to the enactment of this act, hereafter to give publicity to 20 tax returns required under any internal revenue law in force immediately prior to the enactment of this act or 21 any information therein contained, and to furnish copies thereof and to prescribe the terms and conditions upon 22 which such publicity may be given or such copies furnished, and to make rules and regulations with respect to
23 such publicity, is hereby preserved. And the provisions of law authorizing such publicity and prescribing the 24 terms, conditions, limitations, and restrictions upon such publicity and upon the use of the information gained 25 through such publicity and the provisions of law prescribing penalties for unlawful publicity of such returns and
26 for unlawful use of such information are hereby preserved and continued in full force and effect.

29 We also showed earlier in section 5 that Internal Revenue Manual (I.R.M.), Section 4.10.7.2.9.8 says that court decisions
30 below the Supreme Court may not be cited to sustain a reasonable belief.

31 Internal Revenue Manual
32 4.10.7.2.9.8 \(05-14-1999\)
33 Importance of Court Decisions

34 1. "Decisions made at various levels of the court system are considered to be interpretations of tax laws and
35 may be used by either examiners or taxpayers to support a position.

36 2. Certain court cases lend more weight to a position than others. A case decided by the U.S. Supreme Court
37 becomes 2the law of the land and takes precedence over decisions of lower courts. The Internal Revenue
38 Service must follow Supreme Court decisions. For examiners, Supreme Court decisions have the same
39 weight as the Code.

40 3. Decisions made by lower courts, such as Tax Court, District Courts, or Claims Court, are binding on the 41 Service only for the particular taxpayer and the years litigated. Adverse decisions of lower courts do not
42 require the Service to alter its position for other taxpayers."

47 16.2 What happens to a person's constitutional rights when they move from a constitutional 48 state to federal territory such as a national park or federal reservation?

49 QUESTION:

50 Since Federal citizenship can extend to cover "residents" while physically located in The United States of America
51 (Hooven & Allison Co. v. Evatt, 324 U.S. 652 (1945)) then does a:

1. "non citizen national" pursuant to 8 U.S.C. §1101 (a) (21) and 8 U.S.C. §1452 and...
2. "nonresident alien" pursuant to 26 U.S.C. §7701 (b)(1)(B), and..
3. Constitutional citizen pursuant to the Fourteenth Amendment.

...waive any constitutional rights when moving on to property located in a " National Park"?

ANSWER:

1. Civil statutory law attaches to DOMICILE, not physical presence. See:

Why Domicile and Becoming a "Taxpayer" Require Your Consent, Form #05.002

DIRECT LINK: <http://sedm.org/Forms/05-MemLaw/Domicile.pdf>

FORMS PAGE: <http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

Hence, a party who physically moved did not become subject to federal statutory civil law until AFTER they change their domicile to federal territory.

2. Likewise, the constitution attaches to LAND, and not the STATUS of people on the land. Hence, moving to land not protected by the constitution and subject to exclusive federal jurisdiction would result in a destruction of ALL constitutional rights while on federal territory, PROVIDED that territory has had its state jurisdiction ceded as required by 40 U.S.C. §3112. See:

<http://www.law.cornell.edu/uscode/text/40/3112>

"It is locality that is determinative of the application of the Constitution, in such matters as judicial procedure, and not the status of the people who live in it."

17 Conclusions

17.1 Main techniques for exceeding jurisdiction

Based on the discussion in this document, the following are the most important methods by which courts and the government exceed their lawful or constitutional jurisdiction:

1. Abuses of "words of art" to confuse and deceive people, such as "United States", "State", "citizen", "resident", "trade or business", "domicile", "employee" etc. These mechanisms are summarized below. We must prevent and overcome all of the listed abuses in the context of these "words of art" in order to keep the government within the bounds of the Constitution and inside the ten mile square sand box bequeathed to them by the founding fathers:

"Judicial verbicide is calculated to convert the Constitution into a worthless scrap of paper and to replace our government of laws with a judicial oligarchy."

[Senator Sam Ervin, during Watergate hearing]

"When words lose their meaning, people will lose their liberty."

[Confucius, 500 B.C.]

- 1.1. Misunderstanding or misapplication of the choice of law rules documented in section 11 earlier.
- 1.2. Failure or refusal to adjust the meaning of "words of art" based on their context and the legal definitions that apply in that context. See:

Geographical Definitions and Conventions, Form #11.215

<http://sedm.org/SampleLetters/DefinitionsAndConventions.htm>

- 1.3. A violation of or disregard for the rules of statutory construction, usually by abusing the word "includes". See:

Legal Deception, Propaganda, and Fraud, Form #05.014

<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

1 1.4. Presumptions, usually about the meanings of words. See:

Presumption: Chief Weapon for Unlawfully Enlarging Federal Jurisdiction, Form #05.017
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

2 2. Laziness or unwillingness to deal with the issues being litigated. Don't let them slack off. The price of freedom is
3 eternal vigilance. The U.S. Supreme Court identified the enemies of republican freedom originating from the above
4 causes, when it held:

5 "The chief enemies of republican freedom are mental sloth, conformity, bigotry, superstition, credulity,
6 monopoly in the market of ideas, and utter, benighted ignorance."
7 [Adderley v. State of Florida, 385 U.S. 39, 49 (1967)]

8 3. Legal ignorance that causes misinformed judicial decisions.

9 4. Greed or dishonesty.

10 17.2 Methods of preventing courts from exceeding their jurisdiction

11 Based on the above methods for exceeding jurisdiction by government and judges, the most important things you can do to 12 prevent courts from exceeding their jurisdiction is to:

- 13 1. Recite and summarize the choice of law rules to the opponent and the court and insist that they be observed.
- 14 2. Focus on definitions of all the words contained within the statutes being enforced.
- 15 3. Emphasize all the implications of the separation of powers between the states and federal government and all the 16 implications this separation has upon the meaning of words in various contexts. The following table aids this process,
17 which you are free to reuse:
18

1

2 Table 9: Meaning of geographical terms within various contexts

Law	Federal constitution	Federal statutes	Federal regulations	State constitutions	State statutes	State regulations
Author	Union States/ "We The People"	Federal Government		"We The People"	State Government
"state"	Foreign country	Union state or foreign country	Union state or foreign country	Other Union state or federal government	Other Union state or federal government	Other Union state or federal government
"State"	Union state	Federal state	Federal state	Union state	Union state	Union state
"in this State" or "in the State" ⁹⁸	NA	NA	NA	NA	Federal enclave within state	Federal enclave within state
"State" ⁹⁹ (State Revenue and taxation code only)	NA	NA	NA	NA	Federal enclave within state	Federal enclave within state
"several States"	Union states collectively ¹⁰⁰	Federal "States" collectively	Federal "States" collectively	Federal "States" collectively	Federal "States" collectively	Federal "States" collectively
"United States"	states of the Union collectively	Federal United States	Federal United States	United States* the country	Federal United States	Federal United States

3 What the above table clearly shows is that the word "State" in the context of federal statutes and regulations means (not
4 includes!) federal States only under Title 48 of the U.S. Code¹⁰¹, and these areas do not include any of the 50 Union
5 States. This is true in most cases and especially in the Internal Revenue Code. In the context of the above, a "Union
6 State" means one of the 50 Union states of the United States* (the country, not the federal United States), which are 7 sovereign and foreign with respect to federal legislative jurisdiction.

8 4. Anticipate and prevent all attempts by the government to destroy the separation of powers using the information in the 9 following document:

Government Conspiracy to Destroy the Separation of Powers, Form #05.023
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

10 5. Rebut the validity of all evidence that connects you to government franchises:

11 5.1. Information returns, such as IRS Forms W-2, 1042-s, 1098, and 1099. See:

Correcting Erroneous Information Returns, Form #04.001
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

12 5.2. Social Security Numbers. See:

Why You Aren't Eligible for Social Security, Form #06.001
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

13 5.3. Taxpayer Identification Numbers. See:

Why It is Illegal for Me to Request or Use a Taxpayer Identification Number, Form #04.205
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

14 6. Emphasize that a refusal to stick with the statutory definitions and include only what is expressly stated
15 SOMEWHERE in the code and to not read anything into it that isn't there is an attempt to destroy the separation of 16 powers and engage in a conspiracy against your Constitutionally protected rights.

18 government of laws with a judicial oligarchy."

1 "When words lose their meaning, people will lose their liberty."
2 [Confucius, 500 B.C.]

- 3 7. Rationally apply the rules of statutory construction so that your opponent can't use verbicide or word tricks to wiggle
4 out of the statutory definitions with the word "includes". See:

Legal Deception, Propaganda, and Fraud, Form #05.014
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

- 5 8. Admit to being a constitutional "citizen of the United States" but not a statutory "citizen of the United States". Clarify
6 the distinctions and explain that you are not a statutory citizen pursuant to 8 U.S.C. §1401 or 26 C.F.R. §1.1-1(c) using
7 the following. This will deflect any allegations that you are engaging in "frivolous" issues:

Why You are a "national", "state national", and Constitutional but not Statutory Citizen, Form #05.006
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

- 8 9. Cite the three definitions of the "United States" explained by the Supreme Court in Hooven & Allison Co. v. Evatt, 324
9 U.S. 652 (1945).
10 10. Emphasize that the context in which the term "United States" and "State" is used determines WHICH of the three 11 definitions applies.
12 11. Focus on WHICH "United States" or "State" or thing is implied in the definitions within the statute being enforced.
13 12. Emphasize that applying the CORRECT definition is THE MOST IMPORTANT JOB of the court, as admitted by the 14 U.S. Supreme Court, in order to maintain the separation of powers between the federal zone and the states of the 15 Union, and thereby protect your rights:

16 "I take leave to say that, if the principles thus announced should ever receive the sanction of a majority of
17 this court, a radical and mischievous change in our system of government will result. We will, in that event,
18 pass from the era of constitutional liberty guarded and protected by a written constitution into an era of 19 legislative absolutism..

20 [..]

21 "The idea prevails with some, indeed it has found expression in arguments at the bar, that we have in this
22 country substantially two national governments; one to be maintained under the Constitution, with all of its
23 restrictions; the other to be maintained by Congress outside the independently of that instrument, by 24 exercising such powers [of absolutism] as other nations of the earth are accustomed to..

25 [..]

26 It will be an evil day for American liberty if the theory of a government outside the supreme law of the land
27 finds lodgment in our constitutional jurisprudence. No higher duty rests upon this court than to exert its full
28 authority to prevent all violation of the principles of the Constitution."
29 Downes v. Bidwell, [182 U.S. 244 (1901), Justice Harlan, Dissenting]

- 30 13. Emphasize that anything your opponent does not rebut with evidence under penalty of perjury is admitted pursuant to 31 Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 8(b)(6) and then serve them with a Notice of Default on the court record of what they 32 have admitted to by their omission in denying.
33 14. Emphasize that it is a violation of due process of law and an injury to your rights for anyone to PRESUME anything
34 about which definition of "United States" applies in a given context. EVERYTHING must be supported with evidence 35 as we have done here.

36 (1) [8:4993] Conclusive presumptions affecting protected interests: A conclusive presumption may be 37 defeated where its application would impair a party's constitutionally-protected liberty or property interests. In 38 such cases, conclusive presumptions have been held to violate a party's due process and equal protection rights.

- 44 15. Avoid words that are not used in statutes, such as "state citizen" or "sovereign citizen" or "natural born citizen", 45 "republic", etc. because they aren't defined and divert attention away from the core definitions themselves.

- 1 16. State that all the cases cited by the government are irrelevant or inapposite, because:
- 2 16.1. They only apply to persons domiciled on federal territory or engaged in federal franchises, which is not you.
- 3 16.2. They don't take into account your circumstances as a person not domicile on federal territory and therefore not
- 4 subject to federal law.
- 5 16.3. They don't take into account the context in which the terms are used or their statutory meanings.
- 6 16.4. They don't address conform to the rules of statutory construction for the definitions or terms being used.

30 19 Questions that Readers, Grand Jurors, and Petit Jurors Should be Asking the Government

31 These questions are provided for readers, Grand Jurors, and Petit Jurors to present to the government or anyone else who 32 would challenge the facts and law appearing in this pamphlet, most of whom work for the government or stand to gain
 33 financially from perpetuating the fraud. If you find yourself in receipt of this pamphlet, you are demanded to answer the 34 questions within 10 days. Pursuant to Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 8\(b\)\(6\), failure to deny within 10 days constitutes an 35 admission to each question. Pursuant to 26 U.S.C. §6065, all of your answers must be signed under penalty of perjury. We 36 are not interested in agency policy, but only sources of reasonable belief identified in the pamphlet below:

Reasonable Belief About Income Tax Liability, Form #05.007
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

37 Your answers will become evidence in future litigation, should that be necessary in order to protect the rights of the person
 38 against whom you are attempting to unlawfully enforce federal law.

39 19.1 Interrogatories

40 4 U.S.C. §72 states:

41 "All offices attached to the seat of government shall be exercised in the District of Columbia, and not 42 elsewhere, except as otherwise expressly provided by law." (Emphasis added)
 43 [4 U.S.C. §72]

1 4 U.S.C. §72 seems to restrict offices attached to the federal government to the geographical area of the District of
2 Columbia unless Congress specifically extends the authority of that office to other geographical areas by United States law.
3 I looked up the Definition of "expressly" in Black's Law Dictionary 6th Edition and found the following:

4 "Expressly - In an express manner; in direct and unmistakable terms; explicitly; definitely; directly. St. Louis
5 Union Trust Co. v. Hill, 336 Mo. 17, 76 S.W.2d. 685, 689. The opposite of impliedly. Bolles v. Toledo Trust
6 Co., 144 Ohio.St. 195, 58 N.E.2d. 381, 396." (Emphasis added)
7 [Black's Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, p. 581]

8 With regard to the authority of the office of Secretary of the United States Treasury ("Secretary") (and all authority
9 delegated to others by him), I found these three laws which seem to follow the mandate of 4 U.S.C. §72 by "expressly"
10 extending the Secretary's authority to Guam, the Virgin Islands and the Northern Marianas. I cite the pertinent parts below:

11 48 U.S.C. §1397. Income tax laws of United States in force; payment of proceeds; levy of surtax on all 12 taxpayers;

13 The income-tax laws in force in the United States of America and those which may hereafter be enacted shall be
14 held to be likewise in force in the Virgin Islands of the United States, except that the proceeds of such taxes
15 shall be paid into the treasuries of said islands: Provided further, That, notwithstanding any other provision of 16 law, the Legislature of the Virgin Islands is authorized to levy a surtax on all taxpayers in an amount not to 17 exceed 10 per centum of their annual income tax obligation to the government of the Virgin Islands. (Emphasis 18 added)

19 and

20 48 U.S.C. §1421i. Income tax;

21 Applicability of Federal laws; separate tax;

22 The income-tax laws in force in the United States of America and those which may hereafter be enacted shall be
23 held to be likewise in force in Guam: Provided, That notwithstanding any other provision of law, the 24 Legislature of Guam may levy a separate tax on all taxpayers in an amount not to exceed 10 per centum of their
25 annual income tax obligation to the Government of Guam. (Emphasis added)

26 and

27 48 U.S.C. §1801. Approval of Covenant to Establish Commonwealth of Northern Mariana Islands That the 28 Covenant to Establish a Commonwealth of the Northern Mariana Islands in Political Union with the United 29 States of America, the text of which is as follows [note to this section], is hereby approved. (Emphasis added)

30 and the Covenant which was approved by Congress states in part:

31 "Article VI "revenue and taxation"; "Section 601. (a) The income tax laws in force in the United States will
32 come into force in the Northern Mariana Islands as a local territorial income tax on the first day of January
33 following the effective date of this Section, in the same manner as those laws are in force in Guam." (Emphasis 34 added)

35 Under the NOTES under References in Text it states:

36 "The income-tax laws in force in the United States of America, referred to in text, are classified to Title 26,
37 Internal Revenue Code." (Emphasis added)

38 I have looked high and low for any similarly worded United States law which would effectively and "expressly" extend the 39 authority of the Secretary to administer and enforce internal revenue laws outside "the District of Columbia, and not 40 elsewhere" to the geographical area of the several states and I have been unable to find even one United States law.

41 My questions are as follows:

- 42 1. Please describe at EXACTLY what point in the taxation process my earnings were LAWFULLY converted from 43 EXCLUSIVELY PRIVATE to PUBLIC and thereby became SUBJECT to civil statutory law and government
44 jurisdiction. Check one or more. If none are checked, it shall CONCLUSIVELY be PRESUMED that no tax is owed:

- 1.1. ____ There is no private property. EVERYTHING belongs to us and we just “RENT” it to you through taxes. Hence, we are NOT a “government” because there is not private property to protect. Everything is PUBLIC property by default.
- 1.2. ____ When I was born?
- 1.3. ____ When I became a CONSTITUTIONAL citizen?
- 1.4. ____ When I changed my domicile to a CONSTITUTIONAL and not STATUTORY “State”.
- 1.5. ____ When I indicated “U.S. citizen” or “U.S. resident” on a government form, and the agent accepting it FALSELY PRESUMED that meant I was a STATUTORY “national and citizen of the United States” per 8 U.S.C. §1401 rather than a CONSTITUTIONAL “citizen of the United States”.
- 1.6. ____ When I disclosed and used a Social Security Number or Taxpayer Identification Number to my otherwise PRIVATE employer?
- 1.7. ____ When I submitted my withholding documents, such as IRS Forms W-4 or W-8?
- 1.8. ____ When the information return was filed against my otherwise PRIVATE earnings that connected my otherwise PRIVATE earnings to a PUBLIC office in the national government?
- 1.9. ____ When I FAILED to rebut the false information return connecting my otherwise PRIVATE earnings to a PUBLIC office in the national government?
- 1.10. ____ When I filed a “taxpayer” form, such as IRS Forms 1040 or 1040NR?
- 1.11. ____ When the IRS or state did an assessment under the authority of 26 U.S.C. §6020(b)
- 1.12. ____ When I failed to rebut a collection notice from the IRS?
- 1.13. ____ When the IRS levied monies from my EXCLUSIVELY private account, which must be held by a PUBLIC OFFICER per 26 U.S.C. §6331(a) before it can lawfully be levied?
- 1.14. ____ When the government decided they wanted to STEAL my money and simply TOOK it, and were protected from the THEFT by a complicit U.S. Department of Justice, who split the proceeds with them?
- 1.15. ____ When I demonstrated legal ignorance of the law to the government sufficient to overlook or not recognize that it is impossible to convert PRIVATE to PUBLIC without my consent, as the Declaration of Independence requires.

2. How can the conversion from PRIVATE to PUBLIC occur without my consent and without violating the Fifth Amendment Takings Clause?

YOUR ANSWER: _____

3. If you won't answer the previous two questions, how the HELL am I supposed to receive constitutionally mandated “reasonable notice” of the following:

- 3.2. EXACTLY what conduct is expected of me by the law?

19 9. How can one UNILATERALLY ELECT themselves into public office by filling out a government form? The form
20 isn't even signed by anyone in the government, such as a tax form or social security application, and therefore couldn't
21 POSSIBLY be a valid contract anyway? Isn't this a FRAUD upon the United States and criminal bribery, using illegal
22 "withholdings" to bribe someone to TREAT you as a public officer? See 18 U.S.C. §211.

47 12. Isn't it a violation of due process of law to PRESUME that you are a public officer WITHOUT EVIDENCE on the

14 YOUR ANSWER: _____

- 15 13. If the judge won't enforce the requirement that the government as moving party has the burden of proving WITH 16 EVIDENCE that you were LAWFULLY "appointed or elected" to a public office, aren't you therefore PRESUMED to 17 be EXCLUSIVELY PRIVATE and therefore beyond the reach of the civil statutory law?

18 YOUR ANSWER: _____

- 19 14. Isn't the judge criminally obstructing justice to interfere with requiring evidence on the record that you lawfully
20 occupy a public office? See 18 U.S.C. §1503, whereby the judge is criminally "influencing" the PUBLIC you.

21 YOUR ANSWER: _____

- 22 15. Isn't an unsupported presumption that prejudices a PRIVATE right a violation of the Constitution and doesn't the 23 rights that UNCONSTITUTIONAL presumption prejudicially conveys to the government constitute a taking of rights
24 without just compensation in violation of the Fifth Amendment Takings Clause?

25 YOUR ANSWER: _____

- 26 16. How can the judge permit federal civil jurisdiction within a state, a legislatively but not constitutionally foreign 27 jurisdiction, be permitted absent proof under Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 17(b) that the party was representing a
28 public office in the government and therefore, that the civil statutory laws of the District of Columbia/federal zone
29 apply rather than the state in question? See the Rules of Decision Act, 28 U.S.C. §1652.

30 YOUR ANSWER: _____

- 31 17. Even if we ARE lawfully serving in a public office, don't we have the right to:
32 17.1. Be off duty?
33 17.2. Choose WHEN we want to be off duty?
34 17.3. Choose WHAT financial transactions we want to connect to the office?
35 17.4. Be protected in NOT volunteering to connect a specific activity to the public office? Governments LIE by calling
36 something "voluntary" and yet refusing to protect those who do NOT consent to "volunteer", don't they?
37 17.5. Not be coerced to sign up for OTHER, unrelated public offices when we sign up for a single office? For instance,
38 do we have a right not become a FEDERAL officer when we sign up for a STATE "driver license" and "public
39 office" that ALSO requires us to have a Social Security Number to get the license, and therefore to ALSO 40 become a FEDERAL officer at the same time.

16 YOUR ANSWER: _____

17 21. Does the phrase "in the District of Columbia, and not elsewhere," within 4 U.S.C. §72 of itself, place a limitation on

21 22. Does the phrase "in the District of Columbia, and not elsewhere" within 4 U.S.C. §72 refer to WHAT an office of

24 YOUR ANSWER: _____

27 YOUR ANSWER: _____

28 24. Does the phrase "except as otherwise expressly provided by law" within 4 U.S.C. §72 mean this law reserves to
29 Congress the exclusive right to make any exceptions to the grant restrictions mandated by this law or can a Court
30 extend the authority of an office of the government outside the District of Columbia apart from an Act of Congress?

31 YOUR ANSWER: _____

32 25. Does the word "expressly" within 4 U.S.C. §72 mean that, when Congress extends the authority of an office of the 33 government to a geographical area outside the District of Columbia, it will do so in unmistakable, explicit, definite and 34 direct terms leaving no room for doubt?

35 YOUR ANSWER: _____

36 26. Can you tell me if there is such a law, which meets all the criteria of 4 U.S.C. §72, which applies to any state of the 37 Union or any portion thereof, and which equally resembles the express extension of the Secretary's authority to Guam,

1 the Virgin Islands and the Northern Marianas as found in 48 U.S.C. §1397, 48 U.S.C. §1421i and 48 U.S.C. §1801
2 (and the Covenant to which 1801 refers), respectively?

3 YOUR ANSWER: _____

4 27. If I am connected to a government franchise within a state of the Union that relates to federal “public officers”, do I
5 have a duty to the United States in connection with the provisions of said franchise if there is no law which “expressly”
6 extends the authority of the Secretary (or any particular law) to the several states pursuant to 4 U.S.C. §72?

7 *“Thus, Congress having power to regulate commerce with foreign nations, and among the several States, and
8 with the Indian tribes, may, without doubt, provide for granting coasting licenses, licenses to pilots, licenses to
9 trade with the Indians, and any other licenses necessary or proper for the exercise of that great and extensive
10 power; and the same observation is applicable to every other power of Congress, to the exercise of which the 11 granting of licenses may be incident. All such licenses confer authority, and give rights to the licensee.*

12 *But very different considerations apply to the internal commerce or domestic trade of the States. Over this
13 commerce and trade Congress has no power of regulation nor any direct control. This power belongs
14 exclusively to the States. No interference by Congress with the business of citizens transacted within a State is
15 warranted by the Constitution, except such as is strictly incidental to the exercise of powers clearly granted to 16 the legislature. The power to authorize a business within a State is plainly repugnant to the exclusive power of 17 the State over the same subject. It is true that the power of Congress to tax is a very extensive power. It is given
18 in the Constitution, with only one exception and only two qualifications. Congress cannot tax exports, and it
19 must impose direct taxes by the rule of apportionment, and indirect taxes by the rule of uniformity. Thus limited,
20 and thus only, it reaches every subject, and may be exercised at discretion. But, it reaches only existing 21 subjects. Congress cannot authorize a trade or business [e.g. a “public office” pursuant to 26 U.S.C.
22 §7701(a)(26)] within a State in order to tax it.”

42 30. The purpose of law is to give “fair notice” to every one of the conduct that is expected, and everything within the 43 conduct that is “included”. The U.S. Supreme Court has also said that statutory “presumptions” are not permissible,
44 Heiner v. Donnan, 285 U.S. 312 (1932). They also said that everything which is “included” must expressly appear
45 somewhere within the statutes. Stenberg v. Carhart, 530 U.S. 914 (2000). Please identify what statute within Internal 46 Revenue Code, Subtitle A gives me “fair notice” that any part of a state of the Union that is not part of a federal area

YOUR ANSWER: _____

19.2 Admissions

1. Admit that presumption is a violation of due process of law guaranteed by the Constitution of the United States of America.

"Due process of law. Law in its regular course of administration through courts of justice. Due process of law in each particular case means such an exercise of the powers of the government as the settled maxims of law permit and sanction, and under such safeguards for the protection of individual rights as those maxims prescribe for the class of cases to which the one in question belongs. A course of legal proceedings according to those rules and principles which have been established in our systems of jurisprudence for the enforcement and protection of private rights. To give such proceedings any validity, there must be a tribunal competent by its constitution—that is, by the law of the creation—to pass upon the subject-matter of the suit; and, if that involves merely a determination of the personal liability of the defendant, he must be brought within its jurisdiction by service of process within the state, or his voluntary appearance. Pennoyer v. Neff, 96 U.S. 733, 24 L.Ed. 565. Due process of law implies the right of the person affected thereby to be present before the tribunal which pronounces judgment upon the question of life, liberty, or property, in its most comprehensive sense; to be heard, by testimony or otherwise, and to have the right of controverting, by proof, every material fact which bears on the question of right in the matter involved. If any question of fact or liability be conclusively be presumed [rather than proven] against him, this is not due process of law."
[Black's Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, p. 500]

2. Admit that presumptions which prejudice the Constitutional rights of the accused are impermissible and unconstitutional.

"Statutes creating permanent irrebuttable presumptions have long been disfavored under the Due Process Clauses of the Fifth and Fourteenth Amendments. In Heiner v. Donnan, 285 U.S. 312 (1932), the Court was faced with a constitutional challenge to a federal statute that created a conclusive presumption that gifts made within two years prior to the donor's death were made in contemplation of death, thus requiring payment by his

1 estate of a higher tax. In holding that this irrefutable assumption was so arbitrary and unreasonable as to
2 deprive the taxpayer of his property without due process of law, the Court stated that it had "held more than
3 once that a statute creating a presumption which operates to deny a fair opportunity to rebut it violates the due
4 process clause of the Fourteenth Amendment." Id., at 329. See, e. g., Schlesinger v. Wisconsin, 270 U.S. 230
5 (1926); Hooper v. Tax Comm'n, 284 U.S. 206 (1931). See also Tot v. United States, 319 U.S. 463, 468 -469
6 (1943); Leary v. United States, 395 U.S. 6, 29 -53 (1969). Cf. Turner v. United States, 396 U.S. 398, 418 -419
7 (1970).

8 The more recent case of Bell v. Burson, 402 U.S. 535 (1971), involved a Georgia statute which provided that if
9 an uninsured motorist was involved in an accident and could not post security for the amount of damages
10 claimed, his driver's license must be suspended without any hearing on the question of fault or responsibility.
11 The Court held that since the State purported to be concerned with fault in suspending a driver's license, it [412
12 U.S. 441, 447] could not, consistent with procedural due process, conclusively presume fault from the fact that
13 the uninsured motorist was involved in an accident, and could not, therefore, suspend his driver's license
14 without a hearing on that crucial factor.

15 Likewise, in Stanley v. Illinois, 405 U.S. 645 (1972), the Court struck down, as violative of the Due Process
16 Clause of the Fourteenth Amendment, Illinois' irrebuttable statutory presumption that all unmarried fathers are 17 unqualified to raise their children. Because of that presumption, the statute required the State, upon the death of 18 the mother, to take custody of all such illegitimate children, without providing any hearing on the father's
19 parental fitness. It may be, the Court said, "that most unmarried fathers are unsuitable and neglectful parents. .
20 . . . But all unmarried fathers are not in this category; some are wholly suited to have custody of their children."
21 Id., at 654. Hence, the Court held that the State could not conclusively presume that any individual unmarried
22 father was unfit to raise his children; rather, it was required by the Due Process Clause to provide a hearing on 23 that issue. According to the Court, Illinois "insists on presuming rather than proving Stanley's unfitness solely 24 because it is more convenient to presume than to prove. Under the Due Process Clause that advantage is 25 insufficient to justify refusing a father a hearing . . ." Id., at 658. 4 [412 U.S. 441, 448] "
